Budget To Include School Aid Hikes

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan said today his new budget, to be unveiled next Tuesday, will include substantial new state aid for public schools.

But the Republican governor told his news conference the amount, which he did not disclose, would not be near the $350 million figure proposed by Max Rafferty, the state superintendent of public instruction.

"It would be fine if we could, but it just isn't there," Reagan added.

Reagan said he agrees with the concept of making the state and school districts equal partners in financing the cost of public education, from kindergarten through junior college. But he said there should be a fresh look at the quality of the state's education first.

Current state aid to public schools totals about $1.3 billion. But local taxpayers now bear the larger share of the cost.

On a related topic, Reagan said he supports reduction in the present 16-year-long terms of University of California regents, appointed by the governor, to eight years.

But he opposes a bill sponsored by Republican Assemblyman William T. Bagley of San Anselmo to remove elected officials—including the governor and lieutenant governor—as ex-officio members of the UC governing board.

"I don't think Bagley has thought this out very well, or completely," Reagan said.

One way the voters have to express disapproval of what the regents do is to oust the ex-officio regents from the offices they hold, Reagan said.

"I think their term is too long and a number of regents have said the same thing," Reagan said.

A reduction to eight years still would guard against "the governor dominating the board" through his appointments, Reagan said. Some of the current regents originally were appointed by former Republican Gov. Goodwin J. Knight.

On the topic of public school aid, Reagan said, "It will be a substantial increase. It is a No. 1 priority with us."

Reagan will make a televised report to the people next Tuesday evening "to try to explain" the budget to the voters. He added it contains funds for the income tax rebate he promised and for property tax relief approved by the Legislature and voters last year.

Reagan said his administration also will propose augmenting state scholarship funds, but will not use the budget to take punitive action against dissident students at the university and the state colleges. Any move such as that would unfairly

Canal Area Property Ownership In Doubt

By JOANNE GRANT

The City of San Rafael, worried about a $60,000 survey requirement and State Lands Commission obstacles to private development along San Rafael Canal, has decided to take steps to solve the problems.

The first move, a group of concerned citizens agreed at a special meeting yesterday, is to find out who owns what land under the existing San Rafael Canal.

City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen said he called the meeting for lawyers, representatives of title firms and others because of the multitude of problems involving clear title to lands in the canal area.

He explained one of the major concerns of the city now is the survey of the canal, required in legislation passed last year to clear title to the city's corporation yard.

The State Lands Commission claimed the old canal bed ran through the middle of the yard and the city agreed to trade an equal amount of land on the east side of the property.

The survey, required by the commission, would determine boundaries of the old canal which twisted through east San Rafael before the turn of the century, Andersen said. (San Rafael Canal; was later

Pueblo's Defense Lacking?

CORONADO (AP) — The admiral who had operational control of the intelligence ship Pueblo said today its two .50-caliber machineguns "did not appear to me to provide it a significant defense capability."

Rear Adm. Frank L. Johnson, commander of Naval Forces Japan when the Pueblo and her 83 men were captured off North Korea, also said he had no forces under his direct command with which to provide emergency support.

"I was not in favor of arming the AGERS (the Navy's designation for the Pueblo-type intelligence ship)," Johnson told a Navy court of inquiry. "We had successfully carried out 15 missions in unarmed status and I considered this a good basis for continuing this type of mission unarmed.

"I did consider they (the guns) might well be provocative . . . I was concerned about the reaction to this armed status . . . and the addition of two .50-calibers did not appear to me to provide a significant defense capability."

Johnson was the first witness after several days of closed hearings for testimony about classified matters.

Johnson said he was aware of "certain communication difficulties" U.S. intelligence ships were having with his headquarters in Japan. He said mountains on the islands of Japan made it difficult to link radio frequences.

Q. Capt. William Newsomen, counsel for the court: "Did you consider this critical?"

A. Johnson: "I did not consider it critical . . . There was no instance that at any time this

RAIN, HAIL, SNOW

Another Storm Adds To Misery

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rain, hail and snow lashed out again yesterday at California, particularly the south half of the state—already reeling from its most devastating weather disaster in 31 years.

Lightning hit four jetliners in the air, but no one was injured.

Two more bodies were found in the Los Angeles area, raising to 93 the number of storm-related deaths since Jan. 18. One person was found dead under a collapsed retaining wall. The other body was in a house crushed by flood waters.

The 93 fatalities included 57 in traffic accidents, 12 in mudslides, 18 drownings, four deaths in air crashes and two heart attacks blamed on the storms.

Southern California areas hardest hit were Los Angeles County, with an estimated $43.8 million in damage; San Bernardino County, $15 million; Ventura County, $20 million, and Santa Barbara County, $8 million.

Unofficially, statewide property damage from nine days of torrential rains was estimated as high as $138 million.

Eight other persons believed lost under landslides or in torrents of water were listed as presumed dead and at least 20 others were missing.

Inundated by 20 feet of snow, resort areas on the Eastern slope of the High Sierra braced for more snow and several lodges in the mammoth mountain area 250 miles north of Los Angeles were closed until further notice. Skiers trapped in the area for days were finally able to leave as another storm approached.

One lightning bolt punched a hole in the nose of a United Air Lines DC8 arriving from San Diego with 115 passengers, who were transferred to another jet bound for Honolulu..

No damage was reported to the three other jets that reported being hit in the air over the Los Angeles area.

Yesterday's storm hit after a 24-hour respite from a nine-day storm while authorities were still assessing previous damage. Three-tenths of an inch of rain in Los Angeles brought the season's total to more than 17 and a quarter inches, two-and-one-half times normal.

And while residents looked forward to cool but rainless weather today, forecasters said

Demos Punish Wallace Backer

The action came in a closed caucus but Democrats reported the vote was 101-73 on a motion to drop Rarick from 13th to 18th and last on the House Agriculture Committee.

Rarick, now starting his second term in Congress, said the action showed that there is a concerted move against Southerners and that "The tenor of the caucus is that we no longer are welcome in the party."

Asked if he might leave the Democratic party, Rarick said he would return to Louisiana and discuss the matter with "my people before making any false move."

Pay Docks Loom At San Jose

College administrators submitted a preliminary list of names to the controller's office yesterday a day after a similar list containing 277 names was filed by San Francisco State College.

Paychecks of teachers on the lists were withdrawn from normal payroll files until administrators at both struck colleges certify absences.

Deputy Controller John P. Sheehan said it was not currently known how many professors tentatively scheduled for docking were actually on strike or how many were absent for other unauthorized reasons.

The AFT went on strike at San Francisco State Jan. 6 calling for better salaries and working conditions. AFT members at San Jose State later organized a sympathy strike.

A teacher is docked his pay for each day of unauthorized absence. State law holds that five consecutive such absences constitutes automatic dismissal.

Meanwhile today, a handful of pickets demonstrated at S.F. State as striking teachers met again in secret session with a committee of college trustees.

A Collision Course Seen On Gas Tax

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan and two influential Democratic senators today appeared headed for a collision over a proposal to boost the gasoline tax one cent repair storm-damaged roads.

Senate Transportation Committee Chairman Alan Short suggested yesterday the tax be increased temporarily from seven to eight cents a gallon to rebuild roads. (See other Sacramento stories, pages 7 and 9.)

"We have an emergency," the Stockton Democrat said. "I'm quite sure the people of the state want us to meet the emergency and will pay the 1 cent."

Senate Finance Committee Chairman Randolph Collier endorsed the boost and suggested it be made permanent to raise revenue for the state to meet highway construction needs.

Collier also has suggested in recent months that he may seek to increase the tax by two cents a gallon.

"We have to have more high-

Snow Mantles Much Of Israel

TEL AVIV (AP) — A mantle of snow covered Jerusalem today for the first time this winter. Gales and thunderstorms whipped through the rest of Israel.

Snowplows labored to keep highways clear. Outlying villages were also covered, and the semidesert Hebron area south of Jerusalem had a cover of 16 inches of snow.

The northern Galilee area was also under snow. So were the occupied Golan Heights of Syria.

Mud Ruins Biafra Drug Stock; Streets Suffer

Temperatures plummeted to the 20s in Marin and Southern Sonoma today, icing streets and coating the landscape with frost.

Meanwhile, in Sausalito, the recent storms triggered a mud slide which oozed into the rear of the Sausalito Pharmacy, ruining most of a shipment of drugs scheduled to be sent to Biafra.

The storms, which raked the Bay Area with heavy rain and wind for 11 days, also left some Marin roads in poor condition. Norris Rawles, director of public works in San Rafael, projected about $50,000 in paving work this spring, much of it to fix storm damage.

"The rains were tearing the heck out of the streets, especially in the older sections of town," Rawles said.

"The roads here are in bad shape," said Elmer Scott, Ross public works director. "It'll take all summer to patch them."

Slick highways today made driving treacherous, but only one serious accident occurred before highway crews sanded or closed slippery stretches.

Living Cost Rockets 4.2 Per Cent In Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Consumer prices made the sharpest rise in 1968 of any year since the Korean war, the government reported today.

The Labor Department reported that the consumer price index in 1968 rose an average of 4.2 per cent over 1967.

The index last month was actually 4.7 per cent higher than it was in December, 1967, but the Bureau of Labor Statistics explained that the over-the-year increase averaged out to 4.2 per cent.

Both increases were the largest since the Korean War years of 1950-51 when prices rose 8 per cent.

The consumer price index for December was 123.7, meaning that goods and services that cost $10 in the 1957-59 period had risen to a cost of $12.37.

Prices in December rose two-tenths of 1 per cent, primarily as a result of increased food and housing costs, The increase was one of the smallest one-month rises of 1968, but normally consumer prices don't rise at all in December.

The most significant indicator in the report was preliminary estimates that wholesale prices in January, 1969, are showing their largest increase since February, 1966.

If the wholesale price trend idicated for this month continues, the rises will be generally reflected later in the year at consumer price level.

Over the year, grocery store food prices rose by 4 per cent while the cost of restaurant meals jumped up 5.7 per cent. Another major item in the average family budget — medical costs —rose 7.3 per cent for the year.

BOTH SEXES DIGGING NEW LOOK AT VASSAR

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Co-education spell that m-e-n—came to ivy-clad Vassar College this week and all sorts of social observers of both sexes are marveling at what the trustees have wrought.

A professor said he noticed an immediate and remarkable improvement in the appearance of the girls.

Vassar, for the past 108 years the very name was virtually synonymous with private liberal arts education for correct young women, began the semester Monday with 80 men from three all-male schools—Williams College, Trinity College and Colgate University.

"You begin to feel like you're in a monastery," said Jack Murray of school life back in Williamstown, but added wryly, "So far I've met more newspaperwomen than girls."

Another Spy Trial Reported In Baghdad

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

A new mass spy trial was reported under way in Baghdad today as Iraq accused Israeli troops of massing to attack the 20,000 Iraqi troops stationed in Jordan.

Egypt's Middle East News Agency reported the new trial in Baghdad began last night behind closed doors. It said the defendants were accused of working for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

It did not mention the number of defendants, but London sources had reported earlier that 35 persons, 13 of them Jews, would be tried by Iraq's revolutionary court on charges of spying and sabotage.

In Baghdad, Information Minister Abdullah Salloum Samerrai told a news conference Israeli forces were preparing to attack Iraq's forces in Jordan in reprisal for the public hanging Monday of nine Jews and five other Iraqis convicted of spying for Israel.

The Israelis were enraged by the executions, and their government denied the victims had been spying for Israel. The executions also provoked varying degrees of condemnation in several foreign capitals.

"This is a purely internal affair with no room for intervention by any other country," Samerrai said of the trials. Iraq already has announced its forces are in a state of military readiness for any Israeli reprisal.

The U.S. State Department announced it has urged Israel not to retaliate. Diplomats in Washington believe a reprisal raid coming so soon after Israel's Dec. 28 commando attack on Beirut International Airport might start another full-scale war.

State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey told a news conference in Washington: "The position every American administration has taken regarding the cycle of provocations and reprisals has been a consistent one. It should be avoided."

Iraq hanged the 14 alleged spies Monday despite clemency appeals from the United States, Britain, Pope Paul VI and U.N. Secretary-General U Thant.

Travelers arriving in Beirut from Iraq said mobs in Baghdad howled for more executions as the hanged men dangled from gallows in the city's central square.

"This is just the beginning. More spies will meet the same fate," a radio commentator declared.

Israeli Prime Minister Levi Eshkol wrathfully blamed the world for "turning a blind eye to the fate of Jews in Arab countries." He quoted the Bible: "Oh daughters of Babylon, that are to be destroyed, happy shall be he that repayeth three as thou hast served us."

The British government decried the executions and drew a protest from the Iraqi government, which charged that the Israeli propaganda machinery was "out in full force to slander Iraq and feature the hangings as a program against Iraqi Jews."

British Jews held a torchlit mourning vigil in London outside the Iraqi Embassy and cheered when students climbed to its roof and raised an Israeli flag. One of the students was knifed in a struggle with guards on the roof.

Dr. Nahum Goldmann, president of the World Jewish Congress, cabled Secretary-General Thant that he is seeking Big Four backing for U.N. intervention to get 8,500 Jews out of Iraq, Syria and Egypt.

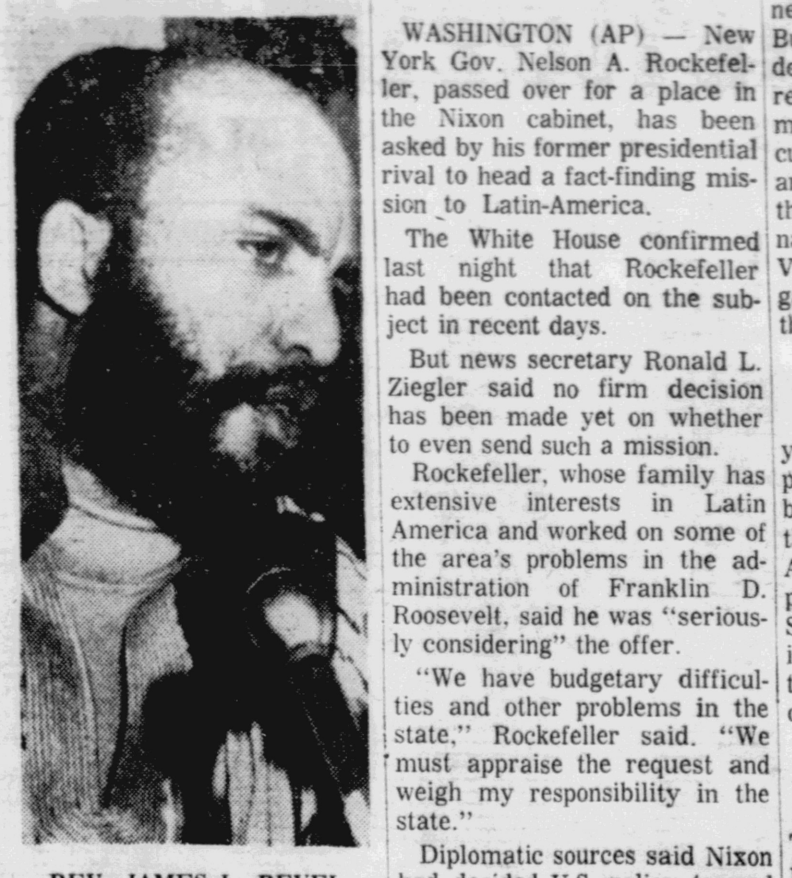
King Associates Differ Over Ray

By ASSOCIATED PRESS



REV. JAMES L. BEVEL

Two associates of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. have expressed their belief that King's assassination in Memphis last April 4 resulted from a conspiracy.

But the two men differed yesterday over what part James Earl Ray, who faces trial for the killing, may have played in the shooting of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference head.

In Philadelphia Rev. James L. Bevel, an SCLC director, expressed doubt that Ray had either the mental or physical competence to have carried out the assassination.

"We've allowed King to be killed under the guise of law and order and now we're going to allow Ray to be lynched under the guise of justice," Bevel declared.

Bevel last week asked Memphis Criminal Court Judge W. Preston Battle for court permission to associate himself with Ray's legal defense. Battle declined since Bevel is not an attorney.

At a meeting of church leaders last Thursday night, Bevel declared that he would prove "within 30 minutes" that it would have been impossible for Ray to have assassinated King.

Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, who succeeded King as SCLC president, said in Atlanta yesterday that he stood behind Bevel's offer to help defend Ray but does not know of any evidence proving Ray is innocent.

"I felt that Mr. Bevel was merely seeking to state what I have said. . .that more than one person is guilty in the death of Martin Luther King," Abernathy told a news conference.

"I do not believe he was saying that Mr. Ray did not pull the trigger," Abernathy continued. "He's never claimed to me that he had any evidence that James Earl Ray was not the guilty party."

Abernathy stated last week that he supported Bevel, saying he thought his associate was trying to add "new dimensions" to nonviolence. But he told newsmen he wanted to make it plain that Bevel does not speak for SCLC.

Interest On Mortgages In Conflict

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon's administration's new directive on government-insured mortgage rates presents several states with a peculiar problem—the interest payments authorized by the federal government violates their usury laws.

In a White House meeting yesterday, George Romney, secretary of Housing and Urban Development, reported the apparent conflict between the 7.5 per cent federal allowances and the interest rate limits imposed by seven states.

Romney announced Friday that federal rates were being raised to 7.5 per cent in order to keep money flowing into the house market.

The states with laws forbidding interest as high as 7.5 per cent are Michigan, where Romney was governor, Illinois, New York, Iowa, North Carolina, South Carolina and North Dakota.

No special action is planned on the Matter, a HUD spokesman said later, since Romney's order set only the upper limit on rates.

The spokesman said mortgage lenders in states involved will not be able to charge the maximum interest. In some other states, he said, the one-half per cent loan insurance fee charged by the Federal Housing Administration and other mortgage charges could raise the new rate above permissible levels.

Latin Tour Looms For Rockefeller

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, passed over for a place in the Nixon cabinet, has been asked by his former presidential rival to head a fact-finding mission to Latin-America.

The White House confirmed last night that Rockefeller had been contacted on the subject in recent days.

But news secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said no firm decision has been made yet on whether to even send such a mission.

Rockefeller, whose family has extensive interests in Latin America and worked on some of the area's problems in the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt, said he was "seriously considering" the offer.

"We have budgetary difficulties and other problems in the state," Rockefeller said. "We must appraise the request and weigh my responsibility in the state."

Diplomatic sources said Nixon had decided U.S. policy toward Latin America needed a "thorough re-examination" in the light of a trend toward military dictatorships.

Three have taken over in the past four months—in Peru, Brazil and Panama.

Paper Shut Down

SAIGON (AP) — The weekly newspaper An Lac, run by a Buddhist monk, was closed indefinitely today by the Saigon regime. A government spokesman said the paper, with a circulation of about 20,000, carried articles which tended to lower the fighting spirit of South Vietnamese troops, claimed South Vietnam is advocating war, and gave "offense to the leaders of the nation."

Rembrandt Found

GENEVA (AP) — Police yesterday recovered a small painting attributed to Rembrandt which was stolen from the Geneva Musuem of Fine Arts two months ago. The police said they arrested a Swiss who tried to sell the painting and believe that he is the thief. The painting is a portrait of Rembrandt's mother.

Troops Rushed In

KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI) — The government of President Mohammad Ayub Khan rushed troops into Pewhawar on the nation's mountainous Khyber Pass region today to put down new demonstrations and riots.

At least 26 persons have been killed in nine days of disorders in a campaign against the Ayub government.

In Karachi students of the Lalukhet area tried to claim bodies of four slain demonstrators for a funeral procession but authorities refused.

A Cheap Bomb?

WASHINGTON (AP)—A cheap hydrogen bomb set off by the intense light of a laser is a theoretical possibility, the Atomic Energy Commission says, but not until lasers become much more powerful.

"The capabilities of present lasers are hundreds or thousand of times lower than that considered by the AEC to even begin to be a cause for any concern in weapons or nuclear explosive device applications," one scientist said.

A laser bomb would be an H-bomb in which the intense heat of a laser—which concentrates a beam of light and can create high temperatures — would be used to touch off a hyrogen explosive. In present devices an atomic bomb is used as the trig-

Quads Are Born

LONDON (UPI)—Doctors said today that quadruplets born to Mrs. Ann Randall, 24, were in good condition and are expected to live.

The babies, two boys and two girls, were delivered last night by Caesarian section prematurely. Mrs. Randall, an art teacher who had been childless in her four years of marriage, had undergone fertility treatment.

Many New England birds go to Bermuda for the winter, among them the song sparrow, junco, redstart, palm warbler and blackpoll.

Carted To Jail

BELFAST, NORTHERN IRELAND (UPI)—Police burst into the home of Maj. Ronald Bunting today and took the militant Protestant leader to Belfast prison to serve a three-month sentence.

A police statement said officers were refused entry to Bunting's home at Dundonald and had been forced to force an entry to make the arrest.

Rev. Ian Paisley, Bunting's fellow militant in continuing unrest and clashes between Catholics and Protestant in Northern Ireland, bitterly denounced police for "smashing in" to make this morning's arrest.

"The police must have gone mad to behave in such a way," said Paisley.

Ammo Slice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Department planners are budgeting a major drop in ammunition production through the end of 1970, the result of a shift in emphasis from the battlefield in Vietnam to the peace table in Paris.

The Pentagon is planning a $1.3 billion drop in orders for air and ground ammunition from its "hot production" base. The reduction will bring its ammunition budget to $6.1 billion in the budget year beginning next July. The current level is $7.4 billion.

It is believed birds navigate by using the sun and stars and familiar landmarks.

Nixon, Advisers Talk Over Nuclear Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Nixon and the National Security Council met today to discuss timing for Senate ratification of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty—and perhaps to talk about the tense Middle Eastern situation.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said discussion of the treaty dominated the lengthy White House conference. But, in response to repeated questions from newsmen, he said he could not rule out talk about the Middle East.

Beyond saying that the American government has been "on record many times as deploring this cycle of incidents and retaliations" in the Mideast, Ziegler would not comment on events in that part of the world. He referred his questioners to the State Department.

Ziegler said there was no question that Nixon continues to support the treaty.

Following the meeting, the President's third with the NSC since he took office, Nixon was invited to a Capitol Hill luncheon with Senate leaders and to pay a personal visit to the Senate floor.

Although discussion of the treaty to ban the spread of nuclear arms seemed sure to come up during Nixon's visit to Capitol Hill, no immediate decision was expected on when Senate action will be sought.

Nixon indicated at a news conference Monday he would not make up his mind until sometime next week.

Nixon's visit to the Senate where he served from 1950 to 1952 as a member, then presided for eight years as vice president, followed a visit yesterday to the House where he launched his national political career 22 years ago.

Nixon also met with Secretary of State William P. Rogers, subject not announced, following a conference with chairman Glenn T. Seaborg of the Atomic Energy Commission. Seaborg told newsmen afterwards he had agreed to continue in his post indefinitely. His term expires June 30, 1970.

The Pueblo's skipper, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher has said he was worried about problems with this communications linkup and, had "no confidence" in it.

To support intelligence missions, Johnson said, he "requested that the Fifth Air Force provide aircraft assistance, a special alert of aircraft on the runways, and that the commander of the Seventh Fleet assign me a destroyer to remain about 30 miles distance from the AGERS over the horizon."

Johnson said the Air Force provided the special alert, but in at least one instance for one intelligence mission off Shanghai the Seventh Fleet did not provide the destroyer I asked for.

"They directed a destroyer from the Taiwan defense patrol to remain in the northern sector of this (Shanghai) patrol area. It had a reaction time of 16 hours," he said.

"This then became more or less the standard procedure for requesting special air-surface support."

CANAL

He said the commission staff has estimated it will cost $60,000 to make the survey, with the total amount to be paid by the city.

Andersen said Dan Coleman Associates estimated they could do the job for not more than $20,000, but the commission staff said the private survey would not be acceptable.

City Attorney David A. Menary said he had been unable to get a satisfactory explanation from the commission staff on the $40,000 difference.

Andersen reported the State Lands Commission staff claims there are 60 infringements on the old creek bed which the state owns.

He said it isn't clear how the commission staff knows the number of infringements since it doesn't have a survey.

Menary said it is possible the City of San Rafael owns much of the land under the existing San Rafael Canal.

There are precedents for trading such land for uplands, he said, citing cases in Long Beach and Alameda as two examples.

He suggested asking for special legislation to eliminate the survey requirement.

Peter Townsend, an attorney for Western Title Co. which is handling Marin Municipal Water District litigation with the lands commission, said he was doubtful the state could establish lines 70 years after the canal was realigned.

Andersen urged beginning some action, noting clouded titles are preventing development along the canal because loans aren't made when titles are not clear.

He also said the State Lands Commission staff has mentioned the cloud on the title to Montecito Shopping Center lands, noting the state could demand back rent from those buildings constructed on the old canal bed. The city may also have some liability for selling the lands because of the clouded title.

The group agreed several persons should meet with the State Land Commission staff after it is determined who owns lands underlying San Rafael Canal to discuss what could be done next.

MARIN

And it got so cold in Fairfax the fire siren wouldn't blow, firemen reported.

Much of the snow which appeared on mountain tops and ridges yesterday didn't melt and ice was reported on puddles in Novato.

Rainfall was light and centered on the coast and southern Marin. Bolinas reported the most, .14 of an inch in the 24 hours ending at 8 a.m. today.

Bolinas also reported the lowest temperature in the county — an overnight low of 23 degrees.

Other lows were Woodacre, Novato and Terra Linda, 26 degrees; Tamalpais Valley and Petaluma, 27; Sausalito, Mill Valley and Fairfax, 30; San Anselmo, 32; San Rafael and Ross, 33, and Belvedere, 36.

Roads in unincorporated Marin have suffered scattered damage, but none has been closed, according to Mario Balestrieri, deputy county director of public works.

In addition to the usual slides and fallen trees which occur during storms, a concrete culvert washed out on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at Inverness Park and a portion of one lane of Drake Boulevard in Inverness is closed because of collapse.

"We've had more damage than we'd normally expect, but we've certainly had worse years," Balestrieri said.

Damage to roads in Southern Sonoma was considered minor.

Watery mud which slid downhill yesterday into the rear of the Sausalito Pharmacy has ruined most of a shipment of drugs scheduled to go to Biafra relief, druggist Fred Mayer said today.

The mudslide may have been triggered by a water hydrant leak on Bulkley Avenue above the pharmacy at 701 Bridgeway. Pharmacy employees discovered the slide when they opened the store yesterday and found three inches of mud and water on the floor. The pharmacy was closed until midafternoon while the mess was cleaned up.

Mayer said the Biafra-bound drugs, largely doctors' samples, were stacked at the rear of the store. The pharmacy is Northern California depot for the pharmaceutical end of the Biafra relief program headed by Mrs. Diedre Silverman of Sausalito. A drug shipment is flown to Biafra every two weeks. Mayer said some of the drugs can be salvaged but most are ruined.

The Marin Municipal Water District said a hydrant shifted away from a valve at 1 a.m. yesterday causing the water leak. Water was cut off when the leak was detected, and the hydrant was repaired later in the day, the water district reported.

Mayer said further rains could bring down more mud and damage the building. Cleanup work continued today.

Yesterday's slide is not far from the scene of a slide two years ago today which swept down the hill and caved in the rear wall of the Tides bookstore and heaped mud against the Sandal shop, Takahashi gift shop and GG apparel shop, causing extensive damage

STORM

the probability for new showers tomorrow was a 50-50 tossup.

In San Francisco to the north, barometers rose and the weather cleared after 24 hours of snow, hail, bitter wind and some sunshine. But a new storm northwest of Eureka was expected to bring rain southward to Sacramento by nightfall and dump more snow in the Sierra.

With predictions of showers for the next few days, flood waters continued to cause more damage and threaten still more.

The San Joaquin and Sacramento rivers were reported still rising and a dike was broken where the San Joaquin and Stanislaus rivers converge near Modesto.

The California Crop and Livestock Reporting service said the rain has brought "significant crop losses in some winter vegetables and poses a serious threat to maturing citrus fruits." Losses are also expected in sugar beets and some small grains as well as broccoli, cabbage and cauliflower, reported heavily damaged.

Meanwhile, in Washington Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Harding announced today that farmers in eight more storm swept counties in California are eligible for emergency financial aid.

Two others — Tulare and Fresno — were designated last year as emergency areas as a result of frost damage to crops.

Hardins action cleared the way for the Farmers Home Administration to make additional emergency loans to victims of recent rains and flooding. The loans are earmarked to help replace equipment, livestock and crops.

The new FHA credit permits farmers to borrow money at three per cent interest, the loans to be repaid as soon as possible according to a borrower's ability to pay.

Officials also said the FHA could make low-cost loans to repair and replace damaged housing on farms and in small towns of up to 5,500 population. These also bear three per cent interest but may run up to 33 years. No "emergency" designation was required for these type loans.

TAX

way user funds generally," said Collier, former chairman of the Transportation Committee.

However, Reagan, after personally inspecting flood damage in the San Joaquin Valley and southern California yesterday, said he did not believe a one-cent increase was necessary.

In his state of the state message to the Legislature, the governor vowed, "under no circumstances will I support or sign into law any tax increase."

Collier, D-Yreka, sponsored legislation in 1965 temporarily adding a one-cent increase to the gas tax for repair of highway destruction in northern California caused by torrential rain.

The increase remained in effect five months and generated $31.6 million for road repairs. The federal government supplied another $26 million.

The state Division of Highways estimates that a new cent-a-gallon increase in both the gasoline and diesel fuel levies would produce between $80 million and $90 million a year.

"The people of southern California were generous enough to help us and we should be equally generous," Collier said. "It's most pitiful. These people just have to be helped."

Nixon Returns To Senate Floor

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon made a sentimental return to the Senate today and got a pledge from the Democratic leader that senators in the opposition party "will do everything we can to make you a good president and a great president."

Nixon appeared on the Senate floor following a luncheon with leaders of both parties in the chambers of Republican chief Everet M. Dirksen of Illinois.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, addressing Nixon from the Democratic side of the aisle, said differences will be inevitable but, when Senate Democrats take issue with presidential positions, they will strive to be "constructively different."

As for the trouble-making students, he repeated that "there's got to be a realistic facing up to those who throw fuel on the fires" of campus trouble.

There comes a time, he said, when the higher education authorities have to rid campuses "once and for all" of dissidents who spend weeks or months participating in disruption of campus life and are not legitimately seeking an education.

PRESIDIO PROTEST—A crowd of silent protesters gathered outside this Presidio building where first-day proceedings against six young soldiers charged with mutiny were held yesterday. Twenty-one more soldiers, facing similar charges will face court-martial later. (UPI Telephoto)

300 Demonstrate At Court-Martial Site

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A crowd of 300 demonstrated outside the Presidio yesterday during the brief opening proceedings of the court-martial of six soldiers charged with mutiny.

The court-martial was recessed until tomorrow to give defense attorneys more time to prepare arguments and the trial of one of the six was scheduled to be held separately Feb. 17.

The six are part of a group of 27 charged with mutiny following a sit-down strike last October protesting the fatal shooting of a fellow prisoner by a guard and conditions at the Presidio stockade. The others will be tried later.

The mutiny charges were ordered by Lt. Gen. Stanley Larsen, Sixth Army commander, despite the opinion of an investigating officer that the "charge of mutiny . . . does not apply to the facts."

Capt. Richard J. Millard, who said the Army "overreacted," urged the men be tried on a charge of willful disobedience instead of mutiny. The mutiny charge could carry a sentence of up to life imprisonment.

The rally yesterday was to protest the decision to bring mutiny charges which leaders called "callous and unreasonable."

Another demonstration is planned for Friday by the Oakland Seven, on trial with felony of conspiring to commit misdemeanor crimes during anti-draft demonstrations in Oakland in 1967.

The Seven, including Michael Smith, formerly of Corte Madera, plan to demand that charges be dropped and conditions at the Presidio stockade be investigated.

Among the 27 facing mutiny charges is Pvt. Keith Mather of San Bruno, one of the Marin City Nine, the group which chained itself together last summer in an antiwar protest at St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church.

Freshman Upsets House Leaders On Panel Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — A first-term congresswoman, in an almost unprecedented move, today upset a House leadership decision that had given her an unwanted committee assignment.

Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., first Negro woman to serve in Congress, took her fight to get off the Agriculture Committee to a caucus of House Democrats and won.

Mrs. Chisholm, whose Brooklyn district has concerns far from the jurisdiction of the Agriculture Committee, made a ringing plea to her colleagues to kill the assignment.

"I didn't come here expecting to get everything I wanted," she said she told the Democrats in their closed-door meeting. "But there are only nine black persons here and they should be used more effectively."

Mrs. Chisholm offered an amendment to the motion approving all committee assignments that removed her from the Agriculture Committee and it was accepted without a vote.

No action was taken to give Mrs. Chisholm another assignment but she said she hoped "the gentlemen will place me on a committee that has more relevance to my district."

Before the assignments were made by the 15-member Committee on Committees Mrs. Chisholm had expressed a preference to serve on the Education and Labor Committee.

"My experience, my background is all in education," she told newsmen after the caucus. "I've taught, directed a private school, ran a child care center and served on the education committee of the New York State Legislature."

Fines, Probation For Two Drivers

Two men were sentenced yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Le Patrick Perrone, 47, of 509 Johnson Street, Sausalito, was also fined $240 and placed on six months probation. He was arrested Dec. 11 in Sausalito.

Banker Is Elected As Crusade Leader

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Richard P. Cooley, 44, president of the Wells Fargo Bank, was elected yesterday as president of the board of directors of the 1969 United Bay Area Crusade.

Cooley, elected at the crusade's annual meeting, previously served the charity drive as a director and chairman of the campaign policy committee. He succeeds Benjamin F. Biaggini, president of Southern Pacific, in the crusade post.

Pentagon's First Team Now Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate completed approval of President Nixon's first team at the Pentagon today by confirming former Gov. John H. Chafee of Rhode Island as secretary of the Navy and Dr. Robert C. Seamans Jr. as secretary of the Air Force.

It also approved Robert F. Froehlke as assistant secretary of defense for administration and Barry J. Shillito as assistant secretary of defense for installations and logistics.

It had earlier approved Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and Deputy Secretary David R. Packard. Stanley R. Resor is remaining as secretary of the Army, and no Senate action is required to reconfirm him.

The Senate also approved these other nominations by Nixon:

Brig Gen. George A. Lincoln as director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, a position that carries membership on the National Security Council.

Lt. Gen. John W. Carpenter III as senior Air Force member, military staff committee, United Nations.

All action was by voice vote without dissent.

Purse Snatched In Corte Madera

Two young men yesterday snatched a Mill Valley woman's purse containing $24 cash, Corte Madera police reported today.

Ryan G. Byrne, 58, of 27-A East Blithedale Avenue, told officers that two men in their early 20s approached her in the Montgomery Ward store at the Corte Madera Shopping Center about 8:25 p.m., grabbed the purse and fled.

'Oakland 7' Jury Trouble Continuing

OAKLAND (UPI) — Three weeks and 177 prospective jurors later, the prosecution and defense were still unable today to agree on a jury to try the "Oakland Seven."

So far, 11 tentative jurors have been selected from five panels of prospects. The prosecution and defense have left unused 53 peremptory challenges.

The seven defendants were arrested during demonstrations at the Oakland Induction Center in October 1967. They were charged with conspiracy.

Rash Of Thefts In Santa Venetia

Thieves who swept through Santa Venetia in the early morning hours Monday broke into cars and trucks parked on streets, stole two motorcycles and left a trail of discarded stolen items behind them.

The motorcycles which were stolen from 641 Gallerita Way and 310 Rosal Way were found by a gardener in a children's park on Descanso Way later in the morning.

Cars on Vendola Drive, Gallerita Way and Adrian Way were borken into and wallets left in glove compartments taken as well as tools. Most of the stolen items were later found on neighbors' lawns.

AFTERMATH OF STORMS

Red Gunners Down Three Helicopters

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist ground fire downed three more American helicopters in South Vietnam, military spokesmen said today. The Viet Cong announced they would observe a truce during the Tet holiday next month and the Allies said they had the proposal "under consideration."

The downing of the helicopters brought U.S. aircraft losses since the new year to 31, with 23 of them being helicopters. Military sources said the losses were heavy in light of the limited extent of fighting since the first of the year.

Communist forces have improved antiaircraft defenses around their strongholds in South Vietnam and have moved an entire battalion of antiaircraft gunners into the Cambodian border region northwest of Saigon, the sources said.

REDS PLAN TRUCE

The Viet Cong announced in a radio broadcast monitored in Saigon they would observe a Tet, or lunar new year, holiday ceasefire Feb. 15-22. Last year during Tet, the Communists called a truce, then launched their biggest offensive of the war against South Vietnamese cities.

A South Vietnamese spokesman said that "because of the last Tet offensive" it was "too soon" to announce the time and date for a Tet ceasefire this year. He said any ceasefire "will not last long if there is one."

OUTPOST ATTACKED

About 500 Communist troops attacked a South Vietnamese airborne battalion outpost 54 miles northwest of Saigon yesterday, military spokesmen said, following up a mortar barrage with a ground assault. The government soldiers repulsed the attack killing 23 Communists while sustaining "light" casualties.

American infantrymen operating with Navy river patrol boats uncovered a three-ton Communist weapons cache 23 miles southwest of Saigon yesterday, spokesmen said. It was the 51st supply dump found in a two-month-long Army-Navy river patrol operation.

U.S. commanders mapped a final assault 10 miles southwest of Saigon today against a Communist unit encircled Monday in region of rice paddies. Prisoners told interrogators only about 30 men were left in the company.

Less than a mile north of the fighting, an American unit found a Viet Cong food cache containing almost 40,000 pounds of rice. Other U.S. troops uncovered an ammunition dump about three miles away which contained 37,000 rifle bullets, 391 mortar and recoilless rifle rounds, 100 pounds of TNT, 220 gallons of gasoline, 29 booby traps and other equipment.

U.S. Marines patroling near the Demilitarized Zen (DMZ) seven miles northwest of Cam Lo found their second Communist supply dump in as many days. It contained an antiaircraft machine gun and 19,900 rounds of ammunition, 323 hand grenades and 15,000 rifle bullets, spokesmen said.

TIME BOMBS FOUND

In Saigon, Viet Cong terrorists placed two time bombs in a civil defense office about two blocks from the central market but they were disarmed without exploding.

SEMANTICS NIGHTMARE

American's Paris Roundtable Guide

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

PARIS (AP) — Sir, I am an American in Paris. Can you tell me what's going on here about Vietnam?

Q. Ah—a peace conference?

A. Absolutely not! The first thing a newcomer must learn is that you don't call this anything but talks.

Q. Why?

A. Well, if you call what goes on at the International Conference Center a conference, the Americans and South Vietnamese won't like it. A conference can mean that everybody present has the authority to confer. If you call it a meeting, the North Vietnamese and the National Liberation Front get mad at you. A meeting is an informal thing where anybody can throw in his two bits' worth. The NLF and Hanoi say its a conference.

Q. I've heard there'll never be a meeting—excuse me—talks on a Wednesday. Why not?

A. Because the Americans and the South Vietnamese think that would be too much like a continuation of the preliminary American-North Vietnamese talks, which were always on Wednesdays.

Q. So what?

A. People would get the idea these are "enlarged" or "expanded" talks. Expanded from two to four sides.

Q. Aren't they?

A. Well, the Hanoi-NLF people say they are, but the Washington-Saigon people say they aren't. If you say "enlarged," it might mean that it has been enlarged from two sides to four sides.

Q. Hasn't it?

A. The Hanoi—NLF people say it has, but the Washington—Saigon people say there are still only two sides, themselves and the others. They say the NLF is a "reality" but not a "political entity."

Q. What should one call the talks, then?

A. New, full-scale or substantive talks. But not enlarged or expanded.

Q. Aren't there four delegations here?

A. Yes and No. Hanoi and the NLF say there are. Saigon and the Americans seem to accept the fact that there are four negotiators, but to say there are four delegations would mean that the NLF is independent enough to have its own delegation.

Q. Why is the table round?

A. If it were square it would have four sides, and four sides look likes four delegations. A round table doesn't have sides marked off, so one group can say it has four sides and another can say it has two sides and both are right. The two rectangular tables, where the lesser staff sit, have sides. But if the rectangular tables are narrow enough, they can be said to have only two sides.

Q. When they go into the room, do four delegations go in or do two?

A. There are only two doors, so the Hanoi-NLF people use one and the Washington-Saigon people use the other. If there were four doors, there would have been the devil to pay.

Held To Answer On Three Counts

Richard Bruce Schwartz, 24, of Gate Six near Sausalito, was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday on two charges of car theft and one charge of possessing a bad check with intent to defraud.

He will be arraigned Monday.

Schwartz was arrested by Mill Valley police Jan. 16 allegedly driving a stolen car. They said he had checks with him that had been stolen from a Mill Valley man. The other auto theft allegedly took place Jan. 7.

Dos Rios Dam Proposal Backed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Assembly Water Committee issued yesterday a report backing the proposed, controversial $272.2 million Dos Rios Dam.

The 63-page report, a result of interim hearings, urges that more water supplies be made available to the State Water Project by 1986.

The new proposed project would include a 730-foot dam, a reservoir twice the size of Lake Oroville, and inundation of Round Valley in Mendocino County.

Name Omitted

Julie Cramer of 350 Sycamore Avenue, Mill Valley — who was a passenger Monday in a cab driven by Charles D. Sher of Bolinas that was involved in a threee-car collision in Greenbrae that evening — has reported that Tuesday's Independent-Journal account of the accident failed to report that she was accompanied by her fiance, Brian Grove of San Anselmo.

Youth Authority Has Less Influx Again

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Allen F. Breed, director of the California Youth Authority, today reported a total of 4,689 youths entered Youth Authority institutions during 1968, a decline for the third successive year.

The total represented a decline of 6.1 per cent from the 4,994 first admissions in 1967. The total in 1966 was 5,458, and the 1965 total was an all-time record of 6,174.

Teener Balks At Serving On Rohnert Park Commission

The teen-ager recently appointed to the Rhonert Park Recreation Commission is having second thoughts about his willingness and ability to serve.

Raymond Erickson, 17, declined to take the oath of office at the commission meeting Monday, saying he felt he should have been elected by the students of Rancho Cotate High School rather than appointed by the city council. He said he felt the appointed position rather than an elected one meant that he really did not represent the students.

The commission members explaned that all committees are appointed by the council rather than by general election and advised him to consider the appointment for two weeks before making a final decision.

Mayor Arthur Robert was the only city official to screen the list prospective commissioners provided by Rancho Cotate Principal Robert E. Daggett.

"When I interviewed him, he seemed highly impressed with the position and said he thought he could do the job," Roberts said. The mayor said today his recommendation of Erickson may have been wrong and said he should have selected a student with more self confidence.

Roberts discounted the possibility of having the students elect the recreation commissioner because Penngrove and Cotati are represented in the student body in addition to Rohnert Park.

The mayor said he would not encourage Ericksen to accept the position.

Young Suspect's Hearing Delayed

The preliminary hearing in Marin Municipal Court yesterday for Steven David Foster, 19, of San Anselmo, accused of burglarizing a San Anselmo ice cream shop Sunday, was continued to Tuesday.

San Anselmo police halted Foster at about 4:30 a.m. Sunday morning because his car had a defective tail light. Officers said that Foster had several rolls of coins and a canvas money bag in his car.

They took the canvas bag from him but released Foster with the coins. An hour later, they said, Foster was seen at the door of Baskin-Robbins ice cream store on Red Hill Avenue.

According to police, Foster, a former employee of the shop, said he was trying to return $24 stolen earlier.

Nixon Displays Red Setter Pup

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon showed off his new six-month-old Irish setter yesterday, a friendly dog nicknamed Tim which he says has to be run for exercise.

"That's the way I'll do my jogging," the President said with a smile. "I'm not going to be running for a few years."

Tim arrived at the White House last night and made his formal debut in the Rose Garden this morning before newsmen, photographers and congressional leaders.

Latin Joins Negroes In Rebuking Monagan

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The legislature's only Mexican-American member has quit as vice chairman of a new Assembly committee on big city problems, calling his appointment a "compromise which relegates Mexican-Americans to second-class status."

Assemblyman Alex P. Garcia, a Los Angeles Democrat, resigned yesterday as vice chairman of the Urban Affairs and Housing Committee, saying he had not been consulted on his appointment by Speaker Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy.

An aide to Monagan said Garcia, a freshman, had probably been persuaded to quit by high Democratic party officials.

In his letter of resignation, Garcia told Monagan: "I considered it an insult to have first learned of my appointment from the news media."

"I am convinced," the letter continued, "that my appointment as vice chairman was nothing less than an afterthought and not an expression of confidence in my qualifications. My refusal is based in the firm conviction that Mexican-Americans can no longer consider positions previously rejected by honorable men."

Garcia was referring to two Negro Democrats — Leon Ralph of Los Angeles and Willie L. Brown Jr. of San Francisco — who earlier had refused to accept the committee vice chairmanship.

Monagan, who announced Garcia's appointment Monday, said he failed to see why Garcia found the appointment insulting, since the young legislator had been one of only four freshmen to receive a vice chairmanship.

"However," Monagan said, "if Mr. Garcia considers this assignment beneath his dignity, I will be the last to insist that he accept it."

Garcia said — as did Ralph and Brown — that he still wanted to stay on the committee as a member.

A Monagan aide said Garcia probably had been under pressure to resign the post. When asked if he meant pressure from Ralph and Brown, the spokesman said: "I think it comes from higher up."

Ralph said he and Garcia had discussed the matter only briefly.

"He mentioned he was thinking about it," Ralph said, "but I didn't offer any advice, I felt it was his decision and that it wasn't my perogative to offer suggestions. I did explain to him why I had turned the position down."

Assembly Minority Leader Jesse M. Unruh said Garcia had not consulted with him about rejecting the assignment. Unruh declined to comment on Garcia's decision.

Asked if Garcia's appointment had been made solely on the basis of his Mexican-American background, Jerry Simpson, executive assistant said:

"Oh, no. Although that was one consideration. He could serve as a representative of a major urban area with a large minority population. He would understand their problems."

Simpson also said he was surprised Garcia had called the appointment an "insult."

"He should have felt honored," he said.

Five Are Attending Seminar On Aging

Five San Rafael residents are attending a seminar on aging sponsored by the University of Southern California and the state Commission on Aging this week in Anaheim.

Bagley Asks Presidential Vote Change

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, called today for federal legislation to modify the electoral college system of selecting a president.

Bagley introduced a resolution asking Congress to submit to the states a constiutional amendment that changes but does not abolish the electoral system.

Under his proposal, electors would be eliminated but each state would retain its number of electoral votes which would go to the candidate gaining a majority of a state's popular vote in the presidential election.

Bagley said he opposed a direct presidential election such as proposed in another resolution by Assembly Democratic Leader Jesse M. Unruh.

He said a direct election would encourage factional voting, promote splinter groups "and thus thwart the national will more so than the present system."

Bagley said his proposal was based on suggestions made by state Controller Houston I Flournoy.

Deafness Cure Slow But Easy

BRIDGWATER, England (AP) — Adrian Bennett has discovered the reason for the slight but persistent deafness in his right ear. He's had a cork in it for the past 20 years.

Adrian, 23, has been hard of hearing since he was three, yesterday he went to a new doctor.

"The cork popped out when the doctor syringed my right ear," Adrian reported. "It was a quarter of an inch long and cylindrical like a cigarette filter.

Lawmakers Gingerly Eye Pay Hike For Legislature

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —State legislators — with a wary eye on voter reaction — showed a healthy but cautious interest today in a suggestion they raise their $16,000-a-year salaries. (More Sacramento stories, page 9.)

The suggestion came from Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan, D-Burlingame, who wrote colleagues urging a "strong bipartisan effort" this year for a cost-of-living salary hike. It was timely, Ryan said, because Congress is thinking along the same lines for itself.

Pay raises for the legislators were provided for in revision of the constitution which the voters approved in 1966 as Proposition 1-A.

But the document limits any increase to 5 per cent a year. And it provides any increase enacted would not apply until after the next general election.

If one were passed this year, all 80 assemblymen and 20 of the 40 senators would have to win re-election in 1970 to receive the higher pay in 1971.

Assembly Speaker Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy, said he'd go along with a salary increase "on the basis of the cost of living with the realization, of course, that it doesn't apply to legislators who are now serving."

Sen. George Moscone, San Francisco, Democratic floor leader in the upper house, also voiced support.

"I shouldn't think any legislator should feel timid about following the mandate of a constitutional amendment unless he isn't satisfied with his work," said Moscone.

Senate Republican leader Donald L. Grunsky, Watsonville, said he personally felt a pay raise was "quite in order" and "well justified" but conceded many senators might not support it at this time.

Grunsky noted the last time the Senate Republicans caucused on the subject they rejected a pay increase.

Assembly Democratic Leader Jesse M. Unruh, Inglewood, said he was opposed to any salary increase until the legislature first approved a tough conflict of interest law requiring full disclosure by a public official of his assets. Unruh said he plans introduction of such legislation tomorrow.

Putting you first, keeps us first. '69 Chevelle Malibu Sport Coupe

GM
MARK OF EXCELLENCE

You know what's happened to prices without our having to tell you.

But have heart.

And the cost of all those items, with the exception of the whitewalls and wheel covers, has come down. (Wheel covers cost the same and a set of whitewalls is $2.10 more.)

But Powerglide costs less than it did in 1968. And the cost of new advanced-design power disc brakes has been cut by more than one-third.

So you end up paying $69.00* less for this one than you would have paid for last year's model equipped the same way.

And, of course, the '69 Malibu Sport Coupe is not the same car as last year's model. It's more car.

It comes with Chevrolet's new theft-discouraging lock for the steering wheel, shift lever and ignition. It has Astro Ventilation to let in air, but keep out wind and road noise.

It's the only car in its field to offer you headlight washers and a push-button system for coating your rear wheels with a traction improving fluid when you get stuck on ice.

NEARSIGHTED DOG RETURNS

Mr. Charlie, a nearsighted 120-pound poodle that was apparently dognaped when he stepped outdoors without his glasses three weeks ago, is home with his joyful owner, Harold Nash of Berkeley. The dog was fitted with a pair of glasses after Nash noticed the dog kept bumping into objects around the house. Mr. Charlie was found Monday. (AP Wirephoto)

State Colleges Gain On Financial Request

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Assembly Education Committee has approved a bill to provide state colleges with $575,000 to handle an unexpected influx of students, but first it changed the way the money would be distributed.

Originally, under the bill introduced by Assemblyman Pete Wilson, R-San Diego, the money would have been an outright grant to the colleges from the General Fund.

But it was amended yesterday to put the money into the emergency fund administered by Gov. Ronald Reagan. From there it would be distributed by State Finance Director Caspar Weinberger.

Wilson said state college officials had requested about $2 million last October, but were told the emergency fund didn't have that much money.

The colleges say they need the money to add to their faculties for the spring term.

Reagan Assigns Telephone Aide To Resources Post

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A telephone company executive will take over as first permanent director of the new State Human Resources Development Department and attempt to put the hard-core unemployed to work.

Gilbert L. Sheffield of San Francisco, an assistant vice president for Pacific Telephone Co., was named to the $25,727-a-year job yesterday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The 39-year-old Republican, whose appointment requires Senate confirmation, succeeds Lucian Vandergrift, acting director of the department. Vandergrift will return to his post as assistant secretary of the State Human Relations Agency.

The new department created by the 1968 legislature consolidated several state agencies, including the State Office of Economic Opportunity, the California Multiservice Center program the State Employment Department and the California Commission on Aging.

The governor's office said Sheffield had been directing a minority recruitment program in the telephone company.

Shaw's Defense Using Challenges

NEW ORLEANS — The Clay Shaw trial moved a little closer to testimony today when the defense used two of its last four peremptory challenges to dismiss prospective jurors.

The state still had three such challenges left. Each side started with 12 peremptory challenges—by which prospective jurors are dismissed without cause—when the trial got under way nine days ago.

Ten men have been seated, leaving two jurors and two alternates still to be selected to decide the case of Shaw, charged with conspiring to murder President John F. Kennedy.

At the beginning of the New Year, front doors in Staffordshire and northern England are thrust open. A man strides in carrying a bit of coal or bread as symbols of wealth. The gift-bearer, known as "first-foot," must have dark hair. A light color, especially red, supposedly brings ill luck.

Sonoma Collision Injures Woman

Maris Wagner, 74, of Vallejo, was reported in fair condition today at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in Vallejo after a two-car collision at the intersection of Highways 21 and 37 in southern Sonoma County yesterday.

The hospital did not specify Mrs. Wagner's injuries but she complained of pain in the right side at the accident scene, the California Highewy Patrol said.

She was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Hilmar A. Wagner, 79, of Vallejo. The patrol said the accident occurred at 3:20 p.m. when Wagner turned onto Highway 37 into the path of a car driven by Reinhold Schott, 39, of Walnut Creek.

Wagner was cited for failure to yield the right of way.

Reinecke Names Liasion Helper

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke named Peter L. Tweedt yesterday to act as liaison to boards, commissions and agencies on which the state's No. 2 executive serves.

Tweedt, 36-year-old secretary to the California Highway Commission, was the second aide designated by Reinecke. Earlier he named Win Adams, 51, former cabinet secretary to Gov. Ronald Reagan, as his executive assistant.

The lieutenant governor said Tweedt would give special emphasis to the University of California Board of Regents and the State College Board of Trustees.

McCarthy May Seek Top Senate Position

By PAUL E. PERTERZELL

SACRAMENTO — Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, yesterday declared he will be a candidate for the most powerful position in the Senate, president pro tempore, if the Republicans capture the formerly Democratic seat in the special election next month in Contra Costa County.

Sen. George Miller Jr., D-Martinez, died last month, leaving the balance in the upper house 20-9 in favor of the Republicans.

The pro tem post was retained at the beginning of the current legislative session by Sen. Hugh M. Burns, D-Fresno, despite a challenge by Democratic "young Turks" to dump him because he supported President Nixon's candidacy and opposed that of Sen. Alan Cranston.

"I'd hate to dump Huey (Burns), McCarthy told the Independent-Journal. Both Burns and McCarthy are bulwarks of the bipartisan Senate old guard, and both have been under fire by younger senators impatient with the seniority system.

McCarthy, who has been in the Senate since 1950, was dumped by his fellow Republican senators last year as the party's floor leader.

Another candidate for pro tem, McCarthy conceded, would be Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville, who replaced McCarthy as floor leader.

Senate sources, noting that the Republicans probably will not be able to unite behind a single candidate, speculated that an impasse very well could be settled by eight or nine Democratic senators eager to get rid of Burns.

Sunburn Possible Even In Wintertime

NEW YORK (UPI)—Winter outdoor activity can result in windburn and sunburn as painful as the summer varieties, say first aid experts. They recommend these safeguards: Keep hands, eyes and ears well protected; use a good sun-screening agent on face and forehead; apply zinc oxide for protection against windburn. Should you suffer either type of burn, treat immediately with antiseptic first aid cream. This will relieve pain quickly and promote healing.

Bill Proposes Primary Vote In August

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Assemblyman J. K. (Ken) MacDonald, D-Ojai, has authored AB-266 which will cut the time between the primary and general elections in California by two months.

MacDonald's bill would move the direct primary from its present June date to the first Tuesday after the first Monday in August.

MacDonald claimed it is not uncommon to find assembly candidates spending more than $50,000 during campaigns while congressional and state senate candidates will use as much as $100,000.

The measure provides that state conventions of each political party be held on the third Saturday in September following the direct primary, rather than the first Saturday in August for the Republicans and a Saturday in August for the Democrats.

Novato Sewer Panel Hears Pollution Plan Unworkable

The Novato Sanitary District is not complying with the proposed new regulations of hhe Bay Area Water Pollution Control Board and will not be able to for a long time, Charles Joseph, engineer-manager of the district, reported Monday night to the board.

The proposed regulations will be up for adoption by the control board at its Feb. 13 meeting in Oakland, Joseph said.

The new regulations on bacteria count and algae are behone the capabilities of the Novato and Ignacio treatment plants to meet, Joseph said.

The district has its own master plan for a large treatment plant in the Black Point area in the distant future he said. In addition there is the county's Brown and Caldwell Plan for the county and the state is making its own study and plan which should be ready this summer, he said.

"The Novato district just doesn't intend to try to meet the requirements at the present time," Joseph said. He said the district would meet with water pollution control board and try to work out a schedule for compliance.

He estimated the cost of the Black Point facility at somewhere between $3 and $4 million, which the district does not have.

The Novato Sanitary District board also:

ELECTION — Heard Joseph report that the election on the dissolution of the sanitary district and its absorption by the North Marin County Water District has been changed from April 8 to 15 to coincide with the school election.

EXTENSIONS — Approved plans for main extensions for the Novato Center, east of Highway 101 south of Grant Avenue, for the Los Robles apartments West of Highway 101 south of Loma Verde, and the Scottsdale project at the end of Redwood Drive.

AGREEMENTS — Approved an agreement to serve two lots prior to their annexation to the district for Nickolas Kokalis at 2215 Center Road and Merton Shelton for 2120 Vineyard Road.

MEETINGS — Set Feb. 10, 17 and 24 for meetings next month.

Teen-Agers Bombard Auto With Snowballs

Arlon Warren Branson, 1534 Buchannon Street, Novato, said his car was bombarded with snowballs as he drove down Second Street in San Rafael yesterday, police reported.

Police later stopped four boys and a girl, all in their teens, who were throwing snowballs they gathered on Mount Tamalpais. After a warning, the youths promised not to throw any more, police reported.

MILITARY BUDGET GIFT

Barbara Montgomery of Pottstown, Pa., holds a check for $5, representing the entire military budget of the tiny Principality of Andorra. The Pottstown Mercury newspaper proposes to send the mountain nation between Spain and France the check, to finance ceremonial salutes to visiting dignitaries. But U.S. Congressman Lawrence Coughlin, R-Pa., although backing the gift, says it may be illegal for a U.S. business to underwrite a foreign military power.

Burglars Loot Model Homes

Two model homes in San Rafael were hit by burglars, and more than $1,000 worth of furnishings were taken, in two separate incidents between Monday night and Tuesday morning, police reported.

A television set, three end tables, a throw rug and bed spread totaling $1000 was taken from the model home of the Perma Bilt Co. at 1717 Las Gallinas Avenue.

Three lamps, six pillows, a coffee table two rugs, a night stand and other items were taken from Marin Master Builders' model home at 463 Cedar Hill Drive. The builders did not give a loss estimate.

In both cases, burglars pried open windows and glass doors to gain entry.

Trustee On Ross Panel Files Papers

Incumbent Van Norden Logan has filed candidacy papers for re-election to the Ross School District board April 15.

The posts of Logan, of Frenhill Avenue in Ross, Ira Degenhardt, and Marjorie McGee expire June 30. Two other candidates, Sally Rakow and Martin S. Chase, already have filed their candidacy papers.

Illuminated Roof Sign Is Rejected

The San Rafael Planning Commission turned down last night a request for an illuminated rooftop mounted sign at Fidelity Savings and Loan, 1200 Fifth Street.

City Planner Herbert C. Hotchner urged the denial, telling the commission the sign had the appearance of a flashing sign which is prohibited in a C-1 district.

If Fidelity Savings was allowed to mount the sign, which was 5.6 by 12 feet, the way would be clear for others to place illuminated roof signs, he said.

The San Rafael Planning Commission also:

STREET NAME — Decided to change the name of Francisco Boulevard from Third Street to Lincoln Avenue at a later date. Two small sections of Francisco Boulevard, at the intersection of Second Street, will be included as a part of Second Street.

CONSTRUCTION YARD—Conditionally approved use permit renewal of the Francisco Co. Construction Yard at 2155 Francisco Boulevard.

AUTOMOTIVE CENTER—Approved construction of Auto Man Automotive Center to be located at 160 Bellam Boulevard. The center will handle diagnostic engine tune-ups, plus engine and transmission work.

TWO SIGNS — Approved two signs for Perry's Delicatessen, 911 Lincoln Avenue, which is located in a C-2 district.

SIGN REPLACEMENT — Approved replacement and redesign of signs for Ames Ford Dealership, 619 Francisco Boulevard.

WAREHOUSE — Conditionally approved a proposed 6,800 square foot warehouse to be built by Charles Rosenbaum at 28 Paul Drive.

The first military flight was made at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., in 1910 by 1st Lt. Benjamin Foulois in a Wright biplane.

Marin Country Club Found Not For Sale

The Marin Country Club is not for sale, Laurence T. Kett, chairman of the golf club acquisition committee, last night reported to the quarterly meeting of the Marin Country Club Homeowners Association.

The committee had been appointed to see if the club would be sold by the Trousdale Corp., its owners.

Club President James A. Sullivan, reported that the club dues were increased from $40 to $52 on Jan. 1 and the club enacted a $180 fee on the use of electric golf carts about six months ago. He added, "the implication is that the club is now making money and the corporation does not want to sell it."

Sullivan was re-elected president for his fourth term. William J. Begley was named vice president. Mrs. William Fergus was re-elected secretary and Peter D. Pirret, treasurer.

Elected to two-year terms on the board were: William C. Sullivan, Kett, Clement Ladreck, Stanley E. Mertel, and John R. Mani, who was elected to complete Begley's term.

Two Girls Complain Of Exposure Case

Two 14-year-old San Rafael girls, told police a man indecently exposed himself while they were walking home from San Rafael High School yesterday.

The girls described the man as husky and in his late thirties. A search by police of the area of Fourth and Grand Streets, where the incident occurred, failed to find the suspect.

The St. Lawrence Seaway opened April 25, 1959.

Mill Valley's Paint-Up Due U.S. Honors

The Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce's paint-up program has won a distinguished achievement award in the 1968 national clean-up contest.

The award, a framed certificate, will be presented to chamber representatives at a special ceremony Feb. 25 at the Statler Hilton Hotel in Washington, D.C.

Mill Valley was one of several runners-up in a category for communities with a population of 25,000 or less. Ten winners were selected in each of three categories judged and a national winner will be selected from the 30 on Feb. 25.

The chamber submitted a scrapbook and written presentation outlining the renovation of commercial properties and sign control program to the contest, sponsored by the National Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up Bureau.

The entries were reviewed by a panel of seven judges.

The chamber's efforts to spruce up downtown Mill Valley started in 1966. The paint-up program began in 1967 with 30 buildings painted the first year. More than 40 buildings have been renovated since the program started and others are scheduled for work this spring.

According to Jan Mountjoy, architectural coordinator, the program is "something that will never will be completed.

"Not only will new buildings be brought into the program, but the city's 701 planning program for the commercial areas will take up where we leave off in improvement efforts," Mrs. Mountjoy said.

Loss Only $3

The Independent-Journal incorrectly reported yesterday that $3,000 was stolen the night before from the home of William A. Muzinich of 106 Reservoir Road, San Rafael. Muzinich today reported only three dollars was taken.

More Spans Set One-Way Tolls

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Carquinez and Benicia-Martinez bridges switch to one-way toll collection Saturday.

E. R. Foley, chief engineer for the Division of Bay Toll crossings, said today the changeover will be effective one minute after midnight when southbound traffic will have free passage. Northbound vehicles will pay double—50 cents for passenger cars.

The change to one-way tolls is expected to save $225,000 a year in operating costs.

A similar experiment on the Golden Gate Bridge also improved movement of traffic and reduced accidents, officials said.

Burglars Hit Homes Of Two Officials

Burglars who broke into the home of Dixie School District Supt. Dennie B. Willis Monday left his wardrobe badly depleted.

Sheriff's officers said that Willis reported the loss of four suits, several pairs of trousers, a sport coat and a sweater as well as a color television set and several rolls of coins. The thieves also left muddy footprints on the rug of his home at 35 Oak View Drive, Los Ranchitos.

On the same day Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer, reported that someone had broken into her home at 10 Wolfe Grade, Kentfield and ransacked it. A platinum bar pin was missing, she told sheriff's deputies.

Kathy A. Rucker of 31 Corte Ortega, Greenbrae reported to the sheriff's office Monday that someone broke the wing window of her car while it was parked near College of Marin and stole a car coat containing a wallet with $5 in it, as well as gloves, a flashlight and an umbrella.

Another victim of car theft was Delores M. Winderlich of Albany who told officers that while her car was parked at 20 Circle Drive, Tiburon Sunday night someone stole a stereo set valued at $125 from it.

Canoeing On Phoenix Lake Asked

Mill Valley Parks ad Recreation Commission has asked the Marin Municipal Water District to open Phoenix Lake to canoeing.

Commission chairman Jean Barnard Monday night also was directed to write the Town of Ross asking that canoeists from Mill Valley be allowed to gain access to the lake through Natalie Crawford Greene Park which borders the lake.

Commissioners also heard that construction of a small boat storage area and dock in Enchanted Knolls adjacent to Richardson Bay would cost approximately $4,400 with piles or $1,700 without piles, Mrs. Barnard reported.

City Engineer Stanley M. Bala was asked to prepare cost estimates for access to the proposed site, Mrs. Barnard said.

Mrs. Calvin K. Terwilliger, speaking from the audience, asked that the commission consider establishing a duck pond in Mill Valley, either by Tamalpais High School or the Red Cart Market on East Blithedale Avenue.

A joint meeting with the city's art commission, scheduled for next Monday night, was postponed to Feb. 10.

Art, Garden Fair Moving Asked By '70

Directors of Fair-Marin Inc. recommended to the board of supervisors today that this year be the last time that the Marin Art and Garden Fair is held in Ross.

Hrold Stockstad, president of Fair-Marin, asked the county to move the annual fair to the Civic Center site in 1970.

Stockstad gave these reasons:

It would be illegal for state funds to be used for a county fair which is not held at the fair site. Ray Harrington, chief of the division of fairs and expositions, declared last week he would not approve funds for the fair if it is held in Ross after the Veterans' Memorial Auditorium is completed.

Development of fair funds will be facilitated by concentrating on and using one site. Delay of a year or two in moving the fair will not make available any more money for the fair.

Stockstad also asked supervisors to allocate additional funds in the 1969-70 budget to install some washroom facilities and lighting at the new fairgrounds so that the fair can be held there in 1970.

Dog Takes Up With Burglar

WHITEHALL, Mont. (AP) — Dog is man's best friend. But Danny Hanson's dog doesn't know which man he's supposed to be a friend to.

Not too long ago, a burglar entered Hanson's ranch home six miles souteast of Whitehall and stole watches, a television set, radios, tools and tool boxes. Then he took three wheels and tires from Hanson's pickup outside the house.

And, the dog? He apparently went with the burglar!

Marin Hospital Hikes Salaries, Room Rates

The Marin Hospital District board last night granted hospital employees an annual raise totaling $229,224, agreed to allot an additional $77,484 for various items, then hiked the cost of hospital rooms and service to meet these expenditures.

The additional income from rooms and service, effective Saturday, will raise a total of $325,935.

The board raised hospital semi-private room and service rates from $45 per patient daily to $50, intensive care rates from $95 to $100 daily, heart unit care from $50 to $55, the intensive heart unit service from $75 to $80, and the nursery rate from $20 to $22.

District officials said the raises in salaries and fringe benefits of employees will be effective on their next payday next month and was based on a three-month study and recommendation last night to the board by its personnel committee.

They said it is not a blanket increase, but rather is based on individual cases. Current district cost in salaries and fringe benefits is $4.25 million.

Also alloted was $6,000 for increased security by guards, $3,600 for a University of California student resident majoring in hospital administration and who will work at the hospital, $3,600 for a more intensive tumor study program, $15,000 for increased insurance costs resulting from opening of the community mental health center, and $49,284 for a resrve fund for possible additional employee fringe benefits this year. These expenses total the $77,484.

Marin Hospital District Also:

ELECTION — Re-elected George E. Croke as board president, Dr. Gwendolyn M. Campion, vice president, and Marion C. Ibach, secretary.

BIDS — Accepted the $48,700 bid by the San Rafael landscaping firm of Cagwin and Dorward for landscaping the community mental health center. It was lowest of two bids.

STUDENT — Authorized the employment for a year of the student of hospital administration from the University of California.

LITIGATION—Held a 20-minute closed session starting at 11:25 p.m. about possible litigation over collection of a patient's delinquent account for hospital services.

More Tam Unification Data Asked

The Marin County Committee on School District organization last night agreed to a further study before adopting a tentative unification consideration plan for the Tamalpais High School District area.

Robert E. Spain, director of administrative services for the county schools office, said the committee discussed the bonded capacities of the district's three high school attendance areas, and requested statistics on the average teacher salaries in each elementary school district within the Tamalpais district.

These, he said, will be compared with the average salary of the high school teachers.

The committee has four possible unification plans for the district area. It next meets at 8 p.m. Feb. 19 at the county schools offices, 201 Tamal Vista Boulevard, Corte Madera.

Reagan Denies Holding Veneman

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Stories that he tried to keep Assemblyman John G. Veneman, R-Modesto, from taking a Nixon administration job are "totally false and unsubstantiated," Gov. Ronald Reagan said today.

Reagan denied he told Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Robert H. Finch, former California lieutenant governor, he opposed Finch taking Veneman to Washington as his No. 2 man.

Reagan told his news conference that Finch told him, in Reagan's Sacramento office, that "he wanted Veneman and that Jack wanted to go also." But he said Finch expressed concern about the effect on the Republicans' 41-39 margin in the Assembly after years of Democratic domination.

Placer County Fire Kills Six

SHERIDAN (AP)—Five children of a Folsom prison guard and their grandmother died when fire destroyed the family's frame home near the Placer County community of Sheridan early today.

Undersheriff Fay Bates identified the dead as Mrs. Nellie Elizabeth McCarty, 59, of rural Lincoln; 6-year-old twins Raylene and Raymond Schoenhoft; 12-year-old twins Chris and Craig Schoenhoft, and their 15-year-old stepsister, Karen Black.

The children's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Schoenhoft, survived the fire. The mother was treated and released from a Roseville hospital, and Schoenhoft was admitted for treatment of burns.

Air California Wins Flat Fare Approval

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The California Public Utilities Commission yesterday approved a promotional experimental fare by Air California permitting passengers to fly on the line all weekend by paying a flat $25 plus tax.

The experimental unlimited fare on all AC's certified routes will go into effect this weekend, terminating April 30.

Bradford's Resignation Accepted

Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos said that Bradford wrote in his letter of resignation that the 11 years he spent in the department "were the happiest in my life."

Mountanos said he had accepted the resignation. Bradford had been suspended from duty upon his arrest.

The complaint filed in U.S. District Court against Bradford charges that he concealed 5,040 rounds of 5.56 millimeter ammunition which reliable sources indicate was taken from Hamilton Air Force Base by S/Sgt. Gerald K. Bradt.

Blind Persons Face Other Health Woes

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Blind people often have more health problems than other persons, and this is partly because they can't see danger signals on the body.

To provide a closer watch over the health of blinded veterans, the Veterans Administration has established regional outpatient clinics with special medical teams to contact veterans with visual problems.

Protection Of Open Land To Be Sought

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Legislature was to be asked today to act immediately to provide a regional agency to protect open land in the Bay Area.

The proposal was announced yesterday by People for Open Space, a civic organization composed of representatives from nine Bay Area counties, including Marin, at a press conference.

"A regional open space system can preserve the Napa Valley vineyards, save Santa Clara County's green foothills, maintain the mountain backdrops and prevent a continuous urban sprawl between the Golden Gate Bridge and Santa Rosa," a spokesman for People for Open Space said.

Such a system can operate only through a regional agency, the spokesman said, because "open space exists without regard to city or county boundaries."

The organization reached these and other conclusions in a report prepared for the group with financial help from the Ford Foundation.

The report suggested creation of an agency such as the Bay Conservation and Development Commission. T. Jack Kent, People for Open Space project chairman, said that "the open space around the bay is being developed at a much faster rate than the bay has ever been filled."

Those who compiled the report were Development Research Associates of Los Angeles, planners Livingston and Blayney of San Francisco, and Ira M. Heyman, University of California professor of law and city planning.

Each of the nine Bay Area counties has two representatives on the board of directors and Marin's are Ralph Wertheimer of Tiburon, a dierector of the Marin Conservation League, and Philip W. Kearney of Mill Valley, active in numerous conservation groups.

Iraqi Diplomat Target Of Shooting

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — An Iraqi intelligence officer fired a shot into the motor car of the Syrian political attache in Baghdad, a Foreign Ministry spokesman said today.

The diplomat, Abdul Karim Sabbagh, was unhurt, the spokesman said, but Syria has lodged an official protest and demanded an immediate inquiry into the "disgraceful attack." The date of the shooting was not disclosed.

Sirhan Team Working To Boot Trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Subpoenas and questionnaires were handed to all 133 Los Angeles Superior Court judges today as counsel for Sirhan B. Sirhan sought to end his trial for the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Defense counsel seek to quash the indictment of Sirhan on grounds the grand jury which handed it down was unconstitutional.

The questionnaire asked the judges whether they ever picked any Mexican-American, Negroes or Orientals jurors and to name their grand jury nominees for the years 1962 and 1968.

It asked also whether they attached any importance to ethnic or racial background in their selections of panelists or whether they excluded such persons for ethnic or racial background.

It was not expected the judges would appear in cort if satisfactory answers to the questionnaire were furnished.

The move to subpena the judges would appear in court if yesterday between defense and prosecuting attorneys, the defendant and Superior Court Judge Herbert V. Walker.

Reagan Remarks On Pueblo Case

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The U.S. government, not Navy Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher, is on trial in the Pueblo board of inquiry, Gov. Ronald Reagan said today.

Reagan said that "if there were sins of omission" in the capture of the Navy intelligence ship, it was "on the part of the government."

He said "83 young men were put there and abandoned by the U.S. government." He added, "The government failed in its duty."

"I don't think Cmdr. Bucher is on trial," said Reagan.

The governor said he has had a particular interest in the case since Bucher was the executive officer of a submarine used in a movie Reagan starred in during his acting days, and played a part in the film.

Board Tables Action On Family Life Film

The Petaluma Board of Education last night took under consideration a recommendation by Supt. Lesly H. Meyer that KQED's "Time of Your Life" film series be used on an optional basis in family life education classes.

With no comment by board members, the report was tabled for further consideration. Meyer said there was no hurry in approving the film since a full program could not be developed until the fall semester.

Meyer said there are five ways the film could be used — during the regular school days when other suitable electives are provided to give students a choice, as an elective in summer school, before or after school, as an adult education program for adults, or as an adult education program for both adults and children.

Meyer also recommended that district-owned video tapes of the KQED series be used rather than the televised programs so individual schools could have more flexibility in scheduling.

The superintendent said the community was definitely split in opinion, but said results from surveys conducted by each elementary school showed parents in favor by a ratio of five-to-three.

Several parents attending the meeting disputed Meyer's figures, saying they felt most parents were against the series. The superintendent replied they had probably got that impression by attending study committee meetings at each school where the number of dissenting parents outnumbered those approving the series.

Mrs. Dorothy Head arose to protest the series and added she felt that many teachers are not qualified to teach sex education. She cited a class her daughter attended where she said the student teacher "got carried away with perverted ideas." Mrs. Head also questioned whether the "new morality" that seems prevalent in college would be transferred to the classroom when college students become teachers.

Meyer insisted that all teachers would be qualified and would be required to attend a series of workshop and some special sessions at Sonoma State College.

The controversial film series was shown either partially or completely to students in grades three through six in all Petaluma schools last spring.

Meyer said his office began receiving complaints about the series after the 10th lesson, with a formal protest presented to the board on May 14.

The board approved the showing of the remainder of the lessons, but established the study committees to review the series before it would be considered again as a classroom aide.

The Petaluma Board Of Education Also:

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted resignation of George Geiger, business education teacher at Petaluma High School, who is entering business; and Valerie Zito, English and French teacher at Petaluma High, who is returning to college for an advanced degree.

Mystery Call By Missing Novato Man

A Novato air force sergeant, missing since Jan. 11, has made a strange phone call to a friend of his wife, saying: "I am in trouble. Something is wrong with my head." Novato police reported today.

The mysterious call on Sunday reportedly was from S/Sgt. Kenneth L. McCoy, who has been the subject of an intensive search by airmen and Novato police since Jan. 15.

Pauline Schmits of 1113 Second Street, Apt. 1, Novato, a friend of McCoy's wife, Bobbie, told police she asked McCoy where he was and he replied that he did not know, but said there was snow all around him.

She asked where he was calling from and he answered that he had no phone number.

She also said that the call was not made collect to her nor was there any sound of coins being dropped into a pay telephone.

McCoy a member of the 938th Consolidated aircraft maintenance squadron, a part of the 349th military airlift wing at Hamilton Air Force Base, has been declared absent without leave and his commander has not heard from him, according to an air force spokesman.

McCoy lived at 667 Olive Avenue, Novato.

Suspect Held On Two Car Thefts

Stanley Shrout, 31, of Clovis, Fresno County, was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of car theft and possessing stolen property yesterday after investigation linked him to the theft of two Volkswagens, the California Highway Patrol said today.

Patrolman L. R. Disser said investigation tied Shrout to the theft Jan. 22 of a Volkswagen from Clark Patterson, a student at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, and the theft Friday of a car at College of Marin from Elizabeth Esmerian of Hamilton Air Force Base.

Disser said he found parts from the stolen cars at a San Rafael body shop and the owner reported buying the parts from Shrout. The body shop was not involved in the crime, Disser said.

Shrout, who refused to say where has been living in Marin, was held in lieu of $2,500 bail and was to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Plan To Ballot For Mayor Turned Down

The Novato City Council last night turned thumbs down on a proposal that the city's mayor be elected by the people rather than chosen, as at present, by councilmen from among themselves.

Ronald Rauhecker of 91 Trist Drive had asked the council why a city the size of Novato did not elect its own mayor.

City Atty. Clark M. Palmer Jr. reported that it could elect its own mayor by placing such a proposition on a general municipal election ballot or calling a special election. If the proposal was approved by the voters, then one of the council positions would be designated as mayor to be elected for four years.

Councilman M. E. Silva said that he could not see spending any money for an election, lacking more interest than had been shown.

Counmilman Joseph Gargiulo said he liked the present system of the council selecting the mayor from its own ranks.

The council told Rauhecker to form a citizens committee if he thought his idea had merit and bring it back to the council with more support.

"After all, we have until April 1970 to make that decision," Silva said.

Mayor Harley McAskill, who who has not been feeling well for several days, was too sick to complete the council meeting last night and left it at 10:15 p.m. Silva chaired the remainder of the meeting.

Mrs. McAskill reported today that the mayor was better and back on the job this morning.

Library Director Is Friendly Type

He placed this sign in front of the building:

"New Faculty — If we have not met, come see me if you can find my office, Room 310. We may have to have a bureaucracy, but it need not be a faceless one."

Novato Takes Steps To Add More Acres

Novato, the largest city in Marin County in area, last night took on a healthy chunk of additional territory when the council introduced ordinances annexing 952 acres more land.

The largest, 890 acres, lies north of Novato Creek on both sides of Highway 37 west of Black Point, and is called Highway 37 Annexation No. 2.

The second annexation of 62 acres lies in the area on Bel Marin Keys Boulevard at the Los Robles Mobile Home Park and includes the new Marin County Humane Society headquarters.

Both annexations have been approved by the local agency formation commission.

Injured Driver Said To Be Recovering

Keith J. Thomson of 101 Frustuck Avenue, Fairfax, seriously injured in a three-car collision Sunday night, was reported improved and in fair condition at Marin General Hospital today.

Thomson suffered multiple fractures when he was thrown from his car after it jumped a raised center divider on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near Eliseo Drive in Greenbrae and hit two oncoming cars.

Novato Council Overrules Planners On Apartments

The Novato City Council last night overruled the city planning commission and denied a rezoning from single family to planned residential for apartments on 10 acres north of Lamont Avenue and east on Highway 101.

The Novato planning commission previously had approved the rezoning request by Albert Young by a split 4 to 3 vote.

A petition with 144 signatures protesting rezoning was given to the council. It was signed by residents along Clausing Avenue, Clausing Court, Lamont Avenue, Reichert Avenue and Hayden Drive.

Councilman J. Wayne Womack said that there was plenty of land in Novato now zoned for multiple family. He said that he thought it was the wrong zoning for the area along the highway. That should be commercial, he said.

This left the way open for Young to file another request for rezoning for commerical.

The Novato City Council Also:

KENNELS — Referred to staff a violation of zoning regulations on a new building at Shady Lane Kennels which is three feet from the property line where six feet is required. Neighbors had objected to the building constructed by Melton Ridgeway at the kennels at 2029 Shady Lane. The council set 8 p.m. Feb. 25 for a public hearing to determine if the kennels is a public nuisance in a residential zone.

TRAFFIC — Voted to have police enforce traffic ordinances on Kendon Lane, Katlas Court, Sun Lane, Ruhlman Lane and Country Lane at the request of the majority of the residents on these private undedicated streets.

BILLBOARDS — Authorized the abatement of three billboards within the city limits along Highway 101. The council had passed an ordinance in 1965 giving owners of the billboards two years to amortize them and then remove them. The owners appealed last November and the council held hearings Jan. 14 and again last night. When no one appeared last night, the council ordered the city staff to proceed to abate the signs. They are at San Marin Drive and Novato Creek on the highway.

LOT SPLIT — Approved a lot split and deferred improvements agreement with Gulf Oil Co. for the land on Olive Avenue between Highway 101 and the Northwestern Pacific Railroad Tracks. Gulf will install the street improvements for a 7-11 market next to the railroad, but will not be required to install the improvements on the remainder of the property until it is sold or the street itself improved.

MOBILE HOMES — Intoduced an ordinance setting up standards for mobile homes in the city. This ordinance has been several months in preparation by the city staff and planning commission.

MASTER PLAN — Approved changing the master plan for the Ted R. Schuman Chevrolet Co. land west of Highway 101 at Lamont Avenue eliminating a dead end on Lamont Avenue.

BLRNING BAN — Authorized City Mgr. Charles A. Brown to write another letter of protest against the proposed single family burning ban which will come before the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District board on Feb. 5.

LIMOUSINE — Postponed until Feb. 11 consideration of an application of airport limousine service for a link between Novato and San Francisco International airport. This action would only be advisory to the state public utilities commission which must act on the application.

ANIMAL CONTROL — Postponed indefinitely action on a uniform animal control ordinance proposed by Marin County. The proposed ordinance, although patterned after the Novato ordinance, would not be as strict, according to Police Chief Robert Di Grazia. It would give the county all of the fines while causing the city attorneys to prosecute the cases, Di Grazia said.

DIRECTOR—Appointed acting public works director Clifford Temps public works director. Temps was named acting director six months ago, and Brown said that his work warranted the permanent appointment.

STAFF TIME — Referred to the Novato Parks and Recreation Advisory Commission a request from Mrs. E. D. Cochrum, chairman of the community improvement committee of the Novato Federated Women's Club for use of the city staff in designing a small park for the Marion School site.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned at 12:30 a.m., leaving consideration of proposed bills before the Legislature until its Feb. 11 meeting.

Strawberry Cable TV Pledged Soon

Strawberry Point residents will have cable television service by the end of April, the owner of Cable TV of Marin assured the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday.

Robert Lewis, who has a franchise in the Strawberry Point area, estimated he would have cable TV service there 60 days after Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. has its poles ready for stringing of television lines. "This means about 90 days from today," said Lewis.

Lewis gave his time schedule estimate at the insistence of Supervisor Michael Wornum, who demanded precise dates.

"If cable television is not working there in 90 days, then I would seriously consider cancellation of the franchise," said Wornum.

Chairman John F. McInnis asked the county administrator to come back with a report on the status of cable television in three months.

Stephen H. Kaufmann, attorney for the Strawberry Recreation District, had charged that Cable TV of Marin had failed to serve Strawberry and was preventing other firms from coming into the area. Kaufmann asked the supervisors to cancel Lewis' franchise.

Leland H. Jordan, attorney for Lewis, replied that Cable TV is working with dispatch, and the only thing that is holding up service is the telephone company's inability to rearrange its lines on telephone poles to allow television lines.

Board Splits, Favors Tomales Pier, House

Marin County Supervisors voted 3 to 1 yesterday to support a plan to build a 224-foot pier with a house on the end of it in Tomales Bay.

Robert K. Joerger of Millbrae bought waterfront property north of Inverness opposite Vision Road and applied to the Army Corps of Engineers for a permit.

Werner Von Gundell, chief of current planning, urged the supervisors to oppose the structure and suggested that the pier could be shortened and the house built closer to shore.

Supervisor Louis H. Baar supported the pier structure, arguing that several piers with houses and boathouses exist near the Joerger property.

"The man bought the property in good faith," said Baar. "Until such time as a policy is established on the length of piers, we should recommend to the Army Corps that we approve this project."

Supervisor William A. Gnoss seconded the motion, which carried 3 to 1, with Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. dissenting.

Arrigoni said he is not against this particular pier, but he will vote no "because I don't want Tomales Bay to go the way of Richardson Bay by allowing 200 and 300-foot piers."

Supervisor Michael Wornum was gone when the vote was taken.

Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

PARKING ORDINANCE — Unanimously approved new parking and loading regulations that increase the parking requirements for all types of buildings, ranging from residences to commercial and industrial.

FLOOD CONTROL — Appointed James McCown to replace Harry E. Clausing, who resigned from the Novato Flood Control Advisory Board.

REGIONAL GOVERNMENT — Asked Assemblyman John T. Knox, chairman of the Joint Committee on Bay Area Regional Organization, to take no action on the committee's regional agency proposal until Marin and its cities have reviewed the proposal. The committee proposed a regional agency to take over bay conservation, sewage disposal, coordination of transit, and regional parks and open space.

SLOW — Lowered the speed limit on Lucas Valley Road between Highway 101 and Mount McKinley Road to 45 miles per hour (existing limit is 65), and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard on both sides of Inverness, from State Highway 1 to Pierce Point Road, to 35 miles per hour.

PINHEIRO — Rezoned the 400-acre Frank Pinheiro Ranch north of Atherton Avenue from limited agricultural to planned community zoning, as requested by the owner and approved by the planning commission.

GREENBRAE SIDEWALK — Heard from Supervisor Arrigoni that he will meet with Greenbrae Property Owners Association before he makes recommendations on the county's participation in improving pedestrian walkways along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard from Manor Road to Eliseo Drive.

Back Troubles Slow Oarsman

LONDON (AP) — British oarsman John Fairfax radioed today that a strained back muscle has forced him to temporarily stop rowing the 22-foot boat in which he is trying to cross the Atlantic to Florida.

In a message to the London Daily Sketch, Fairfax said he had covered 160 miles since leaving the Canary Islands 12 days ago. But he said his boat, Britannia, is drifting on a sea anchor while he waits for his muscle strain to mend.

"I am very cold and it's very windy," the 31-year-old oarsman said. But he insisted he would soon press on with his 3,500-mile voyage.

Sea Otter Pelt Sold For $1,100

SEATTLE (AP) — A New York company paid $1,100 for a sea otter pelt yesterday in Alaska's second auction of the fur of the rare animal in 58 years.

Reiss and Fabrizio paid the top price as more than 500 of the prized pelts went on the block. The skins brought an average of $256 each from bidders representing top fashion houses in the United States, Canada and Europe.

The first auction since 1911 was held last year. During the intervening years, wildlife agencies carefully guarded the animals so they could multiply after disastrous over-exploitation by Russian and American fur companies.

Alaska's sea otters now number more than 30,000 and state officials say they are confident controlled harvest of the animals will not decimate them.

Safety Board Gets Three New Faces

Three new members were named to the Marin County Safety Commission yesterday by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Bette Riebeling of the medical department will succeed Dr. Michael Scholl, Michael King of public works will replace Mario Balestrieri, and James Vande Weg of parks and recreation will succeed Agricultural Commissioner R. Allan Ballard.

Holdover members of the eight-member commission are Supervisor William A Gnoss, personnel analyst Charles H. Wimp, Fire Chief Louis Bloom, Sheriff's Capt. Carl Sears, and Hubert Tadlock of the county schools office.

The commission meets monthly to review all work-incurred accidents and make suggestions for employee safety.

Neighbors Gain Veto Of Apartment Plans

Santa Venetia Gardens, a 55-unit apartment project next to Cala Foods market on North San Pedro Road, was turned down late yesterday by a 3 to 0 vote of the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

A crowd of about 100 residents of Gallinas Village and Santa Venetia applauded the decision.

The vote came on a motion by Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and a second by William A. Gnoss, with Chairman John F. McInnis making it unanimous. Both Michael Wornum and Louis H. Baar had been at the meeting earlier in the day but were gone when the vote came just before 6 p.m.

McInnis, who is suprvisor in the Santa Venetia area, agreed with residents that 173 bedrooms on 1.9 acres of land is too dense a development. The required parking spaces would add more blacktopping to an area that is already a "vast expanse of paved parking area," said McInnis. He said the only open area is a tiny tot lot surrounded by echoing walls.

Almost every organization in Santa Venetia and Gallinas Village sent letters or representatives to protest the apartment project, proposed by Western Hosts, Inc., a San Francisco architectural firm represented by San Rafael attorney Herbert G. Hawkins. The developer is the Mutual Ownership Development Foundation, headed by George Braden of San Mateo. Paul Golz of Daly City spoke for the developers yesterday.

Key spokesman for the residents was William B. Loeber, representing the Gallinas Valley Improvement Association.

Loeber charged that 173 bedrooms will bring "a burden that will be untenable." Even now, said Loeber, the people have taxed themselves to the utmost to provide recreation, parks and schools.

Families who are able to pay $187 per month rent for four bedroom apartments should be able to buy one of the many homes available in the community, Loeber argued.

School officials and citizens pointed out that an influx of more than 200 children will require more classrooms and higher taxes.

Yugoslav Tries Death By Flame

BELGRADE (AP) — Marko Matic, a laborer in Vukovar, Croatia, tried to commit suicide by burning because of family problems, the newspaper Vecernje Novosti reported today.

Monday night the report said, he got drunk and went to visit his former wife but she fled to the neighbors'. Matic doused himself with kerosene and struck a match.

He sustained light burns only.

Surprise Oil Strike Hits Italy's Drivers

ROME (AP) — A surprise strike by oil company employees closed service stations in Italy's major cities today and stranded thousands of motorists.

The strike is the latest in a series of walkouts called by several unions demanding higher wages and greater benefits.

Generator Failure Leaves Sections Of Florida Dark

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A million-kilowatt generator failure yesterday sent a blackout hopscotching Florida leaving some Floridians snarled at lightless intersections and others dining by candlelight.

The intricate system of grids by which power is fed from generating stations to consumers spread the blackout as far away as Daytona Beach, St. Petersburg and Fort Myers, while it left many closer areas unaffected.

A power company spokesman said there was no way of telling how many homes and businesses lost their power. However, reports from several larger cities had thousands of consumers out of power.

St. Petersburg reported up to 15,000 homes were affected. Tampa had 11,000 homes blacked out. Both cities receive their electricity from companies other than FP&L, but power flickered out because of a drain on interconnecting lines.

Orlando had 35 per cent of its population in darkness for about half an hour. The blackout hit all but a small portion of tourist-jammed Daytona Beach.

Fort Lauderdale, hardest hit by the blackout, had no estimate of darkened homes. Service there was restored by 7:45 p.m. In most areas it took from 20 minutes to an hour to restore service.

But FP&L spokesmen said the situation could have been much worse. They said safeguards built into the power distribution system prevented a Southeast recurrence of the great blackout in the Northeast in 1967.

19 New Courses Will Be Offered

The San Rafael Board of Education last night approved offering 19 new courses to high school students for the 1969-70 school year, but delaying changing a graduation requirement.

Under a new state law the board has broader power in setting curriculum, but board president Lawrence I. Kramer Jr. commented that the proposed courses wouldn't bring vast changes in the overall curriculum.

One resident said public reaction should be sought on a proposal that a new course, "Introduction to Social Studies" be offered as an alternative to "World Geography," a ninth grade course required for graduation.

Kramer said "It would be wise to make parents aware."

Board members agreed not to make any policy change on graduation requirements, but to review them.

Supt. John F. Plank explained that if enough students expressed interest in a proposed course, it would be fully developed and then presented for board adoption.

James B. Nelson, assistant superintendent, instructional services, noted that the aim is to have revelant courses.

Mrs. Miriam Chown, English teacher at Terra Linda High School, outlined some of the proposed new English courses including black literature, Shakespeare, science fiction and utopian novels, and film appreciation and criticism and media, a study of magazines, newspapers and television.

Mrs. Nora Cornett, home economics teacher at San Rafael High School, told of the need for a course for juniors and seniors in "sociology of the family."

Youths are marrying at an early age and having children and the main intent of the proposed course is to give them preparation for parenthood, Mrs. Cornett said.

Paul Eisenberg, driver education instructor, at San Rafael High, proposed that driver training and driver education courses be combined.

William O'Bayley of the Terra Linda High health department; Philard McAtee, business economics teacher, Terra Linda High, and Morse Byer, social studies teacher, San Rafael High, also reported to the board on proposed courses.

The courses were recommended by the curriculum council.

Hong Kong Revives $50 Bill Printing

HONG KONG (UPI)—Bright blue $50 bills are being reintroduced to Hong Kong's sturdy currency. The Colony's dollar note issues have included one, fives, tens, hundreds and on up but, since World War II, no fifties.

More Advice On Plank's Study Asked

San Rafael Board of Education isn't going to evaluate the work of Supt. John F. Plank, with an eye toward granting him a raise, in open session if it can avoid it.

Board members agreed last night to seek further advice from Assit. County Counsel Richard V. Godino on whether they could legally have a closed session on the matter.

The Brown Act permits closed meeting only to hire, fire or hear charges against an employee.

Board member Carl J. Brown said that Plank has a four-year contract, and the board would like to evaluate it after two years.

Lawrence I. Kramer Jr., board president said he felt that Plank has done an outstanding job and it is time to reconsider his $23,750-a-year salary.

There was an agenda item calling for review of the work of the superintendent, but the board wasn't inclined to undertake it.

Brown said the board would discuss not only Plank's strong points, but also his shortcomings, and he was against doing it in the open.

Kramer said, "I can't believe that even the Brown Act wants us to dissect whatever bad points there may be in front of the whole world."

The board could have "a much more penetrating discussion" in closed session, Kramer said.

The board also introduced a policy on evaluation of administrators. It calls for each administrator to be evaluated by his superiors, but permits him to include an evaluation by teachers in his record if he desires.

Walter Belden, representing the Marin County Chapter, American Federation of Teachers, objected unsuccessfully to this, holding that evaluation of an administrator by his faculty members should be mandatory.

Apartments Plan For Greenbrae Wins Approval

The Larkspur Planning Commission last night granted a varience to permit the construction of a 54-unit apartment project by the Hummingbird Hill apartments at 441 Via Hidalgo, Greenbrae.

Required was a variance from the minimum land size per unit and for off-street parking.

The Larkspur Planning Commission also:

APARTMENTS — Approved the architecture of a proposed 10-unit apartment project by Neil Brixon at 475 South Eliseo Drive.

ARCHITECTURE — Approved the architectural plan for Standard Oil Co. to add to an existing service station at 532 Magnolia Avenue.

Coordination Sought In Recreation Plans

Coordination of city recreation programs with school physical education programs was recommended to the San Rafael Board of Education last night.

George Starn, physical education teacher at Terra Linda High School, representing the newly-created Council for Physical Education, said there has been a lack of coordination between school personnel and the San Rafael Recreation Department.

"Small numbers of the population are being reached due mainly to the lack of coordination with school programs," he said.

The recreation program, sponsored by the recreation department and San Rafael city schools, is conducted after school hours.

Starn recommended that there be someone at each school repsonsible for a total recreation program, including after school, in the evening and at lunchtime, throughout the school year.

He reported that the council is composed of representatives of each school in the elementary and high school districts, plus one representative each from the Dixie School District, the Terra Linda Recreation Department, the Marinwood Recreation Department and the San Rafael Recreation Department.

Board members took no action and suggested that the proposal be presented to the San Rafael Park and Recreation Commission for its reaction.

The board also received a letter from the Terra Linda High School Student Council that the present method of patriotic observance, the pledge of allegiance, has lost meaning through daily recitation. Students proposed that there be some other method of patriotic observance.

Supt. John F. Plank explained that the law requires patriotic observance, but under district policy only the pledge of allegiance is sanctioned. Board members postponed comment on the student proposal.

The San Rafael Board Of Education Also:

OPEN CAMPUS — Announced that there would be disucssionn at its Feb. 25 meeting of the proposal that there be an open campus at San Rafael High, allowing students to leave the campus during free periods and lunch period.

EXCHANGE TEACHING — Introduced a revision to its policy on teacher exchange, in order to support exchange of teachers with other districts in the United States for one school year.

UNION REQUEST — Received a request from the Marin County Labor Council and Building and Construction Trades Council of Marin to adopt a policy against employing teachers, bus drivers, custodians or students to work in 38 specified trades.

GIFTS — Accepted as gifts outdoor gymnasium equipment at San Pedro School, valued at $821, from the San Pedro Parent-Teacher Association, and a one year subscription to Human Events magazine, a politically ultra conservative publication, for San Rafael High from Mr. and Mrs. Julian M. Edwards.

HIRING — Authorized the hiring of Mrs. Julie Glimpse, half-time music teacher, elementary district, at $3,600 a year; Mrs. Geraldine, music teacher, elementary district, $6.50 an hour; Harley Bell, substitute custodian, $2.71 an hour.

ADULT EDUCATION — Hired as adult education teachers at $6.50 an hour, Jan Booker, body conditioning for women; Melvin Boyce, transactional analysis; Louis Campredon, upholstery; Jeanne Foster, piano; Ruth Moscrop, tailoring; Jean Noble, organ; Robert Pollitt, body conditioning for men; Joseph Rasonsky, income tax preparation; Gaille Simmons, shorthand, and Suzanne Tinan, English.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Norman Levy, custodian, San Rafael High.

LEAVES — Granted Nancy Ridout, girls' physical education teacher, San Rafael High, maternity leave effective March 7; Barbara Wilson, kindergarten teacher, Bahia Vista School, maternity leave effective April 11, and Cleoni Tocalino, kindergarten teacher, Coleman School, leave from June 4 to June 12, to make a college tour.

DRAINAGE PAYMENT — Gave notice of completion of underground drainage facilities at the Glenwood Middle School site, and approved payment of $30,384 to Underground Construction Co. of San Leandro, which was 90 per cent of the project cost, and approved a change order for work at the Glenwood site pump station by Bay Area Construction Co. of Santa Rosa, additional electrical work at a cost of $350.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned until Feb. 11 at 6 p.m. at the Administration Building, Third and E streets, San Rafael.

HOST SCHOOL — Last night's meeting was at West End School in conjunction with a West End Parent-Teacher Association meeting, and Cub Scout pack members from the school led the pledge of allegiance to open the meeting.

Mill Valleyan Under Check At Napa Hospital

A Mill Valley man was sent to Napa State Hospital on a 72-hour psychiatric commitment yesterday after he leaped screaming in front of a police car at 8:45 a.m., Sausalito police said today.

Police said George M. Kutts, 22, who gave an address of 12 Sunset View, jumped out of a moving car on Richardson Street into the path of a prowl car driven by patrolman Brian Newlon, shouting at Newlon to stop.

Kutts then tried to drag Newlon from the car, police said, and the officer got out and arrested Kutts for being under the apparent influence of drugs. Newlon reported finding a cardboard box in the car belonging to Kutts which held a "large quantity" of suspected marijuana.

Kutts continued to rant about being on a bad trip when taken to the Sausalito police station. Police said when Kutts is released from Napa, charges will be sought against him of possessing marijuana and being under the influence of a drug.

The Hong Kong Flu Appears On Wane

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

ATLANTA, Ga. — You may not agree if you still have those aches all over your body, a painful cough and a general listlessness, but the Hong Kong flu outbreak is on the wane.

That's the official opinion of the National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, which keeps records of deaths from influenza and pneumonia in 122 cities to help spot the trend of such epidemics.

This epidemic involves a strain of Asian flu called Hong Kong flu because it was first isolated in Hong Kong. It differs from the Asian flu which made its appearance in the winter of 1967-68, it occurred later in the winter and is more extensive than the previous year's outbreak.

The Hong Kong flu epidemic was complicated this time by a shortage of vaccine for this particular strain and, in New York, by a strike of fuel oil deliveries.

In an influenza epidemic throughout the world in 1918-19, an estimated 20 million persons died, many from such complications as pneumonia, bronchitis and mastoid and sinus infections.

The current epidemic was first isolated in the United States last October, in Atlanta, when a military man returned from Vietnam. The first major outbreak was reported in Colorado and by Dec. 5, outbreaks had been reported in 15 states and the District of Columbia. The peak was reached nationally during the first week of January, when widespread outbreaks were reported in 36 states.

In a six-week period when the outbreak was at its highest level, 6,805 persons died in the 122 cities on the NCDC checklist. The report from the 122 cities is a barometer to determine the nation's mortality rate, but the number of actual deaths is somewhat greater.

The 6,805-toll is 3,754 more than normally would be expected in these cities, the NCDC reported.

But, while the epidemic has reached its peak in most of the nation, the U.S. World Health Organization reports the disease spreading in the Soviet Union and in several European countries, including Iceland, The Netherlands, West Germany, Romania and the United Kingdom. The outbreaks in Europe have been described as mild.

WHO said the incidence of flu has doubled in Moscow and a four-to-five-fold increase was reported in parts of Central Asia.

In its weekly report for the period ending Jan. 11, the National Communicable Disease Center reported widespread influenza activity in 26 states in the nation, regional activity in 11 states, isolated outbreaks in eight states and isolated cases or no activity in five states.

It said 26 states had reached their peak influenza activity between Dec. 1, 1968, and Jan. 4, 1969.

Nuclear Power Station Tested For Astronauts

SANTA SUSANA (AP) — The forerunner of a nuclear power plant designed to furnish electricity for future astronauts on the moon and manned orbiting space stations is operating at full power for the first time.

The compact auxiliary reactor is being tested underground at the Atomic Energy Commission laboratory at Santa Susana, north of Los Angeles. It is producing enough to supply all housekeeping needs of six homes or 25 apartments, an AEC spokesman said.

Developed by North American Rockwell, the reactor is designed to operate continuously from one to five years without refueling or maintenance. The test run is expected to last about a year.

The AEC said the lunar version would be a six-foot sphere weighing 30,000 pounds because of heavy shielding against radiation, while the power plant for an orbiting space station would be a truncated cone five feet tall.

Second Jet Hijacked To Havana

By JOHN W. ROSS

MIAMI (UPI)—Five youthful Negroes commandeered two airliners and forced them to fly to Cuba yesterday in the ninth and 10th hijackings of the year and the third doubleheader piracy this month.

Two men, described as "college graduate types," hijacked a National Airlines jet flying from Los Angeles to Miami with 32 persons, and about 12 hours later three men, "wearing typical hippie dress," took command of a Philadelphia-to-Miami Eastern Air Lines plane with 113 persons aboard.

The National crew and passengers returned separately later, and the Eastern crew flew the big DC-8 to Miami this morning. The Eastern passengers were to be returned later today.

Both of the hijackings began when stewardesses were surprised in the galley by gunmen. A National stewardess was preparing lunch when approached, and an Eastern stewardess was mixing drinks.

"One of the men came up and asked me for a drink," said Eastern stewardess Roberta Truppman of Miami. "He grabbed me by the arm and started waving a gun around. He kicked open the cockpit door and held a gun to my neck and told the crew he wanted to go to Havana."

Stewardess Victoria Sikorski was busy in the forward food serving section of National's Flight 64 preparing a snack for her 25 passengers when she suddenly became very uncomfortable—she had a .38-caliber revolver stuck in her ribs.

Stanford's Students To Pay For Professor

A university spokesman said yesterday the student government has allocated $5,000 to pay Mrs. Joan Robinson, a Cambridge University economist, for the spring quarter.

HENRY A. MARSHALL
Dean at Tam

Henry A. Marshall, dean of boys at Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley, has been named Bay Area Big Brother of the Year for his contributions to youth.

Marshall, who joined the Tamalpais staff in 1961 as a biology and physical education teacher, lives in San Francisco with his wife and four sons.

He is a director of several youth organizations and other civic groups, including PACT (Plan of Action in Challenging Times) a nonprofit development group, San Francisco State College's Upward Bound program, the Family Service Agency and the Booker T. Washington Community Center. He also is a consultant for the Urban Crisis Workshop at the University of California, and has been vice president of the San Francisco Economic Opportunity Council and president of the Western Addition EOC. Off duty, he is vice president of the Roosevelt Junior High School Parent-Teacher Association.

Marshall earned his teaching credential, bachelor's degree and master's degree at San Francisco State College and worked at the youth guidance center during his college days. At Tamalpais, he became attendance supervisor and administrative intern before being named dean of boys.

Marshall was presented the Big Brother award at a banquet at the Fairmont Hotel. The Big Brothers group provides friends for fatherless boys who have no male adult guidance.

Swiss Dies By Fire

BUYENS, Switzerland (AP) — A Swiss worker, Edmond Hayoz, 45, burned himself to death in front of a restaurant early yesterday. Police said he was drunk, was suffering from a serious illness of the spine, and had frequently talked about killing himself.

Cong Flag Flies Atop Post Office

STANFORD (UPI) — A tattered Viet Cong flag rippled in the breeze for more than an hour yesterday on the Post Office flag pole at Stanford University.

The red and blue standard, with a yellow star in the center, was hoisted by a group of student radicals—but not before an angry woman ripped it in half.

About 35 members of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) raised the standard and marched to the office of President Kenneth S. Pitzer to protest "the university's participation in the violence perpetrated against the people of the world."

The SDS incidents were a reaction to an announcement by the Stanford Research Institute that it had extended an existing program involving government operations and village security in Thailand.

The Viet Cong flag was hoisted on a rope which had been knotted in such a way that it could only be removed from the top of the pole.

Workshop Session

The Reed School District board will hold a special workshop session to discuss reducing the current kindergarten program and to continue its review of the 1969-70 budget at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Bel Aire School.

Filibuster Debate Officially Dead Now

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Henry Clay, an ambitious Whig, led the first fight against the Senate filibuster in 1841. He lost, and his successors have been fighting and losing the same battle ever since.

Their dream persists today.

"If we would ever get a three-fifth rule, that would be the end—that would be the end of all this nonsense we go through year after year," Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., told the Senate yesterday.

A few minutes later, Pastore's efforts were as dead as Clay's. The Senate mustered 50 votes for a motion to stop debate, but 42 senators voted no. Two-thirds, or 62, were required for victory.

The proposed change would enable three-fifths—60 senators at the most—of those voting to stop debate, a handful fewer than the two-thirds—67 at the most—required now.

Until 1917, there was no way to stop a Senate filibuster. The present rule was adopted then and its authors predicted it would "terminate successful filibustering."

Since then, filibusters have killed or delayed measures affecting civil rights, migratory birds, the Boulder Dam, the poll tax and the Space Satellite Corp.

Indonesians Fleeing Threat Of Volcano

JAKARTA (AP) — Volcano Mount Ija, on Flores Island, erupted Monday and sent villagers fleeing, Indonesia's Social Affairs Ministry said today.

The newspaper Kompas said persons arriving from nearby islands reported thick, dark clouds were hanging over Flores, but there has been no word of casualties. Flores is one of the Lesser Sunda islands, south of Celebes.

A Woman Who Is Never Bored

By DOROTHY NEWELL

"There hasn't been a day in my life when I have been bored."

The lady speaking was Mrs. Michael Stublarec, and she was discussing her military life as the wife of Colonel Stublarec, base commander at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Her only regret is that Colonel Stublarec will be retiring in August, and they will have such a short stay at the marvelous base at Hamilton.

As an Air Force nurse stationed at Mather Air Force Base, Sacramento, she met and married the colonel 19 years ago.

Traveling and the military life was not new to Mrs. Stublarec however, when she married. Betty Stublarec was born in Sioux City, Iowa, and received her nurse's training in Omaha, Neb. She then enlisted in the Army in 1944 and was sent directly overseas. She was stationed in England, France and Germany before returning to the states following World War II. During that time the nurses lived in a variety of places, including an old English manor, a Catholic hospital and an old French cavalry building, where they had no lights or water.

Her commitment to the Army completed, she left the service and returned to Sioux City, where she enrolled at Morningside College to study music. She had always loved to sing and also played the piano. She decided however, after two semesters that it was a gamble going into the entertainment field, and she didn't want to teach music. She already had a profession, which she felt was a more practical occupation.

A soloist all through high school, she has sung light opera and musical comedy. A contralto, she participated in a number of Officers Wives' Club shows and while stationed in Montgomery, Ala., played the role of Lady Thiang in "The King and I."

She went back to nursing and was working in Long Beach when a friend married to an Air Force officer asked her to visit her. It was at this time that she found she liked the military life and enlisted in the Air Force.

During the 19 years of married life, the Stublarecs have been stationed at Mather, Kansas, Westover, Mass., Maxwell Air Force Base in Alabama and Germany, where the colonel was base commander before coming to Hamilton. They have five children.

Colonel Stublarec had a short tour to Florida when he was stationed at Mather, and it was there that their first son, Steven, now 18, was born. He is a freshman at Stanford University and is interested in becoming a lawyer.

Barbara, 15, a sophomore at Novato High School, was born at Mather. She is a member of the competitive swim team there and is a cheerleader for the basketball team.

Susan, 14, a ninth grader at Hill Junior High School, was born in Kansas. Her interest at present is sewing.

Michael Jr., 12, a seventh grader at Hill, and Jim, 11, a fifth grader at Hamilton school, were both born in Westover, Mass. Mike played on the championship seventh grade basketball team, and they both played in the Little League and play chess. Jim has been known to beat Steve's college friends at the game, Mrs. Stublarec said.

They had eight years of household help when stationed five years in Alabama and three years in Germany but because of the difficulty of getting domestic help here, Mrs. Stublarec has given the girls added responsibility in helping in the home and rewards them with a liberal allowance.

Another member of the household is "Scratch," the cat. A world traveler, too, the family pet accompanied them to Germany and returned here with them.

Mrs. Stublarec says she rather enjoys cooking but is not an old-fashioned cook that begins preparing dinner at 3:30. However, she says with cooking for six it does take some planning. She also is taking a course in sewing with knits in San Rafael.

Betty says she may return to the nursing profession later as there may be three children in college at one time if Steve goes on to work for a degree in law.

Involved in quite a number of social activities at the base as the commander's wife, Mrs. Stublarec is honorary president of the Non-Commissioned Officers' Wives Club and honorary council member of the Officers' Wives Club.

Author Urges A Reappraisal Of Male And Female Roles

By BARBARA HOSMER

Both men and women must develop beyond their traditional masculine and feminine roles to become more human, author Sidney C. Callahan told her student and adult audience at Dominican College yesterday.

"People should be free to act in a way appropriate to each occasion, not just in 'masculine' or 'feminine' role responses," she said.

Speaking on ''Woman's Changing Role in the Modern World,'' Mrs. Callahan said that people have many gifts, which should be developed fully, not merely within prescribed masculine or feminine boundaries.

It is not enough, she said for women only to want to change their role or to expect their problems to be solved if men could change their attitudes toward women's traditional role.

Men and women may look toward a reappraisal of their roles together, she suggested, if they are to develop meaningful futures.

With longevity a fact, especially for women, both men and women are facing a new period when a "second life" is a reality, said Mrs. Callahan, who is the wife of Catholic magazine writer Daniel Callahan and the mother of six young children.

She foresees a time when men as well as women may have a second career during their lifetimes.

MRS. CALLAHAN outlined the main patterns that women may choose among today:

The traditional one in which the man works and the wife stays home to tend home and family;

The single life pattern in which the importance of work and friendship is emphasized;

The pattern in which the wife interrupts her education or work to rear her children and then returns to campus or career;

And the pattern that is newest in which she combines volunteer or professional work with marriage and family rearing, depending on child care centers to tend young children.

Mrs. Callahan said that the latter choice is becoming more and more acceptable as a form for family life.

She suggested that men also can work in the home as an acceptable part of their masculinity. "Nobody has lived who hasn't changed a diaper," she remarked with a smile, pointing out that many

Fun And Perfect Grooming Combine In Pierre Balmain's Showing

By LUCIE NOEL
AP Fashion Writer

PARIS (AP) — Pierre Balmain combined perfect grooming and fun in his new spring summer fashion collection this morning.

Sophisticated spring shades were masterfully blended with luscious colors, setting off a fun garment that incorporated a cape, dress and culottes.

For beachware it was gaily trimmed in red and white polka dots. For town, Balmain used discreet navy blue trimmed in white and worked in his new high button sleeve. The same idea in printed silk organza was shown for cocktail time.

Balmain selected king-size hothouse tropical flora for his spiral wrapover variant. It goes floor length and sweeps in line with fabulous angel wing sleeves floating along.

Focus throughout is on sleeves. His newest is a deep corolla cuff inlaid with jeweled embroidery or eyelet broderie for daytime.

Balmain makes a point of always designing feminine clothes and his tailoring is superb and immaculate .Classic tweed, linen or shantungs and plain surfaced wools step forth in neat short jacketed suits, sometimes treated to a patent belt in the front only, or placed all round.

He inserts interlaced circles or concentrated rings in the cut. Plain crepe shirts with ascot ties are in dark or light contrasts. They lend interest too on plain sleeveless wool or summer dresses.

Glace linen is shown on jeune fille dresses in deep cuffs topped by a full bloused sleeve. Astrakan is dyed blue for sports and swakara lamb steps forth for dresses.

Balmain also has the answer in the most luxurious furs. A sports coat in oyster nutria has a matching oyster crepe dress. Shaded boreal fox in black edged white has its own white crepe dress.

The evening dresses are carefully planned to reflect the mood of whatever country the designer has in mind—Iran, India, Portugal, Monaco or France. Styles range from young lady to those suited to royal courts.

Roger Vivier, high style shoe designer, presented a varied and remarkably elegant collection. Toes are rounded and often trimmed in polished metal buckles. Some come right down over the toe, in a variety of cutout effects.

A black patent shoe has a high "mulevamp" and ankle strap. For party wear beautiful satins and brocades are treated to jewelled buckle and fine sandal straps and cutouts.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Five Years And No Children Bring Unwanted Comments

DEAR HELEN:

My husband and I have been happily married five years and have no children. That is the problem — not to us, but to our friends and relatives.

It is our own choice that we are childless, but every time we are around certain individuals, we get, "What no baby yet?" "You aren't getting any younger." We're both 23.

We never hear those same people say to couples who have lots of children, "Why so many kids?" Yet they call us neurotic and selfish and imply we couldn't possibly be happy.

We like our childless life, but we get tired of repeating, "We're helping out the population explosion." Please tell us an answer that will stop people from asking, "What, no baby?" — CHILDLESS BY CHOICE

DEAR CHILDLESS:

How about, "What, no tact?" — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'll admit I was a bit shocked myself at your words until I analyzed them. And then I realized that most illicit sex includes at least one of these things you mention. Dishonesty? Almost all teen-age affairs are dishonest and they hurt someone. When you sneak around, you feel immoral. This leads to cruelty and meanness. You try to hurt each other because you feel guilty. Perhaps Swedish teens don't experience this, but Americans do.

Likewise promiscuousness: It is mean and hurtful. and, of course, so is adultery.

But I have known unwed couples whose love I couldn't call immoral, and I am sure you have too, Helen. They are true to each other, they hurt no one, they make each other happy, and who's to judge, so long as they are adult? Why should the lack of a marriage license make them outcasts? It doesn't any more, and I say if the sexual revolution has made us more honest about this kind of love — then good for it! — AN ALLY

DEAR ALLY:

But if a baby results from this love, we get back to "hurtful" again, don't we? As you say, only in a few instances is unwed sex without its "immoralities." (Though I'd rather call it unwise than immoral.) — H.

ROLES

husbands might be missing an important part of family life if they did not participate in some of the activities traditionally considered "feminine."

She said that in her own household in surburban New York her five boys and one girl share the work and that she encouraged the boys' participation in sports as well as her daughter's physical activity.

"I try never to say 'little girls don't do that' when she wants to do something," she said. Mrs. Callahan credits her husband with changing her own view of traditional masculine-feminine roles.

Mrs. Callahan punctured the form of anti-feminism that places women on pedestals, saying that it also implies "you're not supposed to vote or to become a priest or leader."

"THIS IS an unrealistic view, and it is a misunderstanding of women to say, as the Pope has, that birth control is degrading a sacred thing. We're allowed to do all sorts of things — even heart transplants — to let the human body be healthy and live, but when it comes to sexuality it suddenly becomes a super-mystical sacred thing. "This is a distorted view of human sexuality, which is really a part of a whole range of human aspects," the author said.

She said that "male backlash" exists in jokes and in business. Reasons were that the male did not wish to give up any superiority, that many women thought of as feminists wanted to be too much like men in their competitiveness and aggressiveness, giving an offensive image; and that women have cheated. "They've used deception of the weak in professional circles so that when the going gets rough they cry and go home."

Women must learn to grow up and take real responsibility rather than duck out, she said.

They must also accept their femininity, but not build it up to be a great big thing.

There are more choices of life styles open to women than ever before, she said. Humans as opposed to animals have a big brain and can make their own patterns, unbound by permanent instincts.

"Both men and women must develop beyond the traditional male and female roles to allow themselves to become completely human," she stated.

Mushrooms with almonds can be such a dressy vegetable. Arrange nice big caps in baking dish, sprinkle with Madeira and stuff with a mixture of buttered soft bread crumbs and finely chopped almonds. Bake at 425 degrees 8 to 10 minutes.

Mrs. John Hampton To Honor Noted Artist At Luncheon

By MOLLY MARIN

Mrs. John D. Hampton will be hostess tomorrow at her new home in Tiburon (she recently moved from Mill Valley) at a luncheon honoring Lily Fast, nationally known animal portraitist from Norwalk, Conn.

Mrs. Hampton was recently re-elected president of the Sir Francis Drake Kennel Club.

The guest of honor, who is presently the house guest of Mrs. John H. Jewett of San Francisco, plans to move soon to the Bay Area with her husband, consulting mathematician Carl Fast. She is here now to attend the Golden Gate Kennel Club Blue Ribbon Dog Show and obedience trials this weekend at the Cow Palace in San Francisco.

While she is here she is planning a project of interest to the many friends of Mill Valley's noted Swedish weaver, Mama Gravander. Mrs. Fast will do a painting of her with the camel that the Gravander Spinners recently purchased. It lives at the San Francisco Zoo, and the weavers spin its hair into thread they use in weaving any kind of clothes and articles.

The artist lived for a number of years, when she was a professional singer studying for a career in opera, with Mama Gravander at Svengard, the home, Swedish restaurant and weaving school she had for many years in San Francisco.

FRIENDS ARE saying goodbye to Mrs. Chester I. Dennis, who will be moving from Mill Valley to Carmel the middle of February. She has bought a new home in Carmel Hills and is looking forward to being near many friends from Sausalito, where she also lived, and Mill Valley, who are now living there. Among these are the John Nasons and Arnold J. Oehlers, formerly of Mill Valley.

"A NIGHT in Venice" is the theme for the Bel Marin Yacht Club dinner dance to be held Saturday evening at the club.

Douglas Joslin is chairman and will be assisted by Mmes. Joslin, Charles Stewart, Richard Roberts, Nevin Howell, Alvah Allen and Mr. and Mrs. William Weiss.

MRS. DOUGLAS Kerr will be hostess at an aperitif party from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. preceding the Sausalito Woman's Club buffet luncheon and theater party tomorrow. She has invited some 70 guests.

RECETLY MARRIED Pamela Kathleen Driver, the 1967 Maid of Cotton, and her husband, Captl Don Schrieber of Coupeville, Wash., are living in Louisiana after a driving trip from the Bay Area. The daughter of Mrs. H. D. Driver of Lafayette, formerly of Kentfield, Pamela is a graduate of the University of the Pacific and Redwood High School. Her husband is serving with the Air Force. The couple exchanged vows in a ceremony at Orinda Community Church.

MRS. JOHN F. Hadden of Ross was honored at a surprise birthday luncheon Tuesday at the Iron Horse Restaurant in San Francisco.

VISITING IN Marin are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Greene of New York. They are the guests of Walter Van Vechten of San Anselmo.

Yves St. Laurent Swaths Models From Head To Toe In Paris Showing

By JOAN DEPPA

PARIS (UPI)—If there's a long even slightly warm summer ahead, anyone dressed by Yves St. Laurent is in trouble.

The youthful designer, currently considered the most important couturier in Paris, showed a covered-up look Monday that swathed the wearer from head to toe in trousers, maxicoats, scarves and face-shading hats.

When he showed dresses, the hemlines dropped to the top of the knee.

Arms were usually clad in long sleeves. Even short sleeves covered the entire upper arm.

The look was bound to be as immediately unpopular with men as shorter skirts were popular.

Feraud took his inspiration from Brazil, and nowhere was it more evident that in his prints, often primitive patterns borrowed from Amazonian Indians, other times a vivid mixture of colors borrowed from the carnival of Rio.

Philippe Venet paraded some neat trouser suits that would please more male eyes than St. Laurent's. Many had printed jackets or coats and smartly contrasting trousers.

Dancers To Perform Saturday With Northgate Exhibition

The Huffs 'n Puffs Square Dance Club of Terra Linda will celebrate its first birthday by giving a demonstration of modern Western style square dancing on the island of the mall pond of the Northgate Shopping Center Saturday from 2 to 4 p.m.

The club was organized Feb. 1, 1968 and began with one square of dancers. There are now five squares dancing every Thursday night from 8 to 10 p.m. at the Vallecito School. A beginners class will start on Feb. 7 at 8 p.m. and will meet Friday nights.

The Huffs 'n Puffs is one of six square dance clubs in Marin.

"There are hundreds of square dancers in the area and there would be a lot more," according to club caller Keith Gylfe, "but unfortunately the term square dancing, to most people brings to mind hay, fiddles, barns and an overall-attired caller yelling through cupped hands to a group of guys in Levis swinging girls wearing dresses that hang down to the floor. The square dance picture has changed considerably in the last 15 years, and we hope to show this to the public.

SECOND PROGRAM in a series on family life education will be held by the Kentfield School District for parents and children aged nine to 14 tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the Kent School multi-purpose room. Dr. Joseph Gutstadt will speak on "Sexual Behavior — Male and Female."

The Parent-Teacher Association family life education chairmen are assisting with the series to open communication among parents and children on topics such as drugs, dress, sexual behavior and the family.

KATHLEEN PAINI

KATHLEEN PAINI, a senior, at Terra Linda High School will be installed as worthy advisor of San Rafael Assembly 195, Rainbow for Girls, Saturday, 8 p.m. at the San Rafael Masonic Temple. She is the daughter of Mrs. Beverly Irish of San Rafael.

Officers to be installed are Jennifer Knapp, worthy associate advisor; Peggy Carter, charity; Marsha Wagner, hope; Jane Van Dyke, faith; Judy Jestadt, recorder; Maryellen Bentley, treasurer; Beryl Simpson, chaplain; Becky Nordstrom, drill leader; Patty Garbarino, love; Virginia Hoy, religion; Ann Pittee, nature; Denise Pack, immortality; Betsy Magladry, fidelity; Elizabeth Peeples, patriotism; Ann Gillespie, service; Joan Vandenbos, confidential observer; Eileen Hotchner, outer observer; Jenny Bradley, choir director; and Cindy Hill, musician.

Hostess for the evening will be Mrs. John Paula, past worthy advisor of Estrellita Assembly 212.

A SERIES of classes for expectant parents will be offered by the Marin County Department of Public Health beginning in February. The eight weekly classes will be held in Novato to serve Northern Marin residents and attendance is open to anyone in the county. Fathers as well as mothers-to-be are welcome.

Classes will be discussion-centered so that the concerns of each parent can be explored in the group with the instructor, a public health nurse. Among the topics to be covered are: how the parents feel during the mother's pregnancy, what to expect during the mother's pregnancy, what to expect during labor and delivery and what family life is like with a new baby in the home.

As class size will be limited, pre-registration is requested. For further information call the Marin County Department of Public Health, Nursing Division.

"THE SOCIALITES," an organization for single adults, will hold a dance at Cloud 5 in Novato on Saturday.

A cocktail hour will be held at 8:30 p.m., and dancing will follow at 9:30 p.m.

TWO TIBURON women will have responsibilities when the National Federation of Music Clubs holds its convention at Albuquerque, N. M., April 16-23.

Mrs. Helen Crowe Snelling, vice president of the California Federation, is program chairman and Mrs. Homer J. Hixon is a member of the national hospitality committee.

Mrs. Snelling left for Albuquerque last week to confer with other committee members on convention arrangements.

Both Mrs. Snelling and Mrs. Hixon are former board members of the Washington State Federation, and both are former editors of Music Flashes, the organization's national publication.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Fire' Offers Just Smoke, No Sparks

Developed among neighborhood huzzas last spring at Brandeis University, Waltham, Mass., the piece wallows in deliberate incoherence and perverse imagery as it reviews human existence with existential despair.

The author, a 34-year-old native of Syracuse, N.Y., who uses the alias of John Roc, exhibits a flamboyant flair for schoolboy wit, superficial wisdom and maggotty symbolism with garrulous indulgence.

"Pain is the lowest form of humor," is a sample of the pervasive humor; "salvation is for fools," represents his philosophy; and nonstop word games spin about late and later, up and down, or nonexistent dogs.

On the visual level, Roc and director Charles Werner Moore have concocted several grisly shock interludes that come off as Grand Guignol for hipsters (maybe). Some customers walked out at such moments.

The parable, if that is what it is, involves eight performers who represent a glut of human confusions and torments, leaping with energetic devotion through the ramparts and crevices of Howard Bay's massive mausoleum setting.

Peter MacLean serves as a Jason intent on leading the others into the purging purity of fire. The precise rationale behind it all never emerged from the prevalent esthetic murk.

Participating chiefly with MacLean are Louis Edmonds, a man for all perversions; Rene Auberjonois, a kind of innocent optimist; Carolyn Coates, the mythic mother-mistress figure; and Jennifer Darling, an epitome of sensual lure—or something — unfortunately handicapped with vocal screech and miniscule acting ability. The others are Roy K. Stevens, John Wardwell and Audra Lindley, behaving like strays out of Beckett or Ionesco.

"Fire!" tries very hard to be ultranew and provocative; but it loaded with a surfeit of abysmal gibberish.

What other press critics said:

Clive Barnes, New York Times: " 'Fire!' which sizzled damply. . .is presumably a play about the human condition. . . (but) humanity seemed among the chief of this allegory's deficiencies. . . With language like this (in the play) to skid on, actors no longer can act, but merely pray. One or two in the cast had the grace to look embarrassed."

John Chapman, Daily News: ". . .Roc is 34 and the program says he is presently living in Greece. Safe distance. . .the eight members of the cast never did stop yelling."

Richard Watts Jr., New York Post: ". . .It is my gloomy impression that 'Fire!' instead of maintaining its provocative interest soon becomes a most depressing letdown."

Jazz And Rock Concert To Be Held Tomorrow

The University of Nevada concert jazz band will present a benefit program of blues, rock and solo improvisations at 11 a.m. tomorrow in Angelico Hall at Dominican College of San Rafael.

The program will benefit the Dominican music department scholarship fund, which provides private lessons for talented young musicians.

Each January the band travels for one week, playing music that has been composed or arranged for the group by prominent composers and band leaders, including Louis Bellson, Stan Kenton, Raoul Romero and Rick Davis.

Children To Play In Children's Play

"Lenka's Little House," a play acted by children for children, will be presented at 2 p.m. Saturday at St. Peter Chanel Seminary little theater, San Rafael.

The play will be produced by the Alpha School Creative Workshop. Elementary school children in the play will be Julie Pavlovsky of San Rafael, Alane Childress and Bruce and Sherrie Barbera of San Anselmo, Eva Tuffanelli of Kentfield and Chantel Dacier of Mill Valley.

Soprano Will Present Recital Friday Night

The College of Marin Concert-Lecture series will present soprano Delcina Stevenson in a recital Friday at 8:15 p.m. in the Fine Arts Theater.

A member of the San Francisco Opera Co. from 1966 through 1968, the singer includes in her repertoire such major roles as Pamina in "The Magic Flute," Donna Anna and Donna Elvira in "Don Giovanni," the countess in "Nozzi di Figaro," Cio Cio San in "Madam Butterfly" and Mimi in "La Boheme."

She also performs in oratorio, as soloist with symphony orchestras and in recitals. She has received many awards, including the one for top place for voice in the annual competition of a young musicians foundation in Los Angeles.

Part I of Friday's concert will consist of two Handel arias, "Let Me Wander Not Unseen" and "Care Selve"; the "Alleluia" from "Motetto" by Vivaldi; the eight-song cycle, "Woman's Love and Life" by Robert Schumann, and the Mozart concert aria "Ch'io Mi Scordi di Te."

Part 2 will include "The Crucifixion," "St. Ita's Vision" and "Sure on This Shining Night" by Samuel Barber; "Set Me as a Seal" and "Come, My Beloved" by Lucas Foss, and Moussorsky's cycle of seven nursery songs.

Miss Stevenson will be accompanied at the piano by Renee Hamaty.

DELCINA STEVENSON

The Chapel of the Presidents, a part of the new National Presbyterian Church and Center now under construction in Washington, D.C., will house memorabilia of past U.S. Presidents.

Hayakawa's Talk To Be Broadcast

The entire talk by S. I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley, president of San Francisco State College, at the Commonwealth Club of California last week will be broadcast at 8:05 p.m. Sunday on KSFO.

Hayakawa's talk and the question session that followed will be broadcast on "Sunday Night Special."

San Jose State Faculty Exhibit Scheduled Feb. 2

An invitational art show by 12 members of the San Jose State College art faculty opens Feb. 2 at the Marin Society of Artists' gallery in the Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross.

Painting, sculpture, ceramics and blown glass by Al Barela, Geoffrey Bowman, John deVincenzi, David Donoho, Robert Fritz, David Gilhooly, Robert Griffith, David Hatch, John Hunter, Howard Ikemoto, Charles Sanders and Farrar Wilaon will be presented at a public preview from 2 to 5 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

The show, which contains much experimental work, continues daily from 2 to 4 p.m. through Feb. 23.

Kenton To Head Jazz Workshop

A jazz workshop clinic, featuring Stan Kenton as guest artist, will be offered at Sonoma State College Feb. 15, sponsored by the extension division.

The noncredit clinic will have two sessions, from 10 a.m. to noon and 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. in Ives Hall.

Kenton will lecture and hold a question and answer session.

Petaluma Theater Plans Run Of 'My Fair Lady'

The Little Hill Theater of Petaluma will present the musical "My Fair Lady" on Feb. 7, 8, 14 and 15 at 8:15 p.m. at the Petaluma High School auditorium.

The theater is an adult education class sponsored by the Petaluma Area School District. Instructor William Mancini will direct the production, Mrs. Diane Strohmeyer assisting.

Leading roles will be played by Andrea Smith as Eliza Doolittle; G. R. Armbruster as Henry Higgins, and Frank Foster as Alfred T. Doolittle.

Others in the cast include Jerry W. Abbitt, Arthur Bliss, Alice Patz, Elizabeth King, Angela Brunton, William Cox, Lowell Keuhn, Ginger Kreger, Linda Bostron, Allan Edwars, and Mrs. Strohmeyer.

Tickets may be purchased at various businesses in Petaluma or at the door.

Dinner Proceeds Of $652 For Foundation

Persons who attended a testimonial dinner for former Marin Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen last month donated a total of $652.26 to the Marin General Hospital Foundation, dinner organizers reported today.

Motorcyclist Finds Himself In Trouble

WOODSIDE (AP) — A motorcyclist seeking to escape police roared through a doorway to Woodside High School and then spen up and down corridors yesterday. Scores of students scattered or flattened themselves against walls, police said.

Allan D. Martin, 17, of nearby Palo Alto, was charged with 12 traffic violations, assault and battery and resisting arrest. Police said they originally wanted to stop him on charges of going the wrong way on a one-way street.

In Africa, Bible Society vans must often drive at top speed through villages, as slowdowns or stops would mean that the van would be surrounded and scriptures sold out, with none left for the village for which delivery was intended.

Stiff Policy Voted On Extra Driveways

The San Anselmo City Council last night prohibited construction of additional driveways onto Center Boulevard on property which has access to another street.

In an unanimous vote, the council also ruled that residents already using a driveway onto Center but who also have a driveway onto another street, must close off the Center access.

Purpose of the action, recommended Dec. 16 by the planning commission, was to minimize hazardous traffic on the street. The ruling is effective from Madrone Avenue to the Fairfax city limits.

Charles R. Leitzell, director of public works, said "very few" existing residences have access to more than one street and that the decision mainly is to restrict access from proposed residences.

Center Boulevard lately has been prominent in council consideration because it and parallel Sir Francis Drake Boulevard are considered the main corridors for traffic from the Hub intersection to Fairfax.

San Anselmo has requested that Center Boulevard be made a part of the Marin County Urban Thoroughfare System.

The San Anselmo City Council Also:

BID — Accepted the lowest of five bids of $8,862 by Sibbald Construction Co., San Anselmo, for the first phase of installing an irrigation system at Memorial Park. The project involves laying of main lines and wiring for the entire park, and irrigation for the lower baseball diamond and tennis court area.

APPEAL — Denied the appeal of Tri-State Development Co. of Napa of planning commission rejection of an application to install a combination gasoline sales and car wash at 111 Red Hill Avenue. Councilmen said the project would create a traffic hazard.

CONDEMNATION — Directed condemnation proceedings be started on illegal additions to a house owned by Richard Pencharz at 56 Fernwood Drive, and that the remainder of the structure be brought up to building code standards. Leitzell said much of the construction was done without building permits.

INSURANCE — Awarded the city's insurance policy for a three-year period to U.S. Fire Co. on its bid of $12,836 annually. The city previously was insured by Traveler's Insurance Co., which asked $18,848 annually for a renewal.

PARKING — Denied a request by Harvey L. Zion to restrict parking in front of apartments at 36 Ross Avenue to two hours. The council granted a request by the First Presbyterian Church for a passenger loading zone at 121 Ross Avenue.

ZONING — Took no action on a proposal by Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson to adopt a policy that no individual lot be rezoned unless it meets the minimum requirements of the new zone. Anderson said that rezoning had been done on a basis of general planning of the area, rather than on whether the individual lot would fit the new zoning.

APPOINTMENTS — Reappointed Walter Carter to a six-year term on the board of review. His term expired Jan. 15. The council also agreed not to name a candidate for the third Marin County post on the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District Board. Voting by the Council of Mayors and Councilmen on the candidate was scheduled today.

ANIMAL CONTROL— Agreed that councilmen will list portions of a proposed countywide animal control ordinance that they disagree with and submit the list to the city-county services committee, which prepared the ordinance.

AGREEMENT — Entered into a joint powers agreement with the Town of Ross for operation and control of the intersection of Bolinas Avenue and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. The intersection lies in both cities.

MEETING—Scheduled a special meeting at 8 p.m. March 4 at city hall to discuss the city's capital improvement needs.

PARK PLAN — Agreed to pay $525 to William Kapranos, landscape architect, for revisions to the Memorial Park master plan to include a third baseball diamond and delete an amphitheater and stage. The dicision to make the changes was announced by the council Jan. 7.

VEHICLES — Authorized purchase through the state Department of General Services of three new police cars at a total of $7,584.

ORDINANCES — Adopted new building, mechanical and housing codes. The building and mechanical codes separate the regulations dealing with structural requirements from those dealing with mechanical requirements, including electrical and plumbing connections. The housing code sets up standards which meet federal specifications.

REZONING — Introduced an ordinance which would rezone property at 84 Madrone Avenue from single family to planned development. Proposed by applicant Emily Merriman is a 22-unit apartment project. The development was approved by the council Jan. 14.

Girl's Red Bikini Stirs Up Village

CHOBHAM, England (UPI)—A pretty girl in a red bikini who hung out at a local bar shocked village residents. She even shocked the saloon keeper, Kenneth Jensen.

She was on a sign Jensen ordered to replace a traditional placard he hung from his 16th century pub. Jensen prevailed on the brewery that supplied the sign to replace it with something more soothing.

Japanese Organize White Collar Union

TOKYO (UPI)—The Japan Salaried Men's Union has been organized to protect the interests of white collar workers.

Hiroshi Kominami, 57, former insurance company president, said the new union which he heads will work for lower income taxes and tax exemption for retirement allowances under 10 million yen ($27,000). The union hopes to enlist 100,000 salaried men from 200 companies.

Election Set For Cotati School Board

Cotati School District trustees last night authorized an election for April 15 for three positions on the five-man board.

The terms of President Lester H. Petersen, Clerk Richard A. Clarey and Lucien Libarle will expire on June 30.

On election day, polls will be set up at each of the three district elementary schools and will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The Cotati School District trustees also:

CONSTRUCTION — Heard a report that rainy weather has slowed construction of the new Thomas Page School, but the school is still expected to open in the fall.

CONFERENCE — Authorized three teachers to attend a behavior modification conference in Napa, Feb. 28 through March 2.

NEW SITE — Heard a report that the Sonoma County Planning Department is still readying a recommendation on a new school site.

All Conference Sides Prepare For Session

PARIS (UPI)—U.S. and South Vietnamese negotiators completed today what they called a "flexible" strategy designed to prevent deadlock in tomorrow's second Vietnam peace meeting with the Communists.

Allied diplomatic quarters said they were ready to discuss any problem the Viet Cong or North Vietnamese might bring up around the round conference table in the old Hotel Majestic.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese delegates indicated they hoped the Communists would agree to discuss military matters first, such as the re-establishment of the Demilitarized Zone between North and South Vietnam.

Henry Cabot Lodge, the U.S. negotiating chief, proposed the DMZ re-establishment as a "first step toward peace" in his policy statement in the opening peace session last Saturday. The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese, although rejecting the plan, said they would reply to it tomorrow.

The allies also were ready to discuss the mutual withdrawal of U.S. and North Vietnamese troops from the war zone and possible prisoner exchanges—two ideas mentioned by President Nixon in ak Washington news conference Monday.

In Vietnam, the Viet Cong announced they would observe a seven-day truce during the Tet lunar new year holidays Feb. 15-22. There was no reply from Saigon.

U.S. Export Trade Worst Since 1930s

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department disclosed today figures showing U.S. performance in the foreign trade field during 1968 was the worst in more than three decades.

While the value of exports exceeded imports by $726 million, it is the lowest surplus since 1937. The figure in that depression year was $265 million.

Vet Affairs Chair Goes To Cranston

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Alan M. Cranston, D-Calif., was named chairman of the Veterans Affairs subcommittee today. He said he hopes to explore ways to make enlistment in the military services more attractive.

Cranston was chief of the foreign language division of the Office of War Information during World War II. He declined a deferment in 1944 to enlist as a private and was a sergeant by war's end.

He said he agrees with Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., chairman of the Labor, Education and Public Welfare Committee, that "fairness demands we do more for our nation's veterans, especially in providing educational benefits and health care."

"As one who favors a volunteer army over the inherent inequities of the draft, I believe this subcommittee should explore legislation that would make enlistment more attractive to the man who will be going into the ranks as a private," Cranston said in a statement.

Teen-Agers Face Burglary Probe

Two Novato boys were cited to juvenile authorities yesterday on suspicion of burglary of the Parsina J. Rush residence at 2112 Vineyard, Novato, police said.

Robert P. Tourmaku, 14, of 1217 Fourth Street, and Richard L. Leslie, 13, of 2478 Center Road, allegedly ransacked the house while the family was away, police said.

Police credited a neighbor to alerting them to the burglary.

Sumatra Elephant's Extinction Feared

DJAKARTA (UPI)—The Sumatran elephant may become extinct if illegal hunting is not stamped out, says the Sumatra Nature Preservation Institute.

There were an estimated 2,500 elephants in Sumatra before World War II. Their number had dwindled to 900 by 1960, and is believed to have been reduced further since then. The institute says illegal hunting, mainly for the elephants' tusks, is conducted by ivory smugglers from Djakarta and Singapore.

Scientists are studying why iron in soil is essential to plants and how it makes them grow.

Hayakawa Reports Some Believe Peking Funds Aiding Militants

By DAVID DIETZ

Dr. S. I. Hayakawa said last night that it is possible the Red Chinese are sending financial aid to militants at San Francisco State College.

Hayakawa, acting president of the embattled college, told the Mill Valley Lions Club that "there are some who seriously believe" runners are carrying funds from Red China into the United States through Cuba.

"The theory is seriously entertained by some who have studied it longer than I," Hayakawa said. "But it's not been proved to my satisfaction."

Hayakawa said after his talk to the club that friends in the intelligence service of the U.S. government had told him of reports of Red Chinese aid to dissidents.

"I don't say that it's happening, but it remains a possibility," he said.

During his address, Hayakawa, a resident of Mill Valley, repeated a belief that the strife at state was part of a nationwide revolution by anarchists.

"I don't believe the whole thing is about race," he said of student and teacher demands to open San Francisco State to more minority members. "This is a power grab; they want control of the college."

Colleges and universities, he said, were not a "staging area for social change and revolution. They are reserved for thought and discussion."

Hayakawa said college officials and trustees were considering placement of a fence around the San Francisco State campus to bar demonstrators. Only persons with special identification cards would be admitted to the grounds.

"The situation is that desperate," he said of the fence proposal. "I'm ashamed that it is."

But he said the aim would be to prevent "mobs from marching round and round and disrupting people from studying."

Hayakawa said delays in dismissing teachers absent five days without permission were caused by lack of a method to check whether instructors might be on field trips or doing work at home.

He criticized the Academic Senate for failing to hold disciplinary hearings for 76 of the 77 students arrested in December.

Psychiatric Report On Joyrider Awaited

Stephen K. Solon, 25, of 11 Post Street, Larkspur, charged with joyriding and stealing a credit card, will return to Marin Municipal Court Friday for a report of a psychiatric examination.

An earlier charge of auto theft, stemming from an arrest in Larkspur Jan. 20, has been dismissed against Solon.

State Firm Will Test New Mirror For Cars

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A revolutionary over-the-top auto rear view mirror designed by a Fresno County man will be tested by a Santa Monica firm, Rep. B.F. Sisk, D-Calif., announced yesterday.

The inventor is Auberry Dude Ranch operator Karl E. Smith.

Sisk said the mirror is designed to improve the driver's vision of traffic behind him. It will make vision through a back window unnecessary.

The mirror fits across the top of the car and offers the driver a full view of the scene behind him.

The device is to be tested by Dunlap Associates in Santa Monica, Sisk said.

He said Smith said the mirror cannot be added as an accessory but must be built as an integral part of the car.

However, Smith estimates the cost for such modification would be less than $20.

"I believe the Smith mirror is the only key to better rear and side vision," Sisk said.

"It also eliminates blind spots which are characteristic of side mirrors."

Utah Reassured On Atom Tests

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Underground nuclear testing will continue in Nevada and Utah need not worry over radioactive fallout, Utah Gov. Calvin Rampton was told yesterday.

Rampton met in closed session with representatives of the Atomic Energy ommission and the Public Health Service to discuss the Nevada testing.

Dave Miller, information officer for the Nevada Operations Office of the AEC, said the radioactivity released was slight and didn't present a health hazard.

Brink's Robbers To Swap Jails

WALPOLE, Mass. (AP) — Three men convicted of participating in the 1950 robbery of $1.2 million from Brink's, Inc., are to be paroled from state prison today, but not to freedom.

They immediately will begin serving two-year terms in the Suffolk County House of Correction on conspiracy charges connected with the same robbery.

The three had been sentenced to life in prison on the armed robbery charges, but the Massachusetts Parole Board commuted the life terms Jan. 21. This made them eligible for parole, but from the state prison terms only.

The three are Michael V. Geagan, 60; James I. Faherty, 56, and Adolph Maffie, 54.

French is a corruption of the Vulgar Latin spoken by Caesar's soldiers when they conquered Gaul. The Celts living in what is now France adopted Vulgar Latin but added words of their own. Alouette, or lark, for example, descends from the ancient Celtic tongue.

Barkley Grandson Claims Cuban Flight Was Hired

MONTREAL (AP) — Alben Truitt, wanted for hijacking a private plane to Cuba, says he chartered it in Florida.

"I chartered a private plane and I did go to Cuba in it," Truitt, 35, said Monday. "But I paid the pilot an extra $58 to take me there."

A grandson of the late Vice President Alben Barkley, Truitt flew to Havana last October. The pilot, Charles Oliveros of Key West, said Truitt held an explosive device to the back of his neck and forced him to fly to Cuba.

Truitt was detained by Canadian immigration authorities who suspect he may have entered Canada illegally. His hearing on an application for immigrant status will be held Wednesday.

Truitt told reporters that he hired the plane in Key West for $30 and gave his destination to the pilot as southern Florida. Once in the air, he added, he offered to pay the pilot to fly him to Cuba where he wanted to gather material for a book.

Truitt said he made out a check for $58 to the pilot and his lawyer now is trying to trace it.

After arriving in Havana, Truitt said he was kept in solitary confinement at Viborn Security House and then deported on the Cuban passenger-freighter Tersero.

Early this month the ship arrived at Saint John, N.B., he continued, and he was given permission to go ashore. He said he was "under the impression that as an American citizen I could enter Canada without complications and move freely."

Truitt said he entered the United States from Saint John and later crossed the border near Montreal, where he was detained.

Facing him in Florida is a U.S. charge of air piracy. Behind him in Florida he left his wife and their three children. Police said he had written some bad checks and a Key West grocer said he was worried about buying food for his family.

Truitt said he thought the charge against him was brought because under U.S. regulations a pilot can lose his license if he flies to Cuba voluntarily for a profit.

There's Reservoir Of Goodwill

By RICHARD D. BOYLE
(Last of three articles)

Black and white residents of Marinwood and Lucas Valley, after taking a long, hard look at their community, have found some evidence of racial bigotry, mostly subtle, sometimes not, but they also found a great reservoir of goodwill.

The community, which was accused recently by a black resident of racial prejudice and harrassment of black members, appeared also to have discovered something else; that it is much better off because it is integrated.

Although there have been problems, both black and white residents agree that knowing the other race has bettered their lives.

Mrs. Catherine Banks of 2050 Huckleberry Road, a white mother who helped alert the community to some of the problems of bigotry, said "I think Lucas Valley is actually one step ahead of most Marin County communities in that it does have open housing and a great body of goodwill."

The basic problem, say black parents, is that of raising their children in a white suburb. But the black youngsters, far from being bitter about the problems of adjustment, are hopeful that they are today pioneering the way toward tomorrow's racial understanding. Less tied to the mistakes and prejudices of the past, a new generation of black and white young people are learning about the world by learning from each other.

Last year a number of black and white parents met and decided they had to prepare the children of the suburbs for a world peopled by men and women of many different races, religious and economic backgrounds.

To make this dream a reality they formed the Human Relations Council of the Dixie School District, which serves the Marinwood-Lucas Valley area. Believing a major part of the responsibility of equipping "the majority and the minority child to function in a multicultural society was a responsibility of the schools," they set these tasks for their council:

Assist the schools in offering courses portraying the role of minority groups in this nation.

Recommended in-service programs for school employees to better understand the social crisis.

Urge active recruitment of teachers of minority races.

Help schools deal with open and subtle manifestations of discrimination.

Are the schools responding to the efforts of the council?

Dr. Penrod Moss, assistant superintendent of the Dixie district, said that although the schools in the past have not done an adequate job telling the true story of America's minorities, his district is attempting to change. Old history books, he said, where Anglo-Saxon oriented with stress on the Pilgrim, the American Revolution, Daniel Boone and the Westward Ho movement.

"A good part of American history is the migration of other peoples," said Moss, and to tell that story, the district is using the first history book, "Land of the Free," dealing with blacks in society.

One of the roles, he said, of elementary schools today is to "break down the myths" and give a total picture of American history. Many youngsters, upon reaching college, discover to their disillusionment that what they were told in elementry school was full of half-truths, he said.

"The melting pot idea sounds great, but it is really not," added Moss. "We really don't want to melt everybody down, but we should preserve that special seasoning of each group that came to this country, understanding our differences and our similarities."

To help this understanding, the district hired Ruth Kilby as the human relations resource teacher to assemble and channel to other instructors material on minority history.

One of her major tasks is educating teachers to handle racial slurs by children, said Mrs. Kilby, the first black teacher to be hired by the district. "Many teachers just don't know how to handle the problem," she said with a warm and gentle smile. Getting the teachers to talk out their experiences at group discussions after school she said, is making great progress toward the development of new ways to handle the problem.

One of the problems, she said, is the negative way minorities were pictured in history books. "The black man was pictured as a happy-go-lucky who plucked the banjo all day," she said, and this gave the impression he was satisfied with his role as a slave.

Teaching about the contributions to American by other races, she added, will help minority youngsters achieve a sense of dignity.

Black Youngsters, said Mrs. Kilby, a mother of two sons in college, will no longer turn their other cheek to racial slurs because of "a new racial consciousness and feeling of pride in being black."

If there is to be harmony in our nation's multiracial society, said Mrs. Kilby, it must begin with this new generation now in school. "People my age have built-in ideas," she said, "but we can help the coming generation and this will bring out a respect and dignity for all races."

She sees a great hope for the future because of "a great many white families, who are incensed when they see racism and playing a real role in squelching bigotry.

With cooperation and understanding, Lucas Valley and Marinwood appear to many residents, both black and white, to be well on the way toward working out their problems.

Republicans Fill A Key Vacancy

Mrs. Elizabeth Rowen of San Rafael was elected last night as women's vice chairman of the Marin County Republican Central Committee.

The position has been vacant for two years, reported committee chairman Charles Michals of Greenbrae. Mrs. Rowen also will continue as precinct director, heading a force of 2,000 volunteers, he said.

To assist her in precinct work, Mrs. Ruby Streiff of Greenbrae was appointed by Michals as deputy precinct director.

Michals also reappointed Rodgers Broomhead of Ross as finance chairman. Broomhead also is vice chairman of the central committee.

Tam Seniors Require Presidential Runoff

Tamalpais High School seniors Verdean Herbold and Jonathan Symmes will meet tomorrow in a runoff election for class president. The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in reporting Symmes was elected president in Monday's election.

The school is also scheduled to hold the junior class election today and freshman class election tomorrow. Rains have postponed both elections.

Many Pupils Due Holiday; Teacher Institute Friday

Most public schools in Marin will be closed Friday for the winter teachers' institute sponsored by the county superintendent of schools.

Schools will not be closed in San Rafael High and Elementary, Dixie, Novato, West Marin, Tomales High and Elementary, and Marin Junior College Districts. All others will close for the institute, according to Lawrence Lindberg of the county schools office.

Featured speaker at the institute will be Dan Moore, former teacher who is special assistant to the publisher of the Los Angeles Times. He will talk on "We're Going To Change — Like It Or Not" at a luncheon session in the College Center dining hall.

Milton Cohen, superintendent of Larkspur School District, will address the 9 a.m. opening session in Olney Hall on "New Ideas in Education: Implications for Teachers."

Except for the opening session and the luncheon, the day will be devoted to group discussion in numerous sections. Some of the subjects to be discussed are "Teaching About Drug Abuse," "Why Children Fail in Reading," "Multi-Sensory Approach to Learning," and "Using Jazz in Teaching Classroom Music."

Panama Guerrillas Pose Coffee Threat

VOLCAN, Panama (UPI)—Guerrillas roving Panama's northern frontier pose a greater threat to the country's coffee crop than to the military junta they hope to topple from power.

Their presence has frightened away a majority of the Indian coffee pickers at the peak of the harvest. The pickers are fearful, too, of the National Guard troops who have fought a number of skirmishes with the guerrillas in this area near the border with Costa Rica.

"We will lose at least half the crop this year," said one coffee grower. "The beans are falling on the ground."

COFFEE CROP

One of the biggest crops being wasted is on the coffee plantation of former President Arnulfo Arias, who was deposed by the National Guard last Oct. 11 only six days after taking office. Arias is in exile in Washington, plotting to regain office in Panama.

But since his ouster, the house and commissary on his sprawling coffee plantation near here have been burned down. And the assistant foreman of the plantation estimates that 60 per cent of the crop is lost as well.

"We usually have 500 Indians to pick coffee, but now we have only 60," he said, escorting news correspondents around the plantation.

'NO OPINIONS'

"We can't say who burned down our leader's house," a worker said. "It was dark. We have no opinions."

Few residents of this area have opinions they are willing to express about either the guerrillas or the National Guard. Although most of the guerrillas are thought to be supporters of Arias, it cannot be determined definitely whether they hope to return him to power or simply want to bring down the junta headed by National Guard Cols. Jose M. Pinilla and Bolivar Urrutia.

The guerrilla movement began shortly after Arias was overthrown. They organized across the border in Costa Rica and have made their strikes just inside Panama, always leaving themselves a quick escape route back to Costa Rica through the rain forests of the area.

The National Guard admits only two major clashes with the guerrillas, the last of which was Jan. 9. In that battle near the village of Piedra Candela, the guard said, two guardsmen and one guerrilla were killed and six guardsmen were injured.

Col. Boris Martinez, the guard chief of staff, said the number of guerrillas cannot be determined because their base of operations is in Costa Rica. He described some of them as "foreign mercenaries," however, and said two Americans identified only as "Harriman" and "Johnny Wallace" were among them.

Many of the Indian coffee pickers have wandered off to join the guerrillas. But some became quickly disillusioned with their collection of outdated weapons and went on to live in the forests, where small game and fruit are abundant.

In Costa Rica, which does not recognize the junta, newspapers estimate the guerrilla strength at 300 to 400. But other sources said 150 is a more realistic figure.

There is no nention of the guerrillas in the strictly censored Panamanian press.

Both Panama and Costa Rica have increased the size of their military forces along the border, and, on the Panama side, the guard keeps a close check of persons entering and leaving the area. Guard installations have been fortified with sand-bagged machinegun emplacements.

Residents of this area of Chiriqui province, many of whom supported Arias in last year's election, have complained about National Guard abuses of power. Residents said guardsmen have confiscated radios, burned farm homes and buildings and killed an old man who attacked a guardsmen with his bare hands.

Few male adults remain in the farming community around Volcan, which once had a population of about 9,000.

"Most of the men have gone into the hills because they are afraid," said one woman. "We are afraid of both the guerrillas and the National Guard."

Case Is Referred

Tracy A. Stevenson, 18, of Kentfield, charged with marijuana possession, was referred yesterday by Marin Municipal Court Judge Hadden W. Roth to probation officers for possible trial as a juvenile. Stevenson was arrested in Kentfield on Jan. 17.

Yale Mountain Climbers Killed

GORHAM, N.H. (AP) — Three Yale University students on a mountain-climbing expedition during semester break, tumbled about 1,000 feet down a steep, ice-covered slope to their deaths.

The three were found yesterday, linked together by their climbing rope, in Huntington Ravine on the side of Mount Washington by an avalanche patrolman, Ranger Rene La Roche.

State police identified the victims as Charles Yoder, 24, of Hartford, Wisc.; Scot Stevens, 19, of Cucamonga, Calif., and Robert Ellenberg, 19, of New York City.

Packs were torn from their backs and climbing irons ripped from their feet, apparently as they were battered in their descent, police reported.

La Roche said he passed the ravine Monday about 10 a.m., but saw nothing. He said he found the bodies during an afternoon patrol yesterday.

Youth Pleads Guilty To Narcotics Count

Ronnell Alan Bell, 19, of no fixed address, pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to a charge of being in a place where narcotics were used.

He was originally charged with possession of marijuana after an arrest in San Rafael Oct. 13. Judge Alvin B. Goldstein released Bell on his own recognizance and ordered him to appear Feb. 21 for sentencing.

Conservationist Is Named Interior Undersecretary

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russell E. Train, a prominent conservationist who resigned from the U.S. Tax Court to become president of the Conservation Foundation, has been appointed undersecretary of the interior.

Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel announced Train's appointment yesterday, but said he had actually accepted the job in early January. The nomination must be confirmed by the Senate and Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Interior Committee, said hearings would be held promptly. He predicted that Train would receive a kind reception.

Train, 48, resigned from the Tax Court in 1965 to become head of the foundation, a nonprofit organization concerned with environmental problems. He is a native of Washington, D.C.

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson named him to the National Water Commission last year and President Nixon, following his election, named him chairman of a special task force to advise the incoming administration on environmental matters.

Hickel said Train was chosen for "not only his interest in what is happening in America, but also what is happening to resources around the world, particularly in wildlife and conservation."

Heyerdahl Plans Atlantic Effort

OSLO (AP) — Thor Heyderdahl, who floated across the Pacific on a raft, said today he and six companions will try to cross the Atlantic in a papyrus boat modeled on those of the ancient Egyptians.

The Oslo newspaper Aftenposten published a copyrighted interview with he explorer in which he said the party would set out from Morocco toward the end of May. The destination will be South America, "somewhere between the Amazon and the West Indies."

In 1947, Heyerdahl and five other men crossed the South Pacific from Peru to Polynesia to prove that Polynesian culture could have originated in South America.

Now, he said, he wants to find out whether Central American culture could have originated in the Mediterranean.

Heyns Plans Police Help On U.C. Campus

"We will augment campus security personnel with the forces necessary to provide protection," he said last night

Blockage of the main Bancroft Avenue entrance to the campus yesterday "exhibited a callous disregard for the rights and freedoms for students, faculty and staff members," he said. "Furthermore, this action was in violation of campus regulations."

He referred to a noon demonstration in which members of the Third World Liberation Front and a number of supporters linked arms and forced incoming students to detour around Sather Gate.

Some tried to force their way through the lines, however, and there were a number of scuffles.

The disturbance ended when 20 policemen arrived and dispersed the picketers.

Elsewhere, several classes were disrupted and other students were harassed.

After a tear gas canister was thrown through the door of a mathematics class, five students were treated for eye irritations.

The 150 students in the room were evacuated.

Heyns declared disciplinary action "will be initiated against those students who violated university regulations."

Buddy Hackett Now Executive

Yes, of the Sahara-Nevada Corp., which supervises Del E. Webb's four hotels in Nevada. Howard James, corporation president, made the announcement yesterday, saying Hackett will be talent consultant.

Arms Of Tiny Research Sub Locate Jet Section

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two remote-controlled mechanical arms of a tiny research submarine, nosing along 325 feet down in the Pacific Ocean, succeeded yesterday in attaching a hoist cable to the tail cone of a jetliner that crashed 11 days ago.

The National Transportation Safety Board hoped the wreckage—containing a sealed tape recorder—would provide the secret of why a Scandinavian Airlines System plane came down in the sea while on a landing approach to International Airport.

Just how difficult was the submarine's mission?

"It's a cold, black world down there. Even with light, you can see no more than 10 feet. If your boat hits the silt bottom, clouds of dirt rise up that blind you and you have to back up until it settles," says William Lamb.

Lamb, 43, directs a 100-man team investigating the crash. He made his dive, the first of the recovery operation, on Jan. 19. Flat on his stomach in the Lockheed Crops.'s Deep Quest submersible, Lamb peered through a viewport and gave directions as pilot Larry Shumaker maneuvered toward debris located by sonar.

They were down for seven hours.

The 20 by 40-foot sub, looking somewhat like a fat shark, holds four men, two in a pressurized sphere in the nose and two in another pressurized section at the rear. It is primarily designed for research dives as deep as 8,000 feet but its manipulating arms near the nose make it ideal for salvage operations. It can travel about five miles an hour at maximum depth.

Use Permit Due Study By Planners

Requests for a variance and for a special use permit will be considered by the Fairfax Planning Commission meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Fairfax Women's Club.

Andrew Isetta is requesting the use permit to divide a building at 1599 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard into shops, and H. W. Laster is asking a side yard variance to add to his home at 46 Taylor Street.

Policy Of Open Campus On KTIM

A proposal for an open campus for San Rafael High School will be discussed at 9 a.m. tomorrow on the KTIM Sounding Board program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer.

Discussing the issue will be Mrs. Max Thelen Jr. and Mrs. John L. Levinsohn of the high school Parent-Teacher Association; Jeff Godwin, president of the student body, and Ewing Bone, chairman of the mathematics department. Mrs. Thelen and Bone oppose the open campus plan and Godwin and Mrs. Levinsohn favor it.

The program will be rebroadcast at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Hughes Buys Old Historic Lode Claims

A Hughes agent paid John A. Zalac of Virginia City $100,000 for seven mining claims on rocky, sagebrush land earlier this month, then transferred it to Hughes, according to records of Storey County Recorder James Gross.

The land, a little over a mile square, is some distance from the 480 acres that Hughes Tool Co. paid $225,000 for last April.

It is south of this historic mining community, which boomed to 30,000 people and produced $1 billion in gold and silver in the late 1800s, but is kept alive now by tourists who come to see its ghost town attractions.

The reasons for Hughes' interest is a mystery.

Although the Comstock Lode was a big producer, the Occidental Mine—around which Hughes' new property lies—didn't ever pay in mineral wealth. It produces dollars today, however, as a summer tourist attraction, with tours for visitors. Zalac retained the minehead claim itself.

Unions Seek Reduction Of Health Costs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California unions are joining in a drive aimed at reducing the costs of health care programs by bargaining directly with doctors and hospitals.

Union spokesmen said yesterday that 112 local unions and labor councils have affiliated into the newly incorporated California Council for Health Plan Alternatives.

Among members are the California AFL-CIO and its councils in San Francisco and Los Angeles, the Western Conference of Teamsters and the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union.

In contracts they negotiate, employers and their members spent $700 million yearly on health plans, the council said. Union spokesmen said each time unions win an increase in employer contributions, operators of the programs raise prices.

"We have not been getting our money's worth and we are determined to do everything possible to correct the situation," said Sigmund Arywitz, Los Angeles County AFL-CIO secretary.

Einar Mohn, Teamsters western conference director, said the council was not formed to fight health care programs, but will not be "complacent and accept their charges and treatments without question."

EOC Seeking Rec Opinions

Opinions from youths and parents are being solicited on what is needed in a proposed recreation program for low-income youths in North Marin County Economic Opportunity Council.

The EOC will hold a public meeting seeking community opinion on the program at 8 p.m. today at the EOC multipurpose room, 1327 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael.

Mrs. Collie Gaines, director of the EOC youth program in Marin City, will head the discussion.

A New Image Maker Under Reagan Dome

By BILL BOYARSKY

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has a new image maker — a public relations man once routed from ultraconservative Republican politics by the John Birch Society.

His name is Rus Walton and he is emerging as a top man in a new team growing up around the governor.

They are serious - minded experts in the complexities of state government, devoted to "The Boss" and determined to [illegible] repair the political damage [illegible] his abortive try [illegible] last year.

DEVELOPMENT SECTION

Walton, 47, is the [illegible] - a year head of the governor's new program development section, a "think tank" littered with coffee cups and tucked away in a corner of the Capitol. It produces program ideas; peps up lagging department heads who are slipping into a bureaucratic rut and — of key importance — publicizes Reagan on television [illegible] print.

[illegible] ys upstairs call us the ca[illegible] headquarters," said Walt[illegible]

He [illegible] talk among newsmen [illegible] the second and fourth [illegible] Capitol that he is Reag[illegible] ical publicist, step[illegible] shoes of the departe[illegible] ications director, Lyn [illegible]

"It's valid in that you [illegible] for re - election on your [illegible] formance and this unit's job [illegible] to make sure we have performance," said Walton.

SECOND TERM?

Reagan's aides say he will run for a second term in 1970, and Walton, like the rest of the staff, is looking ahead.

But Walton added that if the newsmen "mean this unit is simply going to be translated into a campaign unit, they are wrong."

It is, he said, more like "a research and development section for a corporation, coming up with new products."

Walton's image, however, is more like the flash and glitter of a publicity department than the quiet laboratories of research and development.

For years, Walton was a top publicist in Republican political circles.

He was the key man in starting the United Republicans of California in 1963. This is a conservative group of people who broke away from the older California Republican Assembly because they thought it too liberal.

As a top campaign aide to Barry Goldwater in the 1964 presidential election, he dreamed up the controversial film "Choice." It showed teen-agers in saloons, along with riots and burlesque show marquees, but its dramatic law and order pitch was too graphic for the campaign leadership, which suppressed it.

Two years later, Walton broke with UROC when Joe Crosby, husband of a John Birch Society member, was elected president.

That ended Walton's association with the party's more militant conservative wing. After running his own political public relations firm, he joined the Reagan administration, promoting traffic safety through the Motor Vehicles Department.

He moved into his present power during an interoffice dispute over whether Reagan should run for president.

On one side were the "federalists" — Communications Director Nofziger and others who believed the former actor could sweep into the national convention, upset Richard M. Nixon and win the GOP nomination.

On the other side were the "statists" — Executive Secretary William Clark Jr., Assistant Executive Secretary Michael Deaver, Walton and a few others who said Reagan should keep his promise to serve his full term, carry out his campaign pledges and run for re - election in 1970.

With the "federalists" in charge, the "statists" decided to play their own game. Convinced Nixon had the nomination sewed up, they decided to look ahead and plan for the 1969 legislative session and for the 1970 election.

As one member of the group, who declined the use of his name, said of the presidential enthusiasts: "We felt, 'OK, let them have their fun. We're going to be here Aug. 15'."

That was the day the Republican National Convention ended and Reagan returned to California, under criticism in his own state for his abortive presidential campaign.

Even before that, the "statists" began to move. Their aim was to strengthen the administration's record on state affairs.

They believed it was good—but had been submerged by Nofziger's preoccupation with presidential politics. Polls in California showed Reagan's popularity was dropping.

At the request of Executive Secretary Clark, Walton prepared a plan. "Ronald Reagan," he wrote, "is the most exciting political figure on the American scene."

But he said the Creative Society — the term Reagan uses to describe his plan for involving more people in government —was in trouble.

He proposed a plan of program development and publicity.

Reagan approved formation of the program development section a month after the Republican convention and since then, there has been a marked change in the administration.

No longer are there gubernatorial pronouncements on Vietnam, the emphasis now is on California.

The press unit — involved in high policy under Nofziger — now just handles the day-to-day news releases.

Walton's unit, working closely with agency chiefs and Reagan's top aides, has moved into that area, and now is in charge of selling Reagan's policies to the public.

"Lyn was pretty definitely involved in the policy making process," said Walton. "We are, too, but not to the extent Lyn was. I think we are more totally involved with the cabinet staff and the executive staff."

Nofziger was bored by state government. Walton and Reagan's other aides are interested in it.

Since September, Walton's unit has started writing the drafts of Reagan's speeches. It has come up with new programs. Working with Alex Sheriffs, Reagan's education adviser, it devised the commission on the problems of education in elementary and high schools that Reagan proposed in his "state of the state" message.

The 20th wedding anniversary is traditionally known as the China Anniversary.

Solo Astronaut Faces A Task For Three Men

By AL ROSSITER JR.

BETHPAGE, N.Y. (UPI)—For six hours during the upcoming Apollo 9 spaceflight, astronaut David R. Scott will be alone at the controls of a ship normally flown by three men.

His fellow crewmen, James A. McDivitt and Russell L. Schweickart, will be away piloting a moon landing craft for the first time in a crucial earth orbital rehearsal of moon flight rendezvous maneuvers.

On later moon missions, the Apollo command ship will be flown single-handedly for a day in lunar orbit while two men explore the moon's surface.

For Apollo 9, McDivitt and Schweickart will fly up to 100 miles away from their command module and Scott must be ready at all times to maneuver to their rescue if the lunar module landing craft were disabled.

"He has to be ready at any time to take over in case we have problems, and rescue us," Schweickart said at a news briefing last week at the Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp., plant where the lunar module was built.

"Dave will be busier than the proverbial one-armed paper hanger."

Apollo 9 is scheduled for launch into earth orbit Feb. 28 and all three crewmen will ride into space in a command module identical to the one the three Apollo 8 astronauts flew around the moon in December.

The four-legged lunar module will be carried aloft in a tapered shell between the command craft and the top stage of Apollo 9's Saturn 5 rocket. Once orbit is achieved, the pilots will turn their command module around and hook up to the lunar module.

It will mark the first time the complete, tandem spacecraft will be together in space. Only one lunar module has flown in orbit and it went up alone and unmanned.

After thoroughly checking the Apollo 9 lunar module for four days in orbit, space veteran McDivitt and Schweickart, who will be making his first flight, will break their link with the command ship and fly off using the lunar module's landing engine.

"Jim and I will be leaving Dave in a three-man spacecraft that takes three men to run," Schweickart said, noting that Scott must monitor the command module's systems while constantly preparing to speed to the lunar module's rescue.

For each maneuver the lunar module makes, Scott will be ready to fly the command ship along a mirror image of the lander's course to complete the rendezvous.

The lunar module was specificially designed to carry out the vital rendezvous operations and it has radar and computers to do it. The command module does not have radar but, as proven when Apollo 7 rendezvoused with its orbiting rocket stage, it can negotiate the tricky space chase.

The separation of the two manned spacecraft will be the riskiest part of the entire 10-day Apollo 9 mission. The lunar module is not capable of returning to earth and its pilots must get back to the command ship to get home.

"He has the heat shield and that's added incentive to get back," Schweickart quipped.

If a catastrophe blocked the return of the two lunar module pilots, one man could pilot the command module back to earth. The ship could even make a solo flight home from the moon if necessary.

Peninsula Club Elects Officers

Also re-elected was Alan W. Cundall as vice president. Tina Dewey was named secretary and Frank Holzinger, treasurer.

New board members elected were Holzinger and James H. Ewert. Roberta Brunstetter and Richard F. Tyler were re-elected to the board.

Collision Injures Woman Motorist

Candida E. Wilson, 23, of 805 Diablo Avenue, Apt. 28, Novato, was treated for scalp bruises yesterday at Hamilton Air Force Base Hospital after her sports car was forced off Highway 101 by a truck and hit another car, the California Highway Patrol said.

The patrol said she was driving north through Marinwood when she tried to pass a panel truck and the truck driver cut in front of her forcing her car into the center divider. Her car spun and hit a car driven by John E. Durando, 22, of San Francisco.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Girls who Fear Adolescence May Suffer Anorexia Nervosa

VAN DELLEN

Those with anorexia nervosa are usually girls who consciously, or unconsciously, do not want to reach adolescent proportions. It is, in essence, a weight phobia and usually related to the problem of growing up.

Mary, a tall 17-year-old high school senior, was extremely emaciated. She was from 40 to 50 pounds underweight, and nothing but skin and bones. Her parents brought her in for consultation.

AFTER SITTING DOWN, the mother began a tirade: "Mary refuses to eat, claiming that she has no appetite. This girl has not gained an ounce for more than a year and, if anything, has lost weight. We have tried everything. What a pity, she has not developed and no longer menstruates. What can we do?"

Further questioning revealed that she ate occasionally, especially when forced. The parents discovered that Mary often hid the food or induced vomiting.

They also found a bottle of Epsom salt, indicating that she may have purged herself.

Mary had very little to say, except that she didn't want to get fat like other members of the family.

IT WAS OBVIOUS tha there was more than a poor appetite involved. Our diagnosis of anorexia nervosa was confirmed when tests for other causes of emaciation were ruled out.

She was referred to a psychiatrist who recommended immediate removal from the home environment so that he could build her up and reorient her attitude toward food. Tranquilizing drugs were most helpful.

This phobia is difficult to cure and treatments lasting two or three years are not unusual. Anorexia nervosa is associated with growing up and the slightest gain in weight produces apprehension and disgust.

Because the parents are as upset as the victim, the entire affair is charged with emotional overtones.

Even if nothing is done, the individual eventually makes a fair recovery.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

MOBILE TB TESTS

Mrs. P. V. writes: When the chest is X-rayed in the TB mobile units, would cancer of the lung also show up?

REPLY

Shadows that could represent malignancies will show up on these small films. When this occurs, the individual is told to contact his physician, who usually orders a standard chest X-ray that shows more detail.

Today's Health Hint — Never smoke in bed, especially after drinking or when exhausted.

TRAIN TRASH

They have seen the high mountain ranges of California, rolled through the desert lands of New Mexico and paused for a drink in Idaho's rolling hills. They have felt the chill of Oregon nights and sweltered under the dry heat of Arizona summer. Each day the tread of passengers, the quicker speeds and the newer lives took a little bit of their strength and their value.

Throughout the west they have served all their lives. Now, too tired to care what happens, they come with broken bodies, cracked, aged and obsolete, rolling their last miles until, at their final destination, they sit on 1200-foot-long railroad tracks and silently wait.

They no longer hear the conversations of passengers, the cries of trainmen or the vacant words of vagrant hitchhikers. It has been replaced by men working carefully about them, clearing the interior or turning on the cutting torches. Couplers, wheels, springs and other solid metals fall away with their memories.

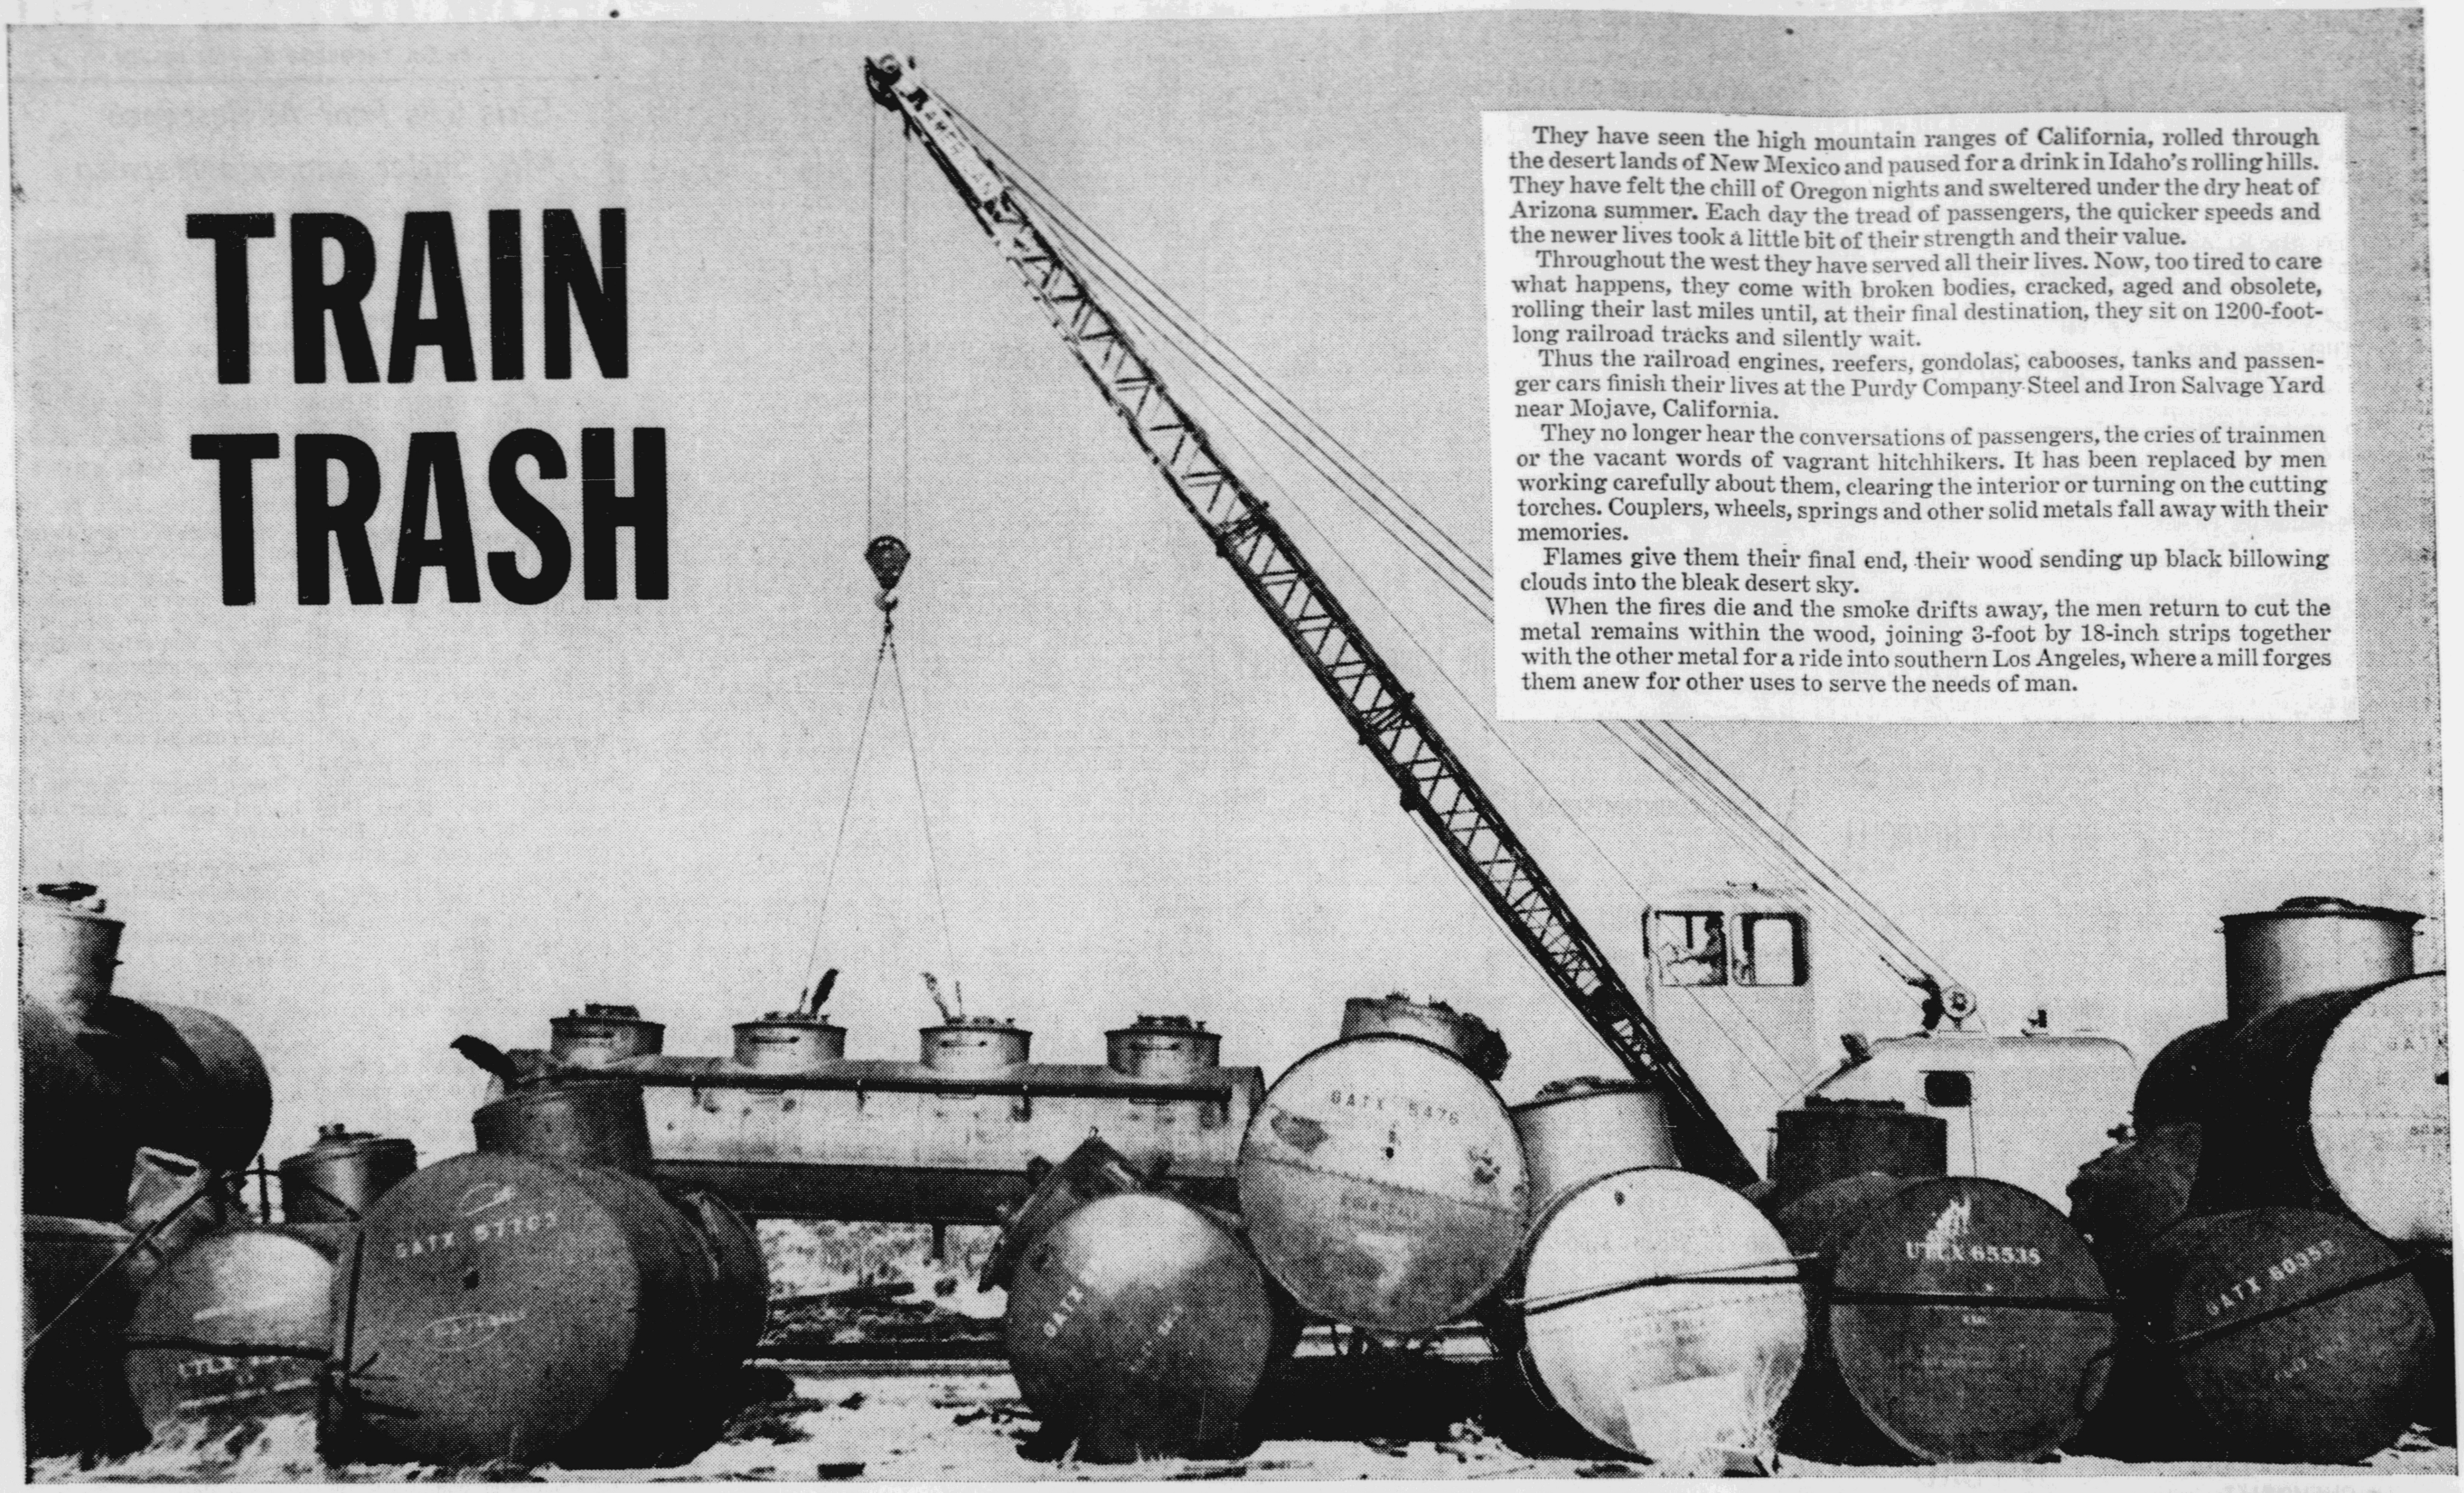
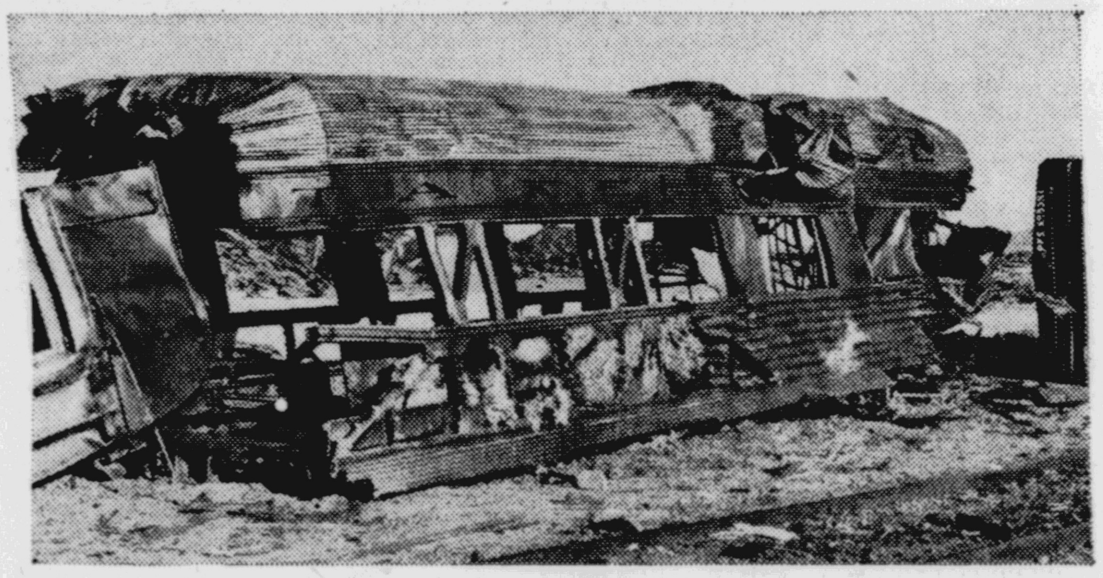
When the fires die and the smoke drifts away, the men return to cut the metal remains within the wood, joining 3-foot by 18-inch strips together with the other metal for a ride into southern Los Angeles, where a mill forges them anew for other uses to serve the needs of man.





The empty shell of what was once a silver bullet on land.

Only metal remains to be cut into size for shipping.

The last moments for a Southern Pacific freight car.

Patterns of springs form a miniature mountain.

Span Board Jobs Held No Conflict

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A supervisor can serve as a Golden Gate Bridge director without conflict of interest, City Atty. Thomas M. 'Connor said yesterday.

He pointed out that the California Legislature amended the State Streets and Highway Code last year, approving that up to four bridge directors could be members of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors.

Earlier a court had ruled that the duties of supervisor and director were incompatible.

O'Connor made his ruling after the appointment to the bridge board of supervisors Ronald Pelosi and Peter Tamaras.

Red China Rejects Hong Kong Parcels

HONG KONG (AP) — A postoffice spokesman said today that about 80 per cent of all parcels sent by people in Hong Kong to friends and relatives in China in the last two months had been rejected by the Communist authorities.

"Chinese authorities have not said why the parcels are being sent back," he said. Most of them contained food, medicine and clothing.

Students To Stage Benefit For Biafra

Students at Sir Francis Drake High School will hold a fair from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday at the school to benefit the Bay Area Committee to Save Biafran Children.

The fair will include a food and miscellany sale, and an arts and crafts display. A program of music, dancing and skits will be presented at the school's little theater at 1:30 and 8 p.m.

Two Guards Shot In London Holdup

LONDON (AP) — Two security men were shot in an attempted payroll robbery outside a bank in south London today.

"The two men were badly injured while collecting a payroll from the bank," a spokesman for the security company said. A spokesman for the bank said the three attackers fired five shots and fled by car without the money.

Police Probing Bombing, Shots

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — Police are investigating a bombing and a shooting in the continuation of a series of violent incidents on the San Francisco Peninsula.

A lead pipe-and gunpowder explosive blew out windows in a machine shop located under a War on Poverty office near Redwood City, apparently Monday night. The damage was discovered yesterday.

In Menlo Park, bullets smashed a replaced window at Roy Keppler's book store, the target of gunshots, bricks and other missiles the past four months. The latest incident occurred early yesterday.

Kepler, a political liberal and pacifist, owns another book store at Los Altos where a stink bomb was thrown last week.

KQED (9), 9:30 p.m. — "Performance" offers "Dances of West Africa," unusual performances by two major companies: L'Ensemble National du Mali, by special arrangement with L'Institut National des Arts de la Republique du Mali, and the Ghana Dance Ensemble, a product of the Institude of African Studies of the University of Ghana. The program was filmed during the group's appearance in the Bay Area on their first American tour.

Traffic Courts Condemned As Fine Collectors

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Too often drivers charged with traffic offenses "find themselves in courts which seem to be in business only to collect fines," an American Bar Association spokesman says.

Such courts appear to have a "sublime disregard for the administration of justice," added Donald D. DeWitt, who addressed some 80 traffic court judges Tuesday at the Western Regional Traffic Court Conference.

Most Americans' only contact with the courts is during automobile traffic cases, he said, adding that he has seen courts where "contested cases were disposed of at a rate of better than one a minute."

Such speed, he continued, deprives the defendant of his day in court although a defendant may be jailed, lose his license, be forced to pay higher insurance rates or face civil liability in a case.

Plea Set In Shoplifting

Donald Lawrence Hall, 38, of 124 Maywood Way, San Rafael, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on charges of shoplifting and receiving stolen property.

He is to enter a plea Tuesday.

Hall was arrested Jan. 20 after an Emporium guard allegedly stopped him for shoplifting. Police said they found $1,600 worth of clothes in his car from at least 10 different stores.

Federal Tax Hike Hasn't Hurt Spending

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The 10 per cent federal income tax surcharge which went into effect last July 1 cut the worker's take-home pay, but it apparently didn't affect his inclination to spend it.

In fact, consumers in California spent a record $9.97 billion in the first three months after the tax was imposed.

"It appears the people went into their savings, or borrowed money to buy things," remarked John B. Marshall, senior statistician in the research and statistics unit of the State Board of Equalization.

"The surtax was supposed to cool down the economy," he said, by reducing the wage earner's take-home pay.

But the effects of the higher tax were offset in California by higher levels of employment, higher personal income and inflation.

The board of equalization's report for the third quarter of 1968, the July-September period, shows taxable sales reached a record $9,969,545,000 in the state — even greater than the final quarter of the year before, which included the Christmas season.

Figures aren't in yet for the final quarter of 1968, but Marshall said there are indications that the effect of the surtax on consumer spending began to appear during the last three months of the year.

However, Roy Bell, assistant state finance director, says partial figures indicate that in automobile sales, residential construction and department store purchases, "The trends have been pretty good."

Bell said the Finance Department probably will have to adjust its estimates of sales tax revenue to reflect the lack of impact from the surtax.

In its last estimate, prepared in May, the department reduced by $11.6 million its figure for anticipated retail sales and use tax collections.

But during the July-September period, the first three months of the current fiscal year, the Board of Equalization shows collections came to $398.8 million — an increase of 22 per cent over the same period a year earlier.

More than half the increase, the board said, was caused by a one per cent increase in the sales tax on Aug. 1, 1967. But the rest of the increase came from higher spending.

In all, the state sales tax brought in $406.3 million during the third quarter of last year.

Marshall and Bell agree that the real impact of the higher federal income tax will show up in the next three months.

"By April 15," said Bell, "a lot of people are in for a rude awakening." That's the deadline for filing state and federal income tax returns — and paying the higher federal tax.

Ann Curtis Cuneo's Race With A Seal

ANN'S AWARD—The Sullivan Award bestowed on Sacramento swimmer Debbie Meyer the other day brings to mind Marin resident Ann Curtis Cuneo's similar honor a quarter-century ago.

The James E. Sullivan Award annually goes to the outstanding Amateur Athletic (AAU) athlete "... who by performance, example and good influence did the most to advance the cause of good sportsmanship during the year," and Mrs. Cuneo was the first swimmer to win it in 1944. Then a teen-aged star for Coach Charles Sava's famed Crystal Plunge Team of San Francisco, Ann was the sensation of the nation as she set flocks of records and capped a brilliant amateur career by winning two gold medal and one silver at the 1948 Olympic Games in London.

Now the operator of a successful swim club and school in San Rafael, Mrs. Cuneo has many mementoes of her fabulous aqua career, but there is one experience she'd just as soon forget.

She Calls It 'Disgusting'

That happened shortly after she turned professional and toured the country in a series of speed and synchronized swimming exhibitions. Then one day the promoter of the show dreamed up a gimmick that to Ann was "disgusting." She recalls: "I was supposed to race a real live seal. Can you imagine? My mother was mortified; I was appalled."

It as a cheap carnival type stunt comparable to Joe Louis turning to slapstick wrestling following such a distinguished athletic career, but Anny finally relented to her promoter's "brainstorm."

"Naturally," she said, "I couldn't come close to beating the seal in a race, even with the aid of swimfins. It was foolish. One night the seal crossed the tank and came right beside me. When I lifted my head to breathe, there it was, staring me in the face. I was so frightened I nearly jumped right out of the pool. That was all of THAT foolishness; the seal was with us only one week but it was a week too long."

Better Times With Follies

Ann later enjoyed a more dignified pro career when she starred for two years with the Aqua Follies. Not a seal in sight.

JIM SHORTS:

Martin Berzewski, an Air Force champ for several years, has taken over the coaching duties for the Hamilton Field boxing team, succeeding the retired Bill Ross. Berzewski has entered 125-pound Mel Harper and welterweight John Kennedy, defending champs, in the 39th annual Golden Gloves championships Feb. 7-11 and 14 at San Francisco's Winterland Arena.

Word from San Jose State College reports that Mike Hinrichs is a member of the Spartan gymnastics team, specializing in the high bar, and Steve Spurling of San Rafael is a member of the varsity judo squad.

The new Sears Point Raceway in southern Sonoma County had its first casualty the other night: A workshed perched atop a knoll was blown to smithereens during Saturday night's rain and windstorms.

CORLEY STEPS OUT

Lucas Named Athletic Boss At Terra Linda

Don Lucas, eight-year coach at Terra Linda High School, has replaced Bob Corley as athletic director, the school announced yesterday.

The change was effective for the spring semester, which started Monday. Corley will remain as Terra Linda's varisty basketball and junior varsity baseball coach. Corley has been at Terra Linda High six years.

Lucas has coached frosh and junior varsity football in addition to varsity football, and has been head varsity coach the last two years, with Marin County Athletic League co-champion teams both those years.

He also coached varsity baseball six years before switching to freshman baseball when he became head grid coach. He's a graduate of San Francisco State and earned his master's degree at University of Oregon.

New Foe For Folley In Fight Tonight

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Sonny Moore of Dallas has been signed to replace Tommy Fields of Los Angeles in a heavyweight bout with Zora Folley tonight.

Fields told the Nevada State Athletic Commission yesterday he was not able to fight Folley at the Silver Slipper.

49ers Go For Speed In Draft

NEW YORK (UPI)—Everybody knows the San Francisco 49ers can grind out the yardage, but Coach Dick Nolan wants his 1969 team to explode now and then, too.

The Prospectors had two first-round picks yesterday and went for All America tight end Ted Kwalick and East-West game sensation Gene Washington of Stanford, another pass catcher. Washington is a speedster and the 235-pound Kwalick has remarkable speed, too.

They had no second or third round picks but then grabbed both Jim Sniadecki, Indiana linebacker, and Occidental running back Gene Moore, another swiftie, in the fourth round.

San Francisco also chose big tackle Earl Edwards of Wichita State, receiver-running back Jim Thomas of Arlington State, and tackle Steve Van Sinderen of Washington State.

Raiders Get Hefty Linemen

Their first pick yesterday was 240-pound Art Thoms, defensive lineman from Syracuse. Then they picked 255-pound lineman George Buehler of Stanford, fullback-end Lloyd Edwards of San Diego State, and 250-pound defensive tackle Ruby Jackson of New Mexico State.

The Raiders pass rush fell off from 1967 to 1968, largely because tackle Tom Keating was out for the season. Oakland apparently wants to beef the defensive line up again and there is uncertainty if Keating can come back.

Oakland did not have a fifth round pick and then chose running back Ken Newfield of LSU and defensive back Jackie Allen of Baylor.

Second Day Of Grid Draft Gets Under Way

NEW YORK (AP) — The Buffalo Bills, who opened the pro football draft yesterday by selecting famed O. J. Simpson of South California, started the second day of the draft today by picking tackle James Harvey of Virginia Tech.

Harvey was picked in the eighth round by the American Football League Club. The 26 teams of the National Football League and the AFL drafted through seven rounds yesterday. They will complete the draft of fourth year collegians with 10 rounds today.

TARS IN HOME GAME TONIGHT

College of Marin's basketball team will be hosting Canada Junior College of Redwood City in Camino Norte Conference action tonight in Kentfield's gym.

Redwood Cagers Win Key Game

By GARY TISCHLER

Remember that four-way tie for first place in the Marin County Athletic League basketball race?

It is now a two-way tie and by late Friday night it won't be a tie.

The race decongested suddenly yesterday after Redwood High shot down Terra Linda 75-66 in Terra Linda, and ever-dangerous Tamalpais knocked off San Rafael 65-62 in Mill Valley.

The key Redwood-Terra Linda tussel, with both teams tied for the lead going into the game, was one of those wondrous shooting matches that are a joy to behold and awful for the losers.

Multi-talented Redwood, matched up even on the boards, turned to blazing speed, the hot hands of John Boro and slippery Jerry Piro to stop the Trojans.

Boro, who had only two points against Drake last week, put on an amazing show, whiffing in 13 fielders, including nine out of 13 in the first half to finish with 26 points.

Piro, twisting and squirming on drives against the slower Trojans, contributed 23 points, while fiery guard Skip Corsini popped in 12 points, including key buckets in Redwood's torrid first half that saw the Giants hold a 46-36 edge.

The Giants, switching from outside shooting to inside driving in the third quarter, increased their bulge to 64-57 at one point and held a 64-52 lead going into the final period.

Then Pat Purcell, Terra Linda's super-star all along, almost single-handed turned the whole game upside down and for six minutes nearly caught up with the Giants.

Purcell shot over and under the tight guarding of Piro and whipped in 10 points in a desperate spurt that brought the

The Hornets led by 10 points at the half, increased that to 18 with a 31-point barrage in the third period and won going away, despite a 24-point outburst by Marin Catholic ace Mike Murray.

Novato was paced by its scoring duo of Ed Herrnberger and Steve McNally, both of whom bagged 21 points.

Tamalpais Five Wins

Tamalpais High School cagers, who narrowly missed upsetting Novato High last week, didn't miss San Rafael and collared the Bulldogs 65-62 at Mill Valley yesterday.

The Indians made 27 of 34 free throws.

The Indians held a 12-point lead going into the final period and saw it melt and finally disappear as the Bulldogs took a brief 61-60 lead on a pair of free throws by Bill Sleezer. But a free throw barrage won it for Tamalpais.

Football star Don Mackin topped the Indians with 18 points, an output that included 10-for-10 from the free throw line.

Guard Bruce Nave popped in 19 points for San Rafael.

BARRY NOT MUCH HELP

West Stars Defeat East

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — "My knee is fine," says Rick Barry. "It's my body that's in bad shape."

Showing the effects of a month long layoff because of an injury, the Oakland superstar wasn't much help, but his West team still captured the second annual American Basketball Association All-Star Game last night, defeating the East 133-127.

"It's hard to say whether we would have won any bigger with Rick in good shape," said Alex Hannum, Barry's coach and also the coach of the West team.

"At Oakland, we've been winning as well while he was out as when he was playing. And in a single game like this, you never can tell."

The West team didn't shoot well, and couldn't hold on to leads that it built up several times. With 3:30 to play, the West had a 16-point margin, but the East whittled it to three with 59 seconds remaining.

"If we hadn't made that crucial error in front of our bench, we might have pulled it out," said Kentucky's Gene Rhodes, who was pressed into service as the East coach only 12 hours before the game.

Jim Harding of Minnesota was fired as the East coach after he and a Minnesota official had a fight at a party. Harding's fate as the Minnesota coach reportedly hasn't been decided yet.

Rhodes was referring to a pass that Louie Dampier of Kentucky threw out of bounds in the final minute of play, when the difference was three points.

After that, Larry Brown of Oakland hit a free throw and Warren Davis of Los Angeles canned a 15-footer to give the West its final margin.

John Beasley of Dallas was voted the Most Valuable Player. He and Red Robbins of New Orleans shared scoring honors for the West with 19 points each.

The West victory evened the All-Star series in the ABA at one game for each side. Next year's All-Star Game will be Jan. 27 in Miami Beach.

Kennedy To Manage Senators?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert E. Short, new owner of the Washington Senators, will dismiss the general manager, field manager and farm director of the American League baseball team before the 1969 season, The Washington Post reported last night.

The newspaper, in a story by Sports Editor Shirley Povich in its Wednesday editions, said all three officials would be relieved of their present jobs by the time of spring training.

Jim Lemon's post as manager is being offered to Bob Kennedy, former manager of the Chicago Cubs and the Oakland Athletics, the Post said.

The newspaper said no decision had been made on replacements for George Selkirk, general manager for the past six years, and Hal Keller, the farm director.

Selkirk's contract extends through 1970, and Lemon has another season to go on a two-year contract. Lemon succeeded Gil Hodges a year ago when the former Brooklyn Dodger great took over the helm of the New York Mets.

After Selkirk took over as general manager in 1963, the Senators finished 10th, ninth, eight, eighth, in a tie for sixth and 10th. Last season's 10th place finish was accompanied by a drop of almost 30 per cent in home attendance.

The Post said Short is expected to offer other jobs with the club to both Selkirk and Lemon.

The newspaper story came after Short signed the papers yesterday completing purchase of the team. The $9 million deal gives the Minneapolis businessman control of 100 per cent of

The Post said Kennedy, fired by Oakland owner Charles O. Finley after the 1968 season, was offered the job as manager on Monday.

His 1968 Athletics finished 82-80 and in sixth place, one game out of the first division. The year before, while in Kansas City, the A's were 10th in the league with a 62-99 mark under then Manager Alvin Dark.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Pro Dick Lotz of Hayward, grabbed first place in the opening pro-am event of the Andy Williams San Diego Open Golf Tournament, carding a two-under par 70 in the rain and hail.

The low card yesterday was worth $250 to Lotz, who toured the soft south course at Torrey Pines. Carding 69 to win on the easier, but also par 72 north course were John Jacobs, Bob Boldt and Al Balding.

A driving hailstorm hit the course in the afternoon and several foursomes picked up and came in.

Pros arriving from the Bing Crosby Tournament began play in today's second day of the pro am.

The 72-hole open, with prizes totaling $150,000, starts tomorrow and runs through Sunday on the Torrey Pines course. The winner will pick up $30,000.

Last year's San Diego Open winner, Tom Weiskopf, is in the service and will not be playing.

107-100 OVER ROYALS

Warriors Win 3rd In Row

DETROIT (AP) — The San Francisco Warriors, having ended two years of frustration in Cincinnati, now aim for their fourth straight National Basketball Association victory tonight as they visit the Detroit Pistons.

The Warriors handed Cincinnati their fifth straight drubbing, defeating the Royals 107-100 last night for their first victory in Cincinnati in two years.

The triumph gave San Francisco a 23-28 record and opened the club's third-place Western Division lead over San Diego to 1½ games. The Warriors trail first-place Los Angeles by 11½ games. Detroit, 21-30, is sixth in the East.

San Francisco took the lead for keeps when Jeff Mullins hit a field goal late in the second period to make it 52-50.

The Warriors led by 10 points late in the third quarter.

But with 3:19 left in the game Cincinnati's Jerry Lucas closed the gap to 98-96. But the Royals then missed two shots and clutch baskets by Jim King and Rudy LaRusso put the Warriors out of reach.

LaRusso was high for San Francisco with 39 points, season high for him. Mullins netted 25 points for the victors. Oscar Robertson was Cincinnati's top man with 25 points.

HERB MICHELSON

Cartoonist Could Save Oakland Ice Franchise

OAKLAND — Picture the Oakland Snoopys, the most courageous team in the history of the National Hockey League, men of dreams and vision. Or perhaps the Oakland Lucys, a hard-checking unit of skaters that would nag the opposition into submission and reach the Stanley Cup finals on the basis of sheer nerve.

I am thinking, of course, of Mr. Charles Schulz, who makes the "Peanuts" pictures, and is a Minnesota ice nut in exile and presently has a rink a-building in Santa Rosa.

This is not to say that Mr. Schulz, who attends nearly every Seal game over here, is about to buy the impoverished, stranded, orphaned, black sheep of the family hockey team.

But why not?

THE SEALS are for sale, preferably to local interests. Mr. Schulz is an extremely interesting local intetrest. As a mere spectator—or not so mere—he is attempting to build enthusiasm in the sport through constant plugs in the funny papers. Think of what he could do as an owner.

I have not made this suggestion to Mr. Schulz personally. Although we've passed in the aisles at the Oakland Arena quite frequently, we've never met. He wears to hockey games the kind of woolen reindeer sweaters I as a lad wore to hockey games. I dig that man. And his pictures. No one can convince me that Snoopy does not have a full-scale hockey rink in his never-seen doghouse interior. Mr. Schulz' dreams run that way.

ALL MR. SCHULZ. or anyone around here who wishes to buy the Seals, needs is maybe $3 million right away. That bread would get him a fancy piece of paper called a franchise, a five-year contract (apparently non-cancelable) at the Oakland Arena and a few leftover pucks, sticks and uniforms.

Not much for the money; but a start.

Mr. Schulz, or whoever, could figure on losing at least $1 million a year for the next two or three years — unless his team winds up in the playoffs and advances a couple of rounds. Playoffs, you know, were invented to cancel out losses during the regular season. Ask the men who own basketball teams.

THE PAYROLL for players might reach $400,000 a year. Then there are all those airplane trips and hotel rooms for 37 road games. Plus more than $100,000 for front office types. At least. It even costs money to have tickets printed. But oh what lovely tickets Mr. Schulz could print.

And consider the promotional possibilities. Mr. Schulz and his friends could lure youngsters to the Arena in overpowering numbers. The hockey power elite may be arrogant, but they surely must have room in their hearts for a weak-ankled Charlie Brown.

THE MORE I think about this prospect, the more delicious it seems. Will someone please speak with Mr. Schulz. Or will a potential purchasing syndicate please consult him.

Corley Building A Cage Force At Terra Linda

(Sixth in a series on Marin County Athletic League basketball coaches.)

So it may come as a surprise to some people that Terra Linda has a basketball team that is alive and well and winning under the guidance of a soft-spoken San Francisco State grad who considers his coaching job as essentially a teaching position.

"It's basically the same approach," Terra Linda basketball coach Bob Corley says. "Coaching is not a separate thing from teaching. You use classroom principles and conduct yourself the same way. You wouldn't use profanity in the classroom and you wouldn't manhandle anybody.

SAME OBJECTIVE

"You're trying to teach the boy fundamental techniques. You both have the same objective. You try to create rapport as in a teacher-pupil relationship over a prolonged period of time."

Corley, who migrated permanently to California from Peoria, Ill., after getting his degree from San Francisco State, is in his sixth year of coaching at Terra Linda, his third as varsity coach. And he has always wanted to be a coach.

"I had an idea I wanted to coach when I was playing high school ball," he said. "I knew what I wanted early."

Corley, who recently resigned as Terra Linda athletic director because of conflicting duties, feels that the school's proud football tradition helps the rest of the athletic program.

"Football sort of sets the tone," he said. "And we don't have any intra-sport rivalry. We'll have a boy like Jack Mansur (all-league defensive end) who brings a winning tradition and spirit with him to the basketball team."

Corley thinks a coach should leave himself open for any boy who has problems but neither does he want to become one of the boys.

"There should be a certain amount of separation between the player and the coach," he said. "I don't want them to start calling me Bob, or things like that."

Still, Corley takes his players to San Francisco Warrior games and baseball games. He may have occasion to treat them to a feast, depending on the outcome of the league race. For the first time in his years as varsity coach, he has a reasonable facsimile of a loaded squad.

'GREAT BUNCH'

"They're a great bunch of kids," Corley says. "They work well together, on and off the court."

The Trojans on a basketball court rarely get carried away in the heat of anger. Neither does their coach. Corley hasn't had a technical called on him in almost two years.

"You sort of keep it inside," he said. "I've officiated a little and you learn some humility that way."

He may not need humility this year if the Trojans go all the way.

Worldwide Trip In A Sailboat

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The first fiberglass sailboat to circumnavigate the globe has completed its voyage but skipper Alan Eddy of Scarsdale, N.Y., feels the trip won't be complete until he returns here in December.

Eddy sailed his 30 foot ketch Apogee from Catskill, N.Y., in 1965 and recently crossed his track in the West Indies. In three years Eddy fulfilled his desire to see as much of the world as possible.

He visited over 400 anchorages and traveled 36,000 miles. He was under sail for a full year of the trip. His passage was single handed until he reached Africa where he took on a mate to finish the last leg of the Atlantic crossing.

Australians Want Open Davis Cup

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — The Australian Lawn Tennis Association wants the Davis Cup open to professionals but doubts if the international body will grant its wish.

The association's annual conference today adopted a recommendation from last month's four-nation tennis summit in Adelaide to press immediately for open Cup matches.

The vote on allowing professionals to play in the Cup probably will be debated at the annual conference of the Davis Cup nations in London in June.

Novato Teen Sets Pace In Bowling

Terry De Young, one of Marin County's top bowlers, has averaged 211 in 30 games at five different bowling houses to lead qualifiers in the Bay Area Bowling Propietors Association all-star eliminations.

De Young, 19, has totaled 6,349 pins — with a high game of 278 — while bowling in Concord, San Jose, El Cerrito, Albany and South San Francisco.

The Novatan now has to bowl 16 games at Sunnyvale Bowl and another 16 games at Castle Lanes in San Francisco Saturday and Sunday.

Dick Treadway of Corte Madera, secretary of the Marin County Men's Bowling Association, also qualified for this weekend's Bay Area finals.

Top three finalists after this weekend's action will qualify for the national finals later this year in Hialeah, Fla.

Girl Allowed To Ride, Wins Against Men

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — Barbara Jo Rubin has created more interest as a rider than any woman who has climbed aboard a horse since Lady Godiva by winning her first professional race at Hobby Horse Hall Track.

Breaking from the number two position in the five-furlong sprint yesterday, Barbara Jo rode low on Fly Away, in contrast to the high riding style of the Bahamian jockeys.

The 109-pound, 19-year-old exercise girl-turned jockey won by three lengths against the men. Fly Away, a heavily favored sorrel quarter horse, paid $2.90, $2.45 and $2.20.

Marin Grid Stars Headed For Montana

Karl Stein and Bill Hickerson, two former Drake High School and College of Marin football greats, are becoming inseperable.

Stein and Hickerson signed letters of intent to the University of Montana in Missoula, Mont., UM football coach Wally Grown and recruiting representative John Hodgen of Novato announced yesterday.

Hickerson and Stein were both All-Marin County Athletic League gridders on Drake's 1966 championship squad, then went on to College of Marin to serve as all-leaguers in two different conferences and on two championship teams under coach Dick Read.

TITLE TEAMS

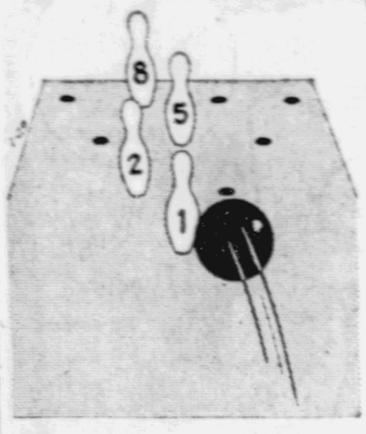
Stein, as a defensive halfback, and Hickerson, as a linebacker, took all-league honors in the Golden Valley Conference in 1967 and the Camino Norte Conference this past season. In both years, the Tars won or shared a title.

Brown said that Stein would be used as a kickoff return and punt return specialist as well as defenseive back while Hickerson would remain at linebacker.

The pair will take some winning touches to UM, which had a 7-3 record last season, playing in the Big Sky Conference.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



To convert the 1-2-5-8 into a spare, throw your strike ball. The 5-pin usually is the most troublesome in this set-up and a fairly good "pocket hit" is needed to bring it down along with the others.

How Marin Nurses Learned The Horse Racing Business

By GARY TISCHLER

Mrs. Freitas and her husband, Gil Freitas of the San Rafael Police Department, acquired the horse at Bay Meadows' season-end sale of horses in November of 1967, when Honey Bon Bon was a yearling.

Since then, she and Mrs. Biondo have acquired something of an insight into the intricate workings of the racing world, even if they haven't come up with a winner — yet.

EASY PART

One of the things they learned is that getting a horse is the easiest part. You don't just simply slap on a saddle, dump Eddie Arcaro on top and yell "Hiyo Silver" or "Hiyo Honey Bon Bon," as the case may be.

The horse became a two-year old last January. She was put in training in Pleasanton. Then came reams of red tape, such as getting her licensed, picking and verifying jockey colors, getting a jockey.

Honey at least showed promise.

"Her workouts were fabulous," Mrs. Freitas said.

Mrs. Freitas and Mrs. Biondo co-financed the horse, but all was not roses. Their first choice of trainer was not exactly the best, simply because they didn't know who to get.

"She started looking awful," she said. "So we asked advice from one of the stewards. We finally got Eddie Baneza, an ex-jockey. He was impressed with her. He's done beautifully with her."

Being a two-year-old makes it tough to get into a race. Her first race was against a field of horses who were all previous winners. Honey Bon Bon finished last.

The second time, at Bay Meadows, she finished seventh, then fifth at Pleasanton, and that is the extent of her racing experience, for now.

Most of the doctors, and quite a few of the patients, became interested in the two nurses with the horse. Some of the doctors even put a little money on her, and lost, naturally enough.

PATIENTS KNOW

"It's amazing," Mrs. Freitas said. "All of the patients seem to know about her, are interested in her and ask about her."

Now, Honey Bon Bon is a three-year-old. Mrs. Freitas has sold her part of Honey Bon Bon to Mrs. Biondo. And Honey Bon Bon, with something of a bright future, is in pasture in Santa Rosa.

"Once she wins her first race, her maiden, she'll be all right," Mrs. Freitas said. "She can do it."

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

After Bid Of Two Clubs Show Your Partner Both Major Suits

When you use two clubs as your only opening force to game, the first round of bidding is usually wasted. You bid two clubs, and your partner makes the negative response of two diamonds. Then you start with your real suit, and the bidding proceeds as though you had opened with a normal forcing two-bid.

HEART BID

The average player would open the South hand with two spades. North would make the weakness response of two no-trump, and South would bid three hearts. North would raise to four hearts, and South would wonder whether to bid again.

South has less of a problem after his opening bid of two clubs. North makes the negative response of two diamonds and then makes another negative response to two spades. Even though North can eventually raise hearts, South is convinced that slam is a bad gamble.

The dummy is better than expected, and South is sorry he stopped at game, but he must play the hand very carefully to make even 10 tricks. West opens the deuce of clubs, and dummy's ten forces the ace. South ruffs and makes a key play.

UNUSUAL PLAY

To be safe against even the worst break South must lead a low spade. West wins and leads the king of clubs. South's best play is to discard his low diamond (which he is bound to lose sooner of later).

West continues with a club to the queen, and South discards a spade. South gets to his hand with the ace of diamonds to ruff a spade with the ten, leads a trump to the nine and ruffs another spade with the jack.

DRAWS TRUMP

He then draws the last three trumps and claims the contract with the two top spades.

South would have made his contract even if he had ruffed the king of clubs, but he would have gone down if he had led the ace or king of spades at the second trick.

Partner opens with two clubs (artifical, and forcing to game), and the next player passes.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades.

You can well afford a positive response even though you suspect partner has a long, powerful heart suit as the basis of his force to game.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, Jan. 29, the 29th day of 1969 with 336 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Jupiter and Mercury. The evening stars are Saturn and Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1861 Kansas entered the Union as the 34th state.

In 1900 the American Baseball League was founded.

In 1964 the United States launched an unmanned Saturn rocket which crashed on the moon four days later.

A thought for the day: After the fall of France to Germany, Charles de Gaulle said, "France has lost a battle, but France has not lost the war."

COMPUTER AIDS AIR SURVEYS

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

A Speculative Portfolio Can Benefit By Upgrading

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am 60, retired on $400 monthly, with no children and $22,000 savings at 4 per cent. My stocks are Sherritt Gordon Mining, American Motors, First National Uranium Mines, International Rectifier and Otis Elevator. What do you recommend? — H.H.

A. Certain holdings are too speculative for your circumstances.

I'd keep the mining shares for the long term since only a limited amount of capital is involved. Sherritt has licensed its unique extracting process, which should eventually reap substantial profits. Hold Otis for income and gradual growth. International Rectifier reported a profit in the latest quarter and could work higher. Sell on recovery. Also sell American Motors.

Reinvestment in Iowa Public Service should work out well as its service area has experienced above-average industrial development in recent years. Its annual dividend increases are also attractive.

I'd take $10,000 of savings to purchase AA-rated American Telephone 6's of 2000, selling to yield 6.5 per cent and transfer the remaining $12,000 to a savings bank paying higher interest rates.

Q. For those interested in speculation, please comment on Eberline Instrument. I'm also interested in Spacerays. — R. J.

A. If you're bent on longer-term speculating and can afford the risk, my choice is Eberline.

Spacerays is revamping its corporate structure, planning a new product line and changing its name to Optical Controls, Inc., directed by a laser specialist and an expert marketer of sophisticated scientific devices. I would wait on this one until the new management comes up with some meaningful sales and earnings.

Wall Street Still Wary; Prices Mixed

Armour, a strong gainer, paced the most-active list.

Ling-Temco-Vought also rallied after a report that it expected higher profits this year.

Prices near the close included:

Armour, up 2 67; Ling-Temco-Vought, up 2J at 86; Glen Alden, up ⅛ at 19¼; Loew's Theatres, off 1½ at 52; American Telephone, 1⅜ at 54⅝; and Occidental Petroleum, off 1 at 46½.

Prices were irregularly higher on the American Stock Exchange. AMK Corp. warrants (when-issued) gained a fraction as they paced the list on volume. Warner Brothers-Seven Arts rose 2 while Kin-Ark Oil, Canadian Homestead, Banff Oil, Christiana Oil and Ling-Temco-Vought warrants advanced a point or better.

Court Rejects Plans To Merge Shipping Firms

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A plan to merge American President Lines, Pacific Far East Line and American Mail Line has been terminated as a result of a court decision, Ralph K. Davies, chairman of Natomas Co., which controls the three shipping companies, announced last week.

Davies said the companies will remain separate entities but will carry out a program of joint operating activities under a "coordinated agreement" which has received government approval.

On Dec. 18, 1968, the Federal Court of appeals for the Ninth Circuit held that the Federal Maritime Commission's approval of the merger plan was invalid because the plans of the companies had not been sufficiently specific. It remanded the case to the commission for further proceedings.

Davies said the three companies will achieve maximum efficiencies under terms of the "coordinated agreement." He said these activities will be principally in the field of operations and will be carried out by Consolidated Marine, Inc., a corporation jointly owned by the three companies.

INCOME TAX FACTS

Piggy Back Label Important To Prevent Report Mixups

Wikel

Just because you receive a notice from the IRS that you didn't file a return, or that your returns are delinquent, or some other notice, doesn't necessarily mean that the IRS is correct.

They make mistakes too.

One of which, about the end of June, was the mailing of a delinquency investigation record to a great many partnerships who had filed partnership returns for 1967, but for some reason the IRS record was not up to date.

Subsequently, the IRS mailed a letter of apoligy to the affected taxpayers, but many of them had already been put to considerable expense and trouble to reply to the false accusation.

'PIGGY BACK'

Generally we can eliminate our names from delinquency lists by using the "piggy back" label.

A "piggy back" label looks just like any other address label except that there are two copies, one on top of the other. When your return is completed, you should remove the top label from the forms sent you by the IRS (it peels off real easy) and stick it on the tax return you are sending in.

We are numbers although our last name is still important. That is, the first four letters are important. The IRS punches into the machine all nine digits of your Social Security number plus all of your name and address.

However, the machines only use the Social Security number plus the first four letters of your surname for identification purposes. If you use the piggy back label which the IRS sent you with your blank income tax return forms for 1969, the information will match perfectly and this should speed up handling and eliminate you from any delinquency list.

Be sure to list your complete address and Social Security number if you cannot use the piggy back label.

Write or print legibly, or type.

SHOW NAME

Show your name, address and Social Security number exactly as it appears on page 1 on all schedules accompanying the return.

All applicable items of income, tax computation and deductions should be filled in on the return form and schedules.

SIGN RETURN

Be sure to sign your return. If you file a joint return, both huband and wife must sign, even if only one of you had income.

A few extra minutes spent checking your tax return before you send it in could save you hours of explaining later in the year.

The most important income tax return today at the processing center is the income tax return with a refund due the taxpayer. These are given high priority and every effort is made to get that refund into your hands right away.

FedMart Dividends

SAN DIEGO (BW) — The FedMart Corp. has increased the company's annual dividend to 40 cents a share from 25 cents a share, and voted a 2 per cent stock dividend for the 10th consecutive year, payable March 15 to shareholders of record Feb. 15.

Big Apartment Unit Draws Some Concern

A high concentration of single adults in an apartment development might be bad for the Sausalito School District, school board members speculated last night.

Board members told Lawrence G. Throngard, representative of R. and B Development Co., they feared his 548-unit apartment project might bring in people who had no feeling for supporting the school district, and whose presence might keep families from moving into the area. The development would also raise land prices, further precluding families moving in, they said.

From the audience, Mrs. Charles Lester said members of the Sausalito Parents Club feared the development might create another "island" community to go along with Sausalito's four present groups — Marin City, the Army forts, the "hill people" and the waterfront.

Throngard and Richard L. Whitaker, city planning commissioner, explained the current status of R and B's plans, slowed by planning commission denial last week of a variance and ordinance amendment. The company will appeal to the city council.

The Sausalito School District board also:

Road Funds Revision Try Dropped

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Proposed legislation that would have denied Northern California some $40 million a year in highway funds was dropped yesterday by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael. (Other Sacramento stories, page 7.)

"I was trying for some peace and harmony between Northern and Southern California," McCarthy told the Independent-Journal, "but I can't get support for it."

He added that he would not try again to introduce such a measure. "Let some Southern Californian carry it," he said.

McCarthy's proposal, which never was introduced formally, would have changed Southern California's share of highway funds from 55 to 60 per cent.

Northern California long has resisted such a change in the sharing of the funds, which will reach almost $800 million this coming fiscal year. But the north's opposition is weaker each legislative session as the number of Southern California representatives increases.

About 60 per cent of the population of the state lives in the 13 southern counties, and about 56 per cent of the mileage in state highways is in the northern 45 counties.

The present formula has been in effect since the 1930s, when it was changed from a 50-50 formula.

Beef Bourguignonne Brings Best Flavor From Less Costly Meats

French chefs are known for their skill in turning less tender, less costly beef into culinary masterpieces. By adopting their techniques, you too, can gain a reputation as a wise shopper and good cook.

Hearty and elegant, Beef Bourguignonne is made with economical beef round or chuck. Long, slow cooking with a bit of burgundy wine makes the meat deliciously tender and develops the fine full beef flavor.

This is a great secret of the French. They know that less tender beef often has the best flavor. It can be the most desirable of all meats when cooked properly — for a long time, at low temperatures, and with some liquid.

The Burgundy in Beef Bourguignonne is the liquid that helps to make the beef tender, and it contributes distinctive flavor as well.

A dinner of Beef Bourguignonne may be simple or elegant. Here, it is shown served with rice in a pretty warmer, topped with tiny onions and sauteed mushroom slices. Hot popovers or brioche are a delicious accompaniment, along with tiny peas and a salad.

The clever cook, who enjoys compliments on her expertise in food shopping as well as compliments on dinner, will find a favorite in Beef Bourguignonne.

BEEF BOURGUIGNONNE

½ cup flour
2½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 pounds boneless beef chuck or round, cut into 1½ inch cubes
4 slices bacon, cut in 1-inch lengths
1 cup thinly sliced onion
½ cup thinly sliced carrot
1 clove garlic, minced
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 cup burgundy (or beef bouillon)
¼ teaspoon leaf thyme
¼ teaspoon leaf marjoram
1 beef bouillon cube
½ cup hot water
8 small whole onions
½ pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
6 servings hot cooked seasoned rice

Combine flour, salt and pepper; mix. Coat beef cubes well with flour mixture. Save leftover flour. Pan fry bacon in heavy skillet over moderate heat until crisp and lightly browned. Transfer bacon to large chicken fryer or Dutch oven with heatproof handle. Add onion, carrot and garlic to drippings; cook slowly until vegetables are tender, stirring often. Add drained vegetables to Dutch oven.

Add butter or margarine to bacon drippings; add meat cubes; brown over moderate heat, turning pieces as needed to brown evenly on all sides. Add meat to Dutch oven. Combine burgundy, spices and remaining flour mixture; mix and pour over beef. Add bouillon cube and water. Cover; cook over very low heat or in a slow oven (300° F.) until meat is fork tender, 2 to 2½ hours. Add small onions and mushrooms. Cover; cook just until vegetables are tender. Spoon mixture onto serving dish over a bed of hot rice. Yield: 6 servings.

Try A Little Soul Food On The Family Dinner Table

NEW YORK (UPI)—Soul food, like soul music, came out of Southern slave quarters and has gone everywhere the American Negro has gone.

Whites in all parts of the United States who have long dug the music are now digging into the food which leans to things fried and boiled. It has long been a tradition with white Southerners as well as Negroes.

Scores of soul restaurants catering to whites have sprung up in the North, their juke boxes inevitably loaded with mournful soul records. Truck drivers and longshoremen rub elbows with secretaries and the jet set over helpings of collard greens and hamhocks, black-eyed peas and hog jowls, barbecued ribs, candied yams, fried okra, corn bread and those crepes suzettes of soul gourmets, chitterlings.

Sweet potato pie is a favorite dessert.

Negro soldiers who served and settled overseas have opened soul food emporiums. Bangkok, Thailand, has two.

IN THE BROADEST definition soul food is anything cooked by people with "soul," or by the American Negro. Since black slaves or servants cooked most of the food in the South at one time, some authorities consider all traditional Southern cooking as soul.

A more basic definition of what has come to be known as soul food is the food the slave, and later the free black man and his former masters, prepared from the cheap meats and garden grown vegetables available to him.

Many soul dishes are fried or barbecued because this was the chief or only method of cooking. The dishes include foods, particulary pork parts, that often were discarded. These included pig intestines, (better known as chitterlings and pronounced "chitlins" by blacks and whites), fat back, hogs head, pigs feet and tripe.

These dishes were not meant to be delicacies, but a staple diet for a man putting in 12 hours of work. The poor meat parts were supplemented with fresh vegetables, often greens, and starchy foods —sweet potatoes, rice, noodles and dumplings. Corn breads also were important and such variants as hoecakes often served as an entire meal for the field hand.

These foods, some of which had poor flavors, were highly seasoned with salt, black and red peppers, chili, garlic and other spices.

Because of the nature of the food used, some dishes required much hard work and long hours to prepare. Chitlins, for instance, must be cleaned thoroughly, have the intestinal lining removed, then are boiled for four hours and sauteed or deep fat fried.

Soul possum requires an overnight soaking in cold, seasoned water, then a lengthy boiling and finally baking.

As the Negro improved himself economically, he was able to improve the quality of the food he bought. But he usually retained traditional dishes like fatback, hog jowls and chitlins. "These meals are still popular due to the 'soul' factor," says Inez Yeargan Kaiser, a Negro home economist and columnist who has collected a book of soul recipes, "Soul Food Cookery." "Here is an undeniable connective line, an emotional feeling and sentiment."

Angus Cooper, proprietor of the West Boon Dock of Manhattan's 10th Avenue, an "in" soul food restaurant, serves chopped sirloin and calls it soul because of the gravy and seasoning.

"We put on the gravy and that makes the difference." says the 32-year-old Cooper, who was born in Oxford, N.C. Most of the West Boon Dock's recipes came from Cooper's mother or his partner, Victor Gaston, originally from Wilson, N.C.

Two traditional Soul Food recipes:

CHITLINS SERVES SIX

Take 10 pounds of chitterlings, clean carefully in warm water, removing all the lining and leaving a bit of fat for flavoring. Cover in a pot with cold water, adding 1 onion, 1 cup vinegar, 1 small potato (to absorb odor, not to eat), 2 teaspoons crushed red pepper, salt, a clove of garlic and a teaspoon of dried parsley. Cover and cook for four hours or until well done.

Drain off liquid, leaving a little in the pot. Remove chitlins and cut into small pieces. Add black pepper and put back in pot with 2 tablespoons of vinegar. Simmer gentle for 20 minutes.

Or saute gently with 1 tablespoon of vinegar in bacon drippings until most of the liquid is cooked away.

Or dip pieces in beaten egg and cracker crumbs, and fry in deep fat until golden brown.—from Tuesday Magazine.

SWEET POTATO PIE

Ingredients: a 9-inch pie crust, 4 tablespoons margarine, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup sugar, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 cup top milk, 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind, 3 eggs, separated, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, 3 large sweet potatoes, cooked and mashed through a sieve.

Cream the margarine until soft; add salt and sugar and cream until sugar is blended and then add lemon juice and rind; add beaten egg yolks, cinnamon and sieved potatoes and milk. Mix thoroughly. Fold in stiffly beaten eggs whites and pour into the pie crust. Bake in hot oven 10 minutes then lower temperature to moderate and bake another 40 minutes or until knife inserted in center comes out clear.

From Eden To Pie, Apple Has A Past

Apples have a fabled past, from the Garden of Eden to William Tell, whose crossbow performed a lifesaving feat by expertly darting through an apple perched atop his son's head. Isaac Newton's law of gravity allegedly stemmed from the crowning of an apple as he sat under a tree.

With varieties for all seasons, now through spring is a high volume time for apples. Washington, New York, Michigan, Virginia, California, Pennsylvania and 29 other states turn out these juicy rounds that Johnny Appleseed had the foresight to plant in this country long, long ago.

Apples are happiest in a cold, dry area where they may be stored for some time. When buying, select those free from bruises with a complexion fitting their type.

"American as Apple Pie" is a popular cliche and our recipes are all-American beauties. Fresh Apple Cheese Pie has a Cheddar crust and the gentle bite of lemon and spices. Strips of the pastry pattern an attractive lattice look over the apple mixture. Serve the pie warm or cold.

Glazed Apple Pie is a duet of apples and cream cheese. This delicacy comes to the table chilled.

FRESH APPLE CHEESE PIE

1⅔ cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup grated Cheddar cheese
½ cup shortening
4-6 tablespoons cold water
2 pounds apples, pared, cored and sliced (6-7 cups)
2 teaspoons fresh lemon juice
⅔ cup sugar
2 tablespoons tapioca
½ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon salt

Sift flour and salt into bowl; mix in cheese. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse corn meal. Sprinkle water over flour-cheese mixture; mix gently. Form into a ball and chill 1 hour. Roll out ⅔ pastry into 13-inch circle; loosely fit into 9-inch pie plate. Combine apples, lemon juice, sugar, tapioca, cinnamon and salt; place into pastry shell. Roll remaining pastry into 6x12-inch rectangle; cut into 8 strips. Weave strips over filling to make a lattice top. Seal edges to pastry shell. Flute edge of pastry shell. Bake in 400°F. 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 375° F. Bake about 30 minutes longer or until apples are tender and pastry is lightly browned. Makes 1 9-inch pie.

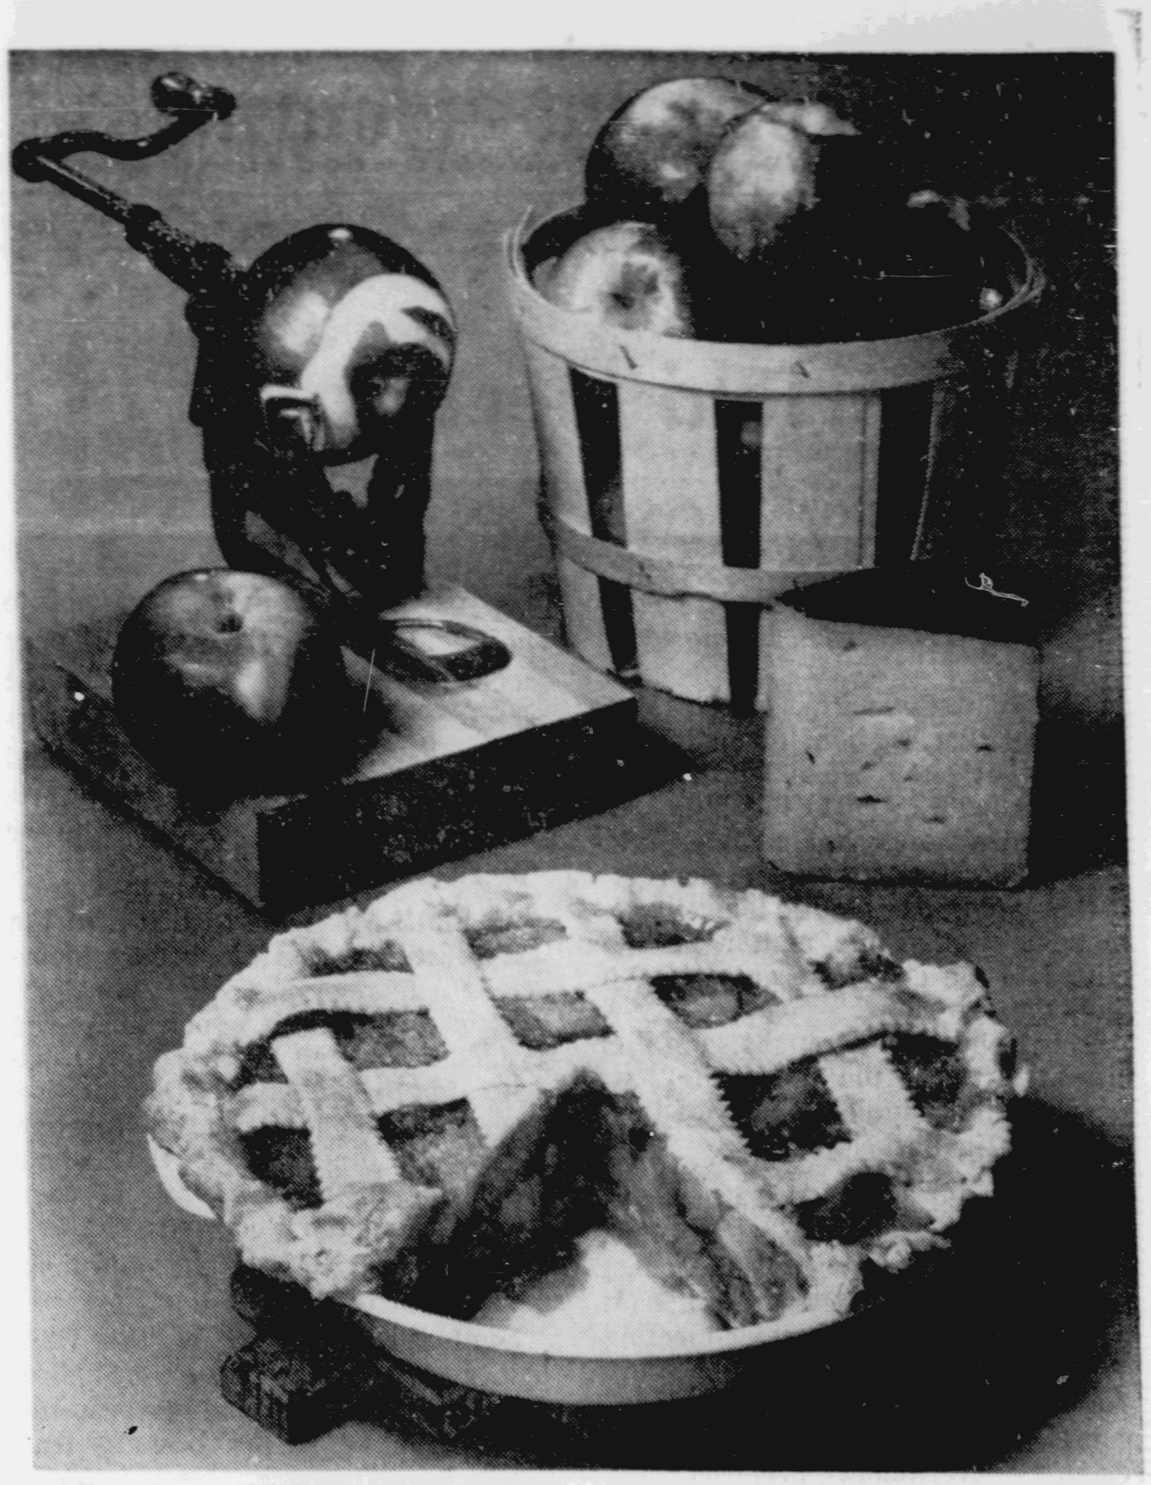
GLAZED APPLE CHEESE PIE

2 packages (3-ounces each) cream cheese, softened
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
Baked 9-inch pastry shell
⅔ cup water
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
½ cup sugar
1½ pounds apples
1 tablespoon cornstarch
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
1 tablespoon water

Combine cheese, 2 tablespoons sugar and lemond rind; spread evenly over bottom of pastry shell. Chill. Combine ⅔ cup water, lemond juice and ½ cup sugar in skillet; simmer 1 minute. Meanwhile, peel, core and cut each apple into 8 wedges. Place in syrup; simmer, covered, 2 minutes. Uncover and simmer until tender, basting frequently. Arrange apple slices over cheese layer. Combine cornstarch, nutmeg and 1 tablespoon water; stir into apple syrup. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and reaches boiling point. Carefully pour syrup over apples. Chill at least 2 hours before serving. Makes 1 9-inch pie.

Dinner Vegetable

Canned Blue Lake variety green bean can make a wonderful "family-dinner" vegetable. Turn drained beans into large baking dish (use 2 or 3 cans if your family is a big one), mix in a little catsup, Worcestershire and chopped onion and top with crushed cheese crackers that have been well moistened with melted butter. Heat uncovered in the oven.



WHO CAN RESIST juicy home baked apple pie? Cheddar cheese pastry adds a complementary flavor note.

Crab Legs Saute A Tasty Dish

4 tablespoons butter
1 clove chopped garlic
1 shallot, chopped
2 tablespoons chopped green onions
¼ pound sliced mushrooms
1½ pounds crab legs
Pinch white pepper
2 ounces sherry wine
½ pint brown sauce

Saute in butter mushrooms, garlic, onions, and shallot until tender, about five minutes. Add and continue to saute crab legs, white pepper, and sherry wine. Reduce sherry until almost dry, add brown sauce, and simmer until hot and mixed. Serves six.

Time-saver: Keep paper baking cups on hand and use these when you are baking muffins or cupcakes. No greasing necessary!

Some Hold Electorate In Very Low Regard

The democratic process is held in low regard these days in certain education circles.

The Joint Committee on Bay Area Regional Organization, formed to explore what sort of regional authority, if any, should come to the Bay Area, proposed a rather limited form after long deliberation and several hearings. It then proposed — quite logically, we thought — that the matter be submitted to the electorate as a referendum measure.

This, however, brought a bitter dissent from the Institute of Governmental Studies at University of California in Berkeley.

TWO PROFESSORS at the institute, Stanley Scott and Harriet Nathan, prepared a 13-page argument against any referendum. They presented it without success at last week's meeting of the Bay Area Transportation Study Commission, and no doubt will bring it before other bodies to which the regional government proposal was submitted.

A public plebiscite on the issue, declare these two political scientists, "would be ill-advised, undemocratic, prohibitively expensive, time-consuming, and an abdication of legislative responsibility." Further, it would make "a hazardous and unwarranted breach in the Bay Area's methodical, step-by-step and evolutionary process of organization for regional problems."

HOW COULD A REFERENDUM be undemocratic? According to Scott and Nathan, "The outcomes of referenda can be powerfully influenced by well-financed special-interest groups." And, "Opinion molding for referenda tends to be accomplished . . . by emotional appeals and scare tactics."

We will grant that these are dangers in a referendum. But we suggest that it is easier for well-financed special interest groups to buy a few political scientists or study group members than it is for them to buy the whole electorate. And we will suggest also that political scientists are not immune to emotional appeals or scare tactics.

Why, really, do these two professors oppose a referendum on a subtle but basic change in our governmental setup? We suspect the real reason is to be found on page 12 of their 13-page report, where they write: "If the referendum were held, and the proposal met defeat, the failure would leave a cloud over any further efforts to solve regional problems, with or without referenda."

A SIMILAR ABHORRENCE of the democratic process has been evidenced by members of the Tamalpais District Teachers Association, who argued before the Marin County Committee on School District Organization against an election on any unification plan for other than the whole Tamalpais district and all its component elementary districts.

Stripped of rhetoric, the objections come down to this:

Scott and Nathan of the U.C. Institute of Government Studies don't want the regional government proposal put before the voters for fear it will be defeated.

The Tamalpais District Teachers Association does not want any new unification plan put before the voters for fear it will pass.

Commodore William Vanderbilt expressed the same attitude more plainly and in far fewer words. He said: "The public be damned!"

Some Reasons

Since this is the season for taking inventories, we thought we'd make a listing of some of the reasons we like living in Marin. When we were finished, we found that the reasons fell into four rough catagories: Mild climate, easy access to San Francisco, plant life, animal life.

The last aspect appealed to us particularly. Marin is one of the few counties in the U.S. where the deer can eat your roses, you can be sprayed by a skunk, you can feed a raccoon, and quarrel with a jay and feed the quail — all in the course of a fairly normal day.

We can do without some of these things, especially the skunk bit, but in the long run they add up to interesting living.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Assemblyman Would Muzzle Challengers For His Office

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — A most peculiar bill, designed to disprove the old saying that "all's fair in love, war and election campaigns," has been given the Assembly by Leroy F. Greene, D-Sacramento.

This is AB 50, which the Sacramento assemblyman presented after a hard-fought and bitter campaing last fall, in which he emerged victor over the Republican candidate, Maynard Nelson.

Usually, politicians let well enough alone when they come out on the winning side, and the rules of the game are that "all is forgotten" once the votes are counted.

BUT NOT SO Greene, who has come up with the measure which would, in effect, preclude a challenger for a legislative seat from even quoting the record of the incumbent — which is a matter of public record anyhow in Senate and Assembly journals — without first presenting what the challenger has to say about the incumbent legislator.

Under the proposal, copies of all statements or campaign literature "mentioning or reflecting on voting record or official actions of an incumbent or former public" would have to be submitted before being issued.

And if the incumbent happened not to like the statement, he could call for a five-man arbitration board to "investiage and report" on violations. Further, if the arbitration board ruled in favor of the incumbent, he could collect the costs of the investigation.

This is something like requiring a business firm to submit an advance copy of its advertising program to a competitor, who could then use it to wipe out competition, or perhaps requiring a newspaper to submit copies of its exclusive stories to its opposition.

TO VOTING records of all legislators are matters of public record. If the legislator can't explain his vote in open debate, or through the press, why should he be allowed to prevent his competitor from making statements which can be backed by Senate or Assembly journals?

Misrepresentation is something else again, but here the incumbent is protected by libel and slander laws already on the statue books.

If the incumbent feels he is misquoted or "reflected upon" by his competition, he has the privilege of filing a libel or slander suit the same as any other citizen. There seems to be no reason why incumbent legisaltors should be protected by special laws, drawn for their own benefit and passed by themselves.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Lack Of Finances Plagues Museum

I read with regret David Cavagnaro's comments regarding his resignation as education director of the Louise Boyd Natural Science Museum. Unfortunately, neither he nor the other departed staff member pointed out the financial condition under which the museum struggles.

While the community enthusiastically participates in the educational classes and uses the museum's facilities, the public does not contribute enough financially to keep the wolf from the door. The museum cannot compete, salary-wise, with the other museums. I can understand the woes of the staff. However, as a volunteer and member of the board of trustees, I have seen a great improvement in the general operating procedures during the past year. There has been a period of rapid growth and in order to finance such growth more public money is needed along with grants in aid. The museum's greatest beneficiary will be you of the community. The museum needs the financial support of the community more than ever before.

Studies, Studies —And Greyhound

I have been reading once again about the Marin transit farce. We are now told that we are going to get a new bus service; however, they (supervisors) will have some more studying to do first.

It's beyond human comprehension and understanding how a supposedly intelligent community (Marin County) has stood for the rape of the treasury in this matter and still is apathetic toward the issue. In the last 15 years, Marin County has seen millions spent on transit surveys and studies. The results always end up in the wastepaper basket and the officials go out and spend a few more million for the same studies.

The Marin Transit Board, the ABAG development, Bay Area Transit Study, the San Francisco Transit Study Commission, etc., etc., etc., etc. These are just a few of the "farce groups." What do we have after our millions of dollars of expenditures? We have Greyhound, whose fares have risen 500 per cent in five years, who give us the world's worst servive and could care less. In 1941, before the NWP was abandoned, it took no longer than 50 minutes to San Francisco by any route. Today by Greyhound you are lucky to reach San Francisco in one hour and 40 minutes.

I say this is a disgrace and the people of Marin should keep replacing supervisors until we get results and action now — not 50 years from now. Marin has always excelled in being archaic and out of the times. Its transportation system belongs in the stone age.

Private Enterprise Does It Better

A call to the PG&E this month about a suddenly higher gas bill brought an immediate visitor to our house from the company. In the midst of driving rain and ankle-deep mud he conducted an inspection which disclosed a leak under our home.

As the rainstorm continued, a crew of men arrived who labored through the evening in darkness and deep water to make repairs. They were notable not only for their promptness and industry but for their courtesy.

We were forcefully reminded of the recent perorations of William Bennett, Governor Brown's state utilities commission chief whose tenure extended into the Reagan administration and was promptly replaced the moment his time expired. A devotee of government ownership, Bennett apparently spent his time in office and his political power to fight these private companies which serve us—to our mind, something of a misuse of a public utilities commissioners' position.

We wonder about the outcome of our situation had we been forced to rely on an organization comparable with the Post Office. There are many hard-working, conscientious individuals within the Post Office system, including many who serve us locally. The fact remains that the total service grows ever more erratic, slow and expensive. . . .

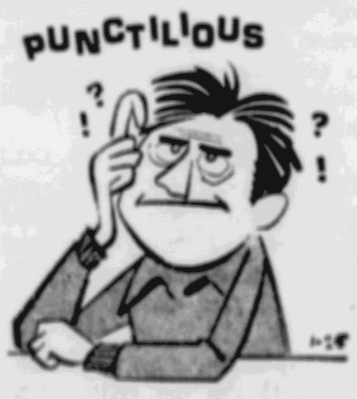
TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

Demoted to the bottom of the class was the smart-aleck who requested to use the word "punctilious" in a sentence, came up with, "I've got one sister named Lizzie and another named Tillie; Lizzie's a honey, but I can't find words to describe how punk Tillie is!"



There is practically nothing that you cannot find today in California — if you know where to look for it. A school, for instance, where a deadly serious course in the art of the strip tease is part of the curriculum. The course — very popular, by the way — includes:

1. History and theory of the strip tease.
2. Psychology of inhibitions.
3. Controlling structural components of the anatomy.
4. Elementary bumps and grinds.

Senate Investigation Needed In Affair Of The Pueblo

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — From hero to threatened court-martial — that's a pretty rapid demotion for Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher of the Pueblo.

This court-martial warning may be just routine, as one Navy spokesman said, but it doesn't sound so and did not come at a very routine moment at the court of inquiry where five admirals were hearing Commander Bucher's account of the seizure of his ship by the North Koreans.

This whole thing doesn't look good; it doesn't smell good, and it probably isn't going to persuade the public that everythings on the up and up.

IT IS CLEAR by now that the Senate Armed Services Committee must undertake an independent investigation if we are to have a good chance of getting at the facts objectively and of reaching a judicial verdict as to who's guilty of what.

Why a Senate investigation? For good reasons.

The evidence is beginning to show that if Commander Bucher used doubtful judgment during the seizure there was also doubtful judgment at the higher echelons of the Navy itself.

It is unreasonable and unrealistic to expect or to allow the Navy to be jury, judge and executioner all in one.

A more detached look at the evidence and a more detached judgment are imperative. Sen. John H. Stennis, chairman of the Armed Services Committee, is neither pro-Bucher nor anti-Bucher; he is neither pro-Navy nor anti-Navy. He would conduct an honest and competent inquiry which would deserve public confidence.

THE RECENT record of some Pentagon brass strains credibility beyond endurance. It shows that there are those in the services so eager to shield themselves from uncomfortable facts that, when a subordinate tells something to the public or to the Congress, the tendency is to punish him.

Examples: A Navy civilian petroleum inspector uncovered massive thefts of U. S. military fuel in Thailand. His overseas assignment was abruptly ended. An Air Force efficiency expert told Congress about the unexpected and mounting costs of the giant C-5A transport. An Air Force official prepared a memo showing three different ways he could be fired. Congress stepped in to prevent it.

THE SEIZURE of the Pueblo was a national disaster, and Navy bias must not be allowed to stand in the way of bringing out all the facts and of assessing responsibility wherever it reaches.

The warning that Bucher may be turned over to a court-martial rests mainly on these questions: Did he do everything possible to avoid capture? Was he so powerless against the superior North Korean force that resistance would have meant total and senseless slaughter of the whole crew?

Bucher's answer is an unqualified yes.

BUT THERE ARE other questions which bear upon the judgment of his superiors.

Why wasn't the Pueblo adequately equipped to destroy secret equipment and classified documents?

Why weren't Bucher's pleas for better radar and communications heeded?

Why wasn't the Pueblo more fully equipped to defend itself?

Why was it directed into hositile waters without nearby air support at the ready?

Sen. Peter Dominci, R-Colo, says that testimony before the Navy's inquiry conflicts directly with testimony Navy officials gave to Congress last year.

In fairness to the public, to the Navy and to Commander Bucher, the Senate Armed Services Committee ought to go after the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Experts Think Mid-East War Avoidable—For Now

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — Top experts here, with many hedges and qualifications, are saying that the outbreak of all-out war in the Middle East can be avoided for the present.

That is the word now being conveyed to President Nixon's top aides in a series of foreign policy briefings.

In these discussions Middle East experts qualify their assessments by noting that an almost daily run of border incidents, reprisals, and counter-reprisals carries a constantly serious threat of escalation. Weighing chances for and chances against, however, they conclude that odds are against a major conflict.

TWO FACTORS are being cited as tipping the balance against such an outbreak:

Despite Russia's extensive rearmament efforts since the six-day war of June, 1967, most experts believe the Arab nation would again be crushed if they moved against Israel now.

Russia, well aware of the area's current power balance, wants to avoid a major conflict and has taken steps to do so.

On the other hand, experts agree that there has been no diplomatic movement, no breakthrough toward a negotiated settlement which offers hope of lasting peace in the area.

Eventually, if no permanent solution is reached, Arab armed forces will be a match for Israel's. At that time the Kremlin may remove its constraints and take a chance on the emergence of world conflict.

ONE FACTOR which, in the eyes of experts here, could bring about all-out fighting is the boastful over-confidence of Arab leaders. If Russia is willing to face present power realities, many Arab leaders are not.

Leadership in the Arab armies, both officers and non-commissioned officers is low-rated here. So are training and command techniques, especially when contrasted with those of the Israeli victors in the blitz of 1967.

There is evidence to indicate that the Kremlin shares the concern about Arab impulsiveness and has acted accordingly. Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko is reported to have told Cairo bluntly last month to avoid provocative moves.

U.S. EXPERTS think Russia has good reasons to avoid a Middle East eruption now. For one thing, the six-day war cost some $2 billion to $2.5 billion in Russian arms, and that is a script which Kremlin leaders do not want to repeat.

If the Arabs should again face defeat at the hands of the Israelis, Russia would come under heavy pressure to intervene and prevent another debacle. However, Russian leaders know the United States is obligated, under the 1957 Middle East resolution, to use force if necessary to resist aggression from any nation controlled by international communism. The Kremlin does not want that sort of confrontation.

Marin Needs A Father Schmidt To Get Teen Center Started

Does Marin County have a Father Schmidt?

That question was asked repeatedly during a recent all-day conference among teens and adults groping for a starting point for establishing a teen center in San Rafael.

Father Schmidt, is seems, is a somewhat magical person who has become a legend in Santa Clara, where more than 20 years ago he provided the impetus to begin the Santa Clara Youth Village — a teen center that is still thriving.

THE YOUTH VILLAGE, a representative told the San Rafael High School Interact Club and its guests, is run by a private, non-profit corporation, and is housed in a center built with much volunteer labor and many community contributions.

A 20-member staff directs activities ranging from theatrical performances to crafts to athletics. Professional counseling is available on a personal basis or in encounter groups, Kevin Crowley of the youth village said.

Young people who don't want to participate in an organized activity can go to the snack bar, watch television, or just sit and talk.

Smoking is permitted in a special room for young people who have parental permission. Dress rules specify that the teens be "decently dressed" and not wear jackets bearing a gang or club designation.

Membership is $2 a quarter and other financing comes from United Bay Area Crusade and private contributions, Crowley said.

Teens staff a justice court to decide on punishment for rule breakers and there is also a teen advisory committee to help run the center.

THE SAN RAFAEL teens generally liked the youth village plan and agreed that a Father Schmidt could be found if necessary.

They objected to the membership idea, preferring a center which would be open to all.

The youth village will be one of the ideas considered by a steering committee formed after the conference to come with some definite plans to be discussed at another meeting.

THE MARIN COUNTY Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission may be on the verge of getting down to the task at hand.

For about 18 months the group has been meeting in quiet disagreement over its purpose. Some members were interested in working on destroying the seeds of delinquency among children in third grade and under, while others wanted to work with teenagers.

Now, the commission has been enlarged by four members and had agreed there is enough to split into two committees, one focusing on the pre-school set and one on teens.

THE CITY of San Rafael has greatly reduced the daily hassle for people who park in the municipal lot at Fifth Avenue and C Street, by increasing the outer rim of second level meters from four to five hours. No more outguessing the meter maids!

The extra hour means parkers will get their money's worth for a quarter — it buys five hours instead of four.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

School Encounter Groups And Unrelated (?) Items

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

"Sensitivity training is the only thing that can save the world." — George Leonard, education editor of Look magazine and author of "Education and Ecstasy."

"We must make the nation one vast encounter group." — Dr. Price Cobbs, San Francisco Negro psychiatrist.

"Encounters are at a kinesthetic , gut level . . . An encounter is not a mind-level trip." — Dr. Janette Rainwater, who introduced sensitivity training at San Francisco State College.

What Leonard, Dr. Cobbs and Dr. Rainwater are talking about are "feel and tell" sessions. These are being introduced in some California public schools as sensitivity training, also known as encounters, T-groups, transactional analysis, human relations training, etc.

SENSITIVITY training is the latest "tool" for educators. It has been promoted by the National Training Laboratories, a subsidiary of the National Education Association. In California, it has received its greatest push from Essalen Institute in Big Sur, of which Look editor Leonard is vice president.

The purpose is to stimulate awareness as a means toward getting rid of what the younger generation calls "hang-ups." The participants are encouraged (or required) to drop their inhibitions and tell just how they really feel about each other. To help them do so, they are encouraged (or required) to physically feel each other.

Various "games" are played, quite like the "Synanon games" which have proved useful in rehabilitation of drug addicts and not unlike the "encounters" in which Essalen Institute specializes.

THERE HAVE been parent protests, but they have been mostly sporadic and ineffective so far. An exception is in the Tamalpais High School District, where a campaign led by Nan Hepp, a Mill Valley housewife, caused trustees to reject a proposal that they seek a federal grant to finance sensitivity training.

Mrs. Hepp heads an organization called Parents Association for Neighborhood Schools. In its monthly newsletter, which she calls "an underground newspaper for squares and straights," she has presented a running commentary on sensitivity training, including adverse opinions by psychiatrists, and charges that such psychological experiments by inadequately trained teachers may result in mental breakdowns and that the "feel and tell" sessions tend to lower moral standards and undermine values.

ABOUT THE TIME the Tamalpais High School District board said "not now" on sensitivity training, the Fire and Police Research Association of Los Angeles published a booklet on "Some Causes of Student Revolt."

It drew on the campus and underground press to document a contention that campus uprisings are promoted by the same groups that encourage pornography, sexual promiscuity, and depravity.

Included were photos of a group of 10 statues for which a master's degree in art was awarded at Long Beach State College, and which resulted in a student-faculty revolt because Chancellor Glen S. Dumke refused to allow them to be shown publicly. The statues are of men and women performing unnatural sex acts. They leave nothing to the imagination.

Included also were the prospectus for a course in "Exploring New Forms of Sexual Relationships" by the Experimental College at San Francisco State College, and a photo of the Experimental College's "Che Guevara Hall" with "Victory to NLF" beside the door.

WITH SUCH STUFF as this going on in the colleges, it might appear that Mrs. Hepp and other parents are wasting their time on such a relatively innocuous thing as sensitivity training.

Not included in the Los Angeles publication, however, was the prospectus for a course organized at Sonoma State College this year in "Sexual Growth—Encounter Group for Couples." It announced that "T-group methods" would be used for "heightening of present pleasurable self-experience" with "focus on specific oral, anal, and Oedipal hang-ups." It was offered for "couples, unmarried or married."

Dane Builds Solvang With Old World Air

SOLVANG (UPI) — Ferdinand Sorenson decided back in 1940 that he wanted a home like those of his Danish forebears.

So he built one. And when he was finished, he rebuilt Solvang to match it.

Its restaurants, with names like "Bit o' Denmark" and "Restaurant Dannebrog," feature smorgaasbord and open face sandwiches, all washed down with mellow Danish beer.

The place has a Hans Christian Andersen look, with its three windmills spinning in the breeze and the shop buildings decorated with bindingsverk (outside beams), thatched roofs and intricate carving.

Every fall the 1,500 people of Solvang welcome about 10,000 visitors to Danish Days. They don native costumes, do the old dances and serve mountains of ableskive — warm buttermilk pancakes baked in a ball and spread with jam.

Sheltered by the Santa Ynez Mountains from the cold winds of the Pacific, Solvang lies about 140 miles north of Los Angeles.

For much of the year, blooming flowers send their perfume through the Santa Ynez Valley and cover its fertile floor with a multicolored quilt. Flower seeds are the chief crop of the valley, a haven of soft, rolling, verdant hills surrounded by steep, scraggly mountains. "Solvang" means "Sun Meadow" in Danish.

The community was established in 1912, when a group of Danes founded Atterdag, a school patterned after the folk schools of the midwest, where Danish-Americans studied their cultural heritage.

Until 1940, Solvang looked like most small southern California towns, although its inhabitants were almost all of Danish descent.

Then Sorensen, whose grandparents emigrated from Denmark in 1874 and settled in Nebraska, built his home. working from photographs of Danish buildings. An accomplished tinsmith, plumber and carpenter, Sorensen did it all, from pouring the foundation to papering the walls to installing the bindingsverk.

Now 68, Sorensen still works every day in his shop, carving out the woodwork that has transformed his community.

"I had always dreamed of a Danish home," he recalls. "It's got 13 rooms, I think. I got 13 different kinds of wallpaper."

He finished the place in 1947, and it wasn't long before "the tourists began coming to look. People would be driving by, then all of a sudden they'd see the place and stop and get out of the car.

"On Sundays sometimes there'd be 50 cars parked out in the field. People would be all over taking pictures. They used to just walk in and start looking around."

Sorensen didn't stop with the house. Needing a tool shed, he put up a little stone house that leans against a wooded hill, just made for forest elves.

He needed a garage. He built the first of Solvang's windmills, complete with lattice - work blades with a garage in its base.

"All this happened before I ever went to Denmark," said the silver-haired Sorensen. "But you know, the two times I've been to Denmark since then, everybody knows about Solvang."

In 1950, landowner Ray Paaske asked Sorensen to design and build a group of Danish-style shops. The result was "Copenhagen Square," a collection of restaurants and shops specializing in Danish imports — all built around Solvang's second windmill, this one with a wineshop in the cellar.

Solvang now has a third windmill and about 60 such shops.

Every day license plates from around the nation are seen in Solvang, and for many Californians driving coastal U.S. 101 a short detour to Solvang for lunch is a necessity.

Congressmen Get Hefty Allowances

WASHINGTON (UPI)—That $12,500-a-year pay raise which senators and representatives will get in less than three weeks is little more than pocket money compared with the fringe benefits congressmen enjoy.

Senators are entitled to allowances for staff, equipment and expenses ranging up to almost $400,000. Members of the House can draw well over $100,000 in allowances and benefits.

On top of that, all members of Congress may subscribe to generous retirement and life and health insurance benefits.

Congressmen and senators are provided suites of rooms in one of the congressional office buildings, completely equipped with whatever furnishings they want. They even get an allowance for framing pictures, and the men pay only 75 cents for a haircut on House or $1 in the Senate barber shops.

In the Senate, the staff allowances vary depending upon the size of the state. The high is $358,200 annually for senators from California and New York. The low is $210,940 for lawmakers from states with fewer than 3 million population.

A House member's total staff payroll is about $100,000.

In both houses, the lawmaker selects his own staff and decides how to divide the available money. Kickbacks are illegal, so none of the money can go into the congressman's personal pocket. But staff positions can—and often do—go to political allies.

Each member of each house is entitled to $3,000 worth of stationery each year.

He can charge the taxpayers the cost of four or six round trips by his staff, depending upon the size of his state.

Each House member—whether from Virginia or Hawaii—is entitled to one round trip for each month Congress is in session. He also is entitled to a one-way trip at the beginning and to another one-way trip at the end of each session.

Congressmen are entitled to "frank" or official mail free of charge by printing their signatures on envelopes. In addition, they get an allowance for postage if they want to send a letter air mail or special delivery. In the senate the allowance is $1.200 for states west of the Mississippi and $960 fo rstates east. In the House, the allowance is $700.

Each senator from a state with more than 10 million population is entitled to make 22,500 minutes of long distance telephone calls at public expense—roughly 75 minutes every working day. Senators from smaller states get 15,000 minutes.

End Of Tipping Strongly Urged

A report on the subject said that tipping "causes unrest among the staff and is a continuing headache for the management."

In the place of tipping the report suggested a surcharge of 5 to 10 per cent on all bills.

Aquatic duckweeks, submerged all winter, pop to the surface by filling themselves with buoyant gas. In the fall, they sink again to the bottom by taking on water ballast like a submarine.

Gardening Can Be Dangerous Duty

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Two African gardeners were working in Prime Minister Balthazar J. Vorster's official Groote Schuur residence when a careening automobile wheel mowed them down.

The wheel had come off a passing automobile and entered the garden through the main entrance gate. The two men were treated in hospital for leg injuries but the auto was not damaged.

Italian Husband Gets Break On Fur Bills

MILAN, Italy (UPI)—A husband does not have to pay for his wife's fur coats, a Milan court ruled.

The court ordered Mrs. Gabriella Sorgato to pay 3,737,000 lire ($5,980) she owed a furrier. It ruled her husband, Guilio Sorgato, had no obligation to pay because a wife's debts are binding on the husband only if they are contracted "to meet the needs of the family."

Britons Love Storm —It Rains Money

NEWBIGGIN-BY-THE-SEA England (UPI) — The wind howled and the rain swirled down but the villagers were hoping for more—it was raining five-pound ($12) bills.

After 370 pounds ($1,488) had been turned in, police said the bills had been tied together with a rubber band and hidden under the eaves of Dennis Common's house. The rubber band had rotted and the strong wind dislodged the money. Common, who moved into the house 18 months ago, said he did not know the money was there.

Unwed Mother Insurance Urged

CHICAGO (AP) — Unwed mother insurance is being urged by the Medical Society of New Jersey.

Dr. Renold Busch, Newark, chairman of the sponsoring Maternity Welfare Committee of the Essex County Medical Society, said here that statistics show the "largest incidence of mortality and morbidity" occurs in these unmarried women, who have little or no prenatal care.

The medical society urged legislation to establish provisions in health insurance — specifically Blue Cross-Blue Shield — which would help care for the medical needs of the unwed mother.

Private Gold Hoarding Is Fine Art In France

PARIS (UPI)—Men dig and die for gold, work and scrimp and save for it, kill and rob for it. Nations base their monetary policies on it, and have fought wars over it.

And Frenchmen stuff their mattresses with it.

About the only form in which Americans see gold, unless they get into Fort Knox, is in jewelry. U.S. law prevents American citizens from buying, selling or trading the metal.

But no such law exists in most European countries, and particularly not in France. To the Frenchman, especially the middle-class shop owner, the metal is a protection against the future. Currencies can fluctuate, they can be devalued—but the price of gold usually remains stable, or goes up.

And there still is a firm belief in France that sooner or later the United States is going to have to lift its price of $35 an ounce on gold and when it does all those gold coins in the mattresses, and under the floorboards, or in safe deposit boxes are going to be worth a lot more than was paid for them.

For the real speculator in gold, the one kilogram (2.2 pound) ingot is the normal currency. But an ingot sells for about $1,500 so that puts it beyond the general hoarder, who it is estimated holds more gold in France than even the French government.

The Frenchman-in-the-street, if he wants a bit of gold, generally buys a coin—a French napoleon or an English sovereign. They sell from about $12 to $13 apiece.

If you're an American in France, though, forget it. The U.S. embassy in Paris put a quick end to that idea.

"If we catch you," a spokesman said, "it could mean a fine, years in prison, or both. It's illegal for U.S. citizens to buy pure gold under any circumstances."

He admitted, however, that so far as he knew no American had been brought to trial recently for trading in gold.

What happens if an American is caught buying gold in France? Does American law extend overseas?

"There is nothing we can do immediately," the embassy spokesman said. "But eventually he has to renew his passport. Then, I suppose, we would renew it only for return to the United States. Once back in America he would be prosecuted."

North Viet Literature Must All Be Propaganda

PARIS (UPI)—"I can see the White House with its head raised where every window is the mouth of the vampire."

That's a line from a contemporary North Vietnamese poem. For nearly a decade in North Vietnam all forms of literature—novels, poetry, essays—have had value only if they contributed to the ultimate defeat of the United States.

The same is true of the country's music, opera, theater, art and, of course, journalism.

Paris, site of the bogged down Vietnam war talks, is an excellent place to find literary publications from North Vietnam. Art, theater and music news is harder to come by but there are films and recordings that tell the same story.

Art for art's sale is not only unknown in North Vietnam today, it is considered immoral. Only insofar as literature has "social content" and carries the official message to the masses has it any right to be published.

The task of literature was defined by the 1960 National Congress of the North Vietnamese Workers (Communist) party. It must be national and popular, Socialist and realist, the Congress decided.

The main themes were to be Socialist glorification in the North together with the struggle for national reunification and the war against American imperialism.

These are the themes of almost every novel, play, poem, short story, essay or article written in the country. Letters, diaries and memoirs repeat the same themes and are almost always from soldiers fighting with the Viet Cong in the South to family or friends in the North.

Important Cog In Government

KALISPELL, Mont. (AP) — Frances Madler broke her leg, everyone received his water bill late and the city was out $800.

Miss Madler is the city billing clerk who makes out the water bills and when her leg was broken recently, there wasn't enough experienced help available to replace her.

So the city council decided it had better buy a computer with a price tag of $800 plus 10 cents per month per account — just in case she's off the job again.

Girls Proving They're Just As Adventuresome

They were among the 12 girls who underwent the three-week "special adventure course" in mountaineering in the Uttar Kashi region, 200 miles northeast of Delhi.

"It is full of adventure — with Nature, and why should it be the exclusive preserve of boys alone?" Miss Monica Puri asked.

"Mountaineering is the best cure for syness and reserved nature," Miss Manjula Jain told a press conference.

"When once you have been bitten by the Himalayan bug, you fall for it again and again," Miss Nandita Haksar said.

They climbed the 12,000 foot high Gowma peak. "But the sky is the limit," Miss Puri said. They have set their eyes on the 29,028-foot Everest, the world's tallest peak.

Air Conditioning Boon To Bad Hearts

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute says research has shown that in many instances air conditioning is an aid to persons suffering from heart ailments.

The institute says that in one test 12 heart victims showed signs of collapse after spending 40 minutes in a room at 104 degrees temperature. Normal persons in the same room showed signs of faintness and general weakness after two hours.

Irish Moonshiners Using New Gadgetry

They've begun to use bottled gas to fire their "stills"—eliminating the tell-tale wisps of smoke which in the past so often guided the law to their haunts.

Recent figures showed the success of this modern innovation of the moonshiners—in the first 11 months of 1968 police captured only 1,190 gallons of their fiery whisky compared to 2,750 in 1967 and 3,424 in 1966.

Old-timers say the bottled gas has been responsible for the steady decreasing of captures by specially-trained police squads operating along the western seaboard.

With legitimate brands of whisky heavily taxed, 1968 was a bumper year for the mountainy product and moonshiners look forward to increasing prosperity this year.

"This bottled gas has been a blessing," said one old moonshiner who, for obvious reasons, didn't advertise his name or location. "For years the police depended heavily on spotting the wisps of smoke in the forests or on lake islands—now they've got to work to catch us."

An investment of around $50 will set up a moonshiner in business—that's the estimate for the equipment needed.

It costs him about $15 to buy the sugar, yeast and malt for a barrel of liquor. His return per barrel ranges upwards from $75 to $90.

A police sergeant in County Mayo admitted his moonshine tracking operation was meeting with only fair success. "It's never easy," he confided. "The old boys don't miss any tricks and this bottled gas they're using has made it tougher still."

In the weeks preceding Christmas, still-hunting became almost the main preoccupation in many county police stations.

The usual police strength is four men per search party. They search for a river or stream in forests and—two on either side—walk its length looking for tracks.

"They must have running water for their operation—and you'll always get them about 100 yards from a river or stream," said the Mayo sergeant.

It's a serious business, of course, but this traditional game of hide-and-seek is carried on from generation to generation against a background of good humor and mutual respect.

INFANT DEATH RATE

Detroit's Inner City Slumps Prompt Study

DETROIT (UPI)—In the shadows of Detroit's glittering concrete and glass LaFayette towers, home of doctors, lawyers, politicians and the "beautiful people," 69 babies die out of every 1,000 born.

The babies live and die in 155 blocks of grime on Detroit's Near East Side. The area is 98.6 per cent Negro. Many of its inhabitants were squeezed into those blocks when the LaFayette towers were built 10 years ago.

The infant mortality rate (infants are defined as children one year old or younger) for the United States is 22.1 per 1,000 births. For the city of Detroit, it is 27.8.

On a worldwide spectrum, the infant mortality rate ranges from 161 per 1,000 in Turkey to 13.3 in Sweden. Costa Rica, where about half the population is illiterate, measures out even with the Near East Side of Detroit at 69.

Why do almost 7 per cent of Near East Side's babies die?

Lawrence Chadzynski, who compiled these figures, thinks a principal reason is that many of the people in the area live in dwellings little better than garages.

Chadzynski is project director of a program called "Evidence For Health Organization (ECHO). His researchers are going through the city house by house to find how living conditions affect the health of each area's residents. (ECHO has completed a survey of the model cities area, which several years ago was tagged for wholesale urban renewal.) The over-all area is 78 per cent non-white and has an infant mortality rate of 45.3 per 1,000.

Within the model cities tract is the Near East Side with the 69 per 1,000 death rate for infants. Another pocket there has a rate of 63.7.

Chadzynski cites illegitimacy as a principal factor in the high infant mortality rates among Negroes. During the past year, there were 5,271 illegitimate births in Detroit. Slightly less than 1,000 of these were white babies. Within the model cities area, 39 per cent of all black children born were illegitimate.

In a wealthy white area on the northeast side, 3.8 per cent of the children were illegitimate. That area had the lowest infant mortality rate.

"A lot of the children in those (poverty) areas are illegitimate and unwanted," Chadzynski says.

Dr. Margaret Zolliker, an infant specialist, says many babies die because the mothers don't get prenatal care.

"In one typical case, a woman first went for a checkup in her seventh month, and saw a doctor three times after that," she said. "Her baby died of bronchial pneumonia when it was six weeks old. There was no heat in the house."

"It's not just illegitimacy," Chadzynski said. "Once the baby's born, he lives the first few months of his life—if he lives so long—in a place that's dirty, probably has had bad plumbing, no heat, a poor refrigerator. How can a mother take care of the child?"

Statistics would seem to bear him out. The five leading causes of death in Detroit are heart diseases, malignant growths, problems of the nervous system, accidents and diabetes. But in the city's three poorest sections, pneumonia is one of the five leading causes of death.

"Until the inner city is cleaned up, until buildings are made livable, the poor will continue to pay a high toll in infant deaths," Chadzynski said.

Traffic Accidents Costly For Nation

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Crime and traffic accidents cost U.S. taxpayers more than $33 billion in 1968, according to the Street and Highway Safety Lighting Bureau. Of this total loss, the bureau said, conservative estimates show at least half occurs at night when darkness obscures the criminal's actions and makes for poor driving visibility.

According to the bureau, statistics show installation of proper street lighting is one immediate and constructive step communities can take to reduce this costly bill.

Will '69 Be Vintage Year In Unity Push?

BRUSSELS (UPI)—At the start of another year, the old dream of European unity seems more elusive than ever. In fact, 1968 was a bad year for the unity planners.

Many organizations founded to help the old continent become a third force on a par with the United States and the Soviet Union are in trouble. Failing economies, weak currencies and plain old-fashioned nationalism have combined to weaken the "One Europe" idea which gained popularity in the ruinous aftermath of World War II.

The European Economic Community—or common market—the center pin of all the unity organizers, seems to be ending up as a simple customs union with some 5,000 international civil servants to run it.

What was to be the next step, turning the customs union into a true economic union, seems likely to flounder on the rock of nationalism.

The six member nations—France, West Germany, Italy, Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg—all made sacrifices in the market's first decade for the common good. "The market is greater than the sum of its parts" was the rallying cry of early 1960's.

The common sacrifices and concessions needed to create economic union—tax harmonization, freedom of movement for workers, common foreign trade, economic and financial policies—are seen as almost impossible in today's context.

And without economic union there can be no political union.

The biggest victim of national aspirations is the European Atomic Energy Community—Euratom. This sister community to the common market was set up to enable the market nations to cooperate in nuclear research, financing and sharing of know-how.

It has split wide open because of disagreement over a common research program. France wants to concentrate on the type of atomic reactor, West Germany on another. Holland, Italy and Belgium all have national atomic projects which they want included in the Euratom program—and paid for jointly by all members.

As a result, the program has been reduced to minor projects on which common agreement can be reached and no funds have yet been voted for 1969.

Members of the European Free Trade Association (EFTA) who live with the economic ailments of the largest member—Britain—have almost become philosphical in accepting trade curbs in what is supposed to be a duty free areas covering Britain, Sweden, Switzerland, Norway, Denmark, Austria and Portugal.

Scandinavian efforts to form a Nordic customs union are also butting up against national protectionism.

Rightly or wrongly, Norway feels its small industrial base could be wrecked by Sweden. Its farmers, operating in adverse climatic conditions, fear that geographically-favored Danish farmers would swamp markets with cheaper food.

Norwegian and Danish hopes of becoming members of the common market also have slowed moves toward a Nordic union. Their memberships hang upon Britain getting in and French President Charles de Gaulle has made it clear his veto of Britain continues despite France's own economic problems. Thus the Scandinavians are backing a loser or at the least a long shot.

Maybe 1969 will be better, but 1968 certainly wasn't a vintage year for European unity and there is no evidence of improvement in its chances.

Air Force Aids Sardine Catches

LISBON (AP) — The Portuguese Air Force is going fishing.

Squadrons of Air Force planes have been called to the rescue of fishermen in southern Portugal who are having trouble locating sufficient sardine and tuna fish schools.

The catch of the two species is the most important activity of the southern provinces, and it has been on the decrease.

After a request from fishing industrialists, the Air Force sent twin-engine propeller craft to study fish migration patterns. The unprecedented search is expected to be extended outside territorial waters eventually.

She Really Had Their 'Numbers'

GUNNISON, Colo. (AP) — A letter addressed to Mr. 523-09-9738 and Mrs. 505-26-1704, Route 4, Box 32A, 81230, was delivered without delay to Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Lowell of Gunnison.

The letter was from a daughter, Mrs. Josephine Grantski, of Beaver Crossing, Neb. The figures after Mr. and Mrs. are the Lowells' Social Security numbers, and 81230 is Gunnison's zip code.

Under the international grains agreement, Canada will provide over a period of three years some 1.5 million tons of food grains, the second largest contribution from any single country.

Travels Many Ways On Job

But there aren't too many who pilot a rowboat in the state during their working hours. And very few wear snowshoes when they're working.

But at least one man in Montana has been seen using all these means of travel on the job — Jan Tallada of Kalispell, a meter reader in the Flathead Lake area for the Pacific Power & Light Co.

Inducements Offered To Read Mao's Book

HONG KONG (UPI)—It will pay to study Mao Tse-Tung's Thoughts, says the Peking-oriented newspaper New Evening Post.

It told its readers a camera, a radio set, a woolen blanket, 306 movie tickets and 303 movie magazines would be theirs for free if they can solve a crossword puzzle based on quotations from Chairman Mao.

Pilot's Safety Service Offered

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—A new safety feature is in the offing to help pilots of private planes avoid collisions in the air in congested areas. It is a Pilot Warning Indicator that is hoped will fill need for a low-cost warning device which is both small and inexpensive enough to be adapted by general aviation aircraft and commercial airliners.

A spokesman for the Fecker Systems Division of Owens-Illinois, Inc., which was awarded a contract by NASA Electronics Research Center to develop the experimental device for in flight test evaluation, expressed hope the warning indicator could be sold for about $1,000.

California Law Network Slated

SACRMENTO (UPI) — A $5 million telecommunications network that will link more than 450 California law enforcement agencies to computerized files here and in Washington, D.C. is expected to be operational next October.

Nerve center of the statewide system will be a complex of four high-speed RCA Spectra 70-45 computers that will provide instant information on wanted persons and on stolen or lost property, firearms or vehicles. Any law enforcement agency can transmit a message to all other agencies within the state or any combination of agencies using a separate California Law Enforcement Telecommunications System (CLETS) network. CLETS will replace the current teletype system established in 1931.

Budget To Include School Aid Hikes

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan said today his new budget, to be unveiled next Tuesday, will include substantial new state aid for public schools.

But the Republican governor told his news conference the amount, which he did not disclose, would not be near the $350 million figure proposed by Max Rafferty, the state superintendent of public instruction.

"It would be fine if we could, but it just isn't there," Reagan added.

Reagan said he agrees with the concept of making the state and school districts equal partners in financing the cost of public education, from kindergarten through junior college. But he said there should be a fresh look at the quality of the state's education first.

Current state aid to public schools totals about $1.3 billion. But local taxpayers now bear the larger share of the cost.

On a related topic, Reagan said he supports reduction in the present 16-year-long terms of University of California regents, appointed by the governor, to eight years.

But he opposes a bill sponsored by Republican Assemblyman William T. Bagley of San Anselmo to remove elected officials—including the governor and lieutenant governor—as ex-officio members of the UC governing board.

"I don't think Bagley has thought this out very well, or completely," Reagan said.

One way the voters have to express disapproval of what the regents do is to oust the ex-officio regents from the offices they hold, Reagan said.

"I think their term is too long and a number of regents have said the same thing," Reagan said.

A reduction to eight years still would guard against "the governor dominating the board" through his appointments, Reagan said. Some of the current regents originally were appointed by former Republican Gov. Goodwin J. Knight.

On the topic of public school aid, Reagan said, "It will be a substantial increase. It is a No. 1 priority with us."

Reagan will make a televised report to the people next Tuesday evening "to try to explain" the budget to the voters. He added it contains funds for the income tax rebate he promised and for property tax relief approved by the Legislature and voters last year.

Reagan said his administration also will propose augmenting state scholarship funds, but will not use the budget to take punitive action against dissident students at the university and the state colleges. Any move such as that would unfairly

By JOANNE GRANT

The City of San Rafael, worried about a $60,000 survey requirement and State Lands Commission obstacles to private development along San Rafael Canal, has decided to take steps to solve the problems.

The first move, a group of concerned citizens agreed at a special meeting yesterday, is to find out who owns what land under the existing San Rafael Canal.

City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen said he called the meeting for lawyers, representatives of title firms and others because of the multitude of problems involving clear title to lands in the canal area.

He explained one of the major concerns of the city now is the survey of the canal, required in legislation passed last year to clear title to the city's corporation yard.

The State Lands Commission claimed the old canal bed ran through the middle of the yard and the city agreed to trade an equal amount of land on the east side of the property.

The survey, required by the commission, would determine boundaries of the old canal which twisted through east San Rafael before the turn of the century, Andersen said. (San Rafael Canal; was later

Pueblo's Defense Lacking?

CORONADO (AP) — The admiral who had operational control of the intelligence ship Pueblo said today its two .50-caliber machineguns "did not appear to me to provide it a significant defense capability."

Rear Adm. Frank L. Johnson, commander of Naval Forces Japan when the Pueblo and her 83 men were captured off North Korea, also said he had no forces under his direct command with which to provide emergency support.

"I was not in favor of arming the AGERS (the Navy's designation for the Pueblo-type intelligence ship)," Johnson told a Navy court of inquiry. "We had successfully carried out 15 missions in unarmed status and I considered this a good basis for continuing this type of mission unarmed.

"I did consider they (the guns) might well be provocative . . . I was concerned about the reaction to this armed status . . . and the addition of two .50-calibers did not appear to me to provide a significant defense capability."

Johnson was the first witness after several days of closed hearings for testimony about classified matters.

Johnson said he was aware of "certain communication difficulties" U.S. intelligence ships were having with his headquarters in Japan. He said mountains on the islands of Japan made it difficult to link radio frequences.

Q. Capt. William Newsomen, counsel for the court: "Did you consider this critical?"

A. Johnson: "I did not consider it critical . . . There was no instance that at any time this

RAIN, HAIL, SNOW

Another Storm Adds To Misery

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rain, hail and snow lashed out again yesterday at California, particularly the south half of the state —already reeling from its most devastating weather disaster in 31 years.

Lightning hit four jetliners in the air, but no one was injured.

Two more bodies were found in the Los Angeles area, raising to 93 the number of storm-related deaths since Jan. 18. One person was found dead under a collapsed retaining wall. The other body was in a house crushed by flood waters.

The 93 fatalities included 57 in traffic accidents, 12 in mudslides, 18 drownings, four deaths in air crashes and two heart attacks blamed on the storms.

Southern California areas hardest hit were Los Angeles County, with an estimated $43.8 million in damage; San Bernardino County, $15 million; Ventura County, $20 million, and Santa Barbara County, $8 million.

Unofficially, statewide property damage from nine days of torrential rains was estimated as high as $138 million.

Eight other persons believed lost under landslides or in torrents of water were listed as presumed dead and at least 20 others were missing.

Inundated by 20 feet of snow, resort areas on the Eastern slope of the High Sierra braced for more snow and several lodges in the mammoth mountain area 250 miles north of Los Angeles were closed until further notice. Skiers trapped in the area for days were finally able to leave as another storm approached.

One lightning bolt punched a hole in the nose of a United Air Lines DC8 arriving from San Diego with 115 passengers, who were transferred to another jet bound for Honolulu..

No damage was reported to the three other jets that reported being hit in the air over the Los Angeles area.

Yesterday's storm hit after a 24-hour respite from a nine-day storm while authorities were still assessing previous damage. Three-tenths of an inch of rain in Los Angeles brought the season's total to more than 17 and a quarter inches, two-and-one-half times normal.

And while residents looked forward to cool but rainless weather today, forecasters said

Demos Punish Wallace Backer

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats voted today to strip Rep. John R. Rarick, D-La., of his committee seniority because he openly supported the independent presidential candidacy of George C. Wallace last year.

The action came in a closed caucus but Democrats reported the vote was 101-73 on a motion to drop Rarick from 13th to 18th and last on the House Agriculture Committee.

Rarick, now starting his second term in Congress, said the action showed that there is a concerted move against Southerners and that "The tenor of the caucus is that we no longer are welcome in the party."

Asked if he might leave the Democratic party, Rarick said he would return to Louisiana and discuss the matter with "my people before making any false move."

A Collision Course Seen On Gas Tax

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan and two influential Democratic senators today appeared headed for a collision over a proposal to boost the gasoline tax one cent repair storm-damaged roads.

Senate Transportation Committee Chairman Alan Short suggested yesterday the tax be increased temporarily from seven to eight cents a gallon to rebuild roads. (See other Sacramento stories, pages 7 and 9.)

"We have an emergency," the Stockton Democrat said. "I'm quite sure the people of the state want us to meet the emergency and will pay the 1 cent."

Senate Finance Committee Chairman Randolph Collier endorsed the boost and suggested it be made permanent to raise revenue for the state to meet highway construction needs.

Collier also has suggested in recent months that he may seek to increase the tax by two cents a gallon.

"We have to have more high-

Pay Docks Loom At San Jose

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A total of 76 teachers at San Jose State College today faced pay docks for unexcused absences from class during a strike by the American Federation of Teachers.

College administrators submitted a preliminary list of names to the controller's office yesterday a day after a similar list containing 277 names was filed by San Francisco State College.

Paychecks of teachers on the lists were withdrawn from normal payroll files until administrators at both struck colleges certify absences.

Deputy Controller John P. Sheehan said it was not currently known how many professors tentatively scheduled for docking were actually on strike or how many were absent for other unauthorized reasons.

The AFT went on strike at San Francisco State Jan. 6 calling for better salaries and working conditions. AFT members at San Jose State later organized a sympathy strike.

A teacher is docked his pay for each day of unauthorized absence. State law holds that five consecutive such absences constitutes automatic dismissal.

Meanwhile today, a handful of pickets demonstrated at S.F. State as striking teachers met again in secret session with a committee of college trustees.

Student strike leaders have announced plans for a "mass confrontation" with police on the campus tomorrow.

Snow Mantles Much Of Israel

TEL AVIV (AP) — A mantle of snow covered Jerusalem today for the first time this winter. Gales and thunderstorms whipped through the rest of Israel.

Snowplows labored to keep highways clear. Outlying villages were also covered, and the semidesert Hebron area south of Jerusalem had a cover of 16 inches of snow.

The northern Galilee area was also under snow. So were the occupied Golan Heights of Syria.

Mud Ruins Biafra Drug Stock; Streets Suffer

Temperatures plummeted to the 20s in Marin and Southern Sonoma today, icing streets and coating the landscape with frost.

Meanwhile, in Sausalito, the recent storms triggered a mud slide which oozed into the rear of the Sausalito Pharmacy, ruining most of a shipment of drugs scheduled to be sent to Biafra.

The storms, which raked the Bay Area with heavy rain and wind for 11 days, also left some Marin roads in poor condition. Norris Rawles, director of public works in San Rafael, projected about $50,000 in paving work this spring, much of it to fix storm damage.

"The rains were tearing the heck out of the streets, especially in the older sections of town," Rawles said.

"The roads here are in bad shape," said Elmer Scott, Ross public works director. "It'll take all summer to patch them."

Slick highways today made driving treacherous, but only one serious accident occurred before highway crews sanded or closed slippery stretches.

Living Cost Rockets 4.2 Per Cent In Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Consumer prices made the sharpest rise in 1968 of any year since the Korean war, the government reported today.

The Labor Department reported that the consumer price index in 1968 rose an average of 4.2 per cent over 1967.

The index last month was actually 4.7 per cent higher than it was in December, 1967, but the Bureau of Labor Statistics explained that the over-the-year increase averaged out to 4.2 per cent.

Both increases were the largest since the Korean War years of 1950-51 when prices rose 8 per cent.

The consumer price index for December was 123.7, meaning that goods and services that cost $10 in the 1957-59 period had risen to a cost of $12.37.

Prices in December rose two-tenths of 1 per cent, primarily as a result of increased food and housing costs, The increase was one of the smallest one-month rises of 1968, but normally consumer prices don't rise at all in December.

The most significant indicator in the report was preliminary estimates that wholesale prices in January, 1969, are showing their largest increase since February, 1966.

If the wholesale price trend idicated for this month continues, the rises will be generally reflected later in the year at consumer price level.

Over the year, grocery store food prices rose by 4 per cent while the cost of restaurant meals jumped up 5.7 per cent. Another major item in the average family budget — medical costs —rose 7.3 per cent for the year.

BOTH SEXES DIGGING NEW LOOK AT VASSAR

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Co-education spell that m-e-n—came to ivy-clad Vassar College this week and all sorts of social observers of both sexes are marveling at what the trustees have wrought.

A professor said he noticed an immediate and remarkable improvement in the appearance of the girls.

Vassar, for the past 108 years the very name was virtually synonymous with private liberal arts education for correct young women, began the semester Monday with 80 men from three all-male schools—Williams College, Trinity College and Colgate University.

"You begin to feel like you're in a monastery," said Jack Murray of school life back in Williamstown, but added wryly, "So far I've met more newspaperwomen than girls."

Another Spy Trial Reported In Baghdad

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

A new mass spy trial was reported under way in Baghdad today as Iraq accused Israeli troops of massing to attack the 20,000 Iraqi troops stationed in Jordan.

Egypt's Middle East News Agency reported the new trial in Baghdad began last night behind closed doors. It said the defendants were accused of working for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

It did not mention the number of defendants, but London sources had reported earlier that 35 persons, 13 of them Jews, would be tried by Iraq's revolutionary court on charges of spying and sabotage.

In Baghdad, Information Minister Abdullah Salloum Samerrai told a news conference Israeli forces were preparing to attack Iraq's forces in Jordan in reprisal for the public hanging Monday of nine Jews and five other Iraqis convicted of spying for Israel.

The Israelis were enraged by the executions, and their government denied the victims had been spying for Israel. The executions also provoked varying degrees of condemnation in several foreign capitals.

"This is a purely internal affair with no room for intervention by any other country," Samerrai said of the trials. Iraq already has announced its forces are in a state of military readiness for any Israeli reprisal.

The U.S. State Department announced it has urged Israel not to retaliate. Diplomats in Washington believe a reprisal raid coming so soon after Israel's Dec. 28 commando attack on Beirut International Airport might start another full-scale war.

State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey told a news conference in Washington: "The position every American administration has taken regarding the cycle of provocations and reprisals has been a consistent one. It should be avoided."

Iraq hanged the 14 alleged spies Monday despite clemency appeals from the United States, Britain, Pope Paul VI and U.N. Secretary-General U Thant.

Travelers arriving in Beirut from Iraq said mobs in Baghdad howled for more executions as the hanged men dangled from gallows in the city's central square.

"This is just the beginning. More spies will meet the same fate," a radio commentator declared.

Israeli Prime Minister Levi Eshkol wrathfully blamed the world for "turning a blind eye to the fate of Jews in Arab countries." He quoted the Bible: "Oh daughters of Babylon, that are to be destroyed, happy shall be he that repayeth three as thou hast served us."

The British government decried the executions and drew a protest from the Iraqi government, which charged that the Israeli propaganda machinery was "out in full force to slander Iraq and feature the hangings as a program against Iraqi Jews."

British Jews held a torchlit mourning vigil in London outside the Iraqi Embassy and cheered when students climbed to its roof and raised an Israeli flag. One of the students was knifed in a struggle with guards on the roof.

Dr. Nahum Goldmann, president of the World Jewish Congress, cabled Secretary-General Thant that he is seeking Big Four backing for U.N. intervention to get 8,500 Jews out of Iraq, Syria and Egypt.

King Associates Differ Over Ray

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

REV. JAMES L. BEVEL
Seeks to help Ray

Two associates of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. have expressed their belief that King's assassination in Memphis last April 4 resulted from a conspiracy.

But the two men differed yesterday over what part James Earl Ray, who faces trial for the killing, may have played in the shooting of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference head.

In Philadelphia Rev. James L. Bevel, an SCLC director, expressed doubt that Ray had either the mental or physical competence to have carried out the assassination.

"We've allowed King to be killed under the guise of law and order and now we're going to allow Ray to be lynched under the guise of justice," Bevel declared.

Bevel last week asked Memphis Criminal Court Judge W. Preston Battle for court permission to associate himself with Ray's legal defense. Battle declined since Bevel is not an attorney.

At a meeting of church leaders last Thursday night, Bevel declared that he would prove "within 30 minutes" that it would have been impossible for Ray to have assassinated King.

Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, who succeeded King as SCLC president, said in Atlanta yesterday that he stood behind Bevel's offer to help defend Ray but does not know of any evidence proving Ray is innocent.

"I felt that Mr. Bevel was merely seeking to state what I have said. . .that more than one person is guilty in the death of Martin Luther King," Abernathy told a news conference.

"I do not believe he was saying that Mr. Ray did not pull the trigger," Abernathy continued. "He's never claimed to me that he had any evidence that James Earl Ray was not the guilty party."

Abernathy stated last week that he supported Bevel, saying he thought his associate was trying to add "new dimensions" to nonviolence. But he told newsmen he wanted to make it plain that Bevel does not speak for SCLC.

Interest On Mortgages In Conflict

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon's administration's new directive on government-insured mortgage rates presents several states with a peculiar problem—the interest payments authorized by the federal government violates their usury laws.

In a White House meeting yesterday, George Romney, secretary of Housing and Urban Development, reported the apparent conflict between the 7.5 per cent federal allowances and the interest rate limits imposed by seven states.

Romney announced Friday that federal rates were being raised to 7.5 per cent in order to keep money flowing into the house market.

The states with laws forbidding interest as high as 7.5 per cent are Michigan, where Romney was governor, Illinois, New York, Iowa, North Carolina, South Carolina and North Dakota.

No special action is planned on the Matter, a HUD spokesman said later, since Romney's order set only the upper limit on rates.

The spokesman said mortgage lenders in states involved will not be able to charge the maximum interest. In some other states, he said, the one-half per cent loan insurance fee charged by the Federal Housing Administration and other mortgage charges could raise the new rate above permissible levels.

Latin Tour Looms For Rockefeller

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, passed over for a place in the Nixon cabinet, has been asked by his former presidential rival to head a fact-finding mission to Latin-America.

The White House confirmed last night that Rockefeller had been contacted on the subject in recent days.

But news secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said no firm decision has been made yet on whether to even send such a mission.

Rockefeller, whose family has extensive interests in Latin America and worked on some of the area's problems in the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt, said he was "seriously considering" the offer.

"We have budgetary difficulties and other problems in the state," Rockefeller said. "We must appraise the request and weigh my responsibility in the state."

Diplomatic sources said Nixon had decided U.S. policy toward Latin America needed a "thorough re-examination" in the light of a trend toward military dictatorships.

Three have taken over in the past four months—in Peru, Brazil and Panama.

Modern aerial cameras can pinpoint objects smaller than a compact car from altitudes of 100 to 300 miles, says National Geographic.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Paper Shut Down

SAIGON (AP) — The weekly newspaper An Lac, run by a Buddhist monk, was closed indefinitely today by the Saigon regime. A government spokesman said the paper, with a circulation of about 20,000, carried articles which tended to lower the fighting spirit of South Vietnamese troops, claimed South Vietnam is advocating war, and gave "offense to the leaders of the nation."

Rembrandt Found

GENEVA (AP) — Police yesterday recovered a small painting attributed to Rembrandt which was stolen from the Geneva Musuem of Fine Arts two months ago. The police said they arrested a Swiss who tried to sell the painting and believe that he is the thief. The painting is a portrait of Rembrandt's mother.

Troops Rushed In

KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI) — The government of President Mohammad Ayub Khan rushed troops into Pewhawar on the nation's mountainous Khyber Pass region today to put down new demonstrations and riots.

At least 26 persons have been killed in nine days of disorders in a campaign against the Ayub government.

In Karachi students of the Lalukhet area tried to claim bodies of four slain demonstrators for a funeral procession but authorities refused.

A Cheap Bomb?

WASHINGTON (AP)—A cheap hydrogen bomb set off by the intense light of a laser is a theoretical possibility, the Atomic Energy Commission says, but not until lasers become much more powerful.

"The capabilities of present lasers are hundreds or thousand of times lower than that considered by the AEC to even begin to be a cause for any concern in weapons or nuclear explosive device applications," one scientist said.

A laser bomb would be an H-bomb in which the intense heat of a laser—which concentrates a beam of light and can create high temperatures — would be used to touch off a hyrogen explosive. In present devices an atomic bomb is used as the trig-

Quads Are Born

LONDON (UPI)—Doctors said today that quadruplets born to Mrs. Ann Randall, 24, were in good condition and are expected to live.

The babies, two boys and two girls, were delivered last night by Caesarian section prematurely. Mrs. Randall, an art teacher who had been childless in her four years of marriage, had undergone fertility treatment.

Many New England birds go to Bermuda for the winter, among them the song sparrow, junco, redstart, palm warbler and blackpoll.

Carted To Jail

BELFAST, NORTHERN IRELAND (UPI)—Police burst into the home of Maj. Ronald Bunting today and took the militant Protestant leader to Belfast prison to serve a three-month sentence.

A police statement said officers were refused entry to Bunting's home at Dundonald and had been forced to force an entry to make the arrest.

Rev. Ian Paisley, Bunting's fellow militant in continuing unrest and clashes between Catholics and Protestant in Northern Ireland, bitterly denounced police for "smashing in" to make this morning's arrest.

"The police must have gone mad to behave in such a way," said Paisley.

Ammo Slice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Department planners are budgeting a major drop in ammunition production through the end of 1970, the result of a shift in emphasis from the battlefield in Vietnam to the peace table in Paris.

The Pentagon is planning a $1.3 billion drop in orders for air and ground ammunition from its "hot production" base. The reduction will bring its ammunition budget to $6.1 billion in the budget year beginning next July. The current level is $7.4 billion.

It is believed birds navigate by using the sun and stars and familiar landmarks.

Nixon, Advisers Talk Over Nuclear Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Nixon and the National Security Council met today to discuss timing for Senate ratification of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty—and perhaps to talk about the tense Middle Eastern situation.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said discussion of the treaty dominated the lengthy White House conference. But, in response to repeated questions from newsmen, he said he could not rule out talk about the Middle East.

Beyond saying that the American government has been "on record many times as deploring this cycle of incidents and retaliations" in the Mideast, Ziegler would not comment on events in that part of the world. He referred his questioners to the State Department.

Ziegler said there was no question that Nixon continues to support the treaty.

Following the meeting, the President's third with the NSC since he took office, Nixon was invited to a Capitol Hill luncheon with Senate leaders and to pay a personal visit to the Senate floor.

Although discussion of the treaty to ban the spread of nuclear arms seemed sure to come up during Nixon's visit to Capitol Hill, no immediate decision was expected on when Senate action will be sought.

Nixon indicated at a news conference Monday he would not make up his mind until sometime next week.

Nixon's visit to the Senate where he served from 1950 to 1952 as a member, then presided for eight years as vice president, followed a visit yesterday to the House where he launched his national political career 22 years ago.

Nixon also met with Secretary of State William P. Rogers, subject not announced, following a conference with chairman Glenn T. Seaborg of the Atomic Energy Commission. Seaborg told newsmen afterwards he had agreed to continue in his post indefinitely. His term expires June 30, 1970.

The Pueblo's skipper, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher has said he was worried about problems with this communications linkup and, had "no confidence" in it.

To support intelligence missions, Johnson said, he "requested that the Fifth Air Force provide aircraft assistance, a special alert of aircraft on the runways, and that the commander of the Seventh Fleet assign me a destroyer to remain about 30 miles distance from the AGERS over the horizon."

Johnson said the Air Force provided the special alert, but in at least one instance for one intelligence mission off Shanghai the Seventh Fleet did not provide the destroyer I asked for.

"They directed a destroyer from the Taiwan defense patrol to remain in the northern sector of this (Shanghai) patrol area. It had a reaction time of 16 hours," he said.

"This then became more or less the standard procedure for requesting special air-surface support."

CANAL

He said the commission staff has estimated it will cost $60,000 to make the survey, with the total amount to be paid by the city.

Andersen said Dan Coleman Associates estimated they could do the job for not more than $20,000, but the commission staff said the private survey would not be acceptable.

City Attorney David A. Menary said he had been unable to get a satisfactory explanation from the commission staff on the $40,000 difference.

Andersen reported the State Lands Commission staff claims there are 60 infringements on the old creek bed which the state owns.

He said it isn't clear how the commission staff knows the number of infringements since it doesn't have a survey.

Menary said it is possible the City of San Rafael owns much of the land under the existing San Rafael Canal.

There are precedents for trading such land for uplands, he said, citing cases in Long Beach and Alameda as two examples.

He suggested asking for special legislation to eliminate the survey requirement.

Peter Townsend, an attorney for Western Title Co. which is handling Marin Municipal Water District litigation with the lands commission, said he was doubtful the state could establish lines 70 years after the canal was realigned.

Andersen urged beginning some action, noting clouded titles are preventing development along the canal because loans aren't made when titles are not clear.

He also said the State Lands Commission staff has mentioned the cloud on the title to Montecito Shopping Center lands, noting the state could demand back rent from those buildings constructed on the old canal bed. The city may also have some liability for selling the lands because of the clouded title.

The group agreed several persons should meet with the State Land Commission staff after it is determined who owns lands underlying San Rafael Canal to discuss what could be done next.

MARIN

And it got so cold in Fairfax the fire siren wouldn't blow, firemen reported.

Much of the snow which appeared on mountain tops and ridges yesterday didn't melt and ice was reported on puddles in Novato.

Rainfall was light and centered on the coast and southern Marin. Bolinas reported the most, .14 of an inch in the 24 hours ending at 8 a.m. today.

Bolinas also reported the lowest temperature in the county — an overnight low of 23 degrees.

Other lows were Woodacre, Novato and Terra Linda, 26 degrees; Tamalpais Valley and Petaluma, 27; Sausalito, Mill Valley and Fairfax, 30; San Anselmo, 32; San Rafael and Ross, 33, and Belvedere, 36.

Roads in unincorporated Marin have suffered scattered damage, but none has been closed, according to Mario Balestrieri, deputy county director of public works.

In addition to the usual slides and fallen trees which occur during storms, a concrete culvert washed out on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at Inverness Park and a portion of one lane of Drake Boulevard in Inverness is closed because of collapse.

"We've had more damage than we'd normally expect, but we've certainly had worse years," Balestrieri said.

Damage to roads in Southern Sonoma was considered minor.

Watery mud which slid downhill yesterday into the rear of the Sausalito Pharmacy has ruined most of a shipment of drugs scheduled to go to Biafra relief, druggist Fred Mayer said today.

The mudslide may have been triggered by a water hydrant leak on Bulkley Avenue above the pharmacy at 701 Bridgeway. Pharmacy employees discovered the slide when they opened the store yesterday and found three inches of mud and water on the floor. The pharmacy was closed until midafternoon while the mess was cleaned up.

Mayer said the Biafra-bound drugs, largely doctors' samples, were stacked at the rear of the store. The pharmacy is Northern California depot for the pharmaceutical end of the Biafra relief program headed by Mrs. Diedre Silverman of Sausalito. A drug shipment is flown to Biafra every two weeks. Mayer said some of the drugs can be salvaged but most are ruined.

The Marin Municipal Water District said a hydrant shifted away from a valve at 1 a.m. yesterday causing the water leak. Water was cut off when the leak was detected, and the hydrant was repaired later in the day, the water district reported.

Mayer said further rains could bring down more mud and damage the building. Cleanup work continued today.

Yesterday's slide is not far from the scene of a slide two years ago today which swept down the hill and caved in the rear wall of the Tides bookstore and heaped mud against the Sandal shop, Takahashi gift shop and GG apparel shop, causing extensive damage

the probability for new showers tomorrow was a 50-50 tossup.

In San Francisco to the north, barometers rose and the weather cleared after 24 hours of snow, hail, bitter wind and some sunshine. But a new storm northwest of Eureka was expected to bring rain southward to Sacramento by nightfall and dump more snow in the Sierra.

With predictions of showers for the next few days, flood waters continued to cause more damage and threaten still more.

The San Joaquin and Sacramento rivers were reported still rising and a dike was broken where the San Joaquin and Stanislaus rivers converge near Modesto.

The California Crop and Livestock Reporting service said the rain has brought "significant crop losses in some winter vegetables and poses a serious threat to maturing citrus fruits." Losses are also expected in sugar beets and some small grains as well as broccoli, cabbage and cauliflower, reported heavily damaged.

Meanwhile, in Washington Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Harding announced today that farmers in eight more storm swept counties in California are eligible for emergency financial aid.

Two others — Tulare and Fresno — were designated last year as emergency areas as a result of frost damage to crops.

Hardins action cleared the way for the Farmers Home Administration to make additional emergency loans to victims of recent rains and flooding. The loans are earmarked to help replace equipment, livestock and crops.

The new FHA credit permits farmers to borrow money at three per cent interest, the loans to be repaid as soon as possible according to a borrower's ability to pay.

Officials also said the FHA could make low-cost loans to repair and replace damaged housing on farms and in small towns of up to 5,500 population. These also bear three per cent interest but may run up to 33 years. No "emergency" designation was required for these type loans.

TAX

way user funds generally," said Collier, former chairman of the Transportation Committee.

However, Reagan, after personally inspecting flood damage in the San Joaquin Valley and southern California yesterday, said he did not believe a one-cent increase was necessary.

In his state of the state message to the Legislature, the governor vowed, "under no circumstances will I support or sign into law any tax increase."

Collier, D-Yreka, sponsored legislation in 1965 temporarily adding a one-cent increase to the gas tax for repair of highway destruction in northern California caused by torrential rain.

The increase remained in effect five months and generated $31.6 million for road repairs. The federal government supplied another $26 million.

The state Division of Highways estimates that a new cent-a-gallon increase in both the gasoline and diesel fuel levies would produce between $80 million and $90 million a year.

"The people of southern California were generous enough to help us and we should be equally generous," Collier said. "It's most pitiful. These people just have to be helped."

Nixon Returns To Senate Floor

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon made a sentimental return to the Senate today and got a pledge from the Democratic leader that senators in the opposition party "will do everything we can to make you a good president and a great president."

Nixon appeared on the Senate floor following a luncheon with leaders of both parties in the chambers of Republican chief Everet M. Dirksen of Illinois.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, addressing Nixon from the Democratic side of the aisle, said differences will be inevitable but, when Senate Democrats take issue with presidential positions, they will strive to be "constructively different."

As for the trouble-making students, he repeated that "there's got to be a realistic facing up to those who throw fuel on the fires" of campus trouble.

There comes a time, he said, when the higher education authorities have to rid campuses "once and for all" of dissidents who spend weeks or months participating in disruption of campus life and are not legitimately seeking an education.

PRESIDIO PROTEST—A crowd of silent protesters gathered outside this Presidio building where first-day proceedings against six young soldiers charged with mutiny were held yesterday. Twenty-one more soldiers, facing similar charges will face court-martial later.

300 Demonstrate At Court-Martial Site

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A crowd of 300 demonstrated outside the Presidio yesterday during the brief opening proceedings of the court-martial of six soldiers charged with mutiny.

The court-martial was recessed until tomorrow to give defense attorneys more time to prepare arguments and the trial of one of the six was scheduled to be held separately Feb. 17.

The six are part of a group of 27 charged with mutiny following a sit-down strike last October protesting the fatal shooting of a fellow prisoner by a guard and conditions at the Presidio stockade. The others will be tried later.

The mutiny charges were ordered by Lt. Gen. Stanley Larsen, Sixth Army commander, despite the opinion of an investigating officer that the "charge of mutiny . . . does not apply to the facts."

Capt. Richard J. Millard, who said the Army "over-reacted," urged the men be tried on a charge of willful disobedience instead of mutiny. The mutiny charge could carry a sentence of up to life imprisonment.

The rally yesterday was to protest the decision to bring mutiny charges which leaders called "callous and unreasonable."

Another demonstration is planned for Friday by the Oakland Seven, on trial with felony of conspiring to commit misdemeanor crimes during anti-draft demonstrations in Oakland in 1967.

The Seven, including Michael Smith, formerly of Corte Madera, plan to demand that charges be dropped and conditions at the Presidio stockade be investigated.

Among the 27 facing mutiny charges is Pvt. Keith Mather of San Bruno, one of the Marin City Nine, the group which chained itself together last summer in an antiwar protest at St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church.

Freshman Upsets House Leaders On Panel Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — A first-term congresswoman, in an almost unprecedented move, today upset a House leadership decision that had given her an unwanted committee assignment.

Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., first Negro woman to serve in Congress, took her fight to get off the Agriculture Committee to a caucus of House Democrats and won.

Mrs. Chisholm, whose Brooklyn district has concerns far from the jurisdiction of the Agriculture Committee, made a ringing plea to her colleagues to kill the assignment.

"I didn't come here expecting to get everything I wanted," she said she told the Democrats in their closed-door meeting. "But there are only nine black persons here and they should be used more effectively."

Mrs. Chisholm offered an amendment to the motion approving all committee assignments that removed her from the Agriculture Committee and it was accepted without a vote.

No action was taken to give Mrs. Chisholm another assignment but she said she hoped "the gentlemen will place me on a committee that has more relevance to my district."

Before the assignments were made by the 15-member Committee on Committees Mrs. Chisholm had expressed a preference to serve on the Education and Labor Committee.

"My experience, my background is all in education," she told newsmen after the caucus. "I've taught, directed a private school, ran a child care center and served on the education committee of the New York State Legislature."

Fines, Probation For Two Drivers

Two men were sentenced yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Edward Francis McLaughlin Jr., 42, of 170 Altura Way, Greenbrae was fined $240 and placed on six months probation. He was arrested by the California Highway Patrol Dec. 10 on Highway 101.

Le Patrick Perrone, 47, of 509 Johnson Street, Sausalito, was also fined $240 and placed on six months probation. He was arrested Dec. 11 in Sausalito.

Banker Is Elected As Crusade Leader

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Richard P. Cooley, 44, president of the Wells Fargo Bank, was elected yesterday as president of the board of directors of the 1969 United Bay Area Crusade.

Cooley, elected at the crusade's annual meeting, previously served the charity drive as a director and chairman of the campaign policy committee. He succeeds Benjamin F. Biaggini, president of Southern Pacific, in the crusade post.

Pentagon's First Team Now Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate completed approval of President Nixon's first team at the Pentagon today by confirming former Gov. John H. Chafee of Rhode Island as secretary of the Navy and Dr. Robert C. Seamans Jr. as secretary of the Air Force.

It also approved Robert F. Froehlke as assistant secretary of defense for administration and Barry J. Shillito as assistant secretary of defense for installations and logistics.

It had earlier approved Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and Deputy Secretary David R. Packard. Stanley R. Resor is remaining as secretary of the Army, and no Senate action is required to reconfirm him.

The Senate also approved these other nominations by Nixon:

Brig Gen. George A. Lincoln as director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, a position that carries membership on the National Security Council.

James E. Johnson as the first Negro member of the Civil Service Commission.

All action was by voice vote without dissent.

Purse Snatched In Corte Madera

Two young men yesterday snatched a Mill Valley woman's purse containing $24 cash, Corte Madera police reported today.

Ryan G. Byrne, 58, of 27-A East Blithedale Avenue, told officers that two men in their early 20s approached her in the Montgomery Ward store at the Corte Madera Shopping Center about 8:25 p.m., grabbed the purse and fled.

'Oakland 7' Jury Trouble Continuing

OAKLAND (UPI) — Three weeks and 177 prospective jurors later, the prosecution and defense were still unable today to agree on a jury to try the "Oakland Seven."

So far, 11 tentative jurors have been selected from five panels of prospects. The prosecution and defense have left unused 53 peremptory challenges.

The seven defendants were arrested during demonstrations at the Oakland Induction Center in October 1967. They were charged with conspiracy.

Rash Of Thefts In Santa Venetia

Thieves who swept through Santa Venetia in the early morning hours Monday broke into cars and trucks parked on streets, stole two motorcycles and left a trail of discarded stolen items behind them.

The motorcycles which were stolen from 641 Gallerita Way and 810 Rosal Way were found by a gardener in a children's park on Descanso Way later in the morning.

Cars on Vendola Drive, Gallerita Way and Adrian Way were borken into and wallets left in glove compartments taken as well as tools. Most of the stolen items were later found on neighbors' lawns.

AFTERMATH OF STORMS

Red Gunners Down Three Helicopters

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist ground fire downed three more American helicopters in South Vietnam, military spokesmen said today. The Viet Cong announced they would observe a truce during the Tet holiday next month and the Allies said they had the proposal "under consideration."

The downing of the helicopters brought U.S. aircraft losses since the new year to 31, with 23 of them being helicopters. Military sources said the losses were heavy in light of the limited extent of fighting since the first of the year.

Communist forces have improved antiaircraft defenses around their strongholds in South Vietnam and have moved an entire battalion of antiaircraft gunners into the Cambodian border region northwest of Saigon, the sources said.

REDS PLAN TRUCE

The Viet Cong announced in a radio broadcast monitored in Saigon they would observe a Tet, or lunar new year, holiday ceasefire Feb. 15-22. Last year during Tet, the Communists called a truce, then launched their biggest offensive of the war against South Vietnamese cities.

A South Vietnamese spokesman said that "because of the last Tet offensive" it was "too soon" to announce the time and date for a Tet ceasefire this year. He said any ceasefire "will not last long if there is one."

OUTPOST ATTACKED

About 500 Communist troops attacked a South Vietnamese airborne battalion outpost 54 miles northwest of Saigon yesterday, military spokesmen said, following up a mortar barrage with a ground assault. The government soldiers repulsed the attack killing 23 Communists while sustaining "light" casualties.

American infantrymen operating with Navy river patrol boats uncovered a three-ton Communist weapons cache 23 miles southwest of Saigon yesterday, spokesmen said. It was the 51st supply dump found in a two-month-long Army-Navy river patrol operation.

Less than a mile north of the fighting, an American unit found a Viet Cong food cache containing almost 40,000 pounds of rice. Other U.S. troops uncovered an ammunition dump about three miles away which contained 37,000 rifle bullets, 391 mortar and recoilless rifle rounds, 100 pounds of TNT, 220 gallons of gasoline, 29 booby traps and other equipment.

U.S. Marines patroling near the Demilitarized Zen (DMZ) seven miles northwest of Cam Lo found their second Communist supply dump in as many days. It contained an antiaircraft machine gun and 19,900 rounds of ammunition, 323 hand grenades and 15,000 rifle bullets, spokesmen said.

TIME BOMBS FOUND

In Saigon, Viet Cong terrorists placed two time bombs in a civil defense office about two blocks from the central market but they were disarmed without exploding.

SEMANTICS NIGHTMARE

American's Paris Roundtable Guide

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

PARIS (AP) — Sir, I am an American in Paris. Can you tell me what's going on here about Vietnam?

Well, we're gathering again tomorrow around a round table to face issues squarely.

Q. Ah—a peace conference?

A. Absolutely not! The first thing a newcomer must learn is that you don't call this anything but talks.

Q. Why?

A. Well, if you call what goes on at the International Conference Center a conference, the Americans and South Vietnamese won't like it. A conference can mean that everybody present has the authority to confer. If you call it a meeting, the North Vietnamese and the National Liberation Front get mad at you. A meeting is an informal thing where anybody can throw in his two bits' worth. The NLF and Hanoi say its a conference.

Q. I've heard there'll never be a meeting—excuse me—talks on a Wednesday. Why not?

A. Because the Americans and the South Vietnamese think that would be too much like a continuation of the preliminary American-North Vietnamese talks, which were always on Wednesdays.

Q. So what?

A. People would get the idea these are "enlarged" or "expanded" talks. Expanded from two to four sides.

Q. Aren't they?

A. Well, the Hanoi-NLF people say they are, but the Washington-Saigon people say they aren't. If you say "enlarged," it might mean that it has been enlarged from two sides to four sides.

Q. Hasn't it?

A. The Hanoi—NLF people say it has, but the Washington—Saigon people say there are still only two sides, themselves and the others. They say the NLF is a "reality" but not a "political entity."

Q. What should one call the talks, then?

A. New, full-scale or substantive talks. But not enlarged or expanded.

Q. Aren't there four delegations here?

A. Yes and No. Hanoi and the NLF say there are. Saigon and the Americans seem to accept the fact that there are four negotiators, but to say there are four delegations would mean that the NLF is independent enough to have its own delegation.

Q. Why is the table round?

A. If it were square it would have four sides, and four sides look likes four delegations. A round table doesn't have sides marked off, so one group can say it has four sides and another can say it has two sides and both are right. The two rectangular tables, where the lesser staff sit, have sides. But if the rectangular tables are narrow enough, they can be said to have only two sides.

Q. When they go into the room, do four delegations go in or do two?

A. There are only two doors, so the Hanoi-NLF people use one and the Washington-Saigon people use the other. If there were four doors, there would have been the devil to pay.

Held To Answer On Three Counts

Richard Bruce Schwartz, 24, of Gate Six near Sausalito, was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday on two charges of car theft and one charge of possessing a bad check with intent to defraud.

He will be arraigned Monday.

Schwartz was arrested by Mill Valley police Jan. 16 allegedly driving a stolen car. They said he had checks with him that had been stolen from a Mill Valley man. The other auto theft allegedly took place Jan. 7.

GOP Committee Supports Hayakawa

The Marin County Republican Central Committee announced last night firm support of Gov. Ronald Reagan, Dr. S. I. Hayakawa and the police for their handling of the San Francisco State crisis.

The committee, in a resolution, also asked the courts to deal swiftly with campus offenders.

Dos Rios Dam Proposal Backed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Assembly Water Committee issued yesterday a report backing the proposed, controversial $272.2 million Dos Rios Dam.

The 63-page report, a result of interim hearings, urges that more water supplies be made available to the State Water Project by 1986.

The new proposed project would include a 730-foot dam, a reservoir twice the size of Lake Oroville, and inundation of Round Valley in Mendocino County.

Name Omitted

Julie Cramer of 350 Sycamore Avenue, Mill Valley — who was a passenger Monday in a cab driven by Charles D. Sher of Bolinas that was involved in a threee-car collision in Greenbrae that evening — has reported that Tuesday's Independent-Journal account of the accident failed to report that she was accompanied by her fiance, Brian Grove of San Anselmo.

Youth Authority Has Less Influx Again

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Allen F. Breed, director of the California Youth Authority, today reported a total of 4,689 youths entered Youth Authority institutions during 1968, a decline for the third successive year.

The total represented a decline of 6.1 per cent from the 4,994 first admissions in 1967. The total in 1966 was 5,458, and the 1965 total was an all-time record of 6,174.

Teener Balks At Serving On Rohnert Park Commission

The teen-ager recently appointed to the Rhonert Park Recreation Commission is having second thoughts about his willingness and ability to serve.

Raymond Erickson, 17, declined to take the oath of office at the commission meeting Monday, saying he felt he should have been elected by the students of Rancho Cotate High School rather than appointed by the city council. He said he felt the appointed position rather than an elected one meant that he really did not represent the students.

The commission members explaned that all committees are appointed by the council rather than by general election and advised him to consider the appointment for two weeks before making a final decision.

Mayor Arthur Robert was the only city official to screen the list prospective commissioners provided by Rancho Cotate Principal Robert E. Daggett.

"When I interviewed him, he seemed highly impressed with the position and said he thought he could do the job," Roberts said. The mayor said today his recommendation of Erickson may have been wrong and said he should have selected a student with more self confidence.

Roberts discounted the possibility of having the students elect the recreation commissioner because Penngrove and Cotati are represented in the student body in addition to Rohnert Park.

The mayor said he would not encourage Ericksen to accept the position.

Young Suspect's Hearing Delayed

The preliminary hearing in Marin Municipal Court yesterday for Steven David Foster, 19, of San Anselmo, accused of burglarizing a San Anselmo ice cream shop Sunday, was continued to Tuesday.

San Anselmo police halted Foster at about 4:30 a.m. Sunday morning because his car had a defective tail light. Officers said that Foster had several rolls of coins and a canvas money bag in his car.

They took the canvas bag from him but released Foster with the coins. An hour later, they said, Foster was seen at the door of Baskin-Robbins ice cream store on Red Hill Avenue.

According to police, Foster, a former employee of the shop, said he was trying to return $24 stolen earlier.

Nixon Displays Red Setter Pup

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon showed off his new six-month-old Irish setter yesterday, a friendly dog nicknamed Tim which he says has to be run for exercise.

"That's the way I'll do my jogging," the President said with a smile. "I'm not going to be running for a few years."

Tim arrived at the White House last night and made his formal debut in the Rose Garden this morning before newsmen, photographers and congressional leaders.

Latin Joins Negroes In Rebuking Monagan

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The legislature's only Mexican-American member has quit as vice chairman of a new Assembly committee on big city problems, calling his appointment a "compromise which relegates Mexican-Americans to second-class status."

Assemblyman Alex P. Garcia, a Los Angeles Democrat, resigned yesterday as vice chairman of the Urban Affairs and Housing Committee, saying he had not been consulted on his appointment by Speaker Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy.

An aide to Monagan said Garcia, a freshman, had probably been persuaded to quit by high Democratic party officials.

In his letter of resignation, Garcia told Monagan: "I considered it an insult to have first learned of my appointment from the news media."

"I am convinced," the letter continued, "that my appointment as vice chairman was nothing less than an afterthought and not an expression of confidence in my qualifications. My refusal is based in the firm conviction that Mexican-Americans can no longer consider positions previously rejected by honorable men."

Garcia was referring to two Negro Democrats — Leon Ralph of Los Angeles and Willie L. Brown Jr. of San Francisco — who earlier had refused to accept the committee vice chairmanship.

Monagan, who announced Garcia's appointment Monday, said he failed to see why Garcia found the appointment insulting, since the young legislator had been one of only four freshmen to receive a vice chairmanship.

"However," Monagan said, "if Mr. Garcia considers this assignment beneath his dignity, I will be the last to insist that he accept it."

Garcia said — as did Ralph and Brown — that he still wanted to stay on the committee as a member.

A Monagan aide said Garcia probably had been under pressure to resign the post. When asked if he meant pressure from Ralph and Brown, the spokesman said: "I think it comes from higher up."

Ralph said he and Garcia had discussed the matter only briefly.

"He mentioned he was thinking about it," Ralph said, "but I didn't offer any advice. I felt it was his decision and that it wasn't my perogative to offer suggestions. I did explain to him why I had turned the position down."

Assembly Minority Leader Jesse M. Unruh said Garcia had not consulted with him about rejecting the assignment. Unruh declined to comment on Garcia's decision.

Asked if Garcia's appointment had been made solely on the basis of his Mexican-American background, Jerry Simpson, executive assistant said:

"Oh, no. Although that was one consideration. He could serve as a representative of a major urban area with a large minority population. He would understand their problems."

Simpson also said he was surprised Garcia had called the appointment an "insult."

"He should have felt honored," he said.

Five San Rafael residents are attending a seminar on aging sponsored by the University of Southern California and the state Commission on Aging this week in Anaheim.

Bagley Asks Presidential Vote Change

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, called today for federal legislation to modify the electoral college system of selecting a president.

Bagley introduced a resolution asking Congress to submit to the states a constiutional amendment that changes but does not abolish the electoral system.

Under his proposal, electors would be eliminated but each state would retain its number of electoral votes which would go to the candidate gaining a majority of a state's popular vote in the presidential election.

Bagley said he opposed a direct presidential election such as proposed in another resolution by Assembly Democratic Leader Jesse M. Unruh.

He said a direct election would encourage factional voting, promote splinter groups "and thus thwart the national will more so than the present system."

Bagley said his proposal was based on suggestions made by state Controller Houston I Flournoy.

Deafness Cure Slow But Easy

BRIDGWATER, England (AP) — Adrian Bennett has discovered the reason for the slight but persistent deafness in his right ear. He's had a cork in it for the past 20 years.

Adrian, 23, has been hard of hearing since he was three. yesterday he went to a new doctor.

"The cork popped out when the doctor syringed my right ear," Adrian reported. "It was a quarter of an inch long and cylindrical like a cigarette filter.

Lawmakers Gingerly Eye Pay Hike For Legislature

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —State legislators — with a wary eye on voter reaction — showed a healthy but cautious interest today in a suggestion they raise their $16,000-a-year salaries. (More Sacramento stories, page 9.)

The suggestion came from Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan, D-Burlingame, who wrote colleagues urging a "strong bipartisan effort" this year for a cost-of-living salary hike. It was timely, Ryan said, because Congress is thinking along the same lines for itself.

Pay raises for the legislators were provided for in revision of the constitution which the voters approved in 1966 as Proposition 1-A.

But the document limits any increase to 5 per cent a year. And it provides any increase enacted would not apply until after the next general election.

If one were passed this year, all 80 assemblymen and 20 of the 40 senators would have to win re-election in 1970 to receive the higher pay in 1971.

Assembly Speaker Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy, said he'd go along with a salary increase "on the basis of the cost of living with the realization, of course, that it doesn't apply to legislators who are now serving."

Sen. George Moscone, San Francisco, Democratic floor leader in the upper house, also voiced support.

"I shouldn't think any legislator should feel timid about following the mandate of a constitutional amendment unless he isn't satisfied with his work," said Moscone.

Senate Republican leader Donald L. Grunsky, Watsonville, said he personally felt a pay raise was "quite in order" and "well justified" but conceded many senators might not support it at this time.

Grunsky noted the last time the Senate Republicans caucused on the subject they rejected a pay increase.

Assembly Democratic Leader Jesse M. Unruh, Inglewood, said he was opposed to any salary increase until the legislature first approved a tough conflict of interest law requiring full disclosure by a public official of his assets. Unruh said he plans introduction of such legislation tomorrow.

Putting you first, keeps us first. '69 Chevelle Malibu Sport Coupe

GM
MARK OF EXCELLENCE

You know what's happened to prices without our having to tell you.

But have heart.

And the cost of all those items, with the exception of the whitewalls and wheel covers, has come down. (Wheel covers cost the same and a set of whitewalls is $2.10 more.)

But Powerglide costs less than it did in 1968. And the cost of new advanced-design power disc brakes has been cut by more than one-third.

So you end up paying $69.00* less for this one than you would have paid for last year's model equipped the same way.

And, of course, the '69 Malibu Sport Coupe is not the same car as last year's model. It's more car.

It comes with Chevrolet's new theft-discouraging lock for the steering wheel, shift lever and ignition. It has Astro Ventilation to let in air, but keep out wind and road noise.

It's the only car in its field to offer you headlight washers and a push-button system for coating your rear wheels with a traction improving fluid when you get stuck on ice.

So be sure to show up at your Chevrolet dealer's Showdown.

One thing's for sure. Chevelle's competition wouldn't dare.

State Colleges Gain On Financial Request

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Assembly Education Committee has approved a bill to provide state colleges with $575,000 to handle an unexpected influx of students, but first it changed the way the money would be distributed.

Originally, under the bill introduced by Assemblyman Pete Wilson, R-San Diego, the money would have been an outright grant to the colleges from the General Fund.

But it was amended yesterday to put the money into the emergency fund administered by Gov. Ronald Reagan. From there it would be distributed by State Finance Director Caspar Weinberger.

Wilson said state college officials had requested about $2 million last October, but were told the emergency fund didn't have that much money.

The colleges say they need the money to add to their faculties for the spring term.

Reagan Assigns Telephone Aide To Resources Post

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A telephone company executive will take over as first permanent director of the new State Human Resources Development Department and attempt to put the hard-core unemployed to work.

Gilbert L. Sheffield of San Francisco, an assistant vice president for Pacific Telephone Co., was named to the $25,727-a-year job yesterday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The 39-year-old Republican, whose appointment requires Senate confirmation, succeeds Lucian Vandergrift, acting director of the department. Vandergrift will return to his post as assistant secretary of the State Human Relations Agency.

The new department created by the 1968 legislature consolidated several state agencies, including the State Office of Economic Opportunity, the California Multiservice Center program the State Employment Department and the California Commission on Aging.

The governor's office said Sheffield had been directing a minority recruitment program in the telephone company.

Shaw's Defense Using Challenges

NEW ORLEANS — The Clay Shaw trial moved a little closer to testimony today when the defense used two of its last four peremptory challenges to dismiss prospective jurors.

The state still had three such challenges left. Each side started with 12 peremptory challenges—by which prospective jurors are dismissed without cause—when the trial got under way nine days ago.

Ten men have been seated, leaving two jurors and two alternates still to be selected to decide the case of Shaw, charged with conspiring to murder President John F. Kennedy.

At the beginning of the New Year, front doors in Staffordshire and northern England are thrust open. A man strides in carrying a bit of coal or bread as symbols of wealth. The gift-bearer, known as "first-foot," must have dark hair. A light color, especially red, supposedly brings ill luck.

Sonoma Collision Injures Woman

Maris Wagner, 74, of Vallejo, was reported in fair condition today at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in Vallejo after a two-car collision at the intersection of Highways 21 and 37 in southern Sonoma County yesterday.

The hospital did not specify Mrs. Wagner's injuries but she complained of pain in the right side at the accident scene, the California Highewy Patrol said.

She was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Hilmar A. Wagner, 79, of Vallejo. The patrol said the accident occurred at 3:20 p.m. when Wagner turned onto Highway 37 into the path of a car driven by Reinhold Schott, 39, of Walnut Creek.

Wagner was cited for failure to yield the right of way.

Reinecke Names Liasion Helper

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke named Peter L. Tweedt yesterday to act as liaison to boards, commissions and agencies on which the state's No. 2 executive serves.

Tweedt, 36-year-old secretary to the California Highway Commission, was the second aide designated by Reinecke. Earlier he named Win Adams, 51, former cabinet secretary to Gov. Ronald Reagan, as his executive assistant.

The lieutenant governor said Tweedt would give special emphasis to the University of California Board of Regents and the State College Board of Trustees.

McCarthy May Seek Top Senate Position

By PAUL E. PERTERZELL

SACRAMENTO — Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, yesterday declared he will be a candidate for the most powerful position in the Senate, president pro tempore, if the Republicans capture the formerly Democratic seat in the special election next month in Contra Costa County.

Sen. George Miller Jr., D-Martinez, died last month, leaving the balance in the upper house 20-9 in favor of the Republicans.

The pro tem post was retained at the beginning of the current legislative session by Sen. Hugh M. Burns, D-Fresno, despite a challenge by Democratic "young Turks" to dump him because he supported President Nixon's candidacy and opposed that of Sen. Alan Cranston.

"I'd hate to dump Huey (Burns), McCarthy told the Independent-Journal. Both Burns and McCarthy are bulwarks of the bipartisan Senate old guard, and both have been under fire by younger senators impatient with the seniority system.

McCarthy, who has been in the Senate since 1950, was dumped by his fellow Republican senators last year as the party's floor leader.

Another candidate for pro tem, McCarthy conceded, would be Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville, who replaced McCarthy as floor leader.

Senate sources, noting that the Republicans probably will not be able to unite behind a single candidate, speculated that an impasse very well could be settled by eight or nine Democratic senators eager to get rid of Burns.

Sunburn Possible Even In Wintertime

NEW YORK (UPI)—Winter outdoor activity can result in windburn and sunburn as painful as the summer varieties, say first aid experts. They recommend these safeguards: Keep hands, eyes and ears well protected; use a good sunscreening agent on face and forehead; apply zinc oxide for protection against windburn. Should you suffer either type of burn, treat immediately with antiseptic first aid cream. This will relieve pain quickly and promote healing.

Bill Proposes Primary Vote In August

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Assemblyman J. K. (Ken) MacDonald, D-Ojai, has authored AB-266 which will cut the time between the primary and general elections in California by two months.

MacDonald's bill would move the direct primary from its present June date to the first Tuesday after the first Monday in August.

MacDonald claimed it is not uncommon to find assembly candidates spending more than $50,000 during campaigns while congressional and state senate candidates will use as much as $100,000.

The measure provides that state conventions of each political party be held on the third Saturday in September following the direct primary, rather than the first Saturday in August for the Republicans and a Saturday in August for the Democrats.

Novato Sewer Panel Hears Pollution Plan Unworkable

The Novato Sanitary District is not complying with the proposed new regulations of hhe Bay Area Water Pollution Control Board and will not be able to for a long time, Charles Joseph, engineer-manager of the district, reported Monday night to the board.

The proposed regulations will be up for adoption by the control board at its Feb. 13 meeting in Oakland, Joseph said.

The new regulations on bacteria count and algae are behone the capabilities of the Novato and Ignacio treatment plants to meet, Joseph said.

The district has its own master plan for a large treatment plant in the Black Point area in the distant future he said. In addition there is the county's Brown and Caldwell Plan for the county and the state is making its own study and plan which should be ready this summer, he said.

"The Novato district just doesn't intend to try to meet the requirements at the present time," Joseph said. He said the district would meet with water pollution control board and try to work out a schedule for compliance.

He estimated the cost of the Black Point facility at somewhere between $3 and $4 million, which the district does not have.

The Novato Sanitary District board also:

ELECTION — Heard Joseph report that the election on the dissolution of the sanitary district and its absorption by the North Marin County Water District has been changed from April 8 to 15 to coincide with the school election.

EXTENSIONS — Approved plans for main extensions for the Novato Center, east of Highway 101 south of Grant Avenue, for the Los Robles apartments West of Highway 101 south of Loma Verde, and the Scottsdale project at the end of Redwood Drive.

AGREEMENTS — Approved an agreement to serve two lots prior to their annexation to the district for Nickolas Kokalis at 2215 Center Road and Merton Shelton for 2120 Vineyard Road.

MEETINGS — Set Feb. 10, 17 and 24 for meetings next month.

Teen-Agers Bombard Auto With Snowballs

Arlon Warren Branson, 1534 Buchannon Street, Novato, said his car was bombarded with snowballs as he drove down Second Street in San Rafael yesterday, police reported.

Police later stopped four boys and a girl, all in their teens, who were throwing snowballs they gathered on Mount Tamalpais. After a warning, the youths promised not to throw any more, police reported.

MILITARY BUDGET GIFT

Barbara Montgomery of Pottstown, Pa., holds a check for $5, representing the entire military budget of the tiny Principality of Andorra. The Pottstown Mercury newspaper proposes to send the mountain nation between Spain and France the check, to finance ceremonial salutes to visiting dignitaries. But U.S. Congressman Lawrence Coughlin, R-Pa., although backing the gift, says it may be illegal for a U.S. business to underwrite a foreign military power. (AP Wirephoto)

Burglars Loot Model Homes

Two model homes in San Rafael were hit by burglars, and more than $1,000 worth of furnishings were taken, in two separate incidents between Monday night and Tuesday morning, police reported.

A television set, three end tables, a throw rug and bedspread totaling $1000 was taken from the model home of the Perma Bilt Co. at 1717 Las Gallinas Avenue.

Three lamps, six pillows, a coffee table two rugs, a night stand and other items were taken from Marin Master Builders' model home at 463 Cedar Hill Drive. The builders did not give a loss estimate.

In both cases, burglars pried open windows and glass doors to gain entry.

Trustee On Ross Panel Files Papers

Incumbent Van Norden Logan has filed candidacy papers for re-election to the Ross School District board April 15.

The posts of Logan, of Frenhill Avenue in Ross, Ira Degenhardt, and Marjorie McGee expire June 30. Two other candidates, Sally Rakow and Martin S. Chase, already have filed their candidacy papers.

Illuminated Roof Sign Is Rejected

The San Rafael Planning Commission turned down last night a request for an illuminated rooftop mounted sign at Fidelity Savings and Loan, 1200 Fifth Street.

City Planner Herbert C. Hotchner urged the denial, telling the commission the sign had the appearance of a flashing sign which is prohibited in a C-1 district.

If Fidelity Savings was allowed to mount the sign, which was 5.6 by 12 feet, the way would be clear for others to place illuminated roof signs, he said.

The San Rafael Planning Commission also:

STREET NAME — Decided to change the name of Francisco Boulevard from Third Street to Lincoln Avenue at a later date. Two small sections of Francisco Boulevard, at the intersection of Second Street, will be included as a part of Second Street.

CONSTRUCTION YARD—Conditionally approved use permit renewal of the Francisco Co. Construction Yard at 2155 Francisco Boulevard.

AUTOMOTIVE CENTER—Approved construction of Auto Man Automotive Center to be located at 160 Bellam Boulevard. The center will handle diagnostic engine tune-ups, plus engine and transmission work.

TWO SIGNS — Approved two signs for Perry's Delicatessen, 911 Lincoln Avenue, which is located in a C-2 district.

SIGN REPLACEMENT — Approved replacement and redesign of signs for Ames Ford Dealership, 619 Francisco Boulevard.

WAREHOUSE — Conditionally approved a proposed 6,800 square foot warehouse to be built by Charles Rosenbaum at 28 Paul Drive.

The first military flight was made at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., in 1910 by 1st Lt. Benjamin Foulois in a Wright biplane.

Marin Country Club Found Not For Sale

The Marin Country Club is not for sale, Laurence T. Kett, chairman of the golf club acquisition committee, last night reported to the quarterly meeting of the Marin Country Club Homeowners Association.

The committee had been appointed to see if the club would be sold by the Trousdale Corp., its owners.

Club President James A. Sullivan, reported that the club dues were increased from $40 to $52 on Jan. 1 and the club enacted a $180 fee on the use of electric golf carts about six months ago. He added, "the implication is that the club is now making money and the corporation does not want to sell it."

Sullivan was re-elected president for his fourth term. William J. Begley was named vice president, Mrs. William Fergus was re-elected secretary and Peter D. Pirret, treasurer.

Elected to two-year terms on the board were: William C. Sullivan, Kett, Clement Ladreck, Stanley E. Mertel, and John R. Mani, who was elected to complete Begley's term.

Two Girls Complain Of Exposure Case

Two 14-year-old San Rafael girls, told police a man indecently exposed himself while they were walking home from San Rafael High School yesterday.

The girls described the man as husky and in his late thirties. A search by police of the area of Fourth and Grand Streets, where the incident occurred, failed to find the suspect.

Mill Valley's Paint-Up Due U.S. Honors

The Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce's paint-up program has won a distinguished achievement award in the 1968 national clean-up contest.

The award, a framed certificate, will be presented to chamber representatives at a special ceremony Feb. 25 at the Statler Hilton Hotel in Washington, D.C.

Mill Valley was one of several runners-up in a category for communities with a population of 25,000 or less. Ten winners were selected in each of three categories judged and a national winner will be selected from the 30 on Feb. 25.

The chamber submitted a scrapbook and written presentation outlining the renovation of commercial properties and sign control program to the contest, sponsored by the National Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up Bureau. The entries were reviewed by a panel of seven judges.

The chamber's efforts to spruce up downtown Mill Valley started in 1966. The paint-up program began in 1967 with 30 buildings painted the first year. More than 40 buildings have been renovated since the program started and others are scheduled for work this spring.

According to Jan Mountjoy, architectural coordinator, the program is "something that will never will be completed.

"Not only will new buildings be brought into the program, but the city's 701 planning program for the commercial areas will take up where we leave off in improvement efforts," Mrs. Mountjoy said.

Loss Only $3

The Independent-Journal incorrectly reported yesterday that $3,000 was stolen the night before from the home of William A. Muzinich of 106 Reservoir Road, San Rafael. Muzinich today reported only three dollars was taken.

More Spans Set One-Way Tolls

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Carquinez and Benicia-Martinez bridges switch to one-way toll collection Saturday.

E. R. Foley, chief engineer for the Division of Bay Toll crossings, said today the changeover will be effective one minute after midnight when southbound traffic will have free passage. Northbound vehicles will pay double—50 cents for passenger cars.

The change to one-way tolls is expected to save $225,000 a year in operating costs.

A similar experiment on the Golden Gate Bridge also improved movement of traffic and reduced accidents, officials said.

Burglars Hit Homes Of Two Officials

Burglars who broke into the home of Dixie School District Supt. Dennie B. Willis Monday left his wardrobe badly depleted.

Sheriff's officers said that Willis reported the loss of four suits, several pairs of trousers, a sport coat and a sweater as well as a color television set and several rolls of coins. The thieves also left muddy footprints on the rug of his home at 35 Oak View Drive, Los Ranchitos.

On the same day Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer, reported that someone had broken into her home at 10 Wolfe Grade, Kentfield and ransacked it. A platinum bar pin was missing, she told sheriff's deputies.

Kathy A. Rucker of 31 Corte Ortega, Greenbrae reported to the sheriff's office Monday that someone broke the wing window of her car while it was parked near College of Marin and stole a car coat containing a wallet with $5 in it, as well as gloves, a flashlight and an umbrella.

Another victim of car theft was Delores M. Winderlich of Albany who told officers that while her car was parked at 20 Circle Drive, Tiburon Sunday night someone stole a stereo set valued at $125 from it.

Canoeing On Phoenix Lake Asked

Mill Valley Parks ad Recreation Commission has asked the Marin Municipal Water District to open Phoenix Lake to canoeing.

Commission chairman Jean Barnard Monday night also was directed to write the Town of Ross asking that canoeists from Mill Valley be allowed to gain access to the lake through Natalie Crawford Greene Park which borders the lake.

Commissioners also heard that construction of a small boat storage area and dock in Enchanted Knolls adjacent to Richardson Bay would cost approximately $4,400 with piles or $1,700 without piles, Mrs. Barnard reported.

City Engineer Stanley M. Bala was asked to prepare cost estimates for access to the proposed site, Mrs. Barnard said.

Mrs. Calvin K. Terwilliger, speaking from the audience, asked that the commission consider establishing a duck pond in Mill Valley, either by Tamalpais High School or the Red Cart Market on East Blithedale Avenue.

A joint meeting with the city's art commission, scheduled for next Monday night, was postponed to Feb. 10.

Art, Garden Fair Moving Asked By '70

Directors of Fair-Marin Inc. recommended to the board of supervisors today that this year be the last time that the Marin Art and Garden Fair is held in Ross.

Hrold Stockstad, president of Fair-Marin, asked the county to move the annual fair to the Civic Center site in 1970.

Stockstad gave these reasons:

It would be illegal for state funds to be used for a county fair which is not held at the fair site. Ray Harrington, chief of the division of fairs and expositions, declared last week he would not approve funds for the fair if it is held in Ross after the Veterans' Memorial Auditorium is completed.

Development of fair funds will be facilitated by concentrating on and using one site. Delay of a year or two in moving the fair will not make available any more money for the fair.

Stockstad also asked supervisors to allocate additional funds in the 1969-70 budget to install some washroom facilities and lighting at the new fairgrounds so that the fair can be held there in 1970.

Dog Takes Up With Burglar

WHITEHALL, Mont. (AP) — Dog is man's best friend. But Danny Hanson's dog doesn't know which man he's supposed to be a friend to.

Not too long ago, a burglar entered Hanson's ranch home six miles souteast of Whitehall and stole watches, a television set, radios, tools and tool boxes. Then he took three wheels and tires from Hanson's pickup outside the house.

And, the dog? He apparently went with the burglar!

Marin Hospital Hikes Salaries, Room Rates

The Marin Hospital District board last night granted hospital employees an annual raise totaling $229,224, agreed to allot an additional $77,484 for various items, then hiked the cost of hospital rooms and service to meet these expenditures.

The additional income from rooms and service, effective Saturday, will raise a total of $325,935.

The board raised hospital semi-private room and service rates from $45 per patient daily to $50, intensive care rates from $95 to $100 daily, heart unit care from $50 to $55, the intensive heart unit service from $75 to $80, and the nursery rate from $20 to $22.

District officials said the raises in salaries and fringe benefits of employees will be effective on their next payday next month and was based on a three-month study and recommendation last night to the board by its personnel committee.

They said it is not a blanket increase, but rather is based on individual cases. Current district cost in salaries and fringe benefits is $4.25 million.

Also alloted was $6,000 for increased security by guards, $3,600 for a University of California student resident majoring in hospital administration and who will work at the hospital, $3.600 for a more intensive tumor study program, $15,000 for increased insurance costs resulting from opening of the community mental health center, and $49,284 for a resrve fund for possible additional employee fringe benefits this year. These expenses total the $77,484.

Marin Hospital District Also:

BIDS — Accepted the $48,700 bid by the San Rafael landscaping firm of Cagwin and Dorward for landscaping the community mental health center. It was lowest of two bids.

STUDENT — Authorized the employment for a year of the student of hospital administration from the University of California.

LITIGATION—Held a 20- minute closed session starting at 11:25 p.m. about possible litigation over collection of a patient's delinquent account for hospital services.

More Tam Unification Data Asked

The Marin County Committee on School District organization last night agreed to a further study before adopting a tentative unification consideration plan for the Tamalpais High School District area.

Robert E. Spain, director of administrative services for the county schools office, said the committee discussed the bonded capacities of the district's three high school attendance areas, and requested statistics on the average teacher salaries in each elementary school district within the Tamalpais district.

These, he said, will be compared with the average salary of the high school teachers.

The committee has four possible unification plans for the district area. It next meets at 8 p.m. Feb. 19 at the county schools offices, 201 Tamal Vista Boulevard, Corte Madera.

Reagan Denies Holding Veneman

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Stories that he tried to keep Assemblyman John G. Veneman, R-Modesto, from taking a Nixon administration job are "totally false and unsubstantiated," Gov. Ronald Reagan said today.

Reagan denied he told Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Robert H. Finch, former California lieutenant governor, he opposed Finch taking Veneman to Washington as his No. 2 man.

Reagan told his news conference that Finch told him, in Reagan's Sacramento office, that "he wanted Veneman and that Jack wanted to go also." But he said Finch expressed concern about the effect on the Republicans' 41-39 margin in the Assembly after years of Democratic domination.

Undersheriff Fay Bates identified the dead as Mrs. Nellie Elizabeth McCarty, 59, of rural Lincoln; 6 - year - old twins Raylene and Raymond Schoenhoft; 12-year-old twins Chris and Craig Schoenhoft, and their 15-year-old stepsister, Karen Black.

The children's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Schoenhoft, survived the fire. The mother was treated and released from a Roseville hospital, and Schoenhoft was admitted for treatment of burns.

Bradford's Resignation Accepted

Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos said that Bradford wrote in his letter of resignation that the 11 years he spent in the department "were the happiest in my life."

Mountanos said he had accepted the resignation. Bradford had been suspended from duty upon his arrest.

The complaint filed in U.S. District Court against Bradford charges that he concealed 5,040 rounds of 5.56 millimeter ammunition which reliable sources indicate was taken from Hamilton Air Force Base by S/Sgt. Gerald K. Bradt.

Blind Persons Face Other Health Woes

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Blind people often have more health problems than other persons, and this is partly because they can't see danger signals on the body.

To provide a closer watch over the health of blinded veterans, the Veterans Administration has established regional outpatient clinics with special medical teams to contact veterans with visual problems.

Protection Of Open Land To Be Sought

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Legislature was to be asked today to act immediately to provide a regional agency to protect open land in the Bay Area.

The proposal was announced yesterday by People for Open Space, a civic organization composed of representatives from nine Bay Area counties, including Marin, at a press conference.

"A regional open space system can preserve the Napa Valley vineyards, save Santa Clara County's green foothills, maintain the mountain backdrops and prevent a continuous urban sprawl between the Golden Gate Bridge and Santa Rosa," a spokesman for People for Open Space said.

Such a system can operate only through a regional agency, the spokesman said, because "open space exists without regard to city or county boundaries."

The organization reached these and other conclusions in a report prepared for the group with financial help from the Ford Foundation.

The report suggested creation of an agency such as the Bay Conservation and Development Commission. T. Jack Kent, People for Open Space project chairman, said that "the open space around the bay is being developed at a much faster rate than the bay has ever been filled."

Those who compiled the report were Development Research Associates of Los Angeles, planners Livingston and Blayney of San Francisco, and Ira M. Heyman, University of California professor of law and city planning.

Each of the nine Bay Area counties has two representatives on the board of directors and Marin's are Ralph Wertheimer of Tiburon, a dierector of the Marin Conservation League, and Philip W. Kearney of Mill Valley, active in numerous conservation groups.

The diplomat, Abdul Karim Sabbagh, was unhurt, the spokesman said, but Syria has lodged an official protest and demanded an immediate inquiry into the "disgraceful attack." The date of the shooting was not disclosed.

Sirhan Team Working To Boot Trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Subpoenas and questionnaires were handed to all 133 Los Angeles Superior Court judges today as counsel for Sirhan B. Sirhan sought to end his trial for the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Defense counsel seek to quash the indictment of Sirhan on grounds the grand jury which handed it down was unconstitutional.

The questionnaire asked the judges whether they ever picked any Mexican-American, Negroes or Orientals jurors and to name their grand jury nominees for the years 1962 and 1968.

It asked also whether they attached any importance to ethnic or racial background in their selections of panelists or whether they excluded such persons for ethnic or racial background.

It was not expected the judges would appear in cort if satisfactory answers to the questionnaire were furnished.

The move to subpena the judges would appear in court if yesterday between defense and prosecuting attorneys, the defendant and Superior Court Judge Herbert V. Walker.

Reagan Remarks On Pueblo Case

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The U.S. government, not Navy Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher, is on trial in the Pueblo board of inquiry, Gov. Ronald Reagan said today.

Reagan said that "if there were sins of omission" in the capture of the Navy intelligence ship, it was "on the part of the government."

He said "83 young men were put there and abandoned by the U.S. government." He added, "The government failed in its duty."

"I don't think Cmdr. Bucher is on trial," said Reagan.

The governor said he has had a particular interest in the case since Bucher was the executive officer of a submarine used in a movie Reagan starred in during his acting days, and played a part in the film.

Board Tables Action On Family Life Film

The Petaluma Board of Education last night took under consideration a recommendation by Supt. Lesly H. Meyer that KQED's "Time of Your Life" film series be used on an optional basis in family life education classes.

With no comment by board members, the report was tabled for further consideration. Meyer said there was no hurry in approving the film since a full program could not be developed until the fall semester.

Meyer said there are five ways the film could be used — during the regular school days when other suitable electives are provided to give students a choice, as an elective in summer school, before or after school, as an adult education program for adults, or as an adult education program for both adults and children.

Meyer also recommended that district-owned video tapes of the KQED series be used rather than the televised programs so individual schools could have more flexibility in scheduling.

The superintendent said the community was definitely split in opinion, but said results from surveys conducted by each elementary school showed parents in favor by a ratio of five-to-three.

Several parents attending the meeting disputed Meyer's figures, saying they felt most parents were against the series. The superintendent replied they had probably got that impression by attending study committee meetings at each school where the number of dissenting parents outnumbered those approving the series.

Mrs. Dorothy Head arose to protest the series and added she felt that many teachers are not qualified to teach sex education. She cited a class her daughter attended where she said the student teacher "got carried away with perverted ideas." Mrs. Head also questioned whether the "new morality" that seems prevalent in college would be transferred to the classroom when college students become teachers.

Meyer insisted that all teachers would be qualified and would be required to attend a series of workshop and some special sessions at Sonoma State College.

The controversial film series was shown either partially or completely to students in grades three through six in all Petaluma schools last spring.

Meyer said his office began receiving complaints about the series after the 10th lesson, with a formal protest presented to the board on May 14.

The board approved the showing of the remainder of the lessons, but established the study committees to review the series before it would be considered again as a classroom aide.

The Petaluma Board Of Education Also:

ADDITION — Reviewed preliminary plans for an addition to Kenilworth Junior High School as prepared by architects Reynolds and Chamberlain of Oakland. The addition includes six classrooms, two seminar rooms, a large instructional classroom, band room, snack shack, faculty room, custodial storage room and rest rooms. No cost estimate was given.

Mystery Call By Missing Novato Man

A Novato air force sergeant, missing since Jan. 11, has made a strange phone call to a friend of his wife, saying: "I am in trouble. Something is wrong with my head," Novato police reported today.

The mysterious call on Sunday reportedly was from S/Sgt. Kenneth L. McCoy, who has been the subject of an intensive search by airmen and Novato police since Jan. 15.

Pauline Schmits of 1113 Second Street, Apt. 1, Novato, a friend of McCoy's wife, Bobbie, told police she asked McCoy where he was and he replied that he did not know, but said there was snow all around him.

She asked where he was calling from and he answered that he had no phone number.

She also said that the call was not made collect to her nor was there any sound of coins being dropped into a pay telephone.

McCoy a member of the 938th Consolidated aircraft maintenance squadron, a part of the 349th military airlift wing at Hamilton Air Force Base, has been declared absent without leave and his commander has not heard from him, according to an air force spokesman.

McCoy lived at 667 Olive Avenue, Novato.

Suspect Held On Two Car Thefts

Stanley Shrout, 31, of Clovis, Fresno County, was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of car theft and possessing stolen property yesterday after investigation linked him to the theft of two Volkswagens, the California Highway Patrol said today.

Patrolman L. R. Disser said investigation tied Shrout to the theft Jan. 22 of a Volkswagen from Clark Patterson, a student at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, and the theft Friday of a car at College of Marin from Elizabeth Esmerian of Hamilton Air Force Base.

Disser said he found parts from the stolen cars at a San Rafael body shop and the owner reported buying the parts from Shrout. The body shop was not involved in the crime, Disser said.

Shrout, who refused to say where has been living in Marin, was held in lieu of $2,500 bail and was to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Plan To Ballot For Mayor Turned Down

The Novato City Council last night turned thumbs down on a proposal that the city's mayor be elected by the people rather than chosen, as at present, by councilmen from among themselves.

Ronald Rauhecker of 91 Trist Drive had asked the council why a city the size of Novato did not elect its own mayor.

City Atty. Clark M. Palmer Jr. reported that it could elect its own mayor by placing such a proposition on a general municipal election ballot or calling a special election. If the proposal was approved by the voters, then one of the council positions would be designated as mayor to be elected for four years.

Councilman M. E. Silva said that he could not see spending any money for an election, lacking more interest than had been shown.

Counmilman Joseph Gargiulo said he liked the present system of the council selecting the mayor from its own ranks.

The council told Rauhecker to form a citizens committee if he thought his idea had merit and bring it back to the council with more support.

"After all, we have until April 1970 to make that decision," Silva said.

Mayor Harley McAskill, who who has not been feeling well for several days, was too sick to complete the council meeting last night and left it at 10:15 p.m. Silva chaired the remainder of the meeting.

Mrs. McAskill reported today that the mayor was better and back on the job this morning.

Library Director Is Friendly Type

He placed this sign in front of the building:

"New Faculty — If we have not met, come see me if you can find my office, Room 310. We may have to have a bureaucracy, but it need not be a faceless one."

Novato Takes Steps To Add More Acres

Novato, the largest city in Marin County in area, last night took on a healthy chunk of additional territory when the council introduced ordinances annexing 952 acres more land.

The largest, 890 acres, lies north of Novato Creek on both sides of Highway 37 west of Black Point, and is called Highway 37 Annexation No. 2.

The second annexation of 62 acres lies in the area on Bel Marin Keys Boulevard at the Los Robles Mobile Home Park and includes the new Marin County Humane Society headquarters.

Both annexations have been approved by the local agency formation commission.

Injured Driver Said To Be Recovering

Keith J. Thomson of 101 Frustuck Avenue, Fairfax, seriously injured in a three-car collision Sunday night, was reported improved and in fair condition at Marin General Hospital today.

Thomson suffered multiple fractures when he was thrown from his car after it jumped a raised center divider on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near Eliseo Drive in Greenbrae and hit two oncoming cars.

Novato Council Overrules Planners On Apartments

The Novato City Council last night overruled the city planning commission and denied a rezoning from single family to planned residential for apartments on 10 acres north of Lamont Avenue and east on Highway 101.

The Novato planning commission previously had approved the rezoning request by Albert Young by a split 4 to 3 vote.

A petition with 144 signatures protesting rezoning was given to the council. It was signed by residents along Clausing Avenue, Clausing Court, Lamont Avenue, Reichert Avenue and Hayden Drive.

Councilman J. Wayne Womack said that there was plenty of land in Novato now zoned for multiple family. He said that he thought it was the wrong zoning for the area along the highway. That should be commercial, he said.

This left the way open for Young to file another request for rezoning for commerical.

The Novato City Council Also:

KENNELS — Referred to staff a violation of zoning regulations on a new building at Shady Lane Kennels which is three feet from the property line where six feet is required. Neighbors had objected to the building constructed by Melton Ridgeway at the kennels at 2029 Shady Lane. The council set 8 p.m. Feb. 25 for a public hearing to determine if the kennels is a public nuisance in a residential zone.

TRAFFIC — Voted to have police enforce traffic ordinances on Kendon Lane, Katlas Court, Sun Lane, Ruhlman Lane and Country Lane at the request of the majority of the residents on these private undedicated streets.

BILLBOARDS — Authorized the abatement of three billboards within the city limits along Highway 101. The council had passed an ordinance in 1965 giving owners of the billboards two years to amortize them and then remove them. The owners appealed last November and the council held hearings Jan. 14 and again last night. When no one appeared last night, the council ordered the city staff to proceed to abate the signs. They are at San Marin Drive and Novato Creek on the highway.

LOT SPLIT — Approved a lot split and deferred improvements agreement with Gulf Oil Co. for the land on Olive Avenue between Highway 101 and the Northwestern Pacific Railroad Tracks. Gulf will install the street improvements for a 7-11 market next to the railroad, but will not be required to install the improvements on the remainder of the property until it is sold or the street itself improved.

MOBILE HOMES — Intoduced an ordinance setting up standards for mobile homes in the city. This ordinance has been several months in preparation by the city staff and planning commission.

MASTER PLAN — Approved changing the master plan for the Ted R. Schuman Chevrolet Co. land west of Highway 101 at Lamont Avenue eliminating a dead end on Lamont Avenue.

BLRNING BAN — Authorized City Mgr. Charles A. Brown to write another letter of protest against the proposed single family burning ban which will come before the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District board on Feb. 5.

LIMOUSINE — Postponed until Feb. 11 consideration of an application of airport limousine service for a link between Novato and San Francisco International airport. This action would only be advisory to the state public utilities commission which must act on the application.

ANIMAL CONTROL — Postponed indefinitely action on a uniform animal control ordinance proposed by Marin County. The proposed ordinance, although patterned after the Novato ordinance, would not be as strict, according to Police Chief Robert Di Grazia. It would give the county all of the fines while causing the city attorneys to prosecute the cases, Di Grazia said.

DIRECTOR—Appointed acting public works director Clifford Temps public works director. Temps was named acting director six months ago, and Brown said that his work warranted the permanent appointment.

STAFF TIME — Referred to the Novato Parks and Recreation Advisory Commission a request from Mrs. E. D. Cochrum, chairman of the community improvement committee of the Novato Federated Women's Club for use of the city staff in designing a small park for the Marion School site.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned at 12:30 a.m., leaving consideration of proposed bills before the Legislature until its Feb. 11 meeting.

Strawberry Cable TV Pledged Soon

Strawberry Point residents will have cable television service by the end of April, the owner of Cable TV of Marin assured the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday.

Robert Lewis, who has a franchise in the Strawberry Point area, estimated he would have cable TV service there 60 days after Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. has its poles ready for stringing of television lines. "This means about 90 days from today," said Lewis.

Lewis gave his time schedule estimate at the insistence of Supervisor Michael Wornum, who demanded precise dates.

"If cable television is not working there in 90 days, then I would seriously consider cancellation of the franchise," said Wornum.

Chairman John F. McInnis asked the county administrator to come back with a report on the status of cable television in three months.

Stephen H. Kaufmann, attorney for the Strawberry Recreation District, had charged that Cable TV of Marin had failed to serve Strawberry and was preventing other firms from coming into the area. Kaufmann asked the supervisors to cancel Lewis' franchise.

Leland H. Jordan, attorney for Lewis, replied that Cable TV is working with dispatch, and the only thing that is holding up service is the telephone company's inability to rearrange its lines on telephone poles to allow television lines.

Board Splits, Favors Tomales Pier, House

Marin County Supervisors voted 3 to 1 yesterday to support a plan to build a 224-foot pier with a house on the end of it in Tomales Bay.

Robert K. Joerger of Millbrae bought waterfront property north of Inverness opposite Vision Road and applied to the Army Corps of Engineers for a permit.

Werner Von Gundell, chief of current planning, urged the supervisors to oppose the structure and suggested that the pier could be shortened and the house built closer to shore.

Supervisor Louis H. Baar supported the pier structure, arguing that several piers with houses and boathouses exist near the Joerger property.

"The man bought the property in good faith," said Baar. "Until such time as a policy is established on the length of piers, we should recommend to the Army Corps that we approve this project."

Supervisor William A. Gnoss seconded the motion, which carried 3 to 1, with Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. dissenting.

Arrigoni said he is not against this particular pier, but he will vote no "because I don't want Tomales Bay to go the way of Richardson Bay by allowing 200 and 300-foot piers."

Supervisor Michael Wornum was gone when the vote was taken.

Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

PARKING ORDINANCE — Unanimously approved new parking and loading regulations that increase the parking requirements for all types of buildings, ranging from residences to commercial and industrial.

FLOOD CONTROL — Appointed James McCown to replace Harry E. Clausing, who resigned from the Novato Flood Control Advisory Board.

REGIONAL GOVERNMENT — Asked Assemblyman John T. Knox, chairman of the Joint Committee on Bay Area Regional Organization, to take no action on the committee's regional agency proposal until Marin and its cities have reviewed the proposal. The committee proposed a regional agency to take over bay conservation, sewage disposal, coordination of transit, and regional parks and open space.

SLOW — Lowered the speed limit on Lucas Valley Road between Highway 101 and Mount McKinley Road to 45 miles per hour (existing limit is 65), and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard on both sides of Inverness, from State Highway 1 to Pierce Point Road, to 35 miles per hour.

THROUGH HIGHWAY — Designated Rosemont Avenue, the main access to the upper Almonte area of Mill Valley, as a through highway, and ordered stop signs posted on all cross roads. Granted the same through-highway status to Bear Valley Road between Shoreline Highway and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

PINHEIRO — Rezoned the 400-acre Frank Pinheiro Ranch north of Atherton Avenue from limited agricultural to planned community zoning, as requested by the owner and approved by the planning commission.

GREENBRAE SIDEWALK — Heard from Supervisor Arrigoni that he will meet with Greenbrae Property Owners Association before he makes recommendations on the county's participation in improving pedestrian walkways along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard from Manor Road to Eliseo Drive.

Back Troubles Slow Oarsman

LONDON (AP) — British oarsman John Fairfax radioed today that a strained back muscle has forced him to temporarily stop rowing the 22-foot boat in which he is trying to cross the Atlantic to Florida.

In a message to the London Daily Sketch, Fairfax said he had covered 160 miles since leaving the Canary Islands 12 days ago. But he said his boat, Britannia, is drifting on a sea anchor while he waits for his muscle strain to mend.

"I am very cold and it's very windy," the 31-year-old oarsman said. But he insisted he would soon press on with his 3,500-mile voyage.

Sea Otter Pelt Sold For $1,100

SEATTLE (AP) — A New York company paid $1,100 for a sea otter pelt yesterday in Alaska's second auction of the fur of the rare animal in 58 years.

Reiss and Fabrizio paid the top price as more than 500 of the prized pelts went on the block. The skins brought an average of $256 each from bidders representing top fashion houses in the United States, Canada and Europe.

The first auction since 1911 was held last year. During the intervening years, wildlife agencies carefully guarded the animals so they could multiply after disastrous over-exploitation by Russian and American fur companies.

Alaska's sea otters now number more than 30,000 and state officials say they are confident controlled harvest of the animals will not decimate them.

Safety Board Gets Three New Faces

Three new members were named to the Marin County Safety Commission yesterday by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Bette Riebeling of the medical department will succeed Dr. Michael Scholl, Michael King of public works will replace Mario Balestrieri, and James Vande Weg of parks and recreation will succeed Agricultural Commissioner R. Allan Ballard.

Holdover members of the eight-member commission are Supervisor William A Gnoss, personnel analyst Charles H. Wimp, Fire Chief Louis Bloom, Sheriff's Capt. Carl Sears, and Hubert Tadlock of the county schools office.

The commission meets monthly to review all work-incurred accidents and make suggestions for employee safety.

Neighbors Gain Veto Of Apartment Plans

Santa Venetia Gardens, a 55-unit apartment project next to Cala Foods market on North San Pedro Road, was turned down late yesterday by a 3 to 0 vote of the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

A crowd of about 100 residents of Gallinas Village and Santa Venetia applauded the decision.

The vote came on a motion by Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and a second by William A. Gnoss, with Chairman John F. McInnis making it unanimous. Both Michael Wornum and Louis H. Baar had been at the meeting earlier in the day but were gone when the vote came just before 6 p.m.

McInnis, who is suprvisor in the Santa Venetia area, agreed with residents that 173 bedrooms on 1.9 acres of land is too dense a development. The required parking spaces would add more blacktopping to an area that is already a "vast expanse of paved parking area," said McInnis. He said the only open area is a tiny tot lot surrounded by echoing walls.

Almost every organization in Santa Venetia and Gallinas Village sent letters or representatives to protest the apartment project, proposed by Western Hosts, Inc., a San Francisco architectural firm represented by San Rafael attorney Herbert G. Hawkins. The developer is the Mutual Ownership Development Foundation, headed by George Braden of San Mateo. Paul Golz of Daly City spoke for the developers yesterday.

Key spokesman for the residents was William B. Loeber, representing the Gallinas Valley Improvement Association.

Loeber charged that 173 bedrooms will bring "a burden that will be untenable." Even now, said Loeber, the people have taxed themselves to the utmost to provide recreation, parks and schools.

Families who are able to pay $187 per month rent for four bedroom apartments should be able to buy one of the many homes available in the community, Loeber argued.

School officials and citizens pointed out that an influx of more than 200 children will require more classrooms and higher taxes.

He sustained light burns only.

Surprise Oil Strike Hits Italy's Drivers

ROME (AP) — A surprise strike by oil company employees closed service stations in Italy's major cities today and stranded thousands of motorists.

The strike is the latest in a series of walkouts called by several unions demanding higher wages and greater benefits.

Generator Failure Leaves Sections Of Florida Dark

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A million-kilowatt generator failure yesterday sent a blackout hopscotching Florida leaving some Floridians snarled at lightless intersections and others dining by candlelight.

The intricate system of grids by which power is fed from generating stations to consumers spread the blackout as far away as Daytona Beach, St. Petersburg and Fort Myers, while it left many closer areas unaffected.

A power company spokesman said there was no way of telling how many homes and businesses lost their power. However, reports from several larger cities had thousands of consumers out of power.

St. Petersburg reported up to 15,000 homes were affected. Tampa had 11,000 homes blacked out. Both cities receive their electricity from companies other than FP&L, but power flickered out because of a drain on interconnecting lines.

Orlando had 35 per cent of its population in darkness for about half an hour. The blackout hit all but a small portion of tourist-jammed Daytona Beach.

Fort Lauderdale, hardest hit by the blackout, had no estimate of darkened homes. Service there was restored by 7:45 p.m. In most areas it took from 20 minutes to an hour to restore service.

But FP&L spokesmen said the situation could have been much worse. They said safeguards built into the power distribution system prevented a Southeast recurrence of the great blackout in the Northeast in 1967.

19 New Courses Will Be Offered

The San Rafael Board of Education last night approved offering 19 new courses to high school students for the 1969-70 school year, but delaying changing a graduation requirement.

Under a new state law the board has broader power in setting curriculum, but board president Lawrence I. Kramer Jr. commented that the proposed courses wouldn't bring vast changes in the overall curriculum.

One resident said public reaction should be sought on a proposal that a new course, "Introduction to Social Studies" be offered as an alternative to "World Geography," a ninth grade course required for graduation.

Kramer said "It would be wise to make parents aware."

Board members agreed not to make any policy change on graduation requirements, but to review them.

Supt. John F. Plank explained that if enough students expressed interest in a proposed course, it would be fully developed and then presented for board adoption.

James B. Nelson, assistant superintendent, instructional services, noted that the aim is to have revelant courses.

Mrs. Miriam Chown, English teacher at Terra Linda High School, outlined some of the proposed new English courses including black literature, Shakespeare, science fiction and utopian novels, and film appreciation and criticism and media, a study of magazines, newspapers and television.

Mrs. Nora Cornett, home economics teacher at San Rafael High School, told of the need for a course for juniors and seniors in "sociology of the family."

Youths are marrying at an early age and having children and the main intent of the proposed course is to give them preparation for parenthood, Mrs. Cornett said.

Paul Eisenberg, driver education instructor, at San Rafael High, proposed that driver training and driver education courses be combined.

William O'Bayley of the Terra Linda High health department; Philard McAtee, business economics teacher, Terra Linda High, and Morse Byer, social studies teacher, San Rafael High, also reported to the board on proposed courses.

The courses were recommended by the curriculum council.

Hong Kong Revives $50 Bill Printing

HONG KONG (UPI)—Bright blue $50 bills are being reintroduced to Hong Kong's sturdy currency. The Colony's dollar note issues have included one, fives, tens, hundreds and on up but, since World War II, no fifties.

More Advice On Plank's Study Asked

San Rafael Board of Education isn't going to evaluate the work of Supt. John F. Plank, with an eye toward granting him a raise, in open session if it can avoid it.

Board members agreed last night to seek further advice from Assit. County Counsel Richard V. Godino on whether they could legally have a closed session on the matter.

The Brown Act permits closed meeting only to hire, fire or hear charges against an employee.

Board member Carl J. Brown said that Plank has a four-year contract, and the board would like to evaluate it after two years.

Lawrence I. Kramer Jr., board president said he felt that Plank has done an outstanding job and it is time to reconsider his $23,750-a-year salary.

There was an agenda item calling for review of the work of the superintendent, but the board wasn't inclined to undertake it.

Brown said the board would discuss not only Plank's strong points, but also his shortcomings, and he was against doing it in the open.

Kramer said, "I can't believe that even the Brown Act wants us to dissect whatever bad points there may be in front of the whole world."

The board could have "a much more penetrating discussion" in closed session, Kramer said.

The board also introduced a policy on evaluation of administrators. It calls for each administrator to be evaluated by his superiors, but permits him to include an evaluation by teachers in his record if he desires.

Walter Belden, representing the Marin County Chapter, American Federation of Teachers, objected unsuccessfully to this, holding that evaluation of an administrator by his faculty members should be mandatory.

Apartments Plan For Greenbrae Wins Approval

The Larkspur Planning Commission last night granted a varience to permit the construction of a 54-unit apartment project by the Hummingbird Hill apartments at 441 Via Hidalgo, Greenbrae.

Required was a variance from the minimum land size per unit and for off-street parking.

The Larkspur Planning Commission also:

APARTMENTS — Approved the architecture of a proposed 10-unit apartment project by Neil Brixon at 475 South Eliseo Drive.

VARIANCE — Granted Justin C. Hoffmann a six-foot variance for construction at 195 Harvard Drive.

ARCHITECTURE — Approved the architectural plan for Standard Oil Co. to add to an existing service station at 532 Magnolia Avenue.

Coordination Sought In Recreation Plans

Coordination of city recreation programs with school physical education programs was recommended to the San Rafael Board of Education last night.

George Starn, physical education teacher at Terra Linda High School, representing the newly-created Council for Physical Education, said there has been a lack of coordination between school personnel and the San Rafael Recreation Department.

"Small numbers of the population are being reached due mainly to the lack of coordination with school programs," he said.

The recreation program, sponsored by the recreation department and San Rafael city schools, is conducted after school hours.

Starn recommended that there be someone at each school repsonsible for a total recreation program, including after school, in the evening and at lunchtime, throughout the school year.

He reported that the council is composed of representatives of each school in the elementary and high school districts, plus one representative each from the Dixie School District, the Terra Linda Recreation Department, the Marinwood Recreation Department and the San Rafael Recreation Department.

Board members took no action and suggested that the proposal be presented to the San Rafael Park and Recreation Commission for its reaction.

The board also received a letter from the Terra Linda High School Student Council that the present method of patriotic observance, the pledge of allegiance, has lost meaning through daily recitation. Students proposed that there be some other method of patriotic observance.

Supt. John F. Plank explained that the law requires patriotic observance, but under district policy only the pledge of allegiance is sanctioned. Board members postponed comment on the student proposal.

The San Rafael Board Of Education Also:

OPEN CAMPUS — Announced that there would be disucssionn at its Feb. 25 meeting of the proposal that there be an open campus at San Rafael High, allowing students to leave the campus during free periods and lunch period.

EXCHANGE TEACHING — Introduced a revision to its policy on teacher exchange, in order to support exchange of teachers with other districts in the United States for one school year.

UNION REQUEST — Received a request from the Marin County Labor Council and Building and Construction Trades Council of Marin to adopt a policy against employing teachers, bus drivers, custodians or students to work in 38 specified trades.

GIFTS — Accepted as gifts outdoor gymnasium equipment at San Pedro School, valued at $821, from the San Pedro Parent-Teacher Association, and a one year subscription to Human Events magazine, a politically ultra conservative publication, for San Rafael High from Mr. and Mrs. Julian M. Edwards.

HIRING — Authorized the hiring of Mrs. Julie Glimpse, half-time music teacher, elementary district, at $3,600 a year; Mrs. Geraldine, music teacher, elementary district, $6.50 an hour; Harley Bell, substitute custodian, $2.71 an hour.

ADULT EDUCATION — Hired as adult education teachers at $6.50 an hour, Jan Booker, body conditioning for women; Melvin Boyce, transactional analysis; Louis Campredon, upholstery; Jeanne Foster, piano; Ruth Moscrop, tailoring; Jean Noble, organ; Robert Pollitt, body conditioning for men; Joseph Rasonsky, income tax preparation; Gaille Simmons, shorthand, and Suzanne Tinan, English.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Norman Levy, custodian, San Rafael High.

LEAVES — Granted Nancy Ridout, girls' physical education teacher, San Rafael High, maternity leave effective March 7; Barbara Wilson, kindergarten teacher, Bahia Vista School, maternity leave effective April 11, and Cleoni Tocalino, kindergarten teacher, Coleman School, leave from June 4 to June 12, to make a college tour.

DRAINAGE PAYMENT — Gave notice of completion of underground drainage facilities at the Glenwood Middle School site, and approved payment of $30,384 to Underground Construction Co. of San Leandro, which was 90 per cent of the project cost, and approved a change order for work at the Glenwood site pump station by Bay Area Construction Co. of Santa Rosa, additional electrical work at a cost of $350.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned until Feb. 11 at 6 p.m. at the Administration Building, Third and E streets, San Rafael.

HOST SCHOOL — Last night's meeting was at West End School in conjunction with a West End Parent-Teacher Association meeting, and Cub Scout pack members from the school led the pledge of allegiance to open the meeting.

Mill Valleyan Under Check At Napa Hospital

A Mill Valley man was sent to Napa State Hospital on a 72-hour psychiatric commitment yesterday after he leaped screaming in front of a police car at 8:45 a.m., Sausalito police said today.

Police said George M. Kutts, 22, who gave an address of 12 Sunset View, jumped out of a moving car on Richardson Street into the path of a prowl car driven by patrolman Brian Newlon, shouting at Newlon to stop.

Kutts then tried to drag Newlon from the car, police said, and the officer got out and arrested Kutts for being under the apparent influence of drugs. Newlon reported finding a cardboard box in the car belonging to Kutts which held a "large quantity" of suspected marijuana.

Kutts continued to rant about being on a bad trip when taken to the Sausalito police station. Police said when Kutts is released from Napa, charges will be sought against him of possessing marijuana and being under the influence of a drug.

The Hong Kong Flu Appears On Wane

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

ATLANTA, Ga. — You may not agree if you still have those aches all over your body, a painful cough and a general listlessness, but the Hong Kong flu outbreak is on the wane.

That's the official opinion of the National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, which keeps records of deaths from influenza and pneumonia in 122 cities to help spot the trend of such epidemics.

This epidemic involves a strain of Asian flu called Hong Kong flu because it was first isolated in Hong Kong. It differs from the Asian flu which made its appearance in the winter of 1967-68, it occurred later in the winter and is more extensive than the previous year's outbreak.

The Hong Kong flu epidemic was complicated this time by a shortage of vaccine for this particular strain and, in New York, by a strike of fuel oil deliveries.

In an influenza epidemic throughout the world in 1918-19, an estimated 20 million persons died, many from such complications as pneumonia, bronchitis and mastoid and sinus infections.

The current epidemic was first isolated in the United States last October, in Atlanta, when a military man returned from Vietnam. The first major outbreak was reported in Colorado and by Dec. 5, outbreaks had been reported in 15 states and the District of Columbia. The peak was reached nationally during the first week of January, when widespread outbreaks were reported in 36 states.

In a six-week period when the outbreak was at its highest level, 6,805 persons died in the 122 cities on the NCDC checklist. The report from the 122 cities is a barometer to determine the nation's mortality rate, but the number of actual deaths is somewhat greater.

The 6,805-toll is 3,754 more than normally would be expected in these cities, the NCDC reported.

But, while the epidemic has reached its peak in most of the nation, the U.S. World Health Organization reports the disease spreading in the Soviet Union and in several European countries, including Iceland, The Netherlands, West Germany, Romania and the United Kingdom. The outbreaks in Europe have been described as mild.

WHO said the incidence of flu has doubled in Moscow and a four-to-five-fold increase was reported in parts of Central Asia.

In its weekly report for the period ending Jan. 11, the National Communicable Disease Center reported widespread influenza activity in 26 states in the nation, regional activity in 11 states, isolated outbreaks in eight states and isolated cases or no activity in five states.

It said 26 states had reached their peak influenza activity between Dec. 1, 1968, and Jan. 4, 1969.

Nuclear Power Station Tested For Astronauts

SANTA SUSANA (AP) — The forerunner of a nuclear power plant designed to furnish electricity for future astronauts on the moon and manned orbiting space stations is operating at full power for the first time.

The compact auxiliary reactor is being tested underground at the Atomic Energy Commission laboratory at Santa Susana, north of Los Angeles. It is producing enough to supply all housekeeping needs of six homes or 25 apartments, an AEC spokesman said.

Developed by North American Rockwell, the reactor is designed to operate continuously from one to five years without refueling or maintenance. The test run is expected to last about a year.

The AEC said the lunar version would be a six-foot sphere weighing 30,000 pounds because of heavy shielding against radiation, while the power plant for an orbiting space station would be a truncated cone five feet tall.

Second Jet Hijacked To Havana

By JOHN W. ROSS

MIAMI (UPI)—Five youthful Negroes commandeered two airliners and forced them to fly to Cuba yesterday in the ninth and 10th hijackings of the year and the third doubleheader piracy this month.

Two men, described as "college graduate types," hijacked a National Airlines jet flying from Los Angeles to Miami with 32 persons, and about 12 hours later three men, "wearing typical hippie dress," took command of a Philadelphia-to-Miami Eastern Air Lines plane with 113 persons aboard.

The National crew and passengers returned separately later, and the Eastern crew flew the big DC-8 to Miami this morning. The Eastern passengers were to be returned later today.

Both of the hijackings began when stewardesses were surprised in the galley by gunmen. A National stewardess was preparing lunch when approached, and an Eastern stewardess was mixing drinks.

"One of the men came up and asked me for a drink," said Eastern stewardess Roberta Truppman of Miami. "He grabbed me by the arm and started waving a gun around. He kicked open the cockpit door and held a gun to my neck and told the crew he wanted to go to Havana."

Stewardess Victoria Sikorski was busy in the forward food serving section of National's Flight 64 preparing a snack for her 25 passengers when she suddenly became very uncomfortable—she had a .38-caliber revolver stuck in her ribs.

Stanford's Students To Pay For Professor

A university spokesman said yesterday the student government has allocated $5,000 to pay Mrs. Joan Robinson, a Cambridge University economist, for the spring quarter.

Tam High Dean Given Bay Big Brother Kudo

HENRY A. MARSHALL
Dean at Tam

Henry A. Marshall, dean of boys at Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley, has been named Bay Area Big Brother of the Year for his contributions to youth.

Marshall, who joined the Tamalpais staff in 1961 as a biology and physical education teacher, lives in San Francisco with his wife and four sons.

He is a director of several youth organizations and other civic groups, including PACT (Plan of Action in Challenging Times) a nonprofit development group, San Francisco State College's Upward Bound program, the Family Service Agency and the Booker T. Swiss Dies By Fire

BUYENS, Switzerland (AP) — A Swiss worker, Edmond Hayoz, 45, burned himself to death in front of a restaurant early yesterday. Police said he was drunk, was suffering from a serious illness of the spine, and had frequently talked about killing himself.

Cong Flag Flies Atop Post Office

STANFORD (UPI) — A tattered Viet Cong flag rippled in the breeze for more than an hour yesterday on the Post Office flag pole at Stanford University.

The red and blue standard, with a yellow star in the center, was hoisted by a group of student radicals—but not before an angry woman ripped it in half.

About 35 members of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) raised the standard and marched to the office of President Kenneth S. Pitzer to protest "the university's participation in the violence perpetrated against the people of the world."

The SDS incidents were a reaction to an announcement by the Stanford Research Institute that it had extended an existing program involving government operations and village security in Thailand.

The Viet Cong flag was hoisted on a rope which had been knotted in such a way that it could only be removed from the top of the pole.

Workshop Session

Filibuster Debate Officially Dead Now

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Henry Clay, an ambitious Whig, led the first fight against the Senate filibuster in 1841. He lost, and his successors have been fighting and losing the same battle ever since.

Their dream persists today.

"If we would ever get a three-fifth rule, that would be the end—that would be the end of all this nonsense we go through year after year," Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., told the Senate yesterday.

A few minutes later, Pastore's efforts were as dead as Clay's. The Senate mustered 50 votes for a motion to stop debate, but 42 senators voted no. Two-thirds, or 62, were required for victory.

The proposed change would enable three-fifths—60 senators at the most—of those voting to stop debate, a handful fewer than the two-thirds—67 at the most—required now.

Until 1917, there was no way to stop a Senate filibuster. The present rule was adopted then and its authors predicted it would "terminate successful filibustering."

Since then, filibusters have killed or delayed measures affecting civil rights, migratory birds, the Boulder Dam, the poll tax and the Space Satellite Corp.

Indonesians Fleeing Threat Of Volcano

JAKARTA (AP) — Volcano Mount Ija, on Flores Island, erupted Monday and sent villagers fleeing, Indonesia's Social Affairs Ministry said today.

The newspaper Kompas said persons arriving from nearby islands reported thick, dark clouds were hanging over Flores, but there has been no word of casualties. Flores is one of the Lesser Sunda islands, south of Celebes.

A Woman Who Is Never Bored

By DOROTHY NEWELL

"There hasn't been a day in my life when I have been bored."

The lady speaking was Mrs. Michael Stublarec, and she was discussing her military life as the wife of Colonel Stublarec, base commander at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Her only regret is that Colonel Stublarec will be retiring in August, and they will have such a short stay at the marvelous base at Hamilton.

As an Air Force nurse stationed at Mather Air Force Base, Sacramento, she met and married the colonel 19 years ago.

Traveling and the military life was not new to Mrs. Stublarec however, when she married. Betty Stublarec was born in Sioux City, Iowa, and received her nurse's training in Omaha, Neb. She then enlisted in the Army in 1944 and was sent directly overseas. She was stationed in England, France and Germany before returning to the states following World War II. During that time the nurses lived in a variety of places, including an old English manor, a Catholic hospital and an old French cavalry building, where they had no lights or water.

Her commitment to the Army completed, she left the service and returned to Sioux City, where she enrolled at Morningside College to study music. She had always loved to sing and also played the piano. She decided however, after two semesters that it was a gamble going into the entertainment field, and she didn't want to teach music. She already had a profession, which she felt was a more practical occupation.

A soloist all through high school, she has sung light opera and musical comedy. A contralto, she participated in a number of Officers Wives' Club shows and while stationed in Montgomery, Ala., played the role of Lady Thiang in "The King and I."

She went back to nursing and was working in Long Beach when a friend married to an Air Force officer asked her to visit her. It was at this time that she found she liked the military life and enlisted in the Air Force.

During the 19 years of married life, the Stublarecs have been stationed at Mather, Kansas, Westover, Mass., Maxwell Air Force Base in Alabama and Germany, where the colonel was base commander before coming to Hamilton. They have five children.

Colonel Stublarec had a short tour to Florida when he was stationed at Mather, and it was there that their first son. Steven, now 18, was born. He is a freshman at Stanford University and is interested in becoming a lawyer.

Barbara, 15, a sophomore at Novato High School, was born at Mather. She is a member of the competitive swim team there and is a cheerleader for the basketball team.

Susan, 14, a ninth grader at Hill Junior High School, was born in Kansas. Her interest at present is sewing.

Michael Jr., 12, a seventh grader at Hill, and Jim, 11, a fifth grader at Hamilton school, were both born in Westover, Mass. Mike played on the championship seventh grade basketball team, and they both played in the Little League and play chess. Jim has been known to beat Steve's college friends at the game, Mrs. Stublarec said.

They had eight years of household help when stationed five years in Alabama and three years in Germany but because of the difficulty of getting domestic help here, Mrs. Stublarec has given the girls added responsibility in helping in the home and rewards them with a liberal allowance.

Another member of the household is "Scratch," the cat. A world traveler, too, the family pet accompanied them to Germany and returned here with them.

Mrs. Stublarec says she rather enjoys cooking but is not an old-fashioned cook that begins preparing dinner at 3:30. However, she says with cooking for six it does take some planning. She also is taking a course in sewing with knits in San Rafael.

Betty says she may return to the nursing profession later as there may be three children in college at one time if Steve goes on to work for a degree in law.

Involved in quite a number of social activities at the base as the commander's wife, Mrs. Stublarec is honorary president of the Non-Commissioned Officers' Wives Club and honorary council member of the Officers' Wives Club.

Author Urges A Reappraisal Of Male And Female Roles

By BARBARA HOSMER

Both men and women must develop beyond their traditional masculine and feminine roles to become more human, author Sidney C. Callahan told her student and adult audience at Dominican College yesterday.

"People should be free to act in a way appropriate to each occasion, not just in 'masculine' or 'feminine' role responses," she said.

Speaking on "Woman's Changing Role in the Modern World," Mrs. Callahan said that people have many gifts, which should be developed fully, not merely within prescribed masculine or feminine boundaries.

It is not enough, she said for women only to want to change their role or to expect their problems to be solved if men could change their attitudes toward women's traditional role.

Men and women may look toward a reappraisal of their roles together, she suggested, if they are to develop meaningful futures.

With longevity a fact, especially for women, both men and women are facing a new period when a "second life" is a reality, said Mrs. Callahan, who is the wife of Catholic magazine writer Daniel Callahan and the mother of six young children.

She foresees a time when men as well as women may have a second career during their lifetimes.

MRS. CALLAHAN outlined the main patterns that women may choose among today:

The traditional one in which the man works and the wife stays home to tend home and family;

The single life pattern in which the importance of work and friendship is emphasized;

The pattern in which the wife interrupts her education or work to rear her children and then returns to campus or career;

And the pattern that is newest in which she combines volunteer or professional work with marriage and family rearing, depending on child care centers to tend young children.

Mrs. Callahan said that the latter choice is becoming more and more acceptable as a form for family life.

She suggested that men also can work in the home as an acceptable part of their masculinity. "Nobody has lived who hasn't changed a diaper," she remarked with a smile, pointing out that many

Fun And Perfect Grooming Combine In Pierre Balmain's Showing

By LUCIE NOEL
AP Fashion Writer

PARIS (AP) — Pierre Balmain combined perfect grooming and fun in his new spring summer fashion collection this morning.

Sophisticated spring shades were masterfully blended with luscious colors, setting off a fun garment that incorporated a cape, dress and culottes.

For beachware it was gaily trimmed in red and white polka dots. For town, Balmain used discreet navy blue trimmed in white and worked in his new high button sleeve. The same idea in printed silk organza was shown for cocktail time.

Balmain selected king-size hothouse tropical flora for his spiral wrapover variant. It goes floor length and sweeps in line with fabulous angel wing sleeves floating along.

Focus throughout is on sleeves. His newest is a deep corolla cuff inlaid with jeweled embroidery or eyelet broderie for daytime.

Balmain makes a point of always designing feminine clothes and his tailoring is superb and immaculate .Classic tweed, linen or shantungs and plain surfaced wools step forth in neat short jacketed suits, sometimes treated to a patent belt in the front only, or placed all round.

He inserts interlaced circles or concentrated rings in the cut. Plain crepe shirts with ascot ties are in dark or light contrasts. They lend interest too on plain sleeveless wool or summer dresses.

Glace linen is shown on jeune fille dresses in deep cuffs topped by a full bloused sleeve. Astrakan is dyed blue for sports and swakara lamb steps forth for dresses.

Balmain also has the answer in the most luxurious furs. A sports coat in oyster nutria has a matching oyster crepe dress. Shaded boreal fox in black edged white has its own white crepe dress.

The evening dresses are carefully planned to reflect the mood of whatever country the designer has in mind—Iran, India, Portugal, Monaco or France. Styles range from young lady to those suited to royal courts.

Roger Vivier, high style shoe designer, presented a varied and remarkably elegant collection. Toes are rounded and often trimmed in polished metal buckles. Some come right down over the toe, in a variety of cutout effects.

A black patent shoe has a high "mulevamp" and ankle strap. For party wear beautiful satins and brocades are treated to jewelled buckle and fine sandal straps and cutouts.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Five Years And No Children Bring Unwanted Comments

DEAR HELEN:

My husband and I have been happily married five years and have no children. That is the problem — not to us, but to our friends and relatives.

It is our own choice that we are childless, but every time we are around certain individuals, we get, "What no baby yet?" "You aren't getting any younger." We're both 23.

We never hear those same people say to couples who have lots of children, "Why so many kids?" Yet they call us neurotic and selfish and imply we couldn't possibly be happy.

We like our childless life, but we get tired of repeating. "We're helping out the population explosion." Please tell us an answer that will stop people from asking, "What, no baby?" — CHILDLESS BY CHOICE

DEAR CHILDLESS:

How about, "What, no tact?" — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'll bet you really got it from the "pure in heart" when you said unwed sex is not immoral unless it is mixed up with cruelty, dishonesty, hurtfulness and meanness. (NOTE FROM H: That I did — in spades!)

I'll admit I was a bit shocked myself at your words until I analyzed them. And then I realized that most illicit sex includes at least one of these things you mention. Dishonesty? Almost all teen-age affairs are dishonest and they hurt someone. When you sneak around, you feel immoral. This leads to cruelty and meanness. You try to hurt each other because you feel guilty. Perhaps Swedish teens don't experience this, but Americans do.

Likewise promiscuousness: It is mean and hurtful. and, of course, so is adultery.

But I have known unwed couples whose love I couldn't call immoral, and I am sure you have too, Helen. They are true to each other, they hurt no one, they make each other happy, and who's to judge, so long as they are adult? Why should the lack of a marriage license make them outcasts? It doesn't any more, and I say if the sexual revolution has made us more honest about this kind of love — then good for it! — AN ALLY

DEAR ALLY:

But if a baby results from this love, we get back to "hurtful" again, don't we? As you say, only in a few instances is unwed sex without its "immoralities." (Though I'd rather call it unwise than immoral.) — H.

ROLES

husbands might be missing an important part of family life if they did not participate in some of the activities traditionally considered "feminine."

She said that in her own household in surburban New York her five boys and one girl share the work and that she encouraged the boys' participation in sports as well as her daughter's physical activity.

"I try never to say 'little girls don't do that' when she wants to do something," she said. Mrs. Callahan credits her husband with changing her own view of traditional masculine-feminine roles.

Mrs. Callahan punctured the form of anti-feminism that places women on pedestals, saying that it also implies "you're not supposed to vote or to become a priest or leader."

"THIS IS an unrealistic view, and it is a misunderstanding of women to say, as the Pope has, that birth control is degrading a sacred thing. We're allowed to do all sorts of things — even heart transplants — to let the human body be healthy and live, but when it comes to sexuality it suddenly becomes a super-mystical sacred thing. "This is a distorted view of human sexuality, which is really a part of a whole range of human aspects," the author said.

She said that "male backlash" exists in jokes and in business. Reasons were that the male did not wish to give up any superiority, that many women thought of as feminists wanted to be too much like men in their competitiveness and aggressiveness, giving an offensive image; and that women have cheated. "They've used deception of the weak in professional circles so that when the going gets rough they cry and go home."

Women must learn to grow up and take real responsibility rather than duck out, she said.

They must also accept their femininity, but not build it up to be a great big thing.

There are more choices of life styles open to women than ever before, she said. Humans as opposed to animals have a big brain and can make their own patterns, unbound by permanent instincts.

"Both men and women must develop beyond the traditional male and female roles to allow themselves to become completely human," she stated.

Mrs. John Hampton To Honor Noted Artist At Luncheon

By MOLLY MARIN

Mrs. John D. Hampton will be hostess tomorrow at her new home in Tiburon (she recently moved from Mill Valley) at a luncheon honoring Lily Fast, nationally known animal portraitist from Norwalk, Conn.

Mrs. Hampton was recently re-elected president of the Sir Francis Drake Kennel Club.

The guest of honor, who is presently the house guest of Mrs. John H. Jewett of San Francisco, plans to move soon to the Bay Area with her husband, consulting mathematician Carl Fast. She is here now to attend the Golden Gate Kennel Club Blue Ribbon Dog Show and obedience trials this weekend at the Cow Palace in San Francisco.

While she is here she is planning a project of interest to the many friends of Mill Valley's noted Swedish weaver, Mama Gravander. Mrs. Fast will do a painting of her with the camel that the Gravander Spinners recently purchased. It lives at the San Francisco Zoo, and the weavers spin its hair into thread they use in weaving any kind of clothes and articles.

The artist lived for a number of years, when she was a professional singer studying for a career in opera, with Mama Gravander at Svengard, the home, Swedish restaurant and weaving school she had for many years in San Francisco.

FRIENDS ARE saying goodbye to Mrs. Chester I. Dennis, who will be moving from Mill Valley to Carmel the middle of February. She has bought a new home in Carmel Hills and is looking forward to being near many friends from Sausalito, where she also lived, and Mill Valley, who are now living there. Among these are the John Nasons and Arnold J. Oehlers, formerly of Mill Valley.

"A NIGHT in Venice" is the theme for the Bel Marin Yacht Club dinner dance to be held Saturday evening at the club.

Douglas Joslin is chairman and will be assisted by Mmes. Joslin, Charles Stewart, Richard Roberts, Nevin Howell, Alvah Allen and Mr. and Mrs. William Weiss.

MRS. DOUGLAS Kerr will be hostess at an aperitif party from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. preceding the Sausalito Woman's Club buffet luncheon and theater party tomorrow. She has invited some 70 guests.

RECETLY MARRIED Pamela Kathleen Driver, the 1967 Maid of Cotton, and her husband, Captl Don Schrieber of Coupeville, Wash., are living in Louisiana after a driving trip from the Bay Area. The daughter of Mrs. H. D. Driver of Lafayette, formerly of Kentfield, Pamela is a graduate of the University of the Pacific and Redwood High School. Her husband is serving with the Air Force. The couple exchanged vows in a ceremony at Orinda Community Church.

MRS. JOHN F. Hadden of Ross was honored at a surprise birthday luncheon Tuesday at the Iron Horse Restaurant in San Francisco.

VISITING IN Marin are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Greene of New York. They are the guests of Walter Van Vechten of San Anselmo.

Yves St. Laurent Swaths Models From Head To Toe In Paris Showing

By JOAN DEPPA

PARIS (UPI)—If there's a long even slightly warm summer ahead, anyone dressed by Yves St. Laurent is in trouble.

The youthful designer, currently considered the most important couturier in Paris, showed a covered-up look Monday that swathed the wearer from head to toe in trousers, maxicoats, scarves and face-shading hats.

When he showed dresses, the hemlines dropped to the top of the knee.

Arms were usually clad in long sleeves. Even short sleeves covered the entire upper arm.

The look was bound to be as immediately unpopular with men as shorter skirts were popular.

Feraud took his inspiration from Brazil, and nowhere was it more evident that in his prints, often primitive patterns borrowed from Amazonian Indians, other times a vivid mixture of colors borrowed from the carnival of Rio.

Philippe Venet paraded some neat trouser suits that would please more male eyes than St. Laurent's. Many had printed jackets or coats and smartly contrasting trousers.

Miss Coleman Engaged To Rudy Nelson

Dancers To Perform Saturday With Northgate Exhibition

KATHLEEN PAINI

The Huffs 'n Puffs Square Dance Club of Terra Linda will celebrate its first birthday by giving a demonstration of modern Western style square dancing on the island of the mall pond of the Northgate Shopping Center Saturday from 2 to 4 p.m.

The club was organized Feb. 1, 1968 and began with one square of dancers. There are now five squares dancing every Thursday night from 8 to 10 p.m. at the Vallecito School. A beginners class will start on Feb. 7 at 8 p.m. and will meet Friday nights.

The Huffs 'n Puffs is one of six square dance clubs in Marin.

"There are hundreds of square dancers in the area and there would be a lot more," according to club caller Keith Gylfe, "but unfortunately the term square dancing, to most people brings to mind hay, fiddles, barns and an overall-attired caller yelling through cupped hands to a group of guys in Levis swinging girls wearing dresses that hang down to the floor. The square dance picture has changed considerably in the last 15 years, and we hope to show this to the public.

The eight weekly classes will be held in Novato to serve Northern Marin residents and attendance is open to anyone in the county. Fathers as well as mothers-to-be are welcome.

Classes will be discussion-centered so that the concerns of each parent can be explored in the group with the instructor, a public health nurse. Among the topics to be covered are: how the parents feel during the mother's pregnancy, what to expect during the mother's pregnancy, what to expect during labor and delivery and what family life is like with a new baby in the home.

As class size will be limited, pre-registration is requested. For further information call the Marin County Department of Public Health, Nursing Division.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Fire' Offers Just Smoke, No Sparks

Developed among neighborhood huzzas last spring at Brandeis University, Waltham, Mass., the piece wallows in deliberate incoherence and perverse imagery as it reviews human existence with existential despair.

The author, a 34-year-old native of Syracuse, N.Y., who uses the alias of John Roc, exhibits a flamboyant flair for schoolboy wit, superficial wisdom and maggotty symbolism with garrulous indulgence.

"Pain is the lowest form of humor," is a sample of the pervasive humor; "salvation is for fools," represents his philosophy; and nonstop word games spin about late and later, up and down, or nonexistent dogs.

On the visual level, Roc and director Charles Werner Moore have concocted several grisly shock interludes that come off as Grand Guignol for hipsters (maybe). Some customers walked out at such moments.

The parable, if that is what it is, involves eight performers who represent a glut of human confusions and torments, leaping with energetic devotion through the ramparts and crevices of Howard Bay's massive mausoleum setting.

Peter MacLean serves as a Jason intent on leading the others into the purging purity of fire. The precise rationale behind it all never emerged from the prevalent esthetic murk.

Participating chiefly with MacLean are Louis Edmonds, a man for all perversions; Rene Auberjonois, a kind of innocent optimist; Carolyn Coates, the mythic mother-mistress figure; and Jennifer Darling, an epitome of sensual lure—or something — unfortunately handicapped with vocal screech and miniscule acting ability. The others are Roy K. Stevens, John Wardwell and Audra Lindley, behaving like strays out of Beckett or Ionesco.

"Fire!" tries very hard to be ultranew and provocative; but it loaded with a surfeit of abysmal gibberish.

What other press critics said:

Clive Barnes, New York Times: " 'Fire!' which sizzled damply. . .is presumably a play about the human condition. . .(but) humanity seemed among the chief of this allegory's deficiencies. . . With language like this (in the play) to skid on, actors no longer can act, but merely pray. One or two in the cast had the grace to look embarrassed."

John Chapman, Daily News: ". . .Roc is 34 and the program says he is presently living in Greece. Safe distance. . .the eight members of the cast never did stop yelling."

Richard Watts Jr., New York Post: ". . .It is my gloomy impression that 'Fire!' instead of maintaining its provocative interest soon becomes a most depressing letdown."

Jazz And Rock Concert To Be Held Tomorrow

The University of Nevada concert jazz band will present a benefit program of blues, rock and solo improvisations at 11 a.m. tomorrow in Angelico Hall at Dominican College of San Rafael.

The 22-member band, conducted by Eugene Isaeff, was the 1967 champion of the Inter-Mountain Collegiate Jazz Festival.

The program will benefit the Dominican music department scholarship fund, which provides private lessons for talented young musicians.

Each January the band travels for one week, playing music that has been composed or arranged for the group by prominent composers and band leaders, including Louis Bellson, Stan Kenton, Raoul Romero and Rick Davis.

Children To Play In Children's Play

"Lenka's Little House," a play acted by children for children, will be presented at 2 p.m. Saturday at St. Peter Chanel Seminary little theater, San Rafael.

The play will be produced by the Alpha School Creative Workshop. Elementary school children in the play will be Julie Pavlovsky of San Rafael, Alane Childress and Bruce and Sherrie Barbera of San Anselmo, Eva Tuffanelli of Kentfield and Chantel Dacier of Mill Valley.

The College of Marin Concert-Lecture series will present soprano Delcina Stevenson in a recital Friday at 8:15 p.m. in the Fine Arts Theater.

She also performs in oratorio, as soloist with symphony orchestras and in recitals. She has received many awards, including the one for top place for voice in the annual competition of a young musicians foundation in Los Angeles.

Part I of Friday's concert will consist of two Handel arias, "Let Me Wander Not Unseen" and "Care Selve"; the "Alleluia" from "Motetto" by Vivaldi; the eight-song cycle, "Woman's Love and Life" by Robert Schumann, and the Mozart concert aria "Ch'io Mi Scordi di Te."

Part 2 will include "The Crucifixion," "St. Ita's Vision" and "Sure on This Shining Night" by Samuel Barber; "Set Me as a Seal" and "Come, My Beloved" by Lucas Foss, and Moussorsky's cycle of seven nursery songs.

Miss Stevenson will be accompanied at the piano by Renee Hamaty.

The Chapel of the Presidents, a part of the new National Presbyterian Church and Center now under construction in Washington, D.C., will house memorabilia of past U.S. Presidents.

Motorcyclist Finds Himself In Trouble

WOODSIDE (AP) — A motorcyclist seeking to escape police roared through a doorway to Woodside High School and then spen up and down corridors yesterday. Scores of students scattered or flattened themselves against walls, police said.

Allan D. Martin, 17, of nearby Palo Alto, was charged with 12 traffic violations, assault and battery and resisting arrest. Police said they originally wanted to stop him on charges of going the wrong way on a one-way street.

In Africa, Bible Society vans must often drive at top speed through villages, as slowdowns or stops would mean that the van would be surrounded and scriptures sold out, with none left for the village for which delivery was intended.

Stiff Policy Voted On Extra Driveways

The San Anselmo City Council last night prohibited construction of additional driveways onto Center Boulevard on property which has access to another street.

In an unanimous vote, the council also ruled that residents already using a driveway onto Center but who also have a driveway onto another street, must close off the Center access.

Purpose of the action, recommended Dec. 16 by the planning commission, was to minimize hazardous traffic on the street. The ruling is effective from Madrone Avenue to the Fairfax city limits.

Charles R. Leitzell, director of public works, said "very few" existing residences have access to more than one street and that the decision mainly is to restrict access from proposed residences.

Center Boulevard lately has been prominent in council consideration because it and parallel Sir Francis Drake Boulevard are considered the main corridors for traffic from the Hub intersection to Fairfax.

San Anselmo has requested that Center Boulevard be made a part of the Marin County Urban Thoroughfare System.

The San Anselmo City Council Also:

BID — Accepted the lowest of five bids of $8,862 by Sibbald Construction Co., San Anselmo, for the first phase of installing an irrigation system at Memorial Park. The project involves laying of main lines and wiring for the entire park, and irrigation for the lower baseball diamond and tennis court area.

APPEAL — Denied the appeal of Tri-State Development Co. of Napa of planning commission rejection of an application to install a combination gasoline sales and car wash at 111 Red Hill Avenue. Councilmen said the project would create a traffic hazard.

CONDEMNATION — Directed condemnation proceedings be started on illegal additions to a house owned by Richard Pencharz at 56 Fernwood Drive, and that the remainder of the structure be brought up to building code standards. Leitzell said much of the construction was done without building permits.

INSURANCE — Awarded the city's insurance policy for a three-year period to U.S. Fire Co. on its bid of $12,836 annually. The city previously was insured by Traveler's Insurance Co., which asked $18,848 annually for a renewal.

PARKING — Denied a request by Harvey L. Zion to restrict parking in front of apartments at 36 Ross Avenue to two hours. The council granted a request by the First Presbyterian Church for a passenger loading zone at 121 Ross Avenue.

ZONING — Took no action on a proposal by Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson to adopt a policy that no individual lot be rezoned unless it meets the minimum requirements of the new zone. Anderson said that rezoning had been done on a basis of general planning of the area, rather than on whether the individual lot would fit the new zoning.

APPOINTMENTS — Reappointed Walter Carter to a six-year term on the board of review. His term expired Jan. 15 The council also agreed not to name a candidate for the third Marin County post on the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District Board. Voting by the Council of Mayors and Councilmen on the candidate was scheduled today.

ANIMAL CONTROL— Agreed that councilmen will list portions of a proposed countywide animal control ordinance that they disagree with and submit the list to the city-county services committee, which prepared the ordinance.

AGREEMENT — Entered into a joint powers agreement with the Town of Ross for operation and control of the intersection of Bolinas Avenue and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. The intersection lies in both cities.

MEETING—Scheduled a special meeting at 8 p.m. March 4 at city hall to discuss the city's capital improvement needs.

Girl's Red Bikini Stirs Up Village

CHOBHAM, England (UPI)— A pretty girl in a red bikini who hung out at a local bar shocked village residents. She even shocked the saloon keeper. Kenneth Jensen.

She was on a sign Jensen ordered to replace a traditional placard he hung from his 16th century pub. Jensen prevailed on the brewery that supplied the sign to replace it with something more soothing.

Japanese Organize White Collar Union

TOKYO (UPI)—The Japan Salaried Men's Union has been organized to protect the interests of white collar workers.

Hiroshi Kominami, 57, former insurance company president, said the new union which he heads will work for lower income taxes and tax exemption for retirement allowances under 10 million yen ($27,000). The union hopes to enlist 100,000 salaried men from 200 companies.

Election Set For Cotati School Board

Cotati School District trustees last night authorized an election for April 15 for three positions on the five-man board.

The terms of President Lester H. Petersen, Clerk Richard A. Clarey and Lucien Libarle will expire on June 30.

On election day, polls will be set up at each of the three district elementary schools and will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The Cotati School District trustees also:

CONSTRUCTION — Heard a report that rainy weather has slowed construction of the new Thomas Page School, but the school is still expected to open in the fall.

CONFERENCE — Authorized three teachers to attend a behavior modification conference in Napa, Feb. 28 through March 2.

NEW SITE — Heard a report that the Sonoma County Planning Department is still readying a recommendation on a new school site.

All Conference Sides Prepare For Session

PARIS (UPI)—U.S. and South Vietnamese negotiators completed today what they called a "flexible" strategy designed to prevent deadlock in tomorrow's second Vietnam peace meeting with the Communists.

Allied diplomatic quarters said they were ready to discuss any problem the Viet Cong or North Vietnamese might bring up around the round conference table in the old Hotel Majestic.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese delegates indicated they hoped the Communists would agree to discuss military matters first, such as the reestablishment of the Demilitarized Zone between North and South Vietnam.

Henry Cabot Lodge, the U.S. negotiating chief, proposed the DMZ re-establishment as a "first step toward peace" in his policy statement in the opening peace session last Saturday. The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese, although rejecting the plan, said they would reply to it tomorrow.

The allies also were ready to discuss the mutual withdrawal of U.S. and North Vietnamese troops from the war zone and possible prisoner exchanges—two ideas mentioned by President Nixon in ak Washington news conference Monday.

In Vietnam, the Viet Cong announced they would observe a seven-day truce during the Tet lunar new year holidays Feb. 15-22. There was no reply from Saigon.

U.S. Export Trade Worst Since 1930s

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department disclosed today figures showing U.S. performance in the foreign trade field during 1968 was the worst in more than three decades.

While the value of exports exceeded imports by $726 million, it is the lowest surplus since 1937. The figure in that depression year was $265 million.

Vet Affairs Chair Goes To Cranston

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Alan M. Cranston, D-Calif., was named chairman of the Veterans Affairs subcommittee today. He said he hopes to explore ways to make enlistment in the military services more attractive.

Cranston was chief of the foreign language division of the Office of War Information during World War II. He declined a deferment in 1944 to enlist as a private and was a sergeant by war's end.

He said he agrees with Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., chairman of the Labor, Education and Public Welfare Committee, that "fairness demands we do more for our nation's veterans, especially in providing educational benefits and health care."

"As one who favors a volunteer army over the inherent inequities of the draft, I believe this subcommittee should explore legislation that would make enlistment more attractive to the man who will be going into the ranks as a private." Cranston said in a statement.

Teen-Agers Face Burglary Probe

Two Novato boys were cited to juvenile authorities yesterday on suspicion of burglary of the Parsina J. Rush residence at 2112 Vineyard, Novato, police said.

Robert P. Tourmaku, 14, of 1217 Fourth Street, and Richard L. Leslie, 13, of 2478 Center Road, allegedly ransacked the house while the family was away, police said.

Police credited a neighbor to alerting them to the burglary.

Sumatra Elephant's Extinction Feared

DJAKARTA (UPI)—The Sumatran elephant may become extinct if illegal hunting is not stamped out, says the Sumatra Nature Preservation Institute.

There were an estimated 2,500 elephants in Sumatra before World War II. Their number had dwindled to 900 by 1960, and is believed to have been reduced further since then. The institute says illegal hunting, mainly for the elephants' tusks, is conducted by ivory smugglers from Djakarta and Singapore.

Hayakawa Reports Some Believe Peking Funds Aiding Militants

By DAVID DIETZ

Dr. S. I. Hayakawa said last night that it is possible the Red Chinese are sending financial aid to militants at San Francisco State College.

Hayakawa, acting president of the embattled college, told the Mill Valley Lions Club that "there are some who seriously believe" runners are carrying funds from Red China into the United States through Cuba.

"The theory is seriously entertained by some who have studied it longer than I," Hayakawa said. "But it's not been proved to my satisfaction."

Hayakawa said after his talk to the club that friends in the intelligence service of the U.S. government had told him of reports of Red Chinese aid to dissidents.

"I don't say that it's happening, but it remains a possibility," he said.

During his address, Hayakawa, a resident of Mill Valley, repeated a belief that the strife at state was part of a nationwide revolution by anarchists.

"I don't believe the whole thing is about race," he said of student and teacher demands to open San Francisco State to more minority members. "This is a power grab; they want control of the college."

Colleges and universities, he said, were not a "staging area for social change and revolution. They are reserved for thought and discussion."

Hayakawa said college officials and trustees were considering placement of a fence around the San Francisco State campus to bar demonstrators. Only persons with special identification cards would be admitted to the grounds.

"The situation is that desperate," he said of the fence proposal. "I'm ashamed that it is."

But he said the aim would be to prevent "mobs from marching round and round and disrupting people from studying."

Hayakawa said delays in dismissing teachers absent five days without permission were caused by lack of a method to check whether instructors might be on field trips or doing work at home.

He criticized the Academic Senate for failing to hold disciplinary hearings for 76 of the 77 students arrested in December.

State Firm Will Test New Mirror For Cars

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A revolutionary over-the-top auto rear view mirror designed by a Fresno County man will be tested by a Santa Monica firm, Rep. B.F. Sisk, D-Calif., announced yesterday.

The inventor is Auberry Dude Ranch operator Karl E. Smith.

Sisk said the mirror is designed to improve the driver's vision of traffic behind him. It will make vision through a back window unnecessary.

The mirror fits across the top of the car and offers the driver a full view of the scene behind him.

The device is to be tested by Dunlap Associates in Santa Monica, Sisk said.

He said Smith said the mirror cannot be added as an accessory but must be built as an integral part of the car.

However, Smith estimates the cost for such modification would be less than $20.

"I believe the Smith mirror is the only key to better rear and side vision," Sisk said.

"It also eliminates blind spots which are characteristic of side mirrors."

Utah Reassured On Atom Tests

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Underground nuclear testing will continue in Nevada and Utah need not worry over radioactive fallout, Utah Gov. Calvin Rampton was told yesterday.

Rampton met in closed session with representatives of the Atomic Energy ommission and the Public Health Service to discuss the Nevada testing.

Dave Miller, information officer for the Nevada Operations Office of the AEC, said the radioactivity released was slight and didn't present a health hazard.

Brink's Robbers To Swap Jails

WALPOLE, Mass. (AP) — Three men convicted of participating in the 1950 robbery of $1.2 million from Brink's, Inc., are to be paroled from state prison today, but not to freedom.

They immediately will begin serving two-year terms in the Suffolk County House of Correction on conspiracy charges connected with the same robbery.

The three had been sentenced to life in prison on the armed robbery charges, but the Massachusetts Parole Board commuted the life terms Jan. 21. This made them eligible for parole, but from the state prison terms only.

The three are Michael V. Geagan, 60; James I. Faherty, 56, and Adolph Maffie, 54.

French is a corruption of the Vulgar Latin spoken by Caesar's soldiers when they conquered Gaul. The Celts living in what is now France adopted Vulgar Latin but added words of their own. Alouette, or lark, for example, descends from the ancient Celtic tongue.

Barkley Grandson Claims Cuban Flight Was Hired

MONTREAL (AP) — Alben Truitt, wanted for hijacking a private plane to Cuba, says he chartered it in Florida.

"I chartered a private plane and I did go to Cuba in it," Truitt, 35, said Monday. "But I paid the pilot an extra $58 to take me there."

A grandson of the late Vice President Alben Barkley, Truitt flew to Havana last October. The pilot, Charles Oliveros of Key West, said Truitt held an explosive device to the back of his neck and forced him to fly to Cuba.

Truitt was detained by Canadian immigration authorities who suspect he may have entered Canada illegally. His hearing on an application for immigrant status will be held Wednesday.

Truitt told reporters that he hired the plane in Key West for $30 and gave his destination to the pilot as southern Florida. Once in the air, he added, he offered to pay the pilot to fly him to Cuba where he wanted to gather material for a book.

Truitt said he made out a check for $58 to the pilot and his lawyer now is trying to trace it.

After arriving in Havana, Truitt said he was kept in solitary confinement at Viborn Security House and then deported on the Cuban passenger-freighter Tersero.

Early this month the ship arrived at Saint John, N.B., he continued, and he was given permission to go ashore. He said he was "under the impression that as an American citizen I could enter Canada without complications and move freely."

Truitt said he entered the United States from Saint John and later crossed the border near Montreal, where he was detained.

Facing him in Florida is a U.S. charge of air piracy. Behind him in Florida he left his wife and their three children. Police said he had written some bad checks and a Key West grocer said he was worried about buying food for his family.

Truitt said he thought the charge against him was brought because under U.S. regulations a pilot can lose his license if he flies to Cuba voluntarily for a profit.

BLACK, WHITE TOGETHER

There's Reservoir Of Goodwill

By RICHARD D. BOYLE
(Last of three articles)

Black and white residents of Marinwood and Lucas Valley, after taking a long, hard look at their community, have found some evidence of racial bigotry, mostly subtle, sometimes not, but they also found a great reservoir of goodwill.

The community, which was accused recently by a black resident of racial prejudice and harrassment of black members, appeared also to have discovered something else; that it is much better off because it is integrated.

Although there have been problems, both black and white residents agree that knowing the other race has bettered their lives.

Mrs. Catherine Banks of 2050 Huckleberry Road, a white mother who helped alert the community to some of the problems of bigotry, said "I think Lucas Valley is actually one step ahead of most Marin County communities in that it does have open housing and a great body of goodwill."

The basic problem, say black parents, is that of raising their children in a white suburb. But the black youngsters, far from being bitter about the problems of adjustment, are hopeful that they are today pioneering the way toward tomorrow's racial understanding. Less tied to the mistakes and prejudices of the past, a new generation of black and white young people are learning about the world by learning from each other.

Last year a number of black and white parents met and decided they had to prepare the children of the suburbs for a world peopled by men and women of many different races, religious and economic backgrounds.

To make this dream a reality they formed the Human Relations Council of the Dixie School District, which serves the Marinwood-Lucas Valley area. Believing a major part of the responsibility of equipping "the majority and the minority child to function in a multicultural society was a responsibility of the schools," they set these tasks for their council:

Assist the schools in offering courses portraying the role of minority groups in this nation.

Recommended in-service programs for school employees to better understand the social crisis.

Urge active recruitment of teachers of minority races.

Help schools deal with open and subtle manifestations of discrimination.

Are the schools responding to the efforts of the council?

Dr. Penrod Moss, assistant superintendent of the Dixie district, said that although the schools in the past have not done an adequate job telling the true story of America's minorities, his district is attempting to change. Old history books, he said, where Anglo-Saxon oriented with stress on the Pilgrim, the American Revolution, Daniel Boone and the Westward Ho movement.

"A good part of American history is the migration of other peoples," said Moss, and to tell that story, the district is using the first history book, "Land of the Free," dealing with blacks in society.

One of the roles, he said, of elementary schools today is to "break down the myths" and give a total picture of American history. Many youngsters, upon reaching college, discover to their disillusionment that what they were told in elementry school was full of half-truths, he said.

"The melting pot idea sounds great, but it is really not," added Moss. "We really don't want to melt everybody down, but we should preserve that special seasoning of each group that came to this country, understanding our differences and our similarities."

To help this understanding, the district hired Ruth Kilby as the human relations resource teacher to assemble and channel to other instructors material on minority history.

One of her major tasks is educating teachers to handle racial slurs by children, said Mrs. Kilby, the first black teacher to be hired by the district. "Many teachers just don't know how to handle the problem," she said with a warm and gentle smile. Getting the teachers to talk out their experiences at group discussions after school she said, is making great progress toward the development of new ways to handle the problem.

One of the problems, she said, is the negative way minorities were pictured in history books. "The black man was pictured as a happy-go-lucky who plucked the banjo all day," she said, and this gave the impression he was satisfied with his role as a slave.

Teaching about the contributions to American by other races, she added, will help minority youngsters achieve a sense of dignity.

Black Youngsters, said Mrs. Kilby, a mother of two sons in college, will no longer turn their other cheek to racial slurs because of "a new racial consciousness and feeling of pride in being black."

If there is to be harmony in our nation's multiracial society, said Mrs. Kilby, it must begin with this new generation now in school. "People my age have built-in ideas," she said, "but we can help the coming generation and this will bring out a respect and dignity for all races."

She sees a great hope for the future because of "a great many white families, who are incensed when they see racism and playing a real role in squelching bigotry.

With cooperation and understanding, Lucas Valley and Marinwood appear to many residents, both black and white, to be well on the way toward working out their problems.

Republicans Fill A Key Vacancy

Mrs. Elizabeth Rowen of San Rafael was elected last night as women's vice chairman of the Marin County Republican Central Committee.

The position has been vacant for two years, reported committee chairman Charles Michals of Greenbrae. Mrs. Rowen also will continue as precinct director, heading a force of 2,000 volunteers, he said.

To assist her in precinct work, Mrs. Ruby Streiff of Greenbrae was appointed by Michals as deputy precinct director.

Michals also reappointed Rodgers Broomhead of Ross as finance chairman. Broomhead also is vice chairman of the central committee.

Tam Seniors Require Presidential Runoff

Tamalpais High School seniors Verdean Herbold and Jonathan Symmes will meet tomorrow in a runoff election for class president. The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in reporting Symmes was elected president in Monday's election.

The school is also scheduled to hold the junior class election today and freshman class election tomorrow. Rains have postponed both elections.

Many Pupils Due Holiday; Teacher Institute Friday

Most public schools in Marin will be closed Friday for the winter teachers' institute sponsored by the county superintendent of schools.

Schools will not be closed in San Rafael High and Elementary, Dixie, Novato, West Marin, Tomales High and Elementary, and Marin Junior College Districts. All others will close for the institute, according to Lawrence Lindberg of the county schools office.

Featured speaker at the institute will be Dan Moore, former teacher who is special assistant to the publisher of the Los Angeles Times. He will talk on "We're Going To Change — Like It Or Not" at a luncheon session in the College Center dining hall.

Milton Cohen, superintendent of Larkspur School District, will address the 9 a.m. opening session in Olney Hall on "New Ideas in Education: Implications for Teachers."

Except for the opening session and the luncheon, the day will be devoted to group discussion in numerous sections. Some of the subjects to be discussed are "Teaching About Drug Abuse," "Why Children Fail in Reading," "Multi-Sensory Approach to Learning," and "Using Jazz in Teaching Classroom Music."

Panama Guerrillas Pose Coffee Threat

VOLCAN, Panama (UPI)—Guerrillas roving Panama's northern frontier pose a greater threat to the country's coffee crop than to the military junta they hope to topple from power.

Their presence has frightened away a majority of the Indian coffee pickers at the peak of the harvest. The pickers are fearful, too, of the National Guard troops who have fought a number of skirmishes with the guerrillas in this area near the border with Costa Rica.

"We will lose at least half the crop this year," said one coffee grower. "The beans are falling on the ground."

COFFEE CROP

One of the biggest crops being wasted is on the coffee plantation of former President Arnulfo Arias, who was deposed by the National Guard last Oct. 11 only six days after taking office. Arias is in exile in Washington, plotting to regain office in Panama.

But since his ouster, the house and commissary on his sprawling coffee plantation near here have been burned down. And the assistant foreman of the plantation estimates that 60 per cent of the crop is lost as well.

"We usually have 500 Indians to pick coffee, but now we have only 60," he said, escorting news correspondents around the plantation.

'NO OPINIONS'

"We can't say who burned down our leader's house," a worker said. "It was dark. We have no opinions."

Few residents of this area have opinions they are willing to express about either the guerrillas or the National Guard. Although most of the guerrillas are thought to be supporters of Arias, it cannot be determined definitely whether they hope to return him to power or simply want to bring down the junta headed by National Guard Cols. Jose M. Pinilla and Bolivar Urrutia.

The guerrilla movement began shortly after Arias was overthrown. They organized across the border in Costa Rica and have made their strikes just inside Panama, always leaving themselves a quick escape route back to Costa Rica through the rain forests of the area.

The National Guard admits only two major clashes with the guerrillas, the last of which was Jan. 9. In that battle near the village of Piedra Candela, the guard said, two guardsmen and one guerrilla were killed and six guardsmen were injured.

Col. Boris Martinez, the guard chief of staff, said the number of guerrillas cannot be determined because their base of operations is in Costa Rica. He described some of them as "foreign mercenaries," however, and said two Americans identified only as "Harriman" and "Johnny Wallace" were among them.

Many of the Indian coffee pickers have wandered off to join the guerrillas. But some became quickly disillusioned with their collection of outdated weapons and went on to live in the forests, where small game and fruit are abundant.

In Costa Rica, which does not recognize the junta, newspapers estimate the guerrilla strength at 300 to 400. But other sources said 150 is a more realistic figure.

There is no nention of the guerrillas in the strictly censored Panamanian press.

Both Panama and Costa Rica have increased the size of their military forces along the border, and, on the Panama side, the guard keeps a close check of persons entering and leaving the area. Guard installations have been fortified with sand-bagged machinegun emplacements.

Residents of this area of Chiriqui province, many of whom supported Arias in last year's election, have complained about National Guard abuses of power. Residents said guardsmen have confiscated radios, burned farm homes and buildings and killed an old man who attacked a guardsmen with his bare hands.

Few male adults remain in the farming community around Volcan, which once had a population of about 9,000.

"Most of the men have gone into the hills because they are afraid," said one woman. "We are afraid of both the guerrillas and the National Guard."

Case Is Referred

Tracy A. Stevenson, 18, of Kentfield, charged with marijuana possession, was referred yesterday by Marin Municipal Court Judge Hadden W. Roth to probation officers for possible trial as a juvenile. Stevenson was arrested in Kentfield on Jan. 17.

Yale Mountain Climbers Killed

GORHAM, N.H. (AP) — Three Yale University students on a mountain-climbing expedition during semester break, tumbled about 1,000 feet down a steep, ice-covered slope to their deaths.

The three were found yesterday, linked together by their climbing rope, in Huntington Ravine on the side of Mount Washington by an avalanche patrolman, Ranger Rene La Roche.

State police identified the victims as Charles Yoder, 24, of Hartford, Wisc.; Scot Stevens, 19, of Cucamonga, Calif., and Robert Ellenberg, 19, of New York City.

Packs were torn from their backs and climbing irons ripped from their feet, apparently as they were battered in their descent, police reported.

La Roche said he passed the ravine Monday about 10 a.m., but saw nothing. He said he found the bodies during an afternoon patrol yesterday.

Youth Pleads Guilty To Narcotics Count

Ronnell Alan Bell, 19, of no fixed address, pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to a charge of being in a place where narcotics were used.

He was originally charged with possession of marijuana after an arrest in San Rafael Oct. 13. Judge Alvin B. Goldstein released Bell on his own recognizance and ordered him to appear Feb. 21 for sentencing.

Conservationist Is Named Interior Undersecretary

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russell E. Train, a prominent conservationist who resigned from the U.S. Tax Court to become president of the Conservation Foundation, has been appointed undersecretary of the interior.

Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel announced Train's appointment yesterday, but said he had actually accepted the job in early January. The nomination must be confirmed by the Senate and Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Interior Committee, said hearings would be held promptly. He predicted that Train would receive a kind reception.

Train, 48, resigned from the Tax Court in 1965 to become head of the foundation, a nonprofit organization concerned with environmental problems. He is a native of Washington, D.C.

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson named him to the National Water Commission last year and President Nixon, following his election, named him chairman of a special task force to advise the incoming administration on environmental matters.

Hickel said Train was chosen for "not only his interest in what is happening in America, but also what is happening to resources around the world, particularly in wildlife and conservation."

Heyerdahl Plans Atlantic Effort

OSLO (AP) — Thor Heyerdahl, who floated across the Pacific on a raft, said today he and six companions will try to cross the Atlantic in a papyrus boat modeled on those of the ancient Egyptians.

The Oslo newspaper Aftenposten published a copyrighted interview with he explorer in which he said the party would set out from Morocco toward the end of May. The destination will be South America, "somewhere between the Amazon and the West Indies."

In 1947, Heyerdahl and five other men crossed the South Pacific from Peru to Polynesia to prove that Polynesian culture could have originated in South America.

Now, he said, he wants to find out whether Central American culture could have originated in the Mediterranean.

Heyns Plans Police Help On U.C. Campus

"We will augment campus security personnel with the forces necessary to provide protection," he said last night.

Blockage of the main Bancroft Avenue entrance to the campus yesterday "exhibited a callous disregard for the rights and freedoms for students, faculty and staff members," he said. "Furthermore, this action was in violation of campus regulations."

He referred to a noon demonstration in which members of the Third World Liberation Front and a number of supporters linked arms and forced incoming students to detour around Sather Gate.

Some tried to force their way through the lines, however, and there were a number of scuffles.

The disturbance ended when 20 policemen arrived and dispersed the picketers.

Elsewhere, several classes were disrupted and other students were harassed.

After a tear gas canister was thrown through the door of a mathematics class, five students were treated for eye irritations.

The 150 students in the room were evacuated.

Heyns declared disciplinary action "will be initiated against those students who violated university regulations."

Buddy Hackett Now Executive

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Roly-poly comedian Buddy Hackett a vice president?

Yes, of the Sahara-Nevada Corp., which supervises Del E. Webb's four hotels in Nevada. Howard James, corporation president, made the announcement yesterday, saying Hackett will be talent consultant.

Webb owns the Sahara, Thunderbird and Mint in Las Vegas and the Sahara-Tahoe at Lake Tahoe.

Arms Of Tiny Research Sub Locate Jet Section

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two remote-controlled mechanical arms of a tiny research submarine, nosing along 325 feet down in the Pacific Ocean, succeeded yesterday in attaching a hoist cable to the tail cone of a jetliner that crashed 11 days ago.

The National Transportation Safety Board hoped the wreckage—containing a sealed tape recorder—would provide the secret of why a Scandinavian Airlines System plane came down in the sea while on a landing approach to International Airport.

Just how difficult was the submarine's mission?

"It's a cold, black world down there. Even with light, you can see no more than 10 feet. If your boat hits the silt bottom, clouds of dirt rise up that blind you and you have to back up until it settles," says William Lamb.

Lamb, 43, directs a 100-man team investigating the crash. He made his dive, the first of the recovery operation, on Jan. 19. Flat on his stomach in the Lockheed Crops.'s Deep Quest submersible, Lamb peered through a viewport and gave directions as pilot Larry Shumaker maneuvered toward debris located by sonar.

They were down for seven hours.

The 20 by 40-foot sub, looking somewhat like a fat shark, holds four men, two in a pressurized sphere in the nose and two in another pressurized section at the rear. It is primarily designed for research dives as deep as 8,000 feet but its manipulating arms near the nose make it ideal for salvage operations. It can travel about five miles an hour at maximum depth.

Use Permit Due Study By Planners

Requests for a variance and for a special use permit will be considered by the Fairfax Planning Commission meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Fairfax Women's Club.

Andrew Isetta is requesting the use permit to divide a building at 1599 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard into shops, and H. W. Laster is asking a side yard variance to add to his home at 46 Taylor Street.

Policy Of Open Campus On KTIM

A proposal for an open campus for San Rafael High School will be discussed at 9 a.m. tomorrow on the KTIM Sounding Board program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer.

Discussing the issue will be Mrs. Max Thelen Jr. and Mrs. John L. Levinsohn of the high school Parent-Teacher Association; Jeff Godwin, president of the student body, and Ewing Bone, chairman of the mathematics department. Mrs. Thelen and Bone oppose the open campus plan and Godwin and Mrs. Levinsohn favor it.

The program will be rebroadcast at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Hughes Buys Old Historic Lode Claims

A Hughes agent paid John A. Zalac of Virginia City $100,000 for seven mining claims on rocky, sagebrush land earlier this month, then transferred it to Hughes, according to records of Storey County Recorder James Gross.

The land, a little over a mile square, is some distance from the 480 acres that Hughes Tool Co. paid $225,000 for last April.

It is south of this historic mining community, which boomed to 30,000 people and produced $1 billion in gold and silver in the late 1800s, but is kept alive now by tourists who come to see its ghost town attractions.

The reasons for Hughes' interest is a mystery.

Although the Comstock Lode was a big producer, the Occidental Mine—around which Hughes' new property lies—didn't ever pay in mineral wealth. It produces dollars today, however, as a summer tourist attraction, with tours for visitors. Zalac retained the minehead claim itself.

Unions Seek Reduction Of Health Costs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California unions are joining in a drive aimed at reducing the costs of health care programs by bargaining directly with doctors and hospitals.

Union spokesmen said yesterday that 112 local unions and labor councils have affiliated into the newly incorporated California Council for Health Plan Alternatives.

Among members are the California AFL-CIO and its councils in San Francisco and Los Angeles, the Western Conference of Teamsters and the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union.

In contracts they negotiate, employers and their members spent $700 million yearly on health plans, the council said. Union spokesmen said each time unions win an increase in employer contributions, operators of the programs raise prices.

"We have not been getting our money's worth and we are determined to do everything possible to correct the situation," said Sigmund Arywitz, Los Angeles County AFL-CIO secretary.

Einar Mohn, Teamsters western conference director, said the council was not formed to fight health care programs, but will not be "complacent and accept their charges and treatments without question."

EOC Seeking Rec Opinions

Opinions from youths and parents are being solicited on what is needed in a proposed recreation program for low-income youths in North Marin County Economic Opportunity Council.

The EOC will hold a public meeting seeking community opinion on the program at 8 p.m. today at the EOC multipurpose room, 1327 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael.

Mrs. Collie Gaines, director of the EOC youth program in Marin City, will head the discussion.

A New Image Maker Under Reagan Dome

By BILL BOYARSKY

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has a new image maker — a public relations man once routed from ultraconservative Republican politics by the John Birch Society.

His name is Rus Walton and he is emerging as a top man in a new team growing up around the governor.

They are serious - minded experts in the complexities of state government, devoted to "The Boss" and determined to [illegible] repair the political damage inflicted [illegible] his abortive try for the presidency last year.

DEVELOPMENT SECTION

Walton, 47, is the [illegible] - a year head of the governor's new program development section, a "think tank" littered with coffee cups and tucked away in a corner of the Capitol. It produces program ideas; peps up lagging department heads who are slipping into a bureaucratic rut and — of key importance — publicizes Reagan on television [illegible] print.

[illegible] upstairs call us the ca[illegible] headquarters," said Walton.

He [illegible] talk among newsmen [illegible] the second and fourth [illegible] Capitol that he is Reag[illegible] ical publicist, ste[illegible] shoes of the departe[illegible] ications director, Lyn [illegible]

"It's valid in that you [illegible] for re - election on your [illegible] formance and this unit's job [illegible] to make sure we have performance," said Walton.

SECOND TERM?

Reagan's aides say he will run for a second term in 1970, and Walton, like the rest of the staff, is looking ahead.

But Walton added that if the newsmen "mean this unit is simply going to be translated into a campaign unit, they are wrong."

It is, he said, more like "a research and development section for a corporation, coming up with new products."

Walton's image, however, is more like the flash and glitter of a publicity department than the quiet laboratories of research and development.

For years, Walton was a top publicist in Republican political circles.

He was the key man in starting the United Republicans of California in 1963. This is a conservative group of people who broke away from the older California Republican Assembly because they thought it too liberal.

As a top campaign aide to Barry Goldwater in the 1964 presidential election, he dreamed up the controversial film "Choice." It showed teen-agers in saloons, along with riots and burlesque show marquees, but its dramatic law and order pitch was too graphic for the campaign leadership, which suppressed it.

Two years later, Walton broke with UROC when Joe Crosby, husband of a John Birch Society member, was elected president.

That ended Walton's association with the party's more militant conservative wing. After running his own political public relations firm, he joined the Reagan administration, promoting traffic safety through the Motor Vehicles Department.

He moved into his present power during an interoffice dispute over whether Reagan should run for president.

On one side were the "federalists" — Communications Director Nofziger and others who believed the former actor could sweep into the national convention, upset Richard M. Nixon and win the GOP nomination.

On the other side were the "statists" — Executive Secretary William Clark Jr., Assistant Executive Secretary Michael Deaver, Walton and a few others who said Reagan should keep his promise to serve his full term, carry out his campaign pledges and run for re - election in 1970.

With the "federalists" in charge, the "statists" decided to play their own game. Convinced Nixon had the nomination sewed up, they decided to look ahead and plan for the 1969 legislative session and for the 1970 election.

As one member of the group, who declined the use of his name, said of the presidential enthusiasts: "We felt, 'OK, let them have their fun. We're going to be here Aug. 15'."

That was the day the Republican National Convention ended and Reagan returned to California, under criticism in his own state for his abortive presidential campaign.

Even before that, the "statists" began to move. Their aim was to strengthen the administration's record on state affairs.

They believed it was good—but had been submerged by Nofziger's preoccupation with presidential politics. Polls in California showed Reagan's popularity was dropping.

At the request of Executive Secretary Clark, Walton prepared a plan. "Ronald Reagan," he wrote, "is the most exciting political figure on the American scene."

But he said the Creative Society — the term Reagan uses to describe his plan for involving more people in government —was in trouble.

He proposed a plan of program development and publicity.

Reagan approved formation of the program development section a month after the Republican convention and since then, there has been a marked change in the administration.

No longer are there gubernatorial pronouncements on Vietnam, the emphasis now is on California.

The press unit — involved in high policy under Nofziger — now just handles the day-to-day news releases.

Walton's unit, working closely with agency chiefs and Reagan's top aides, has moved into that area, and now is in charge of selling Reagan's policies to the public.

"Lyn was pretty definitely involved in the policy making process," said Walton. "We are, too, but not to the extent Lyn was. I think we are more totally involved with the cabinet staff and the executive staff."

Nofziger was bored by state government. Walton and Reagan's other aides are interested in it.

Since September, Walton's unit has started writing the drafts of Reagan's speeches. It has come up with new programs. Working with Alex Sheriffs, Reagan's education adviser, it devised the commission on the problems of education in elementary and high schools that Reagan proposed in his "state of the state" message.

Solo Astronaut Faces A Task For Three Men

By AL ROSSITER JR.

BETHPAGE, N.Y. (UPI)—For six hours during the upcoming Apollo 9 spaceflight, astronaut David R. Scott will be alone at the controls of a ship normally flown by three men.

His fellow crewmen, James A. McDivitt and Russell L. Schweickart, will be away piloting a moon landing craft for the first time in a crucial earth orbital rehearsal of moon flight rendezvous maneuvers.

On later moon missions, the Apollo command ship will be flown single-handedly for a day in lunar orbit while two men explore the moon's surface.

For Apollo 9, McDivitt and Schweickart will fly up to 100 miles away from their command module and Scott must be ready at all times to maneuver to their rescue if the lunar module landing craft were disabled.

"He has to be ready at any time to take over in case we have problems, and rescue us," Schweickart said at a news briefing last week at the Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp., plant where the lunar module was built.

"Dave will be busier than the proverbial one-armed paper hanger."

Apollo 9 is scheduled for launch into earth orbit Feb. 28 and all three crewmen will ride into space in a command module identical to the one the three Apollo 8 astronauts flew around the moon in December.

The four-legged lunar module will be carried aloft in a tapered shell between the command craft and the top stage of Apollo 9's Saturn 5 rocket. Once orbit is achieved, the pilots will turn their command module around and hook up to the lunar module.

It will mark the first time the complete, tandem spacecraft will be together in space. Only one lunar module has flown in orbit and it went up alone and unmanned.

After thoroughly checking the Apollo 9 lunar module for four days in orbit, space veteran McDivitt and Schweickart, who will be making his first flight, will break their link with the command ship and fly off using the lunar module's landing engine.

"Jim and I will be leaving Dave in a three-man spacecraft that takes three men to run," Schweickart said, noting that Scott must monitor the command module's systems while constantly preparing to speed to the lunar module's rescue.

For each maneuver the lunar module makes, Scott will be ready to fly the command ship along a mirror image of the lander's course to complete the rendezvous.

The lunar module was specifically designed to carry out the vital rendezvous operations and it has radar and computers to do it. The command module does not have radar but, as proven when Apollo 7 rendezvoused with its orbiting rocket stage, it can negotiate the tricky space chase.

The separation of the two manned spacecraft will be the riskiest part of the entire 10-day Apollo 9 mission. The lunar module is not capable of returning to earth and its pilots must get back to the command ship to get home.

"He has the heat shield and that's added incentive to get back," Schweickart quipped.

If a catastrophe blocked the return of the two lunar module pilots, one man could pilot the command module back to earth. The ship could even make a solo flight home from the moon if necessary.

Collision Injures Woman Motorist

Candida E. Wilson, 23, of 805 Diablo Avenue, Apt. 28, Novato, was treated for scalp bruises yesterday at Hamilton Air Force Base Hospital after her sports car was forced off Highway 101 by a truck and hit another car, the California Highway Patrol said.

The patrol said she was driving north through Marinwood when she tried to pass a panel truck and the truck driver cut in front of her forcing her car into the center divider. Her car spun and hit a car driven by John E. Durando, 22, of San Francisco.

OLD CREAMPUFF '59 FORD STATION WAGON

You can't believe how clean this wagon is until you look at it. Local family purchased new locally and have driven since new until traded on new Buick.

We don't think they ever hauled a thing in the rear of this wagon for it's brand new.

V-8 engine with radio, heater, automatic, and all the Ford wagon extras. This wagon runs just as good as it looks — that's perfect. The cleanest older wagon we've had in over a year.

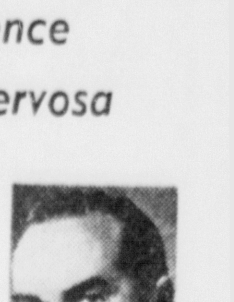
HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Girls who Fear Adolescence May Suffer Anorexia Nervosa



VAN DELLEN

Those with anorexia nervosa are usually girls who consciously, or unconsciously, do not want to reach adolescent proportions. It is, in essence, a weight phobia and usually related to the problem of growing up.

Mary, a tall 17-year-old high school senior, was extremely emaciated. She was from 40 to 50 pounds underweight, and nothing but skin and bones. Her parents brought her in for consultation.

AFTER SITTING DOWN, the mother began a tirade: "Mary refuses to eat, claiming that she has no appetite. This girl has not gained an ounce for more than a year and, if anything, has lost weight. We have tried everything. What a pity, she has not developed and no longer menstruates. What can we do?"

Further questioning revealed that she ate occasionally, especially when forced. The parents discovered that Mary often hid the food or induced vomiting.

They also found a bottle of Epsom salt, indicating that she may have purged herself.

Mary had very little to say, except that she didn't want to get fat like other members of the family.

IT WAS OBVIOUS tha there was more than a poor appetite involved. Our diagnosis of anorexia nervosa was confirmed when tests for other causes of emaciation were ruled out.

She was referred to a psychiatrist who recommended immediate removal from the home environment so that he could build her up and reorient her attitude toward food. Tranquilizing drugs were most helpful.

This phobia is difficult to cure and treatments lasting two or three years are not unusual. Anorexia nervosa is associated with growing up and the slightest gain in weight produces apprehension and disgust.

Because the parents are as upset as the victim, the entire affair is charged with emotional overtones.

Even if nothing is done, the individual eventually makes a fair recovery.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

MOBILE TB TESTS

Mrs. P. V. writes: When the chest is X-rayed in the TB mobile units, would cancer of the lung also show up?

REPLY

Shadows that could represent malignancies will show up on these small films. When this occurs, the individual is told to contact his physician, who usually orders a standard chest X-ray that shows more detail.

Today's Health Hint — Never smoke in bed, especially after drinking or when exhausted.

Never Be Satisfied With Less Than Best! "let people know" with an I-J Want Ad 453-4000

TRAIN TRASH

They have seen the high mountain ranges of California, rolled through the desert lands of New Mexico and paused for a drink in Idaho's rolling hills. They have felt the chill of Oregon nights and sweltered under the dry heat of Arizona summer. Each day the tread of passengers, the quicker speeds and the newer lives took a little bit of their strength and their value.

Throughout the west they have served all their lives. Now, too tired to care what happens, they come with broken bodies, cracked, aged and obsolete, rolling their last miles until, at their final destination, they sit on 1200-foot-long railroad tracks and silently wait.

Thus the railroad engines, reefers, gondolas, cabooses, tanks and passenger cars finish their lives at the Purdy Company Steel and Iron Salvage Yard near Mojave, California.

They no longer hear the conversations of passengers, the cries of trainmen or the vacant words of vagrant hitchhikers. It has been replaced by men working carefully about them, clearing the interior or turning on the cutting torches. Couplers, wheels, springs and other solid metals fall away with their memories.

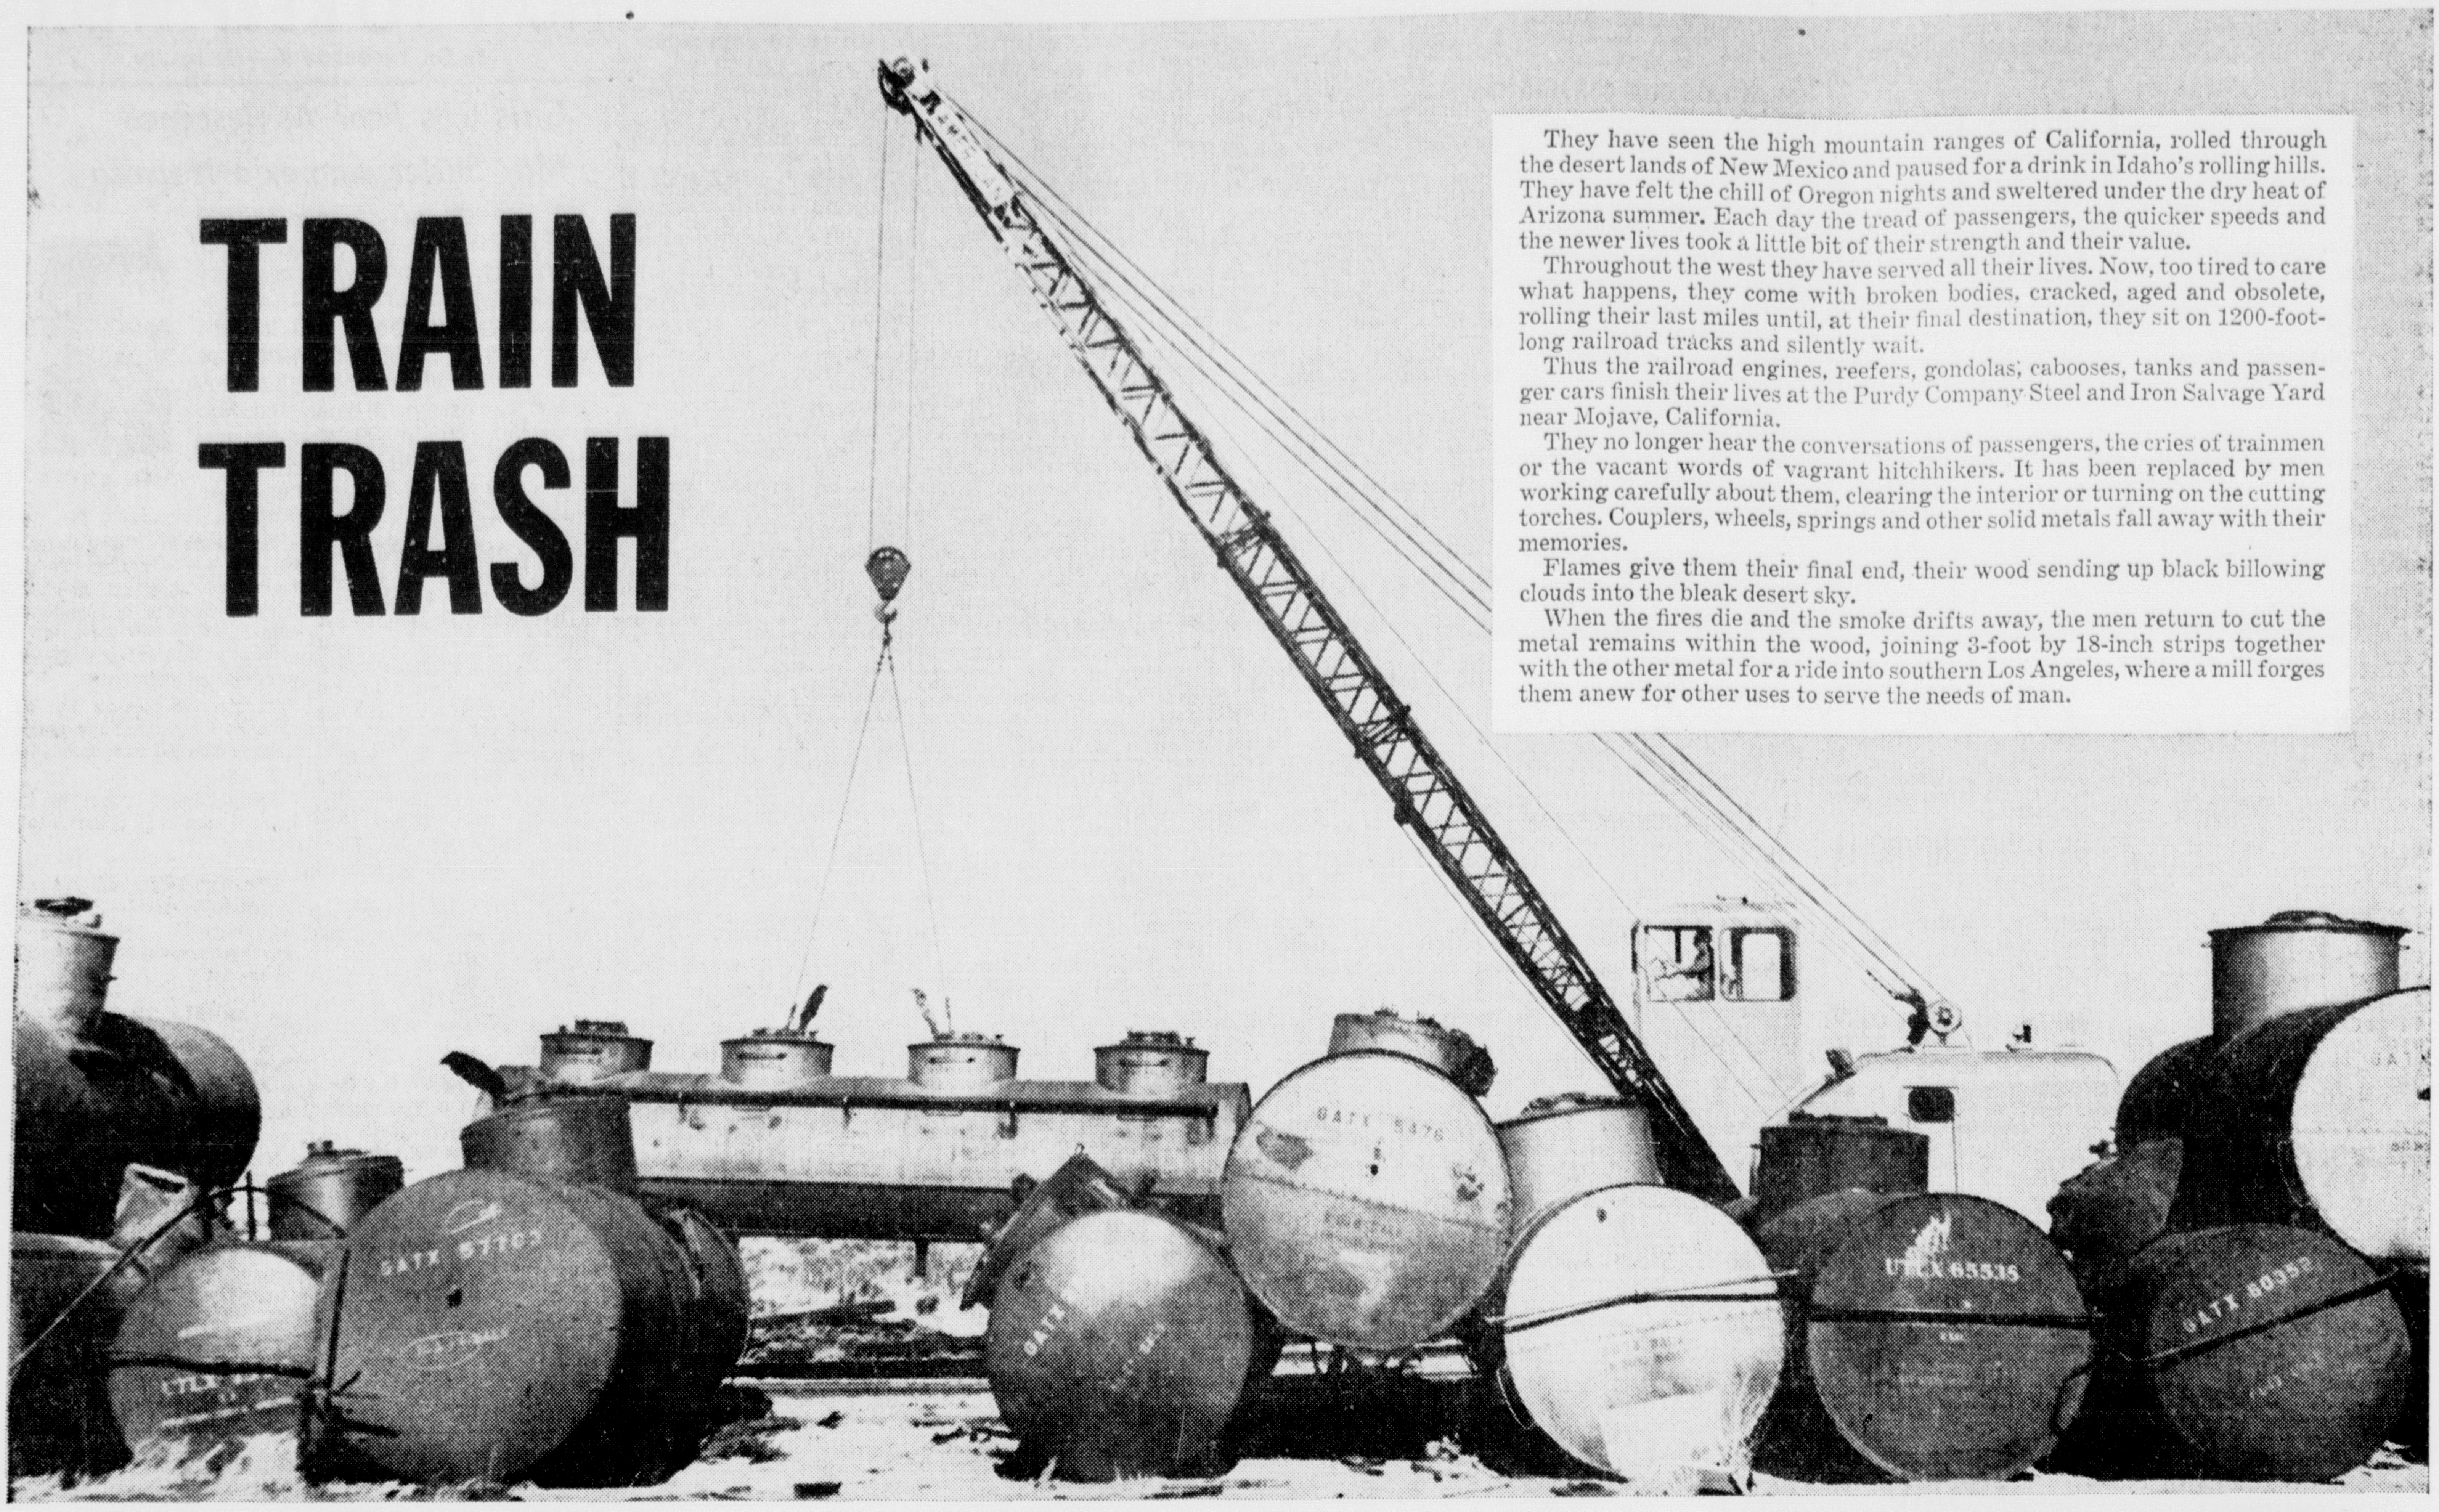
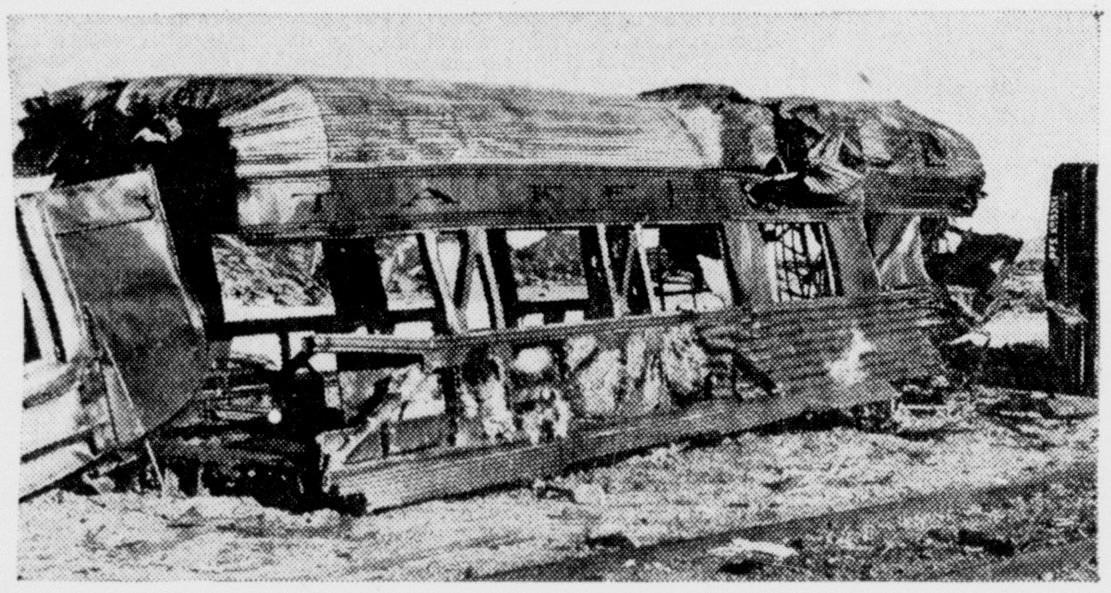
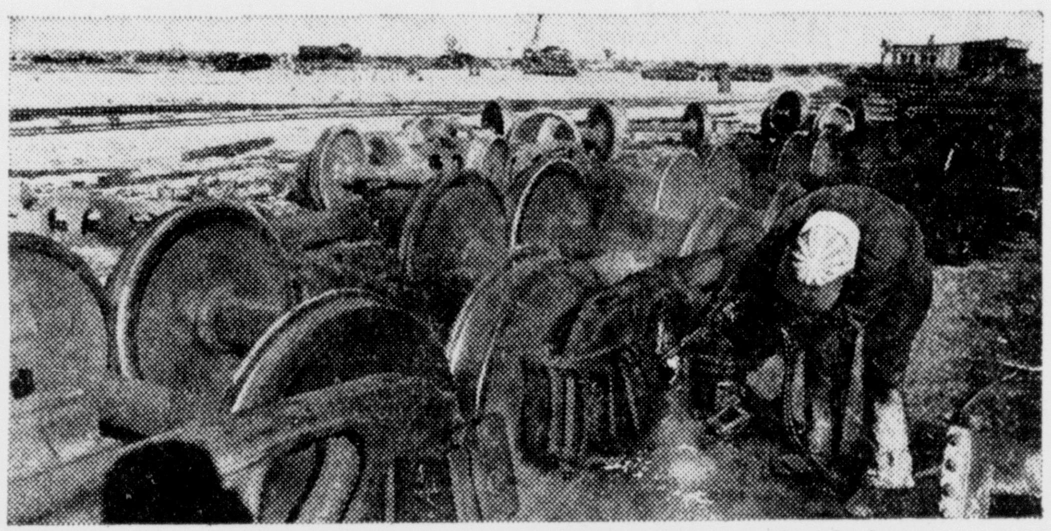
When the fires die and the smoke drifts away, the men return to cut the metal remains within the wood, joining 3-foot by 18-inch strips together with the other metal for a ride into southern Los Angeles, where a mill forges them anew for other uses to serve the needs of man.

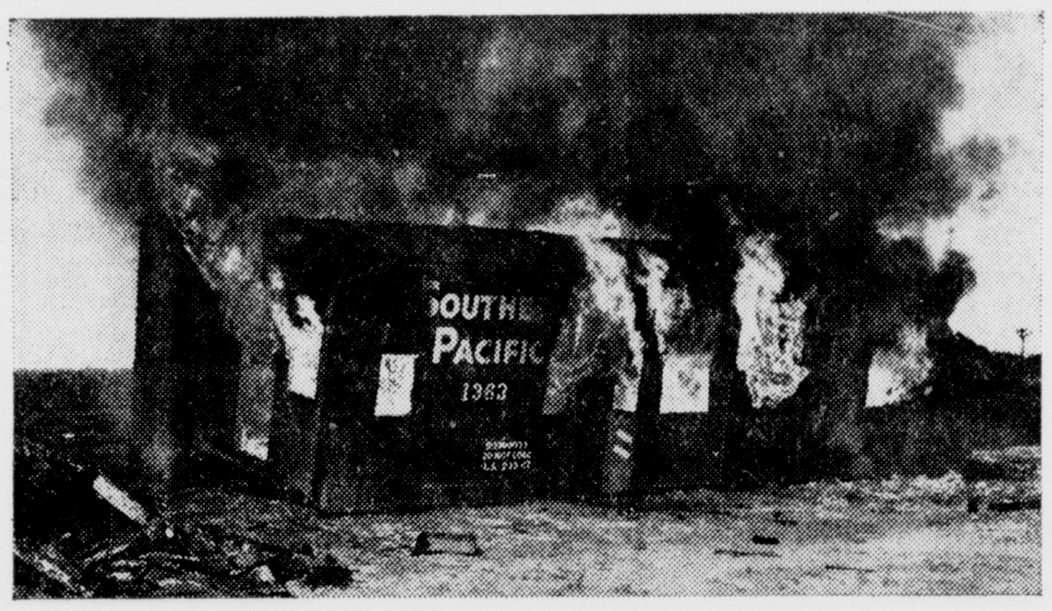




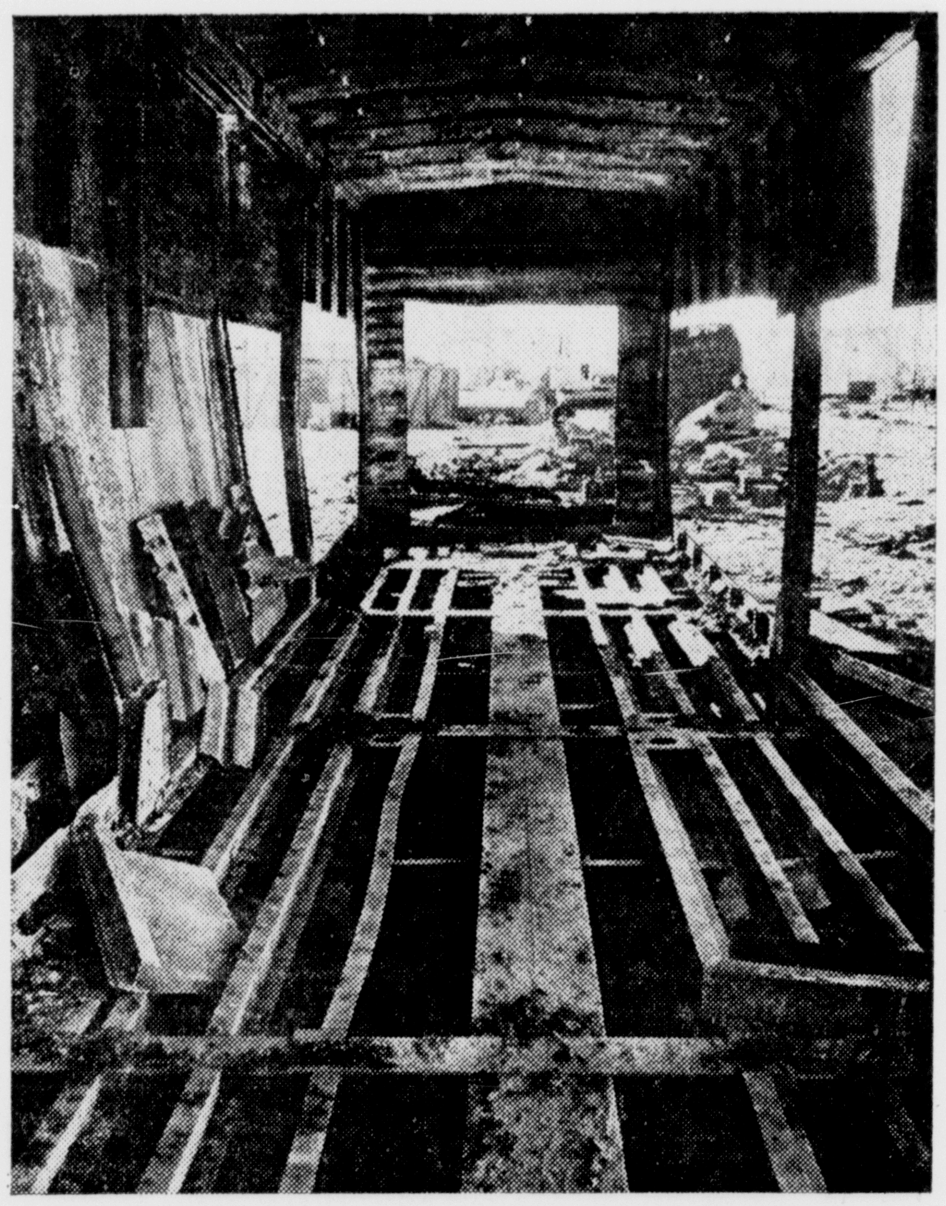
The empty shell of what was once a silver bullet on land.



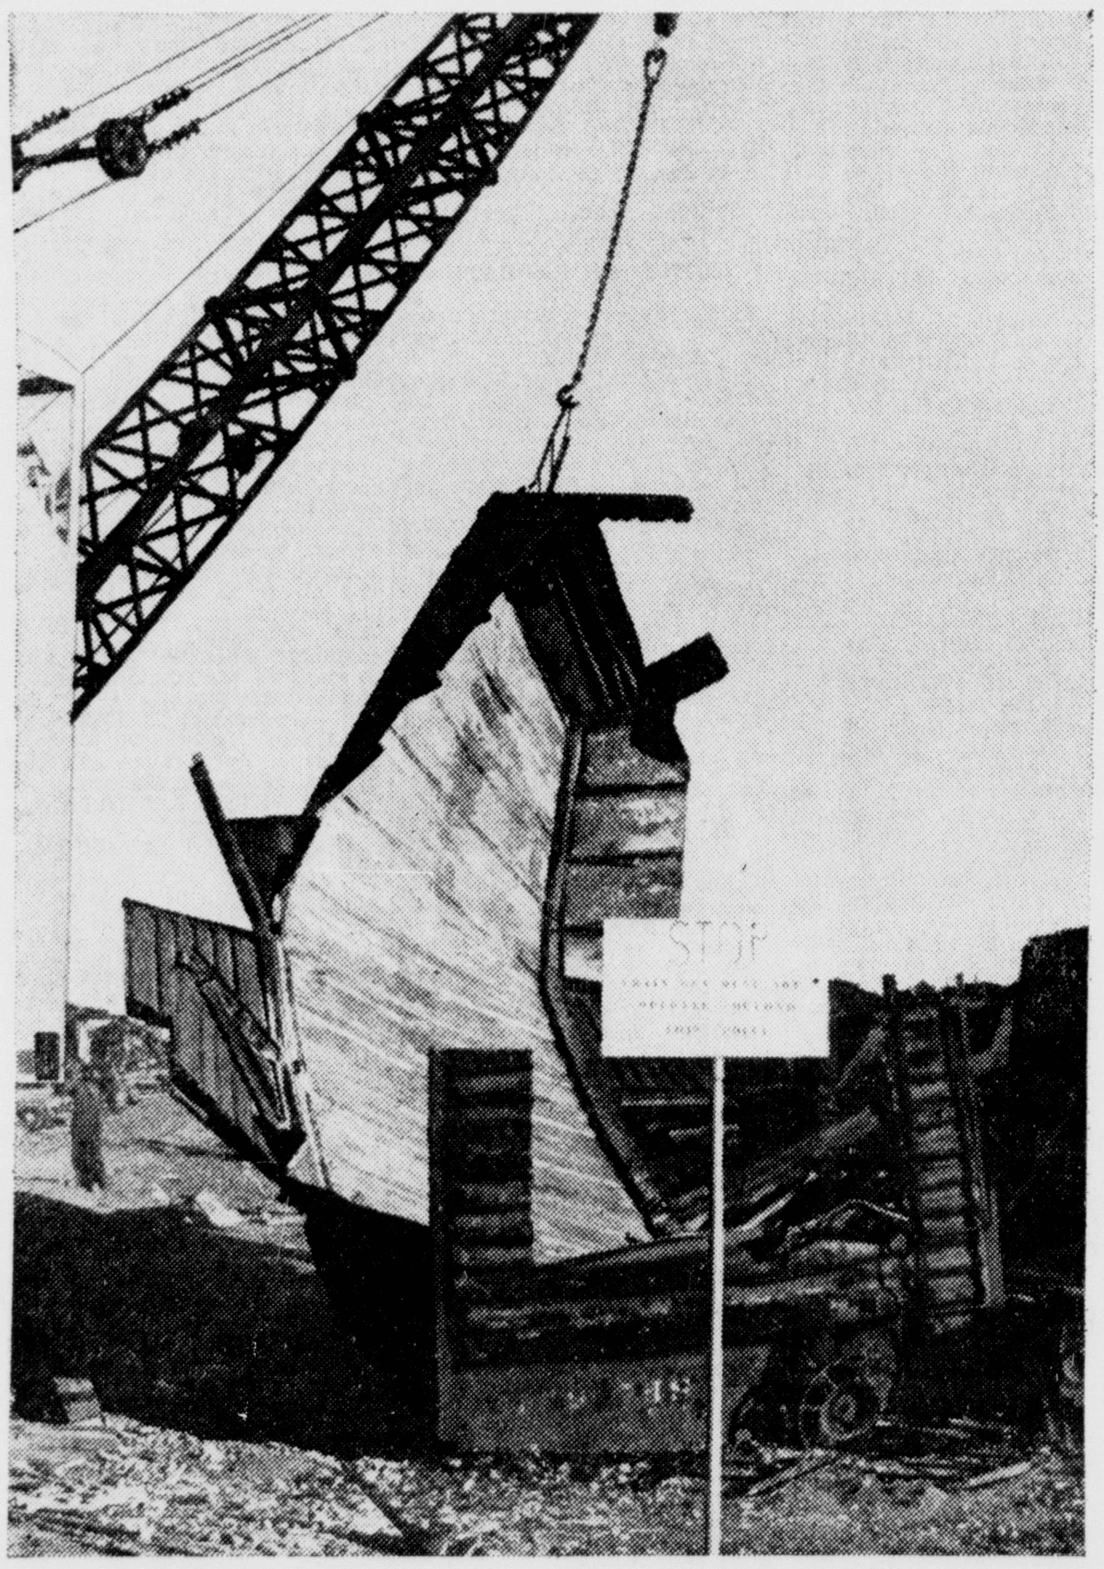
A torchman works on a wheel assembly, breaking it down to movable size.



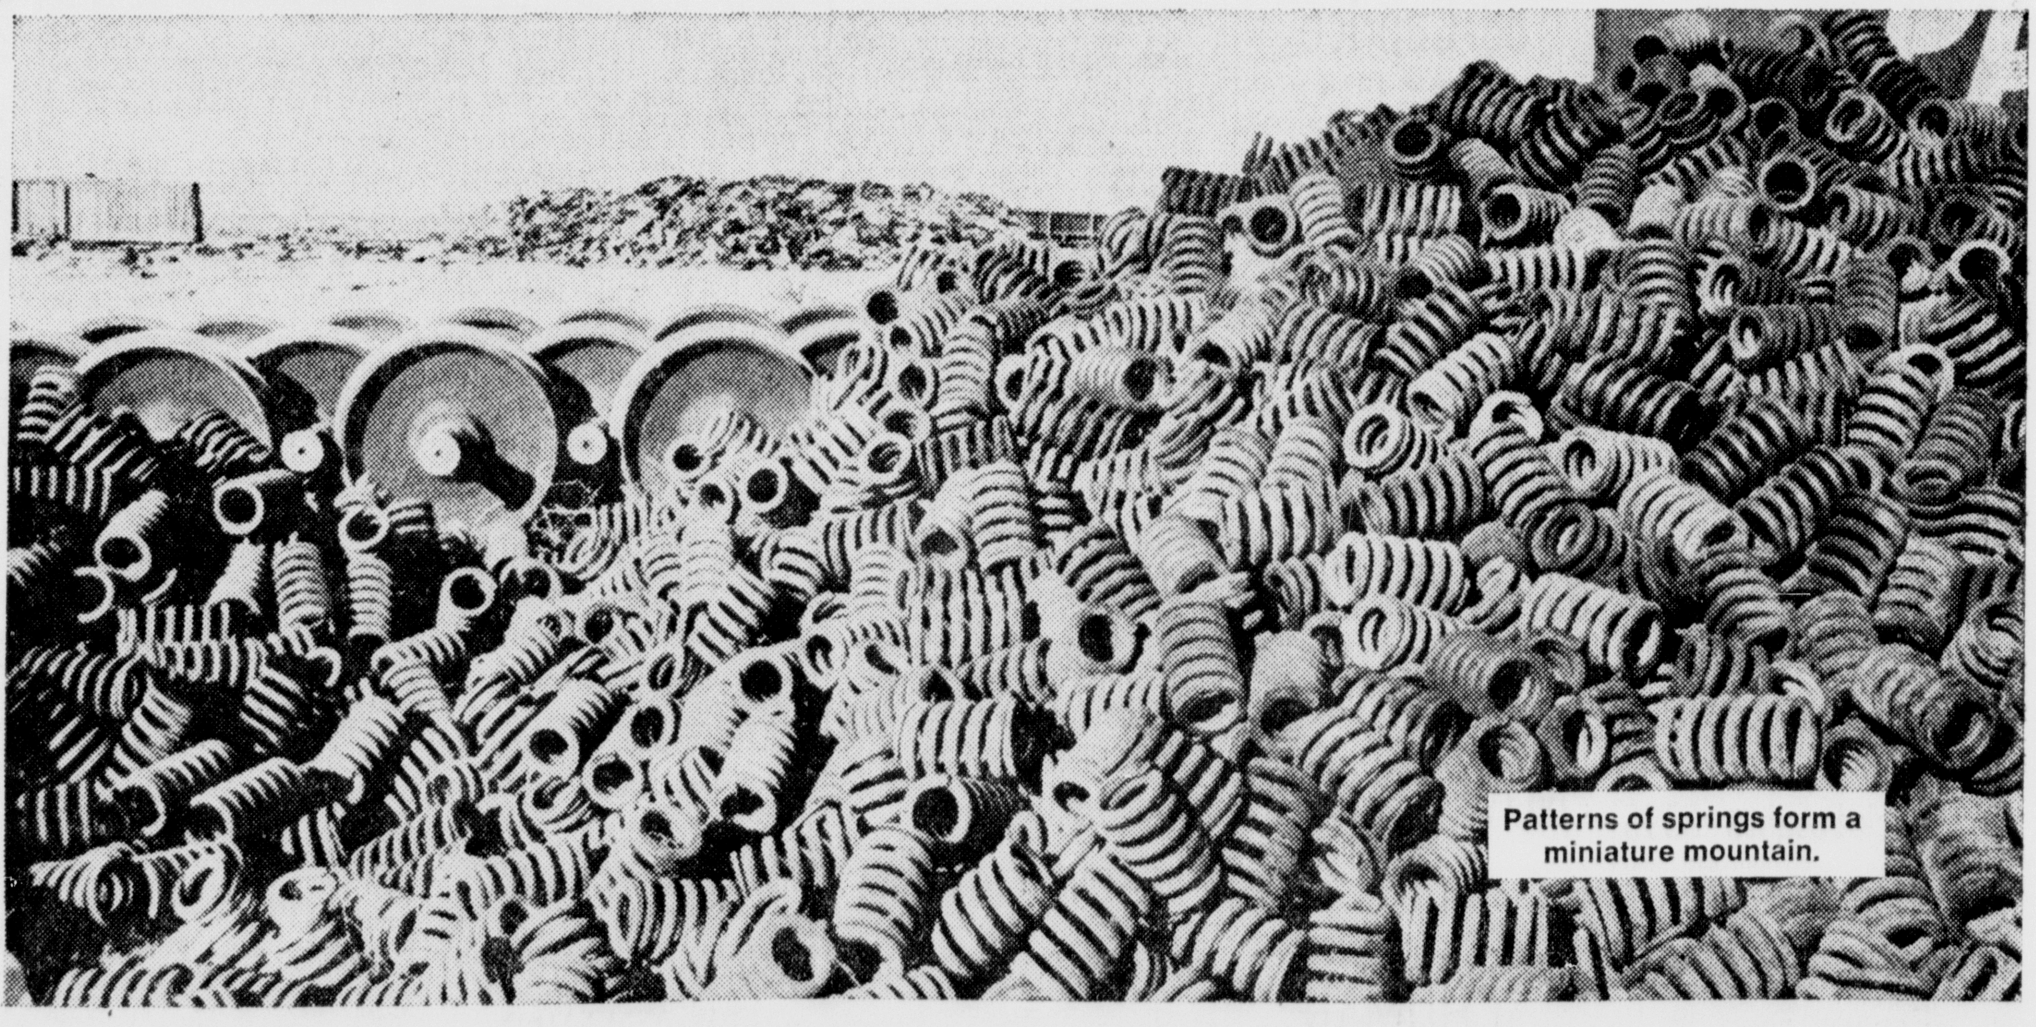
The last moments for a Southern Pacific freight car.



Only metal remains to be cut into size for shipping.



Once burned, the metal roof is lifted away for cutting.



Patterns of springs form a miniature mountain.

Span Board Jobs Held No Conflict

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A supervisor can serve as a Golden Gate Bridge director without conflict of interest, City Atty. Thomas M. 'Connor said yesterday.

He pointed out that the California Legislature amended the State Streets and Highway Code last year, approving that up to four bridge directors could be members of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors.

Earlier a court had ruled that the duties of supervisor and director were incompatible.

O'Connor made his ruling after the appointment to the bridge board of supervisors Ronald Pelosi and Peter Tamaras.

Red China Rejects Hong Kong Parcels

HONG KONG (AP) — A postoffice spokesman said today that about 80 per cent of all parcels sent by people in Hong Kong to friends and relatives in China in the last two months had been rejected by the Communist authorities.

"Chinese authorities have not said why the parcels are being sent back," he said. Most of them contained food, medicine and clothing.

Police Probing Bombing, Shots

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — Police are investigating a bombing and a shooting in the continuation of a series of violent incidents on the San Francisco Peninsula.

A lead pipe-and gunpowder explosive blew out windows in a machine shop located under a War on Poverty office near Redwood City, apparently Monday night. The damage was discovered yesterday.

In Menlo Park, bullets smashed a replaced window at Roy Keppler's book store, the target of gunshots, bricks and other missiles the past four months. The latest incident occurred early yesterday.

Kepler, a political liberal and pacifist, owns another book store at Los Altos where a stink bomb was thrown last week.

Traffic Courts Condemned As Fine Collectors

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Too often drivers charged with traffic offenses "find themselves in courts which seem to be in business only to collect fines," an American Bar Association spokesman says.

Such courts appear to have a "sublime disregard for the administration of justice," added Donald D. DeWitt, who addressed some 80 traffic court judges Tuesday at the Western Regional Traffic Court Conference.

Dewitt, from Chicago, is assistant director for the ABA's Traffic Court Program.

Most Americans' only contact with the courts is during automobile traffic cases, he said, adding that he has seen courts where "contested cases were disposed of at a rate of better than one a minute."

Such speed, he continued, deprives the defendant of his day in court although a defendant may be jailed, lose his license, be forced to pay higher insurance rates or face civil liability in a case.

Plea Set In Shoplifting

Donald Lawrence Hall, 38, of 124 Maywood Way, San Rafael, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on charges of shoplifting and receiving stolen property.

He is to enter a plea Tuesday.

Hall was arrested Jan. 20 after an Emporium guard allegedly stopped him for shoplifting. Police said they found $1,600 worth of clothes in his car from at least 10 different stores.

Federal Tax Hike Hasn't Hurt Spending

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The 10 per cent federal income tax surcharge which went into effect last July 1 cut the worker's take-home pay, but it apparently didn't affect his inclination to spend it.

In fact, consumers in California spent a record $9.97 billion in the first three months after the tax was imposed.

"It appears the people went into their savings, or borrowed money to buy things," remarked John B. Marshall, senior statistician in the research and statistics unit of the State Board of Equalization.

"The surtax was supposed to cool down the economy," he said, by reducing the wage earner's take-home pay.

But the effects of the higher tax were offset in California by higher levels of employment, higher personal income and inflation.

The board of equalization's report for the third quarter of 1968, the July-September period, shows taxable sales reached a record $9,969,545,000 in the state — even greater than the final quarter of the year before, which included the Christmas season.

Figures aren't in yet for the final quarter of 1968, but Marshall said there are indications that the effect of the surtax on consumer spending began to appear during the last three months of the year.

However, Roy Bell, assistant state finance director, says partial figures indicate that in automobile sales, residential construction and department store purchases, "The trends have been pretty good."

Bell said the Finance Department probably will have to adjust its estimates of sales tax revenue to reflect the lack of impact from the surtax.

In its last estimate, prepared in May, the department reduced by $11.6 million its figure for anticipated retail sales and use tax collections.

But during the July-September period, the first three months of the current fiscal year, the Board of Equalization shows collections came to $398.8 million — an increase of 22 per cent over the same period a year earlier.

More than half the increase, the board said, was caused by a one per cent increase in the sales tax on Aug. 1, 1967. But the rest of the increase came from higher spending.

In all, the state sales tax brought in $406.3 million during the third quarter of last year.

Marshall and Bell agree that the real impact of the higher federal income tax will show up in the next three months.

"By April 15," said Bell, "a lot of people are in for a rude awakening." That's the deadline for filing state and federal income tax returns — and paying the higher federal tax.

Ann Curtis Cuneo's Race With A Seal

ANN'S AWARD—The Sullivan Award bestowed on Sacramento swimmer Debbie Meyer the other day brings to mind Marin resident Ann Curtis Cuneo's similar honor a quarter-century ago.

The James E. Sullivan Award annually goes to the outstanding Amateur Athletic (AAU) athlete ". . . who by performance, example and good influence did the most to advance the cause of good sportsmanship during the year," and Mrs. Cuneo was the first swimmer to win it in 1944. Then a teen-aged star for Coach Charles Sava's famed Crystal Plunge Team of San Francisco, Ann was the sensation of the nation as she set flocks of records and capped a brilliant amateur career by winning two gold medal and one silver at the 1948 Olympic Games in London.

Now the operator of a successful swim club and school in San Rafael, Mrs. Cuneo has many mementoes of her fabulous aqua career, but there is one experience she'd just as soon forget.

She Calls It 'Disgusting'

That happened shortly after she turned professional and toured the country in a series of speed and synchronized swimming exhibitions. Then one day the promoter of the show dreamed up a gimmick that to Ann was "disgusting." She recalls: "I was supposed to race a real live seal. Can you imagine? My mother was mortified; I was appalled."

It as a cheap carnival type stunt comparable to Joe Louis turning to slapstick wrestling following such a distinguished athletic career, but Anny finally relented to her promoter's "brainstorm."

"Naturally," she said, "I couldn't come close to beating the seal in a race, even with the aid of swimfins. It was foolish. One night the seal crossed the tank and came right beside me. When I lifted my head to breathe, there it was, staring me in the face. I was so frightened I nearly jumped right out of the pool. That was all of THAT foolishness; the seal was with us only one week but it was a week too long."

Better Times With Follies

Ann later enjoyed a more dignified pro career when she starred for two years with the Aqua Follies. Not a seal in sight.

JIM SHORTS:

Martin Berzewski, an Air Force champ for several years, has taken over the coaching duties for the Hamilton Field boxing team, succeeding the retired Bill Ross. Berzewski has entered 125-pound Mel Harper and welterweight John Kennedy, defending champs, in the 39th annual Golden Gloves championships Feb. 7-11 and 14 at San Francisco's Winterland Arena.

Word from San Jose State College reports that Mike Hinrichs is a member of the Spartan gymnastics team, specializing in the high bar, and Steve Spurling of San Rafael is a member of the varsity judo squad.

The new Sears Point Raceway in southern Sonoma County had its first casualty the other night: A workshed perched atop a knoll was blown to smithereens during Saturday night's rain and windstorms.

CORLEY STEPS OUT

Lucas Named Athletic Boss At Terra Linda

Don Lucas, eight-year coach at Terra Linda High School, has replaced Bob Corley as athletic director, the school announced yesterday.

The change was effective for the spring semester, which started Monday. Corley will remain as Terra Linda's varisty basketball and junior varsity baseball coach. Corley has been at Terra Linda High six years.

Lucas has coached frosh and junior varsity football in addition to varsity football, and has been head varsity coach the last two years, with Marin County Athletic League co-champion teams both those years.

He also coached varsity baseball six years before switching to freshman baseball when he became head grid coach. He's a graduate of San Francisco State and earned his master's degree at University of Oregon.

New Foe For Folley In Fight Tonight

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Sonny Moore of Dallas has been signed to replace Tommy Fields of Los Angeles in a heavyweight bout with Zora Folley tonight.

Fields told the Nevada State Athletic Commission yesterday he was not able to fight Folley at the Silver Slipper.

49ers Go For Speed In Draft

NEW YORK (UPI)—Everybody knows the San Francisco 49ers can grind out the yardage, but Coach Dick Nolan wants his 1969 team to explode now and then, too.

The Prospectors had two first-round picks yesterday and went for All America tight end Ted Kwalick and East-West game sensation Gene Washington of Stanford, another pass catcher. Washington is a speedster and the 235-pound Kwalick has remarkable speed, too.

They had no second or third round picks but then grabbed both Jim Sniadecki, Indiana linebacker, and Occidental running back Gene Moore, another swiftie, in the fourth round.

San Francisco also chose big tackle Earl Edwards of Wichita State, receiver-running back Jim Thomas of Arlington State, and tackle Steve Van Sinderen of Washington State.

Raiders Get Hefty Linemen

Their first pick yesterday was 240-pound Art Thoms, defensive lineman from Syracuse. Then they picked 255-pound lineman George Buehler of Stanford, fullback-end Lloyd Edwards of San Diego State, and 250-pound defensive tackle Ruby Jackson of New Mexico State.

The Raiders pass rush fell off from 1967 to 1968, largely because tackle Tom Keating was out for the season. Oakland apparently wants to beef the defensive line up again and there is uncertainty if Keating can come back.

Oakland did not have a fifth round pick and then chose running back Ken Newfield of LSU and defensive back Jackie Allen of Baylor.

Second Day Of Grid Draft Gets Under Way

NEW YORK (AP) — The Buffalo Bills, who opened the pro football draft yesterday by selecting famed O. J. Simpson of South California, started the second day of the draft today by picking tackle James Harvey of Virginia Tech.

Harvey was picked in the eighth round by the American Football League Club. The 26 teams of the National Football League and the AFL drafted through seven rounds yesterday. They will complete the draft of fourth year collegians with 10 rounds today.

TARS IN HOME GAME TONIGHT

College of Marin's basketball team will be hosting Canada Junior College of Redwood City in Camino Norte Conference action tonight in Kentfield's gym.

Redwood Cagers Win Key Game

By GARY TISCHLER

Remember that four-way tie for first place in the Marin County Athletic League basketball race?

It is now a two-way tie and by late Friday night it won't be a tie.

The race decongested suddenly yesterday after Redwood High shot down Terra Linda 75-66 in Terra Linda, and ever-dangerous Tamalpais knocked off San Rafael 65-62 in Mill Valley.

In another game, Drake downed winless San Marin 60-42 in San Anselmo.

The key Redwood-Terra Linda tussel, with both teams tied for the lead going into the game, was one of those wondrous shooting matches that are a joy to behold and awful for the losers.

Multi-talented Redwood, matched up even on the boards, turned to blazing speed, the hot hands of John Boro and slippery Jerry Piro to stop the Trojans.

Boro, who had only two points against Drake last week, put on an amazing show, whiffing in 13 fielders, including nine out of 13 in the first half to finish with 26 points.

Piro, twisting and squirming on drives against the slower Trojans, contributed 23 points, while fiery guard Skip Corsini popped in 12 points, including key buckets in Redwood's torrid first half that saw the Giants hold a 46-36 edge.

The Giants, switching from outside shooting to inside driving in the third quarter, increased their bulge to 64-57 at one point and held a 64-52 lead going into the final period.

Then Pat Purcell, Terra Linda's super-star all along, almost single-handed turned the whole game upside down and for six minutes nearly caught up with the Giants.

Purcell shot over and under the tight guarding of Piro and whipped in 10 points in a desperate spurt that brought the Trojans to within five points at 67-62 before two free throws and a basket by soph Bill Challender and a hook off a fast break by Boro put it away for good.

Purcell topped all scorers, finishing with 27 points. But Terra Linda's Mike Timmel, one of the top scorers in league play, was held to a disappointing four points.

Novato High basketballers ran up the highest score in Marin County Athletic League play this season, bopping game but outmatched Marin Catholic, 84-69, in Novato yesterday.

Technically, the Hornets, won it from the free-throw line, as both teams hit 29 fielders.

The Hornets led by 10 points at the half, increased that to 18 with a 31-point barrage in the third period and won going away, despite a 24-point outburst by Marin Catholic ace Mike Murray.

Novato was paced by its scoring duo of Ed Herrnberger and Steve McNally, both of whom bagged 21 points.

Tamalpais Five Wins

Tamalpais High School cagers, who narrowly missed upsetting Novato High last week, didn't miss San Rafael and collared the Bulldogs 65-62 at Mill Valley yesterday.

The Indians made 27 of 34 free throws.

The Indians held a 12-point lead going into the final period and saw it melt and finally disappear as the Bulldogs took a brief 61-60 lead on a pair of free throws by Bill Sleezer. But a free throw barrage won it for Tamalpais.

Football star Don Mackin topped the Indians with 18 points, an output that included 10-for-10 from the free throw line.

Guard Bruce Nave popped in 19 points for San Rafael.

Novatans Retain Mat Title

James E. Kaser, director of professional racing for the Sports Car Club, made the announcement at a luncheon today.

Sterling Moss, famed British driver who is director of the Can-Am program sponsored by Johnson Wax, said, "It will be the most spectacular racing year in our history."

Kaser announced that an 11th race had been added to the program, which opens in June at Mossport Park in Bowmanville, Ont.

Seals To Host Bruins Tonight

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Seals brace for combat with the Boston Bruins at the Coliseum here tonight at 8 o'clock with the question of their future home still in the air.

Clarence S. Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, is due to arrive tonight for a conference with Frank Tatum, San Francisco attorney guiding owners' attempts to sell the franchise.

Campbell is coming from Seattle following talgs about NHL expansion with interested parties there.

Purchase of the Seals by a Buffalo, N.Y. group is in the works but the NHL has taken no action on the deal.

BARRY NOT MUCH HELP

West Stars Defeat East

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — "My knee is fine," says Rick Barry. "It's my body that's in bad shape."

Showing the effects of a month long layoff because of an injury, the Oakland superstar wasn't much help, but his West team still captured the second annual American Basketball Association All-Star Game last night, defeating the East 133-127.

"It's hard to say whether we would have won any bigger with Rick in good shape," said Alex Hannum, Barry's coach and also the coach of the West team.

"At Oakland, we've been winning as well while he was out as when he was playing. And in a single game like this, you never can tell."

The West team didn't shoot well, and couldn't hold on to leads that it built up several times. With 3:30 to play, the West had a 16-point margin, but the East whittled it to three with 59 seconds remaining.

"If we hadn't made that crucial error in front of our bench, we might have pulled it out," said Kentucky's Gene Rhodes, who was pressed into service as the East coach only 12 hours before the game.

Jim Harding of Minnesota was fired as the East coach after he and a Minnesota official had a fight at a party. Harding's fate as the Minnesota coach reportedly hasn't been decided yet.

Rhodes was referring to a pass that Louie Dampier of Kentucky threw out of bounds in the final minute of play, when the difference was three points.

After that, Larry Brown of Oakland hit a free throw and Warren Davis of Los Angeles canned a 15-footer to give the West its final margin.

John Beasley of Dallas was voted the Most Valuable Player. He and Red Robbins of New Orleans shared scoring honors for the West with 19 points each.

Don Freeman of Miami paced the East with 21 points, eight of them in the final surge.

The West victory evened the All-Star series in the ABA at one game for each side. Next year's All-Star Game will be Jan. 27 in Miami Beach.

Kennedy To Manage Senators?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert E. Short, new owner of the Washington Senators, will dismiss the general manager, field manager and farm director of the American League baseball team before the 1969 season, The Washington Post reported last night.

The newspaper, in a story by Sports Editor Shirley Povich in its Wednesday editions, said all three officials would be relieved of their present jobs by the time of spring training.

Jim Lemon's post as manager is being offered to Bob Kennedy, former manager of the Chicago Cubs and the Oakland Athletics, the Post said.

The newspaper said no decision had been made on replacements for George Selkirk, general manager for the past six years, and Hal Keller, the farm director.

Selkirk's contract extends through 1970, and Lemon has another season to go on a two-year contract. Lemon succeeded Gil Hodges a year ago when the former Brooklyn Dodger great took over the helm of the New York Mets.

After Selkirk took over as general manager in 1963, the Senators finished 10th, ninth, eight, eighth, in a tie for sixth and 10th. Last season's 10th place finish was accompanied by a drop of almost 30 per cent in home attendance.

The Post said Short is expected to offer other jobs with the club to both Selkirk and Lemon.

The newspaper story came after Short signed the papers yesterday completing purchase of the team. The $9 million deal gives the Minneapolis businessman control of 100 per cent of

The Post said Kennedy, fired by Oakland owner Charles O. Finley after the 1968 season, was offered the job as manager on Monday.

His 1968 Athletics finished 82-80 and in sixth place, one game out of the first division. The year before, while in Kansas City, the A's were 10th in the league with a 62-99 mark under then Manager Alvin Dark.

San Diego Golfers Hit With Rain, Hail

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Pro Dick Lotz of Hayward, grabbed first place in the opening pro-am event of the Andy Williams San Diego Open Golf Tournament, carding a two-under par 70 in the rain and hail.

The low card yesterday was worth $250 to Lotz, who toured the soft south course at Torrey Pines. Carding 69 to win on the easier, but also par 72 north course were John Jacobs, Bob Boldt and Al Balding.

A driving hailstorm hit the course in the afternoon and several foursomes picked up and came in.

Pros arriving from the Bing Crosby Tournament began play in today's second day of the pro am.

The 72-hole open, with prizes totaling $150,000, starts tomorrow and runs through Sunday on the Torrey Pines course. The winner will pick up $30,000.

Last year's San Diego Open winner, Tom Weiskopf, is in the service and will not be playing.

107-100 OVER ROYALS

Warriors Win 3rd In Row

DETROIT (AP) — The San Francisco Warriors, having ended two years of frustration in Cincinnati, now aim for their fourth straight National Basketball Association victory tonight as they visit the Detroit Pistons.

The Warriors handed Cincinnati their fifth straight drubbing, defeating the Royals 107-100 last night for their first victory in Cincinnati in two years.

The triumph gave San Francisco a 23-28 record and opened the club's third-place Western Division lead over San Diego to 1½ games. The Warriors trail first-place Los Angeles by 11½ games. Detroit, 21-30, is sixth in the East.

San Francisco took the lead for keeps when Jeff Mullins hit a field goal late in the second period to make it 52-50.

The Warriors led by 10 points late in the third quarter.

But with 3:19 left in the game Cincinnati's Jerry Lucas closed the gap to 98-96. But the Royals then missed two shots and clutch baskets by Jim King and Rudy LaRusso put the Warriors out of reach.

LaRusso was high for San Francisco with 39 points, season high for him. Mullins netted 25 points for the victors. Oscar Robertson was Cincinnati's top man with 25 points.

HERB MICHELSON

Cartoonist Could Save Oakland Ice Franchise

OAKLAND — Picture the Oakland Snoopys, the most courageous team in the history of the National Hockey League, men of dreams and vision. Or perhaps the Oakland Lucys, a hard-checking unit of skaters that would nag the opposition into submission and reach the Stanley Cup finals on the basis of sheer nerve.

I am thinking, of course, of Mr. Charles Schulz, who makes the "Peanuts" pictures, and is a Minnesota ice nut in exile and presently has a rink a-building in Santa Rosa.

This is not to say that Mr. Schulz, who attends nearly every Seal game over here, is about to buy the impoverished, stranded, orphaned, black sheep of the family hockey team.

But why not?

THE SEALS are for sale, preferably to local interests. Mr. Schulz is an extremely interesting local intetrest. As a mere spectator—or not so mere—he is attempting to build enthusiasm in the sport through constant plugs in the funny papers. Think of what he could do as an owner.

I have not made this suggestion to Mr. Schulz personally. Although we've passed in the aisles at the Oakland Arena quite frequently, we've never met. He wears to hockey games the kind of woolen reindeer sweaters I as a lad wore to hockey games. I dig that man. And his pictures. No one can convince me that Snoopy does not have a full-scale hockey rink in his never-seen doghouse interior. Mr. Schulz' dreams run that way.

ALL MR. SCHULZ, or anyone around here who wishes to buy the Seals, needs is maybe $3 million right away. That bread would get him a fancy piece of paper called a franchise, a five-year contract (apparently non-cancelable) at the Oakland Arena and a few leftover pucks, sticks and uniforms.

Not much for the money; but a start.

Mr. Schulz, or whoever, could figure on losing at least $1 million a year for the next two or three years — unless his team winds up in the playoffs and advances a couple of rounds. Playoffs, you know, were invented to cancel out losses during the regular season. Ask the men who own basketball teams.

THE PAYROLL for players might reach $400,000 a year. Then there are all those airplane trips and hotel rooms for 37 road games. Plus more than $100,000 for front office types. At least. It even costs money to have tickets printed. But oh what lovely tickets Mr. Schulz could print.

And consider the promotional possibilities. Mr. Schulz and his friends could lure youngsters to the Arena in overpowering numbers. The hockey power elite may be arrogant, but they surely must have room in their hearts for a weak-ankled Charlie Brown.

THE MORE I think about this prospect, the more delicious it seems. Will someone please speak with Mr. Schulz. Or will a potential purchasing syndicate please consult him.

The Oakland Peppermint Pattys? How sweet it is.

Corley Building A Cage Force At Terra Linda

(Sixth in a series on Marin County Athletic League basketball coaches.)

So it may come as a surprise to some people that Terra Linda has a basketball team that is alive and well and winning under the guidance of a soft-spoken San Francisco State grad who considers his coaching job as essentially a teaching position.

"It's basically the same approach," Terra Linda basketball coach Bob Corley says. "Coaching is not a separate thing from teaching. You use classroom principles and conduct yourself the same way. You wouldn't use profanity in the classroom and you wouldn't manhandle anybody.

SAME OBJECTIVE

"You're trying to teach the boy fundamental techniques. You both have the same objective. You try to create rapport as in a teacher-pupil relationship over a prolonged period of time."

Corley, who migrated permanently to California from Peoria, Ill., after getting his degree from San Francisco State, is in his sixth year of coaching at Terra Linda, his third as varsity coach. And he has always wanted to be a coach.

"I had an idea I wanted to coach when I was playing high school ball," he said. "I knew what I wanted early."

Corley, who recently resigned as Terra Linda athletic director because of conflicting duties, feels that the school's proud football tradition helps the rest of the athletic program.

"Football sort of sets the tone," he said. "And we don't have any intra-sport rivalry. We'll have a boy like Jack Mansur (all-league defensive end) who brings a winning tradition and spirit with him to the basketball team."

Corley thinks a coach should leave himself open for any boy who has problems but neither does he want to become one of the boys.

"There should be a certain amount of separation between the player and the coach," he said. "I don't want them to start calling me Bob, or things like that."

Still, Corley takes his players to San Francisco Warrior games and baseball games. He may have occasion to treat them to a feast, depending on the outcome of the league race. For the first time in his years as varsity coach, he has a reasonable facsimile of a loaded squad.

'GREAT BUNCH'

"They're a great bunch of kids," Corley says. "They work well together, on and off the court."

The Trojans on a basketball court rarely get carried away in the heat of anger. Neither does their coach. Corley hasn't had a technical called on him in almost two years.

"You sort of keep it inside," he said. "I've officiated a little and you learn some humility that way."

He may not need humility this year if the Trojans go all the way.

Worldwide Trip In A Sailboat

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The first fiberglass sailboat to circumnavigate the globe has completed its voyage but skipper Alan Eddy of Scarsdale, N.Y., feels the trip won't be complete until he returns here in December.

Eddy sailed his 30 foot ketch Apogee from Catskill, N.Y., in 1965 and recently crossed his track in the West Indies. In three years Eddy fulfilled his desire to see as much of the world as possible.

He visited over 400 anchorages and traveled 36,000 miles. He was under sail for a full year of the trip. His passage was single handed until he reached Africa where he took on a mate to finish the last leg of the Atlantic crossing.

Australians Want Open Davis Cup

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — The Australian Lawn Tennis Association wants the Davis Cup open to professionals but doubts if the international body will grant its wish.

The association's annual conference today adopted a recommendation from last month's four-nation tennis summit in Adelaide to press immediately for open Cup matches.

The vote on allowing professionals to play in the Cup probably will be debated at the annual conference of the Davis Cup nations in London in June.

Novato Teen Sets Pace In Bowling

Terry De Young, one of Marin County's top bowlers, has averaged 211 in 30 games at five different bowling houses to lead qualifiers in the Bay Area Bowling Propietors Association all-star eliminations.

De Young, 19, has totaled 6,349 pins — with a high game of 278 — while bowling in Concord, San Jose, El Cerrito, Albany and South San Francisco.

The Novatan now has to bowl 16 games at Sunnyvale Bowl and another 16 games at Castle Lanes in San Francisco Saturday and Sunday.

Dick Treadway of Corte Madera, secretary of the Marin County Men's Bowling Association, also qualified for this weekend's Bay Area finals.

Top three finalists after this weekend's action will qualify for the national finals later this year in Hialeah, Fla.

Girl Allowed To Ride, Wins Against Men

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — Barbara Jo Rubin has created more interest as a rider than any woman who has climbed aboard a horse since Lady Godiva by winning her first professional race at Hobby Horse Hall Track.

Breaking from the number two position in the five-furlong sprint yesterday, Barbara Jo rode low on Fly Away, in contrast to the high riding style of the Bahamian jockeys.

The 109-pound, 19-year-old exercise girl-turned jockey won by three lengths against the men. Fly Away, a heavily favored sorrel quarter horse, paid $2.90, $2.45 and $2.20.

Barbara Jo had to make her racing debut in the Bahamas after male jockeys boycotted the races she tried to enter at Miami's Tropical Park.

Marin Grid Stars Headed For Montana

Karl Stein and Bill Hickerson, two former Drake High School and College of Marin football greats, are becoming inseperable.

Stein and Hickerson signed letters of intent to the University of Montana in Missoula, Mont., UM football coach Wally Grown and recruiting representative John Hodgen of Novato announced yesterday.

Hickerson and Stein were both All-Marin County Athletic League gridders on Drake's 1966 championship squad, then went on to College of Marin to serve as all-leaguers in two different conferences and on two championship teams under coach Dick Read.

TITLE TEAMS

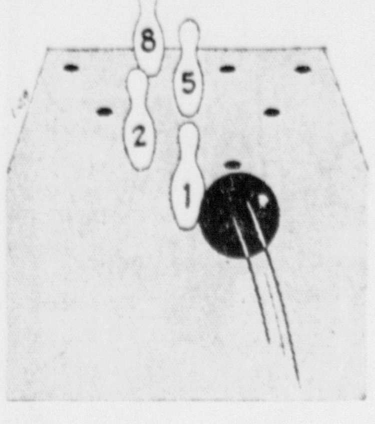
Stein, as a defensive halfback, and Hickerson, as a linebacker, took all-league honors in the Golden Valley Conference in 1967 and the Camino Norte Conference this past season. In both years, the Tars won or shared a title.

Brown said that Stein would be used as a kickoff return and punt return specialist as well as defenseive back while Hickerson would remain at linebacker.

The pair will take some winning touches to UM, which had a 7-3 record last season, playing in the Big Sky Conference.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



To convert the 1-2-5-8 into a spare, throw your strike ball. The 5-pin usually is the most troublesome in this set-up and a fairly good "pocket hit" is needed to bring it down along with the others.

How Marin Nurses Learned The Horse Racing Business

By GARY TISCHLER

This is a story about two nurses and a horse.

The nurses are Mrs. Dorothy Biondo and Mrs. Sally Freitas, who ply their trade at Marin General Hospital. The horse is a sweet little thing named Honey Bon Bon.

Mrs. Freitas and her husband, Gil Freitas of the San Rafael Police Department, acquired the horse at Bay Meadows' season-end sale of horses in November of 1967, when Honey Bon Bon was a yearling.

Since then, she and Mrs. Biondo have acquired something of an insight into the intricate workings of the racing world, even if they haven't come up with a winner — yet.

EASY PART

One of the things they learned is that getting a horse is the easiest part. You don't just simply slap on a saddle, dump Eddie Arcaro on top and yell "Hiyo Silver" or "Hiyo Honey Bon Bon," as the case may be.

The horse became a two-year old last January. She was put in training in Pleasanton. Then came reams of red tape, such as getting her licensed, picking and verifying jockey colors, getting a jockey.

Honey at least showed promise.

"Her workouts were fabulous," Mrs. Freitas said.

Mrs. Freitas and Mrs. Biondo co-financed the horse, but all was not roses. Their first choice of trainer was not exactly the best, simply because they didn't know who to get.

"She started looking awful," she said. "So we asked advice from one of the stewards. We finally got Eddie Baneza, an ex-jockey. He was impressed with her. He's done beautifully with her."

Finally, two-year-old Honey Bon Bon started racing, against not-so-good odds.

Being a two-year-old makes it tough to get into a race. Her first race was against a field of horses who were all previous winners. Honey Bon Bon finished last.

The second time, at Bay Meadows, she finished seventh, then fifth at Pleasanton, and that is the extent of her racing experience, for now.

Most of the doctors, and quite a few of the patients, became interested in the two nurses with the horse. Some of the doctors even put a little money on her, and lost, naturally enough.

PATIENTS KNOW

"It's amazing," Mrs. Freitas said. "All of the patients seem to know about her, are interested in her and ask about her."

Now, Honey Bon Bon is a three-year-old. Mrs. Freitas has sold her part of Honey Bon Bon to Mrs. Biondo. And Honey Bon Bon, with something of a bright future, is in pasture in Santa Rosa.

"Once she wins her first race, her maiden, she'll be all right," Mrs. Freitas said. "She can do it."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

After Bid Of Two Clubs Show Your Partner Both Major Suits

When you use two clubs as your only opening force to game, the first round of bidding is usually wasted. You bid two clubs, and your partner makes the negative response of two diamonds. Then you start with your real suit, and the bidding proceeds as though you had opened with a normal forcing two-bid.

HEART BID

The average player would open the South hand with two spades. North would make the weakness response of two notrump, and South would bid three hearts. North would raise to four hearts, and South would wonder whether to bid again.

South has less of a problem after his opening bid of two clubs. North makes the negative response of two diamonds and then makes another negative response to two spades. Even though North can eventually raise hearts, South is convinced that slam is a bad gamble.

The dummy is better than expected, and South is sorry he stopped at game, but he must play the hand very carefully to make even 10 tricks. West opens the deuce of clubs, and dummy's ten forces the ace. South ruffs and makes a key play.

UNUSUAL PLAY

To be safe against even the worst break South must lead a low spade. West wins and leads the king of clubs. South's best play is to discard his low diamond (which he is bound to lose sooner of later).

West continues with a club to the queen, and South discards a spade. South gets to his hand with the ace of diamonds to ruff a spade with the ten, leads a trump to the nine and ruffs another spade with the jack.

DRAWS TRUMP

He then draws the last three trumps and claims the contract with the two top spades.

South would have made his contract even if he had ruffed the king of clubs, but he would have gone down if he had led the ace or king of spades at the second trick.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with two clubs (artifical, and forcing to game), and the next player passes.

You hold:

♠ Q J 10 8 6 2
♥ None
♦ K J 6
♣ K J 7 2

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades.

You can well afford a positive response even though you suspect partner has a long, powerful heart suit as the basis of his force to game.

Today is Wednesday, Jan. 29, the 29th day of 1969 with 336 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Jupiter and Mercury. The evening stars are Saturn and Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1861 Kansas entered the Union as the 34th state.

In 1900 the American Baseball League was founded.

In 1964 the United States launched an unmanned Saturn rocket which crashed on the moon four days later.

A thought for the day: After the fall of France to Germany, Charles de Gaulle said, "France has lost a battle, but France has not lost the war."

COMPUTER AIDS AIR SURVEYS

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

A Speculative Portfolio Can Benefit By Upgrading

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am 60, retired on $400 monthly, with no children and $22,000 savings at 4 per cent. My stocks are Sherritt Gordon Mining, American Motors, First National Uranium Mines, International Rectifier and Otis Elevator. What do you recommend? — H.H.

A. Certain holdings are too speculative for your circumstances.

I'd keep the mining shares for the long term since only a limited amount of capital is involved. Sherritt has licensed its unique extracting process, which should eventually reap substantial profits. Hold Otis for income and gradual growth. International Rectifier reported a profit in the latest quarter and could work higher. Sell on recovery. Also sell American Motors.

Reinvestment in Iowa Public Service should work out well as its service area has experienced above-average industrial development in recent years. Its annual dividend increases are also attractive.

I'd take $10,000 of savings to purchase AA-rated American Telephone 6's of 2000, selling to yield 6.5 per cent and transfer the remaining $12,000 to a savings bank paying higher interest rates.

Q. For those interested in speculation, please comment on Eberline Instrument. I'm also interested in Spacerays. — R. J.

A. If you're bent on longer-term speculating and can afford the risk, my choice is Eberline.

Spacerays is revamping its corporate structure, planning a new product line and changing its name to Optical Controls, Inc., directed by a laser specialist and an expert marketer of sophisticate scientific devices. I would wait on this one until the new management comes up with some meaningful sales and earnings.

Wall Street Still Wary; Prices Mixed

Armour, a strong gainer, paced the most-active list.

Ling-Temco-Vought also rallied after a report that it expected higher profits this year.

Prices near the close included:

Armour, up 2 67; Ling-Temco-Vought, up 2J at 86; Glen Alden, up ⅛ at 19¼; Loew's Theatres, off 1½ at 52; American Telephone, 1⅜ at 54⅝; and Occidental Petroleum, off 1 at 46½.

Prices were irregularly higher on the American Stock Exchange. AMK Corp. warrants (when-issued) gained a fraction as they paced the list on volume. Warner Brothers-Seven Arts rose 2 while Kin-Ark Oil, Canadian Homestead, Banff Oil, Christiana Oil and Ling-Temco-Vought warrants advanced a point or better.

Court Rejects Plans To Merge Shipping Firms

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A plan to merge American President Lines, Pacific Far East Line and American Mail Line has been terminated as a result of a court decision. Ralph K. Davies, chairman of Natomas Co., which controls the three shipping companies, announced last week.

Davies said the companies will remain separate entities but will carry out a program of joint operating activities under a "coordinated agreement" which has received government approval.

On Dec. 18, 1968, the Federal Court of appeals for the Ninth Circuit held that the Federal Maritime Commission's approval of the merger plan was invalid because the plans of the companies had not been sufficiently specific. It remanded the case to the commission for further proceedings.

Davies said the three companies will achieve maximum efficiencies under terms of the "coordinated agreement." He said these activities will be principally in the field of operations and will be carried out by Consolidated Marine, Inc., a corporation jointly owned by the three companies.

INCOME TAX FACTS

Piggy Back Label Important To Prevent Report Mixups

Wikel

Just because you receive a notice from the IRS that you didn't file a return, or that your returns are delinquent, or some other notice, doesn't necessarily mean that the IRS is correct.

They make mistakes too.

One of which, about the end of June, was the mailing of a delinquency investigation record to a great many partnerships who had filed partnership returns for 1967, but for some reason the IRS record was not up to date.

Subsequently, the IRS mailed a letter of apoligy to the affected taxpayers, but many of them had already been put to considerable expense and trouble to reply to the false accusation.

'PIGGY BACK'

Generally we can eliminate our names from delinquency lists by using the "piggy back" label.

A "piggy back" label looks just like any other address label except that there are two copies, one on top of the other. When your return is completed, you should remove the top label from the forms sent you by the IRS (it peels off real easy) and stick it on the tax return you are sending in.

We are numbers although our last name is still important. That is, the first four letters are important. The IRS punches into the machine all nine digits of your Social Security number plus all of your name and address.

However, the machines only use the Social Security number plus the first four letters of your surname for identification purposes. If you use the piggy back label which the IRS sent you with your blank income tax return forms for 1969, the information will match perfectly and this should speed up handling and eliminate you from any delinquency list.

Be sure to list your complete address and Social Security number if you cannot use the piggy back label.

Put first names of dependent children living with you on page 1.

Attach copy B of wage forms W-2 to the face of page 1 where indicated.

Write or print legibly, or type.

SHOW NAME

Show your name, address and Social Security number exactly as it appears on page 1 on all schedules accompanying the return.

All applicable items of income, tax computation and deductions should be filled in on the return form and schedules.

If you use attachments to supplement information on the official forms, put the totals on the proper lines on Form 1040.

SIGN RETURN

Be sure to sign your return. If you file a joint return, both huband and wife must sign, even if only one of you had income.

A few extra minutes spent checking your tax return before you send it in could save you hours of explaining later in the year.

The most important income tax return today at the processing center is the income tax return with a refund due the taxpayer. These are given high priority and every effort is made to get that refund into your hands right away.

FedMart Dividends

SAN DIEGO (BW) — The FedMart Corp. has increased the company's annual dividend to 40 cents a share from 25 cents a share, and voted a 2 per cent stock dividend for the 10th consecutive year, payable March 15 to shareholders of record Feb. 15.

Big Apartment Unit Draws Some Concern

A high concentration of single adults in an apartment development might be bad for the Sausalito School District, school board members speculated last night.

Board members told Lawrence G. Throngard, representative of R. and B Development Co., they feared his 548-unit apartment project might bring in people who had no feeling for supporting the school district, and whose presence might keep families from moving into the area. The development would also raise land prices, further precluding families moving in, they said.

From the audience, Mrs. Charles Lester said members of the Sausalito Parents Club feared the development might create another "island" community to go along with Sausalito's four present groups — Marin City, the Army forts, the "hill people" and the waterfront.

Throngard and Richard L. Whitaker, city planning commissioner, explained the current status of R and B's plans, slowed by planning commission denial last week of a variance and ordinance amendment. The company will appeal to the city council.

The Sausalito School District board also:

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Ethel Thalmer, special reading teacher at Bayside School, because of illness.

HIRING — Hired Mary Ann Greycloud as district nurse at $8,820 a year and Catherine Johnson as a teacher's aide at Manzanita School at $2.40 an hour.

PRESENTATION — Heard a presentation by teachers of the seventh and eighth grade programs at Martin Luther King School. Teachers said they will submit a request at the Feb. 3 meeting for an additional $4,000 to maintain extra indiviualized attention in the social studies program.

SAN FRANCISCO STATE — Renewed the annual agreement for student teaching with San Francisco State College.

NDEA — Learned that $2,090 in federal money has been approved for social science and science programs under the National Defense Education Act, to be matched by district funds.

Medicare Signups Due By April 1

Elderly persons have until April 1 to sign up for doctor bill insurance under Medicare, the San Rafael Social Security office said today.

This will be the last chance for persons born before Oct. 1, 1901, or those enrolled in the program earlier who dropped out. The doctor bill insurance is a supplement to basic hospital insurance.

Road Funds Revision Try Dropped

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Proposed legislation that would have denied Northern California some $40 million a year in highway funds was dropped yesterday by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael. (Other Sacramento stories, page 7.)

"I was trying for some peace and harmony between Northern and Southern California," McCarthy told the Independent-Journal, "but I can't get support for it."

He added that he would not try again to introduce such a measure. "Let some Southern Californian carry it," he said.

McCarthy's proposal, which never was introduced formally, would have changed Southern California's share of highway funds from 55 to 60 per cent.

Northern California long has resisted such a change in the sharing of the funds, which will reach almost $800 million this coming fiscal year. But the north's opposition is weaker each legislative session as the number of Southern California representatives increases.

About 60 per cent of the population of the state lives in the 13 southern counties, and about 56 per cent of the mileage in state highways is in the northern 45 counties.

The present formula has been in effect since the 1930s, when it was changed from a 50-50 formula.

Eskimos of eastern Greenland recognize a family of winds. Nekrayak, the father, blows from the northeast; wife Pittarak fancies the northwest; son Kadannek prefers the southeast, and daughter Pouwanguartek springs from the southwest.

Beef Bourguignonne Brings Best Flavor From Less Costly Meats

French chefs are known for their skill in turning less tender, less costly beef into culinary masterpieces. By adopting their techniques, you too, can gain a reputation as a wise shopper and good cook.

Hearty and elegant, Beef Bourguignonne is made with economical beef round or chuck. Long, slow cooking with a bit of burgundy wine makes the meat deliciously tender and develops the fine full beef flavor.

This is a great secret of the French. They know that less tender beef often has the best flavor. It can be the most desirable of all meats when cooked properly — for a long time, at low temperatures, and with some liquid.

The Burgundy in Beef Bourguignonne is the liquid that helps to make the beef tender, and it contributes distinctive flavor as well.

A dinner of Beef Bourguignonne may be simple or elegant. Here, it is shown served with rice in a pretty warmer, topped with tiny onions and sauteed mushroom slices. Hot popovers or brioche are a delicious accompaniment, along with tiny peas and a salad.

The clever cook, who enjoys compliments on her expertise in food shopping as well as compliments on dinner, will find a favorite in Beef Bourguignonne.

BEEF BOURGUIGNONNE

½ cup flour
2½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 pounds boneless beef chuck or round, cut into 1½ inch cubes
4 slices bacon, cut in 1-inch lengths
1 cup thinly sliced onion
½ cup thinly sliced carrot
1 clove garlic, minced
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 cup burgundy (or beef bouillon)
¼ teaspoon leaf thyme
¼ teaspoon leaf marjoram
1 beef bouillon cube
½ cup hot water
8 small whole onions
½ pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
6 servings hot cooked seasoned rice

Combine flour, salt and pepper; mix. Coat beef cubes well with flour mixture. Save leftover flour. Pan fry bacon in heavy skillet over moderate heat until crisp and lightly browned. Transfer bacon to large chicken fryer or Dutch oven with heatproof handle. Add onion, carrot and garlic to drippings; cook slowly until vegetables are tender, stirring often. Add drained vegetables to Dutch oven.

Add butter or margarine to bacon drippings; add meat cubes; brown over moderate heat, turning pieces as needed to brown evenly on all sides. Add meat to Dutch oven. Combine burgundy, spices and remaining flour mixture; mix and pour over beef. Add bouillon cube and water. Cover; cook over very low heat or in a slow oven (300° F.) until meat is fork tender, 2 to 2½ hours. Add small onions and mushrooms. Cover; cook just until vegetables are tender. Spoon mixture onto serving dish over a bed of hot rice. Yield: 6 servings.

Try A Little Soul Food On The Family Dinner Table

NEW YORK (UPI)—Soul food, like soul music, came out of Southern slave quarters and has gone everywhere the American Negro has gone.

Whites in all parts of the United States who have long dug the music are now digging into the food which leans to things fried and boiled. It has long been a tradition with white Southerners as well as Negroes.

Scores of soul restaurants catering to whites have sprung up in the North, their juke boxes inevitably loaded with mournful soul records. Truck drivers and longshoremen rub elbows with secretaries and the jet set over helpings of collard greens and hamhocks, black-eyed peas and hog jowls, barbecued ribs, candied yams, fried okra, corn bread and those crepes suzettes of soul gourmets, chitterlings.

Sweet potato pie is a favorite dessert.

Negro soldiers who served and settled overseas have opened soul food emporiums. Bangkok, Thailand, has two.

IN THE BROADEST definition soul food is anything cooked by people with "soul," or by the American Negro. Since black slaves or servants cooked most of the food in the South at one time, some authorities consider all traditional Southern cooking as soul.

A more basic definition of what has come to be known as soul food is the food the slave, and later the free black man and his former masters, prepared from the cheap meats and garden grown vegetables available to him.

Many soul dishes are fried or barbecued because this was the chief or only method of cooking. The dishes include foods, particulary pork parts, that often were discarded. These included pig intestines, (better known as chitterlings and pronounced "chitlins" by blacks and whites), fat back, hogs head, pigs feet and tripe.

These dishes were not meant to be delicacies, but a staple diet for a man putting in 12 hours of work. The poor meat parts were supplemented with fresh vegetables, often greens, and starchy foods —sweet potatoes, rice, noodles and dumplings. Corn breads also were important and such variants as hoecakes often served as an entire meal for the field hand.

These foods, some of which had poor flavors, were highly seasoned with salt, black and red peppers, chili, garlic and other spices.

Because of the nature of the food used, some dishes required much hard work and long hours to prepare. Chitlins, for instance, must be cleaned thoroughly, have the intestinal lining removed, then are boiled for four hours and sauteed or deep fat fried.

Soul possum requires an overnight soaking in cold, seasoned water, then a lengthy boiling and finally baking.

As the Negro improved himself economically, he was able to improve the quality of the food he bought. But he usually retained traditional dishes like fatback, hog jowls and chitlins. "These meals are still popular due to the 'soul' factor," says Inez Yeargan Kaiser, a Negro home economist and columnist who has collected a book of soul recipes, "Soul Food Cookery." "Here is an undeniable connective line, an emotional feeling and sentiment."

Angus Cooper, proprietor of the West Boon Dock of Manhattan's 10th Avenue, an "in" soul food restaurant, serves chopped sirloin and calls it soul because of the gravy and seasoning.

"We put on the gravy and that makes the difference," says the 32-year-old Cooper, who was born in Oxford, N.C. Most of the West Boon Dock's recipes came from Cooper's mother or his partner, Victor Gaston, originally from Wilson, N.C.

Two traditional Soul Food recipes:

CHITLINS SERVES SIX

Take 10 pounds of chitterlings, clean carefully in warm water, removing all the lining and leaving a bit of fat for flavoring. Cover in a pot with cold water, adding 1 onion, 1 cup vinegar, 1 small potato (to absorb odor, not to eat), 2 teaspoons crushed red pepper, salt, a clove of garlic and a teaspoon of dried parsley. Cover and cook for four hours or until well done.

Drain off liquid, leaving a little in the pot. Remove chitlins and cut into small pieces. Add black pepper and put back in pot with 2 tablespoons of vinegar. Simmer gentle for 20 minutes.

Or saute gently with 1 tablespoon of vinegar in bacon drippings until most of the liquid is cooked away.

Or dip pieces in beaten egg and cracker crumbs, and fry in deep fat until golden brown.—from Tuesday Magazine.

SWEET POTATO PIE

Ingredients: a 9-inch pie crust, 4 tablespoons margarine, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup sugar, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 cup top milk, 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind, 3 eggs, separated, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, 3 large sweet potatoes, cooked and mashed through a sieve.

Cream the margarine until soft; add salt and sugar and cream until sugar is blended and then add lemon juice and rind; add beaten egg yolks, cinnamon and sieved potatoes and milk. Mix thoroughly. Fold in stiffly beaten eggs whites and pour into the pie crust. Bake in hot oven 10 minutes then lower temperature to moderate and bake another 40 minutes or until knife inserted in center comes out clear.

From Eden To Pie, Apple Has A Past

Apples have a fabled past, from the Garden of Eden to William Tell, whose crossbow performed a lifesaving feat by expertly darting through an apple perched atop his son's head. Isaac Newton's law of gravity allegedly stemmed from the crowning of an apple as he sat under a tree.

With varieties for all seasons, now through spring is a high volume time for apples. Washington, New York, Michigan, Virginia, California, Pennsylvania and 29 other states turn out these juicy rounds that Johnny Appleseed had the foresight to plant in this country long, long ago.

Apples are happiest in a cold, dry area where they may be stored for some time. When buying, select those free from bruises with a complexion fitting their type.

"American as Apple Pie" is a popular cliche and our recipes are all-American beauties. Fresh Apple Cheese Pie has a Cheddar crust and the gentle bite of lemon and spices. Strips of the pastry pattern an attractive lattice look over the apple mixture. Serve the pie warm or cold.

Glazed Apple Pie is a duet of apples and cream cheese. This delicacy comes to the table chilled.

FRESH APPLE CHEESE PIE

1⅔ cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup grated Cheddar cheese
½ cup shortening
4-6 tablespoons cold water
2 pounds apples, pared, cored and sliced (6-7 cups)
2 teaspoons fresh lemon juice
⅔ cup sugar
2 tablespoons tapioca
½ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon salt

Sift flour and salt into bowl; mix in cheese. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse corn meal. Sprinkle water over flour-cheese mixture; mix gently. Form into a ball and chill 1 hour. Roll out ⅔ pastry into 13-inch circle; loosely fit into 9-inch pie plate. Combine apples, lemon juice, sugar, tapioca, cinnamon and salt; place into pastry shell. Roll remaining pastry into 6x12-inch rectangle; cut into 8 strips. Weave strips over filling to make a lattice top. Seal edges to pastry shell. Flute edge of pastry shell. Bake in 400°F. 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 375° F. Bake about 30 minutes longer or until apples are tender and pastry is lightly browned. Makes 1 9-inch pie.

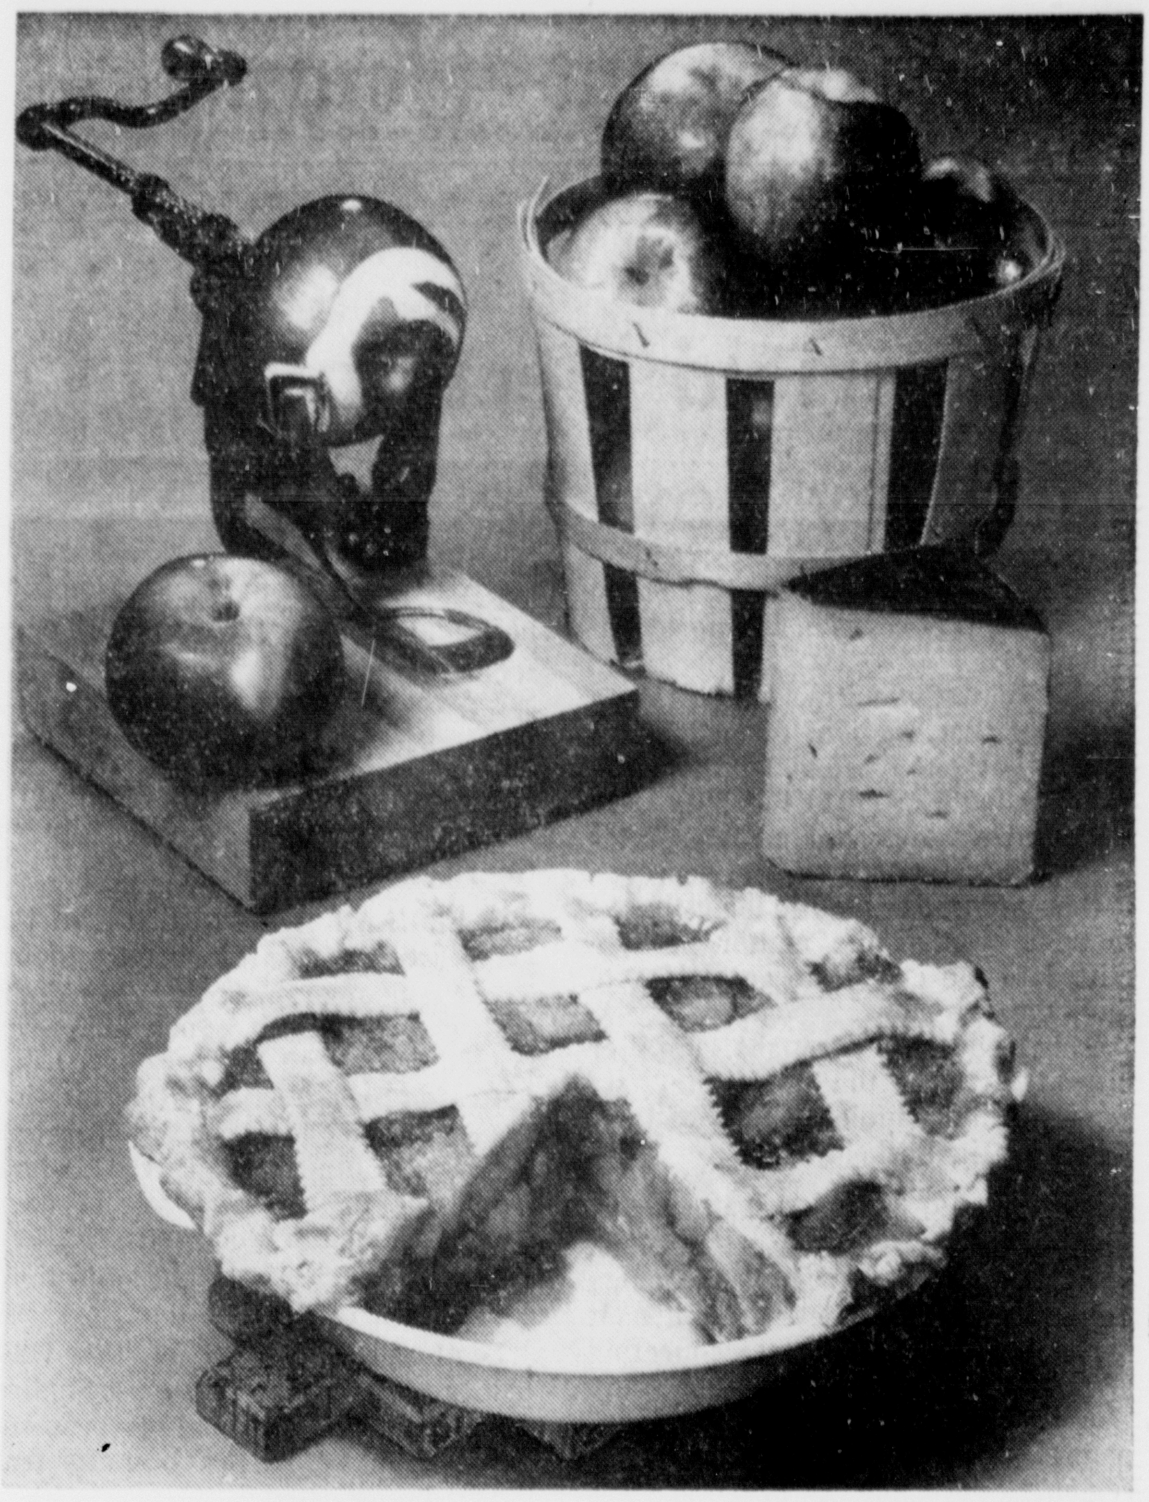
GLAZED APPLE CHEESE PIE

2 packages (3-ounces each) cream cheese, softened
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
Baked 9-inch pastry shell
⅔ cup water
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
½ cup sugar
1½ pounds apples
1 tablespoon cornstarch
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
1 tablespoon water

Combine cheese, 2 tablespoons sugar and lemond rind; spread evenly over bottom of pastry shell. Chill. Combine ⅔ cup water, lemond juice and ½ cup sugar in skillet; simmer 1 minute. Meanwhile, peel, core and cut each apple into 8 wedges. Place in syrup; simmer, covered, 2 minutes. Uncover and simmer until tender, basting frequently. Arrange apple slices over cheese layer. Combine cornstarch, nutmeg and 1 tablespoon water; stir into apple syrup. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and reaches boiling point. Carefully pour syrup over apples. Chill at least 2 hours before serving. Makes 1 9-inch pie.

Dinner Vegetable

Canned Blue Lake variety green bean can make a wonderful "family-dinner" vegetable. Turn drained beans into large baking dish (use 2 or 3 cans if your family is a big one), mix in a little catsup, Worcestershire and chopped onion and top with crushed cheese crackers that have been well moistened with melted butter. Heat uncovered in the oven.



WHO CAN RESIST juicy home baked apple pie? Cheddar cheese pastry adds a complementary flavor note.

Crab Legs Saute A Tasty Dish

4 tablespoons butter
1 clove chopped garlic
1 shallot, chopped
2 tablespoons chopped green onions
¼ pound sliced mushrooms
1½ pounds crab legs
Pinch white pepper
2 ounces sherry wine
½ pint brown sauce

Saute in butter mushrooms, garlic, onions, and shallot until tender, about five minutes. Add and continue to saute crab legs, white pepper, and sherry wine. Reduce sherry until almost dry, add brown sauce, and simmer until hot and mixed. Serves six.

Some Hold Electorate In Very Low Regard

The democratic process is held in low regard these days in certain education circles.

The Joint Committee on Bay Area Regional Organization, formed to explore what sort of regional authority, if any, should come to the Bay Area, proposed a rather limited form after long deliberation and several hearings. It then proposed — quite logically, we thought — that the matter be submitted to the electorate as a referendum measure.

This, however, brought a bitter dissent from the Institute of Governmental Studies at University of California in Berkeley.

TWO PROFESSORS at the institute, Stanley Scott and Harriet Nathan, prepared a 13-page argument against any referendum. They presented it without success at last week's meeting of the Bay Area Transportation Study Commission, and no doubt will bring it before other bodies to which the regional government proposal was submitted.

A public plebiscite on the issue, declare these two political scientists, "would be ill-advised, undemocratic, prohibitively expensive, time-consuming, and an abdication of legislative responsibility." Further, it would make "a hazardous and unwarranted breach in the Bay Area's methodical, step-by-step and evolutionary process of organization for regional problems."

HOW COULD A REFERENDUM be undemocratic? According to Scott and Nathan, "The outcomes of referenda can be powerfully influenced by well-financed special-interest groups.'' And, "Opinion molding for referenda tends to be accomplished . . . by emotional appeals and scare tactics."

We will grant that these are dangers in a referendum. But we suggest that it is easier for well-financed special interest groups to buy a few political scientists or study group members than it is for them to buy the whole electorate. And we will suggest also that political scientists are not immune to emotional appeals or scare tactics.

Why, really, do these two professors oppose a referendum on a subtle but basic change in our governmental setup? We suspect the real reason is to be found on page 12 of their 13-page report, where they write: "If the referendum were held, and the proposal met defeat, the failure would leave a cloud over any further efforts to solve regional problems, with or without referenda."

A SIMILAR ABHORRENCE of the democratic process has been evidenced by members of the Tamalpais District Teachers Association, who argued before the Marin County Committee on School District Organization against an election on any unification plan for other than the whole Tamalpais district and all its component elementary districts.

Stripped of rhetoric, the objections come down to this:

Scott and Nathan of the U.C. Institute of Government Studies don't want the regional government proposal put before the voters for fear it will be defeated.

The Tamalpais District Teachers Association does not want any new unification plan put before the voters for fear it will pass.

Commodore William Vanderbilt expressed the same attitude more plainly and in far fewer words. He said: "The public be damned!"

Some Reasons

Since this is the season for taking inventories, we thought we'd make a listing of some of the reasons we like living in Marin. When we were finished, we found that the reasons fell into four rough catagories: Mild climate, easy access to San Francisco, plant life, animal life.

The last aspect appealed to us particularly. Marin is one of the few counties in the U.S. where the deer can eat your roses, you can be sprayed by a skunk, you can feed a raccoon, and quarrel with a jay and feed the quail — all in the course of a fairly normal day.

We can do without some of these things, especially the skunk bit, but in the long run they add up to interesting living.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Assemblyman Would Muzzle Challengers For His Office

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — A most peculiar bill, designed to disprove the old saying that "all's fair in love, war and election campaigns," has been given the Assembly by Leroy F. Greene, D-Sacramento.

This is AB 50, which the Sacramento assemblyman presented after a hard-fought and bitter campaing last fall, in which he emerged victor over the Republican candidate, Maynard Nelson.

Usually, politicians let well enough alone when they come out on the winning side, and the rules of the game are that "all is forgotten" once the votes are counted.

BUT NOT SO Greene, who has come up with the measure which would, in effect, preclude a challenger for a legislative seat from even quoting the record of the incumbent — which is a matter of public record anyhow in Senate and Assembly journals — without first presenting what the challenger has to say about the incumbent legislator.

Under the proposal, copies of all statements or campaign literature "mentioning or reflecting on voting record or official actions of an incumbent or former public" would have to be submitted before being issued.

And if the incumbent happened not to like the statement, he could call for a five-man arbitration board to "investiage and report" on violations. Further, if the arbitration board ruled in favor of the incumbent, he could collect the costs of the investigation.

This is something like requiring a business firm to submit an advance copy of its advertising program to a competitor, who could then use it to wipe out competition, or perhaps requiring a newspaper to submit copies of its exclusive stories to its opposition.

TO VOTING records of all legislators are matters of public record. If the legislator can't explain his vote in open debate, or through the press, why should he be allowed to prevent his competitor from making statements which can be backed by Senate or Assembly journals?

Misrepresentation is something else again, but here the incumbent is protected by libel and slander laws already on the statue books.

If the incumbent feels he is misquoted or "reflected upon" by his competition, he has the privilege of filing a libel or slander suit the same as any other citizen. There seems to be no reason why incumbent legisaltors should be protected by special laws, drawn for their own benefit and passed by themselves.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Lack Of Finances Plagues Museum

I read with regret David Cavagnaro's comments regarding his resignation as education director of the Louise Boyd Natural Science Museum. Unfortunately, neither he nor the other departed staff member pointed out the financial condition under which the museum struggles.

While the community enthusiastically participates in the educational classes and uses the museum's facilities, the public does not contribute enough financially to keep the wolf from the door. The museum cannot compete, salary-wise, with the other museums. I can understand the woes of the staff. However, as a volunteer and member of the board of trustees, I have seen a great improvement in the general operating procedures during the past year. There has been a period of rapid growth and in order to finance such growth more public money is needed along with grants in aid. The museum's greatest beneficiary will be you of the community. The museum needs the financial support of the community more than ever before.

Studies, Studies —And Greyhound

I have been reading once again about the Marin transit farce. We are now told that we are going to get a new bus service; however, they (supervisors) will have some more studying to do first.

It's beyond human comprehension and understanding how a supposedly intelligent community (Marin County) has stood for the rape of the treasury in this matter and still is apathetic toward the issue. In the last 15 years, Marin County has seen millions spent on transit surveys and studies. The results always end up in the wastepaper basket and the officials go out and spend a few more million for the same studies.

. The Marin Transit Board, the ABAG development, Bay Area Transit Study, the San Francisco Transit Study Commission, etc., etc., etc., etc. These are just a few of the "farce groups." What do we have after our millions of dollars of expenditures? We have Greyhound, whose fares have risen 500 per cent in five years, who give us the world's worst servive and could care less. In 1941, before the NWP was abandoned, it took no longer than 50 minutes to San Francisco by any route. Today by Greyhound you are lucky to reach San Francisco in one hour and 40 minutes.

I say this is a disgrace and the people of Marin should keep replacing supervisors until we get results and action now — not 50 years from now. Marin has always excelled in being archaic and out of the times. Its transportation system belongs in the stone age.

Private Enterprise Does It Better

A call to the PG&E this month about a suddenly higher gas bill brought an immediate visitor to our house from the company. In the midst of driving rain and ankle-deep mud he conducted an inspection which disclosed a leak under our home.

As the rainstorm continued, a crew of men arrived who labored through the evening in darkness and deep water to make repairs. They were notable not only for their promptness and industry but for their courtesy.

We were forcefully reminded of the recent perorations of William Bennett, Governor Brown's state utilities commission chief whose tenure extended into the Reagan administration and was promptly replaced the moment his time expired. A devotee of government ownership, Bennett apparently spent his time in office and his political power to fight these private companies which serve us—to our mind, something of a misuse of a public utilities commissioners' position.

We wonder about the outcome of our situation had we been forced to rely on an organization comparable with the Post Office. There are many hard-working, conscientious individuals within the Post Office system, including many who serve us locally. The fact remains that the total service grows ever more erratic, slow and expensive. . . .

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Jan. 29, 1959

A disc jockey at a New York City radio statio went sleepless for 200 hours "for the sake of science."

Judge Richard M. Sims of Marin Municipal Court issued an arrest warrant for actor Sterling Hayden and his crew for sailing from Sausalito to Tahiti in contempt of a court order.

20 YEARS AGO

Jan. 29, 1949

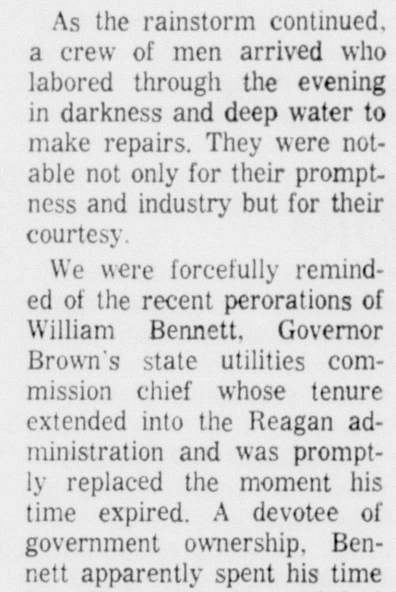
Fairfax patrolmen refused to take over the job of police chief, to succeed Andy Peri who was demoted to patrolman.

William Powell and Irene Dunne starred in the film, "Life With Father," at El Camino Theater in San Rafael.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

Demoted to the bottom of the class was the smart-aleck who requested to use the word "punctilious" in a sentence, came up with, "I've got one sister named Lizzie and another named Tillie; Lizzie's a honey, but I can't find words to describe how punk Tillie is!"



There is practically nothing that you cannot find today in California — if you know where to look for it. A school, for instance, where a deadly serious course in the art of the strip tease is part of the curriculum. The course — very popular, by the way — includes:

1. History and theory of the strip tease.
2. Psychology of inhibitions.
3. Controlling structural components of the anatomy.
4. Elementary bumps and grinds.
5. Fundamentals of taking-it-off.
6. Experimental workshop.

THE DRUMMONDS

Senate Investigation Needed In Affair Of The Pueblo

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — From hero to threatened court-martial — that's a pretty rapid demotion for Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher of the Pueblo.

This court-martial warning may be just routine, as one Navy spokesman said, but it doesn't sound so and did not come at a very routine moment at the court of inquiry where five admirals were hearing Commander Bucher's account of the seizure of his ship by the North Koreans.

This whole thing doesn't look good; it doesn't smell good, and it probably isn't going to persuade the public that everythings on the up and up.

IT IS CLEAR by now that the Senate Armed Services Committee must undertake an independent investigation if we are to have a good chance of getting at the facts objectively and of reaching a judicial verdict as to who's guilty of what.

Why a Senate investigation? For good reasons.

The evidence is beginning to show that if Commander Bucher used doubtful judgment during the seizure there was also doubtful judgment at the higher echelons of the Navy itself.

It is unreasonable and unrealistic to expect or to allow the Navy to be jury, judge and executioner all in one.

A more detached look at the evidence and a more detached judgment are imperative. Sen. John H. Stennis, chairman of the Armed Services Committee, is neither pro-Bucher nor anti-Bucher; he is neither pro-Navy nor anti-Navy. He would conduct an honest and competent inquiry which would deserve public confidence.

THE RECENT record of some Pentagon brass strains credibility beyond endurance. It shows that there are those in the services so eager to shield themselves from uncomfortable facts that, when a subordinate tells something to the public or to the Congress, the tendency is to punish him.

Examples: A Navy civilian petroleum inspector uncovered massive thefts of U. S. military fuel in Thailand. His overseas assignment was abruptly ended. An Air Force efficiency expert told Congress about the unexpected and mounting costs of the giant C-5A transport. An Air Force official prepared a memo showing three different ways he could be fired. Congress stepped in to prevent it.

THE SEIZURE of the Pueblo was a national disaster, and Navy bias must not be allowed to stand in the way of bringing out all the facts and of assessing responsibility wherever it reaches.

The warning that Bucher may be turned over to a court-martial rests mainly on these questions: Did he do everything possible to avoid capture? Was he so powerless against the superior North Korean force that resistance would have meant total and senseless slaughter of the whole crew?

Bucher's answer is an unqualified yes.

BUT THERE ARE other questions which bear upon the judgment of his superiors.

Why wasn't the Pueblo adequately equipped to destroy secret equipment and classified documents?

Why weren't Bucher's pleas for better radar and communications heeded?

Why wasn't the Pueblo more fully equipped to defend itself?

Why was it directed into hositle waters without nearby air support at the ready?

Sen. Peter Dominci, R-Colo, says that testimony before the Navy's inquiry conflicts directly with testimony Navy officials gave to Congress last year.

In fairness to the public, to the Navy and to Commander Bucher, the Senate Armed Services Committee ought to go after the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Experts Think Mid-East War Avoidable—For Now

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — Top experts here, with many hedges and qualifications, are saying that the outbreak of all-out war in the Middle East can be avoided for the present.

That is the word now being conveyed to President Nixon's top aides in a series of foreign policy briefings.

In these discussions Middle East experts qualify their assessments by noting that an almost daily run of border incidents, reprisals, and counter-reprisals carries a constantly serious threat of escalation. Weighing chances for and chances against, however, they conclude that odds are against a major conflict.

TWO FACTORS are being cited as tipping the balance against such an outbreak:

Despite Russia's extensive rearmament efforts since the six-day war of June, 1967, most experts believe the Arab nation would again be crushed if they moved against Israel now.

Russia, well aware of the area's current power balance, wants to avoid a major conflict and has taken steps to do so.

On the other hand, experts agree that there has been no diplomatic movement, no breakthrough toward a negotiated settlement which offers hope of lasting peace in the area.

Eventually, if no permanent solution is reached, Arab armed forces will be a match for Israel's. At that time the Kremlin may remove its constraints and take a chance on the emergence of world conflict.

ONE FACTOR which, in the eyes of experts here, could bring about all-out fighting is the boastful over-confidence of Arab leaders. If Russia is willing to face present power realities, many Arab leaders are not.

Leadership in the Arab armies, both officers and non-commissioned officers is low-rated here. So are training and command techniques, especially when contrasted with those of the Israeli victors in the blitz of 1967.

There is evidence to indicate that the Kremlin shares the concern about Arab impulsiveness and has acted accordingly. Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko is reported to have told Cairo bluntly last month to avoid provocative moves.

U.S. EXPERTS think Russia has good reasons to avoid a Middle East eruption now. For one thing, the six-day war cost some $2 billion to $2.5 billion in Russian arms, and that is a script which Kremlin leaders do not want to repeat.

If the Arabs should again face defeat at the hands of the Israelis, Russia would come under heavy pressure to intervene and prevent another debacle. However, Russian leaders know the United States is obligated, under the 1957 Middle East resolution, to use force if necessary to resist aggression from any nation controlled by international communism. The Kremlin does not want that sort of confrontation.

Marin Needs A Father Schmidt To Get Teen Center Started

Does Marin County have a Father Schmidt?

That question was asked repeatedly during a recent all-day conference among teens and adults groping for a starting point for establishing a teen center in San Rafael.

Father Schmidt, is seems, is a somewhat magical person who has become a legend in Santa Clara, where more than 20 years ago he provided the impetus to begin the Santa Clara Youth Village — a teen center that is still thriving.

THE YOUTH VILLAGE, a representative told the San Rafael High School Interact Club and its guests, is run by a private, non-profit corporation, and is housed in a center built with much volunteer labor and many community contributions.

A 20-member staff directs activities ranging from theatrical performances to crafts to athletics. Professional counseling is available on a personal basis or in encounter groups, Kevin Crowley of the youth village said.

Young people who don't want to participate in an organized activity can go to the snack bar, watch television, or just sit and talk.

Smoking is permitted in a special room for young people who have parental permission. Dress rules specify that the teens be "decently dressed" and not wear jackets bearing a gang or club designation.

Membership is $2 a quarter and other financing comes from United Bay Area Crusade and private contributions, Crowley said.

Teens staff a justice court to decide on punishment for rule breakers and there is also a teen advisory committee to help run the center.

THE SAN RAFAEL teens generally liked the youth village plan and agreed that a Father Schmidt could be found if necessary.

They objected to the membership idea, preferring a center which would be open to all.

The youth village will be one of the ideas considered by a steering committee formed after the conference to come with some definite plans to be discussed at another meeting.

THE MARIN COUNTY Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission may be on the verge of getting down to the task at hand.

For about 18 months the group has been meeting in quiet disagreement over its purpose. Some members were interested in working on destroying the seeds of delinquency among children in third grade and under, while others wanted to work with teenagers.

Now, the commission has been enlarged by four members and had agreed there is enough to split into two committees, one focusing on the pre-school set and one on teens.

THE CITY of San Rafael has greatly reduced the daily hassle for people who park in the municipal lot at Fifth Avenue and C Street, by increasing the outer rim of second level meters from four to five hours. No more outguessing the meter maids!

The extra hour means parkers will get their money's worth for a quarter — it buys five hours instead of four.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

School Encounter Groups And Unrelated (?) Items

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

"Sensitivity training is the only thing that can save the world." — George Leonard, education editor of Look magazine and author of "Education and Ecstasy."

"We must make the nation one vast encounter group." — Dr. Price Cobbs, San Francisco Negro psychiatrist.

"Encounters are at a kinesthetic , gut level . . . An encounter is not a mind-level trip." — Dr. Janette Rainwater, who introduced sensitivity training at San Francisco State College.

What Leonard, Dr. Cobbs and Dr. Rainwater are talking about are "feel and tell" sessions. These are being introduced in some California public schools as sensitivity training, also known as encounters, T-groups, transactional analysis, human relations training, etc.

SENSITIVITY training is the latest "tool" for educators. It has been promoted by the National Training Laboratories, a subsidiary of the National Education Association. In California, it has received its greatest push from Essalen Institute in Big Sur, of which Look editor Leonard is vice president.

The purpose is to stimulate awareness as a means toward getting rid of what the younger generation calls "hang-ups." The participants are encouraged (or required) to drop their inhibitions and tell just how they really feel about each other. To help them do so, they are encouraged (or required) to physically feel each other.

Various "games" are played, quite like the "Synanon games" which have proved useful in rehabilitation of drug addicts and not unlike the "encounters" in which Essalen Institute specializes.

THERE HAVE been parent protests, but they have been mostly sporadic and ineffective so far. An exception is in the Tamalpais High School District, where a campaign led by Nan Hepp, a Mill Valley housewife, caused trustees to reject a proposal that they seek a federal grant to finance sensitivity training.

Mrs. Hepp heads an organization called Parents Association for Neighborhood Schools. In its monthly newsletter, which she calls "an underground newspaper for squares and straights," she has presented a running commentary on sensitivity training, including adverse opinions by psychiatrists, and charges that such psychological experiments by inadequately trained teachers may result in mental breakdowns and that the "feel and tell" sessions tend to lower moral standards and undermine values.

ABOUT THE TIME the Tamalpais High School District board said "not now" on sensitivity training, the Fire and Police Research Association of Los Angeles published a booklet on "Some Causes of Student Revolt."

It drew on the campus and underground press to document a contention that campus uprisings are promoted by the same groups that encourage pornography, sexual promiscuity, and depravity.

Included were photos of a group of 10 statues for which a master's degree in art was awarded at Long Beach State College, and which resulted in a student-faculty revolt because Chancellor Glen S. Dumke refused to allow them to be shown publicly. The statues are of men and women performing unnatural sex acts. They leave nothing to the imagination.

Included also were the prospectus for a course in "Exploring New Forms of Sexual Relationships" by the Experimental College at San Francisco State College, and a photo of the Experimental College's "Che Guevara Hall" with "Victory to NLF" beside the door.

WITH SUCH STUFF as this going on in the colleges, it might appear that Mrs. Hepp and other parents are wasting their time on such a relatively innocuous thing as sensitivity training.

Not included in the Los Angeles publication, however, was the prospectus for a course organized at Sonoma State College this year in "Sexual Growth—Encounter Group for Couples." It announced that "T-group methods" would be used for "heightening of present pleasurable self-experience" with "focus on specific oral, anal, and Oedipal hangups." It was offered for "couples, unmarried or married."

Congressmen Get Hefty Allowances

WASHINGTON (UPI)—That $12,500-a-year pay raise which senators and representatives will get in less than three weeks is little more than pocket money compared with the fringe benefits congressmen enjoy.

Senators are entitled to allowances for staff, equipment and expenses ranging up to almost $400,000. Members of the House can draw well over $100,000 in allowances and benefits.

On top of that, all members of Congress may subscribe to generous retirement and life and health insurance benefits.

A lawmaker must pay income taxes on his basic salary. But most of his expense allowances are tax free

Congressmen and senators are provided suites of rooms in one of the congressional office buildings, completely equipped with whatever furnishings they want. They even get an allowance for framing pictures, and the men pay only 75 cents for a haircut on House or $1 in the Senate barber shops.

In the Senate, the staff allowances vary depending upon the size of the state. The high is $358,200 annually for senators from California and New York. The low is $210,940 for lawmakers from states with fewer than 3 million population.

A House member's total staff payroll is about $100,000.

In both houses, the lawmaker selects his own staff and decides how to divide the available money. Kickbacks are illegal, so none of the money can go into the congressman's personal pocket. But staff positions can—and often do—go to political allies.

Each member of each house is entitled to $3,000 worth of stationery each year.

Each senator is entitled to seven round trips a year from his home to Washington.

He can charge the taxpayers the cost of four or six round trips by his staff, depending upon the size of his state.

Each House member—whether from Virginia or Hawaii—is entitled to one round trip for each month Congress is in session. He also is entitled to a one-way trip at the beginning and to another one-way trip at the end of each session.

Congressmen are entitled to "frank" or official mail free of charge by printing their signatures on envelopes. In addition, they get an allowance for postage if they want to send a letter air mail or special delivery. In the senate the allowance is $1,200 for states west of the Mississippi and $960 fo rstates east. In the House, the allowance is $700.

Each senator from a state with more than 10 million population is entitled to make 22,500 minutes of long distance telephone calls at public expense—roughly 75 minutes every working day. Senators from smaller states get 15,000 minutes.

FAIRY TALE LOOK

Dane Builds Solvang With Old World Air

SOLVANG (UPI) — Ferdinand Sorenson decided back in 1940 that he wanted a home like those of his Danish forebears.

So he built one. And when he was finished, he rebuilt Solvang to match it.

Solvang today is a Danish village planted in the midst of southern California.

Its restaurants, with names like "Bit o' Denmark" and "Restaurant Dannebrog," feature smorgaasbord and open face sandwiches, all washed down with mellow Danish beer.

The place has a Hans Christian Andersen look, with its three windmills spinning in the breeze and the shop buildings decorated with bindingsverk (outside beams), thatched roofs and intricate carving.

Every fall the 1,500 people of Solvang welcome about 10,000 visitors to Danish Days. They don native costumes, do the old dances and serve mountains of ableskive — warm buttermilk pancakes baked in a ball and spread with jam.

Sheltered by the Santa Ynez Mountains from the cold winds of the Pacific, Solvang lies about 140 miles north of Los Angeles.

For much of the year, blooming flowers send their perfume through the Santa Ynez Valley and cover its fertile floor with a multicolored quilt. Flower seeds are the chief crop of the valley, a haven of soft, rolling, verdant hills surrounded by steep, scraggly mountains. "Solvang" means "Sun Meadow" in Danish.

The community was established in 1912, when a group of Danes founded Atterdag, a school patterned after the folk schools of the midwest, where Danish-Americans studied their cultural heritage.

Until 1940, Solvang looked like most small southern California towns, although its inhabitants were almost all of Danish descent.

Then Sorensen, whose grandparents emigrated from Denmark in 1874 and settled in Nebraska, built his home, working from photographs of Danish buildings. An accomplished tinsmith, plumber and carpenter, Sorensen did it all, from pouring the foundation to papering the walls to installing the bindingsverk.

He pieced together bottle bottoms for a leaded window, handcrafted the copper hoood over his wife's stove and made the Danish Viking horn hanging on the living room wall.

Now 68, Sorensen still works every day in his shop, carving out the woodwork that has transformed his community.

"I had always dreamed of a Danish home," he recalls. "It's got 13 rooms, I think. I got 13 different kinds of wallpaper."

He finished the place in 1947, and it wasn't long before "the tourists began coming to look. People would be driving by, then all of a sudden they'd see the place and stop and get out of the car.

"On Sundays sometimes there'd be 50 cars parked out in the field. People would be all over taking pictures. They used to just walk in and start looking around."

Sorensen didn't stop with the house. Needing a tool shed, he put up a little stone house that leans against a wooded hill, just made for forest elves.

He needed a garage. He built the first of Solvang's windmills, complete with lattice-work blades with a garage in its base.

"All this happened before I ever went to Denmark," said the silver-haired Sorensen. "But you know, the two times I've been to Denmark since then, everybody knows about Solvang."

In 1950, landowner Ray Paaske asked Sorensen to design and build a group of Danish-style shops. The result was "Copenhagen Square," a collection of restaurants and shops specializing in Danish imports — all built around Solvang's second windmill, this one with a wineshop in the cellar.

Solvang now has a third windmill and about 60 such shops.

Every day license plates from around the nation are seen in Solvang, and for many Californians driving coastal U.S. 101 a short detour to Solvang for lunch is a necessity.

End Of Tipping Strongly Urged

A report on the subject said that tipping "causes unrest among the staff and is a continuing headache for the management."

In the place of tipping the report suggested a surcharge of 5 to 10 per cent on all bills.

Aquatic duckweeks, submerged all winter, pop to the surface by filling themselves with buoyant gas. In the fall, they sink again to the bottom by taking on water ballast like a submarine.

JUST A WEE THING NOW

Three-day-old Omichron, the 15th offspring of the Washington National Zoo's pygmy hippopotamus Totota, gets his first bath. Omichron weighed 14 pounds at birth last month and zoo officials report he and his mother are doing well. When full grown, he'll weigh about 450 pounds. (UPI Telephoto)

Gardening Can Be Dangerous Duty

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Two African gardeners were working in Prime Minister Balthazar J. Vorster's official Groote Schuur residence when a careening automobile wheel mowed them down.

The wheel had come off a passing automobile and entered the garden through the main entrance gate. The two men were treated in hospital for leg injuries but the auto was not damaged.

About 98.4 per cent of the figs grown in the United States are produced in three California counties.

Italian Husband Gets Break On Fur Bills

MILAN, Italy (UPI)—A husband does not have to pay for his wife's fur coats, a Milan court ruled.

The court ordered Mrs. Gabriella Sorgato to pay 3,737,000 lire ($5,980) she owed a furrier. It ruled her husband, Guilio Sorgato, had no obligation to pay because a wife's debts are binding on the husband only if they are contracted "to meet the needs of the family."

Britons Love Storm —It Rains Money

NEWBIGGIN-BY-THE-SEA England (UPI) — The wind howled and the rain swirled down but the villagers were hoping for more—it was raining five-pound ($12) bills.

After 370 pounds ($1,488) had been turned in, police said the bills had been tied together with a rubber band and hidden under the eaves of Dennis Common's house. The rubber band had rotted and the strong wind dislodged the money. Common, who moved into the house 18 months ago, said he did not know the money was there.

Unwed Mother Insurance Urged

CHICAGO (AP) — Unwed mother insurance is being urged by the Medical Society of New Jersey.

Dr. Renold Busch, Newark, chairman of the sponsoring Maternity Welfare Committee of the Essex County Medical Society, said here that statistics show the "largest incidence of mortality and morbidity" occurs in these unmarried women, who have little or no prenatal care.

The medical society urged legislation to establish provisions in health insurance — specifically Blue Cross-Blue Shield — which would help care for the medical needs of the unwed mother.

NO CAVITIES HERE

Dentistry is different at Marineland of the Pacific—"doctor" Curly Loomis sits in the chair suspended in the 45,000-gallon fishbowl at Los Angeles, and the "patient" floats before him in the water. Here, the diver cleans the teeth of Sally, a 300-pound sea bass. (AP Wirephoto)

North Viet Literature Must All Be Propaganda

PARIS (UPI)—"I can see the White House with its head raised where every window is the mouth of the vampire."

That's a line from a contemporary North Vietnamese poem. For nearly a decade in North Vietnam all forms of literature—novels, poetry, essays—have had value only if they contributed to the ultimate defeat of the United States.

The same is true of the country's music, opera, theater, art and, of course, journalism.

Paris, site of the bogged down Vietnam war talks, is an excellent place to find literary publications from North Vietnam. Art, theater and music news is harder to come by but there are films and recordings that tell the same story.

Art for art's sale is not only unknown in North Vietnam today, it is considered immoral. Only insofar as literature has "social content" and carries the official message to the masses has it any right to be published.

The task of literature was defined by the 1960 National Congress of the North Vietnamese Workers (Communist) party. It must be national and popular, Socialist and realist, the Congress decided.

The main themes were to be Socialist glorification in the North together with the struggle for national reunification and the war against American imperialism.

These are the themes of almost every novel, play, poem, short story, essay or article written in the country. Letters, diaries and memoirs repeat the same themes and are almost always from soldiers fighting with the Viet Cong in the South to family or friends in the North.

Private Gold Hoarding Is Fine Art In France

PARIS (UPI)—Men dig and die for gold, work and scrimp and save for it, kill and rob for it. Nations base their monetary policies on it, and have fought wars over it.

And Frenchmen stuff their mattresses with it.

About the only form in which Americans see gold, unless they get into Fort Knox, is in jewelry. U.S. law prevents American citizens from buying, selling or trading the metal.

But no such law exists in most European countries, and particularly not in France. To the Frenchman, especially the middle-class shop owner, the metal is a protection against the future. Currencies can fluctuate, they can be devalued—but the price of gold usually remains stable, or goes up.

And there still is a firm belief in France that sooner or later the United States is going to have to lift its price of $35 an ounce on gold and when it does all those gold coins in the mattresses, and under the floorboards, or in safe deposit boxes are going to be worth a lot more than was paid for them.

For the real speculator in gold, the one kilogram (2.2 pound) ingot is the normal currency. But an ingot sells for about $1,500 so that puts it beyond the general hoarder, who it is estimated holds more gold in France than even the French government.

The Frenchman-in-the-street, if he wants a bit of gold, generally buys a coin—a French napoleon or an English sovereign. They sell from about $12 to $13 apiece.

If you're an American in France, though, forget it. The U.S. embassy in Paris put a quick end to that idea.

"If we catch you," a spokesman said, "it could mean a fine, years in prison, or both. It's illegal for U.S. citizens to buy pure gold under any circumstances."

He admitted, however, that so far as he knew no American had been brought to trial recently for trading in gold.

What happens if an American is caught buying gold in France? Does American law extend overseas?

"There is nothing we can do immediately," the embassy spokesman said. "But eventually he has to renew his passport. Then, I suppose, we would renew it only for return to the United States. Once back in America he would be prosecuted."

Important Cog In Government

KALISPELL, Mont. (AP) — Frances Madler broke her leg, everyone received his water bill late and the city was out $800.

Miss Madler is the city billing clerk who makes out the water bills and when her leg was broken recently, there wasn't enough experienced help available to replace her.

So the city council decided it had better buy a computer with a price tag of $800 plus 10 cents per month per account — just in case she's off the job again.

The world's first atomic submarine, "Nautilus," was launched at Groton, Conn., in 1954.

Girls Proving They're Just As Adventuresome

They were among the 12 girls who underwent the three-week "special adventure course" in mountaineering in the Uttar Kashi region, 200 miles northeast of Delhi.

"It is full of adventure — with Nature, and why should it be the exclusive preserve of boys alone?" Miss Monica Puri asked.

"Mountaineering is the best cure for syness and reserved nature," Miss Manjula Jain told a press conference.

"When once you have been bitten by the Himalayan bug, you fall for it again and again," Miss Nandita Haksar said.

They climbed the 12,000 foot high Gowma peak. "But the sky is the limit," Miss Puri said. They have set their eyes on the 29,028-foot Everest, the world's tallest peak.

Air Conditioning Boon To Bad Hearts

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute says research has shown that in many instances air conditioning is an aid to persons suffering from heart ailments.

The institute says that in one test 12 heart victims showed signs of collapse after spending 40 minutes in a room at 104 degrees temperature. Normal persons in the same room showed signs of faintness and general weakness after two hours.

Irish Moonshiners Using New Gadgetry

They've begun to use bottled gas to fire their "stills"—eliminating the tell-tale wisps of smoke which in the past so often guided the law to their haunts.

Recent figures showed the success of this modern innovation of the moonshiners—in the first 11 months of 1968 police captured only 1,190 gallons of their fiery whisky compared to 2,750 in 1967 and 3,424 in 1966.

Old-timers say the bottled gas has been responsible for the steady decreasing of captures by specially-trained police squads operating along the western seaboard.

With legitimate brands of whisky heavily taxed, 1968 was a bumper year for the mountainy product and moonshiners look forward to increasing prosperity this year.

"This bottled gas has been a blessing," said one old moonshiner who, for obvious reasons, didn't advertise his name or location. "For years the police depended heavily on spotting the wisps of smoke in the forests or on lake islands—now they've got to work to catch us."

An investment of around $50 will set up a moonshiner in business—that's the estimate for the equipment needed.

It costs him about $15 to buy the sugar, yeast and malt for a barrel of liquor. His return per barrel ranges upwards from $75 to $90.

A police sergeant in County Mayo admitted his moonshine tracking operation was meeting with only fair success. "It's never easy," he confided. "The old boys don't miss any tricks and this bottled gas they're using has made it tougher still."

In the weeks preceding Christmas, still-hunting became almost the main preoccupation in many county police stations.

The usual police strength is four men per search party. They search for a river or stream in forests and—two on either side—walk its length looking for tracks.

"They must have running water for their operation—and you'll always get them about 100 yards from a river or stream," said the Mayo sergeant.

It's a serious business, of course, but this traditional game of hide-and-seek is carried on from generation to generation against a background of good humor and mutual respect.

INFANT DEATH RATE

Detroit's Inner City Slumps Prompt Study

DETROIT (UPI)—In the shadows of Detroit's glittering concrete and glass LaFayette towers, home of doctors, lawyers, politicians and the "beautiful people," 69 babies die out of every 1,000 born.

The babies live and die in 155 blocks of grime on Detroit's Near East Side. The area is 98.6 per cent Negro. Many of its inhabitants were squeezed into those blocks when the LaFayette towers were built 10 years ago.

The infant mortality rate (infants are defined as children one year old or younger) for the United States is 22.1 per 1,000 births. For the city of Detroit, it is 27.8.

On a worldwide spectrum, the infant mortality rate ranges from 161 per 1,000 in Turkey to 13.3 in Sweden. Costa Rica, where about half the population is illiterate, measures out even with the Near East Side of Detroit at 69.

Why do almost 7 per cent of Near East Side's babies die?

Lawrence Chadzynski, who compiled these figures, thinks a principal reason is that many of the people in the area live in dwellings little better than garages.

Chadzynski is project director of a program called "Evidence For Health Organization (ECHO). His researchers are going through the city house by house to find how living conditions affect the health of each area's residents. (ECHO has completed a survey of the model cities area, which several years ago was tagged for wholesale urban renewal.) The over-all area is 78 per cent non-white and has an infant mortality rate of 45.3 per 1,000.

Within the model cities tract is the Near East Side with the 69 per 1,000 death rate for infants. Another pocket there has a rate of 63.7.

Chadzynski cites illegitimacy as a principal factor in the high infant mortality rates among Negroes. During the past year, there were 5,271 illegitimate births in Detroit. Slightly less than 1,000 of these were white babies. Within the model cities area, 39 per cent of all black children born were illegitimate.

In a wealthy white area on the northeast side, 3.8 per cent of the children were illegitimate. That area had the lowest infant mortality rate.

"A lot of the children in those (poverty) areas are illegitimate and unwanted," Chadzynski says.

Dr. Margaret Zolliker, an infant specialist, says many babies die because the mothers don't get prenatal care.

"In one typical case, a woman first went for a checkup in her seventh month, and saw a doctor three times after that," she said. "Her baby died of bronchial pneumonia when it was six weeks old. There was no heat in the house."

"It's not just illegitimacy," Chadzynski said. "Once the baby's born, he lives the first few months of his life—if he lives so long—in a place that's dirty, probably has had bad plumbing, no heat, a poor refrigerator. How can a mother take care of the child?"

Statistics would seem to bear him out. The five leading causes of death in Detroit are heart diseases, malignant growths, problems of the nervous system, accidents and diabetes. But in the city's three poorest sections, pneumonia is one of the five leading causes of death.

"Until the inner city is cleaned up, until buildings are made livable, the poor will continue to pay a high toll in infant deaths," Chadzynski said.

Traffic Accidents Costly For Nation

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Crime and traffic accidents cost U.S. taxpayers more than $33 billion in 1968, according to the Street and Highway Safety Lighting Bureau. Of this total loss, the bureau said, conservative estimates show at least half occurs at night when darkness obscures the criminal's actions and makes for poor driving visibility.

According to the bureau, statistics show installation of proper street lighting is one immediate and constructive step communities can take to reduce this costly bill.

Will '69 Be Vintage Year In Unity Push?

BRUSSELS (UPI)—At the start of another year, the old dream of European unity seems more elusive than ever. In fact, 1968 was a bad year for the unity planners.

Many organizations founded to help the old continent become a third force on a par with the United States and the Soviet Union are in trouble. Failing economies, weak currencies and plain old-fashioned nationalism have combined to weaken the "One Europe" idea which gained popularity in the ruinous aftermath of World War II.

The European Economic Community—or common market—the center pin of all the unity organizers, seems to be ending up as a simple customs union with some 5,000 international civil servants to run it.

What was to be the next step, turning the customs union into a true economic union, seems likely to flounder on the rock of nationalism.

The six member nations—France, West Germany, Italy, Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg—all made sacrifices in the market's first decade for the common good. "The market is greater than the sum of its parts" was the rallying cry of early 1960's.

The common sacrifices and concessions needed to create economic union—tax harmonization, freedom of movement for workers, common foreign trade, economic and financial policies—are seen as almost impossible in today's context.

And without economic union there can be no political union.

The biggest victim of national aspirations is the European Atomic Energy Community—Euratom. This sister community to the common market was set up to enable the market nations to cooperate in nuclear research, financing and sharing of know-how.

It has split wide open because of disagreement over a common research program. France wants to concentrate on the type of atomic reactor, West Germany on another. Holland, Italy and Belgium all have national atomic projects which they want included in the Euratom program—and paid for jointly by all members.

As a result, the program has been reduced to minor projects on which common agreement can be reached and no funds have yet been voted for 1969.

Members of the European Free Trade Association (EFTA) who live with the economic ailments of the largest member—Britain—have almost become philosphical in accepting trade curbs in what is supposed to be a duty free areas covering Britain, Sweden, Switzerland, Norway, Denmark, Austria and Portugal.

Scandinavian efforts to form a Nordic customs union are also butting up against national protectionism.

Rightly or wrongly, Norway feels its small industrial base could be wrecked by Sweden. Its farmers, operating in adverse climatic conditions, fear that geographically-favored Danish farmers would swamp markets with cheaper food.

Norwegian and Danish hopes of becoming members of the common market also have slowed moves toward a Nordic union. Their memberships hang upon Britain getting in and French President Charles de Gaulle has made it clear his veto of Britain continues despite France's own economic problems. Thus the Scandinavians are backing a loser or at the least a long shot.

Maybe 1969 will be better, but 1968 certainly wasn't a vintage year for European unity and there is no evidence of improvement in its chances.

Air Force Aids Sardine Catches

LISBON (AP) — The Portuguese Air Force is going fishing.

Squadrons of Air Force planes have been called to the rescue of fishermen in southern Portugal who are having trouble locating sufficient sardine and tuna fish schools.

The catch of the two species is the most important activity of the southern provinces, and it has been on the decrease.

After a request from fishing industrialists, the Air Force sent twin-engine propeller craft to study fish migration patterns. The unprecedented search is expected to be extended outside territorial waters eventually.

She Really Had Their 'Numbers'

GUNNISON, Colo. (AP) — A letter addressed to Mr. 523-09-9738 and Mrs. 505-26-1704, Route 4, Box 32A, 81230, was delivered without delay to Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Lowell of Gunnison.

The letter was from a daughter, Mrs. Josephine Grantski, of Beaver Crossing, Neb. The figures after Mr. and Mrs. are the Lowells' Social Security numbers, and 81230 is Gunnison's zip code.

Under the international grains agreement, Canada will provide over a period of three years some 1.5 million tons of food grains, the second largest contribution from any single country.

Travels Many Ways On Job

But there aren't too many who pilot a rowboat in the state during their working hours. And very few wear snowshoes when they're working.

But at least one man in Montana has been seen using all these means of travel on the job — Jan Tallada of Kalispell, a meter reader in the Flathead Lake area for the Pacific Power & Light Co.

Inducements Offered To Read Mao's Book

HONG KONG (UPI)—It will pay to study Mao Tse-Tung's Thoughts, says the Peking-oriented newspaper New Evening Post.

It told its readers a camera, a radio set, a woolen blanket, 306 movie tickets and 303 movie magazines would be theirs for free if they can solve a crossword puzzle based on quotations from Chairman Mao.

Pilot's Safety Service Offered

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—A new safety feature is in the offing to help pilots of private planes avoid collisions in the air in congested areas. It is a Pilot Warning Indicator that is hoped will fill need for a low-cost warning device which is both small and inexpensive enough to be adapted by general aviation aircraft and commercial airliners.

A spokesman for the Fecker Systems Division of Owens-Illinois, Inc., which was awarded a contract by NASA Electronics Research Center to develop the experimental device for in flight test evaluation, expressed hope the warning indicator could be sold for about $1,000.

Beaver trappers have more than tripled production in Ontario, Canada, since game management districts were established in 1947. They take about 150,000 pelts a year.

California Law Network Slated

SACRMENTO (UPI) — A $5 million telecommunications network that will link more than 450 California law enforcement agencies to computerized files here and in Washington, D.C. is expected to be operational next October.

Nerve center of the statewide system will be a complex of four high-speed RCA Spectra 70-45 computers that will provide instant information on wanted persons and on stolen or lost property, firearms or vehicles. Any law enforcement agency can transmit a message to all other agencies within the state or any combination of agencies using a separate California Law Enforcement Telecommunications System (CLETS) network. CLETS will replace the current teletype system established in 1931.

British Farmer Has Rather Tough Hide

LONDON (UPI) — Farmer Bernard McCabe, 24, claims a world record for lying on a bed of nails.

He downed a few pints of ale at his local pub, arranged himself gingerly on a nail-studded slab of wood, and stayed there for two hours and 49 minutes—nine minutes more than the reported previous record.
